Un poco de formación para los que desconocen el tema.

Libro de Don Heddesheimer, el Primer Holocausto. The First Holocaust: Jewish Fundraising Campaigns With Holocaust Claims During and After World War One. Heddesheimer documenta la gran cantidad de intentos anteriores de los Judios de difundir propaganda engañosa sobre falsas atrocidades antes, durante y después de la Primera Guerra Mundial.

http://www.vho.org/GB/Books/tfh/

El Primer Holocausto cuenta con una impresionante colección de recortes de prensa y artículos de propaganda que datan de finales del siglo XIX de afirmaciones sobre el sufrimiento y el inmimente exterminio de la Judería 'europea'. Entre estos artículos nos encontramos con que los Judíos hacen docenas de invocaciones antes de la Segunda Guerra Mundial, a la cabalística cifra de los "6.000.000" como la cantidad de Judíos al borde de la destrucción y la muerte durante varios períodos de agitación y conflicto en Europa y Rusia. Sin ninguna duda este libro expone la falsedad deliberada de estas siniestras campañas SIONISTAS y bombardeos mediáticos, mucho antes de que Hitler se convirtiera en canciller de Alemania en 1933, diseñadas para obtener la simpatía del público y el apoyo financiero para las ambiciones políticas Judías, principalmente el establecimiento del Estado de Israel.

La invocación obsesiva de la fábula cabalística de los "6.000.000 de Judíos muertos", que data de por lo menos cuatro décadas antes de los acontecimientos de la Segunda Guerra Mundial socava directamente y traiciona la idea de que 6.000.000 Judíos perecieron en Europa entre 1939-1945, tal como han afirmado los Judios. Era una mentira la primera vez y es una mentira hoy!

Durante generaciones los colonizadores Judíos han adoctrinado a desprevenidas e indefensas generaciones de jóvenes y adultos blancos para odiarse a sí mismos por algo que ni siquiera ha sucedido!

Las poblaciones 'Gentiles' de Occidente han sido inundados e inoculados, durante décadas, con una avalancha interminable de peliculas de Hollywood, programas de televisión, documentales dramáticos, libros y memorias, junto a una obligatoria adoctrinación en las escuelas sobre "el Holacausto"; principalmente en América y Europa.

La función principal de esta insidiosa campaña de propaganda global es "simplemente " lavar el cerebro a los no-Judios hacia un estado de miedo abyecto y parálisis mientras estamos siendo ideológica, económica y físicamente esclavizados por la tribu Judía.

También está diseñada para deslegitimar toda crítica de los Judios y el Estado de Israel y para atrapar a los no-Judios en la adopción de una visión del mundo pro-Judía y SIONISTA. Con sus odiosas mentiras holocausticas, los creadores de mitos Sionistas están enseñando a generaciones de jóvenes escolares a odiar a los Alemanes y a la humanidad Europea en general.

Estos niños, sin conocer nada mejor e incapaces de pensar por sí mismos se creen ciegamente estos cuentos y nunca cuestionan lo que les han dicho cuando se convierten en adultos. El adoctrinamiento en la ficción SIONISTA del 'holocausto' está dañando permanentemente las mentes de nuestros pequeños y jóvenes. Alimentando forzosamente a los indefensos niños, así como adolescentes, con distorsiones y falsedades sobre la Segunda Guerra Mundial para que simpaticen con el "pueblo elegido" y sus traicioneras causas Judías tales como el Sionismo y el Comunismo."

Una pregunta que deberían hacerse es:
"¿Cuál es el significado de la figura de los 'Seis Millones" y dónde se originó?"

La figura mítica de los "Seis millones" tiene de hecho origienes interesantes. Los Judios han enfatizado incondicionalmente la cifra de los 6.000.000 con atroz propaganda desde los años 1890 a 1945. La Segunda Guerra Mundial terminó en 1945 y desde entonces la figura cabalística 6.000.000 ha alcanzado el estatus de sacrosanta. Esto se ha logrado a través de una sordida y engañosa campaña repetitiva en los medios de noticias y el entrenimiento, con la industria Judía de Hollywood como centro.

Who runs Hollywood? C'mon

I have never been so upset by a poll in my life. Only 22% of Americans now believe "the movie and television industries are pretty much run by Jews," down from nearly 50% in 1964. The Anti-Defamation League, which released the poll results last month, sees in these numbers a victory against stereotyping. Actually, it just shows how dumb America has gotten. Jews totally run Hollywood.

http://articles.latimes.com/2008/dec/19/opinion/oe-stein19

Como dijo una vez el asesino de masas comunista-JUDIO,(((Vladimir Lenin))):
"Una mentira repetida muchas veces se convierte en una gran verdad ."

Esta campaña de engaño Judío se ha ido intensificando con los años. Cuando los Judios detectan un aumento entre la consciencia del "público Gentil" sobre su traición y crímenes globales contra la humanidad (reacciones naturales entre las cuales están el resentimiento y la hostilidad) más alto empiezan a llorar sobre su 'holocausto' inventado a través de los multiples tentaculos en los medios de comunicación que ellos controlan. Es por ello que los Judíos siempre están midiendo el pulso de la opinión pública.

Líderes mundiales, Presidentes, Primeros Ministros, ceremoniosos Reyes y Reinas, Papas, Sacerdotes y hombres santos de todas las creencias, en genuflexión servil y reverencia ante el mítico "6.000.000" de Judios, que no perecieron en "las cámaras de gas nazis" ya que estas cámaras no existieron y eran imposibles.

La investigación muestra que la razón de esta extraña fijación judía con en el número "6.000.000" proviene principalmente de una antigua profecía religiosa en la Torá. En la profecía se prevé que antes de que el pueblo judío pudiera recuperar y reconquistar Palestina para establecer una patria judía llamada "Israel", 6.000.000 de Judios tendrían que perecer primero en una ofrenda de fuego (es decir, el "Holocausto") como sacrificio a su sanguinaria deidad tribal, YHWH (Ver El dogma del Holocausto del judaísmo,clave del Nuevo Orden Mundial (1995)). El autor judío Benjamen Blech, confirma esta realidad en su libro "Los secretos de las palabras hebreas" (J (((Aronson))) Inc., 1991, p. 241)

YOU SHALL RETURN

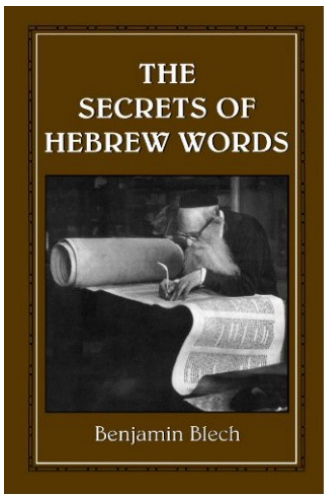
In the days when slavery existed, the Torah decreed that there must come a time when every man goes free. Even those who resold themselves after six years of servitude, and had their ears pierced for voluntary enslavement, could not remain beyond the time of the Jubilee.

וְקִדַּשְׁתֶּם אֵת שְׁנַת הַחֲמִשִּׁים שָׁנָה וְקָרָאתֶם דְּרוֹר בָּאָרֶץ
לְכָל־יֹשְׁבֶיהָ יוֹבֵל הִוא תִּהְיֶה לָכֶם

(Ve-kidashtem et shenat ha-ḥamishim shanah u-keratem deror ba-arez le-khol yoshveha yovel hi tihyeh lakhem)

"And ye shall hallow the fiftieth year and proclaim liberty throughout the land unto all the inhabitants thereof."



[Leviticus 25:10]

These are the words chosen to be inscribed on the Liberty Bell. It is in the Jubilee year that "ye shall return every man unto his possession and ye shall return every man unto his family."

The Hebrew word for "ye shall return," תָּשֻׁבוּ (TaShuVU), seems to be spelled incorrectly. Grammatically it requires another ו (vav). It ought to read תָּשׁוּבוּ (TaShUVU).

Why is it lacking the letter ו (vav), which stands for 6? תָּשֻׁבוּ (without the "vav") is a prediction to the Jewish people of ultimate return to their national homeland. תָּשֻׁבוּ in numbers adds up to 708: ת (tav) = 400, ש (shin) = 300, ב (vet) = 2, ו (vav) = 6. When we write the year, we ignore the millennia. In 1948 on the secular calendar, we witnessed the miracle of Jewish return to Israel. On the Hebrew calendar it was the year 5708. "and ye shall return..."; la escritura judía relata una profecía de 6.000.000 de Judios que deben desaparecer antes de que puedan volver a su patria o antigua tierra ancestral.

These are the words chosen to be inscribed on the Liberty Bell. It is in the Jubilee year that "ye shall return every man unto his possession and ye shall return every man unto his family."

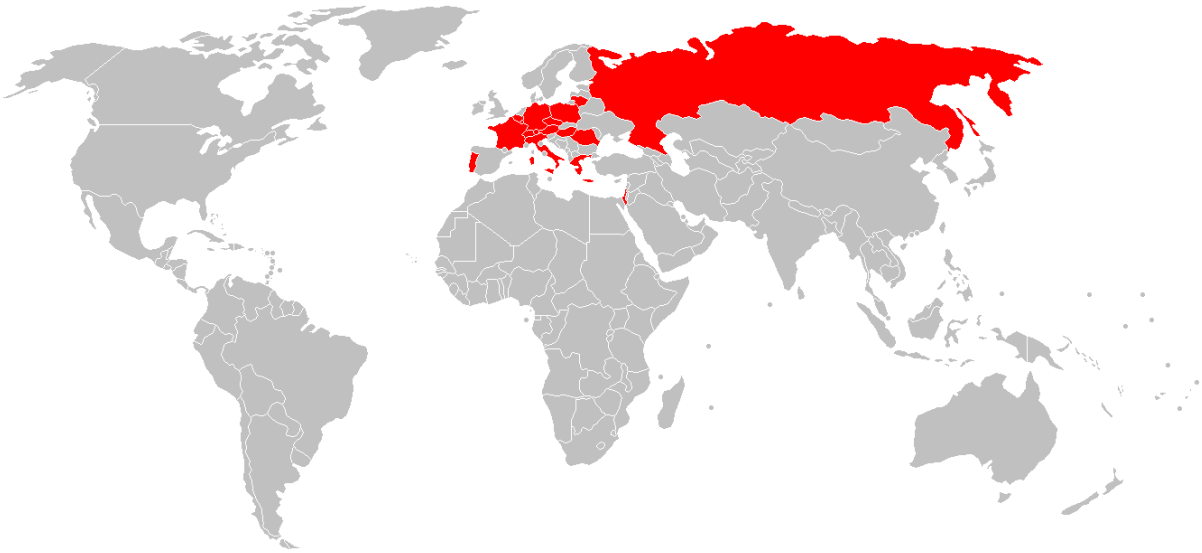
The Hebrew word for "ye shall return," תָּשֻׁבוּ (TaShuVU), seems to be spelled incorrectly. Grammatically it requires another ו (vav). It ought to read תשובו (TaShUVU).

Why is it lacking the letter (vav) which stands for six?. [TaShuVU] without the vav is a prediction to the Jewish people of ultimate return to their national homeland. TaShuVU in numbers adds up to 708: tav=400, shin=300, vei=2, vey=6. When we write the year, we ignore the millennia. In 1948 on the secular calendar, we witnessed the miracle of Jewish return to Israel. On the Hebrew calendar it was the year 5708. That was the year predicted by the incomplete word תָּשֻׁבוּ (TaShuVU), you shall return. We did return, lacking 6—an all-important 6 million of our people who perished during the Holocaust.

Yet the fulfillment of the prediction of return in precisely that year implied by the gematria of תָּשֻׁבוּ (TaShuVU) gives us firm hope that the words of the Prophets for Final Redemption will come true as well.

"La palabra hebrea para 'ye shall return' (TaShuVU), parece haber sido escrita incorrectamente. Gramaticalmente se requiere otro (vav). Debería leerse (TaShUVU). ¿Por qué carece de la letra (vav), que representa 'seis'? [TaShuVU] sin la 'vav' es una predicción para el pueblo judío de regreso definitivo a su patria nacional. TaShuVU en números asciende a 708 ( tav=400, shin = 300, vei = 2, vey = 6 ). Cuando escribimos el año, hacemos caso omiso de los milenios. En el año 1948 del calendario secular fuimos testigos del milagro del retorno de los judíos a Israel. En el calendario hebreo era el año 5708. Este era el año previsto por la palabra incompleta (TaShuVu). Volvimos, faltando '6', los 6 millones de nuestro pueblo que perecieron en el holocausto. Sin embargo, el cumplimiento de la predicción del retorno precisamente en ese año implicado por la gematría de TaShuVU nos dan firme esperanza de que las palabras de los profetas sobre la Redención Final también se harán realidad."

Aquí hay dos comentarios adicionales sobre los orígenes de los "Seis Millones" en -Historia y Orígenes Bíblicos del número Seis Millones-:



http://www.thebirdman.org/Index/Jews/Jews-History&ScripturalOriginOfThe6MillionNumber.html

Cita 1: "Las profecías judías en la Torá requieren que 6 millones de Judios deben "desaparecer" antes de que el Estado de Israel se pueda formar. "Ustedes volverán menos seís millones.". Por eso (((Tom Segev))), historiador Israelí, declaró que los "6 millones" es un intento de transformar la historia del Holocausto en la religión del estado. Los seis millones, según la profecía, tenían que desaparecer en "hornos abrasadores", que la versión judicial del Holocausto ahora autentica. A decir verdad, Robert B. Goldmann escribe: ". . . sin el Holocausto no habría Estado judío ". La consecuencia simple: dado que seis millones de Judíos gaseados en Auschwitz terminaron en "hornos ardientes" (la palabra holocausto griego significa ofrendas quemadas), por lo tanto, las profecías han sido" cumplidas " e Israel puede convertirse en un 'Estado legítimo'."

Cita 2: "En cuanto al número 'seis millones' debería saber lo siguiente: En el texto hebreo de las profecías de la Torá se puede leer "ustedes volverán". En el texto la letra "V" o "VAU" está ausente, como el hebreo no tiene números la letra V es el número 6. Ben Weintraub, un científico religioso, aprendió de los rabinos que el significado de la letra que falta se refiere al número '6 millones '. Entonces en la profecía se lee como: Ustedes volverán, pero con 6 millones menos. Ver a Ben Weintraub: "El dogma del Holocausto del judaísmo" (Cosmo publishing, Washington 1995, página 3). Los ausentes 6 millones debían serlo antes de que los Judios puedan regresar a la Tierra Prometida. Yahvé ve esto como una limpieza de las almas del pueblo pecador. Los Judios debían, en el retorno a la Tierra Prometida, estar limpios. la limpieza se llevaría a cabo en abrasamiento avivador.

¿Es simplemente una coincidencia que el ridículo y endeble 'Hoax' de los "6.000.000" de Judíos siendo asesinados en "cámaras de gas" e incinerados en "hornos" en los campos de concentración durante la Segunda Guerra Mundial diera a los Judios el ímpetu y la munición 'público-mediática' que necesitaban para hacer su "retorno galante "a la "tierra prometida" en el final de la guerra (ocupando y limpiando étnicamente Palestina a través del terrorismo y la fuerza de las armas), estableciendo el "Estado judío" racista/apartheid conocido como "Israel" en 1948? ¿Y que todo esto ocurra sólo para encajar con la letra de la anteriormente citada antigua profecía de la Torá? Dificilmente puede creerse!

Hoy en día, la exageración del holocausto ™ ha tomado la forma de culto bizarro forzado y de protegido dogma religioso de Occidente, así como es ilegal cuestionarlo, discutirlo o negarlo en más de una docena de países europeos bajo pena de fuertes multas y de prisión! Esta inverosímil teoría y complot pregonado por Sionistas está siendo utilizado por charlatanes y estafadores Judíos como empresa lucrativa de proporciones planetarias que el profesor judío (((Norman Finkelstein))) apodó como "La Industria del Holocausto". ("La Industria del Holocausto: reflexión sobre la explotación del sufrimiento judio". Londers, VERSO (2000))

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Laws_against_Holocaust_denial

Además de esto, este mito ha sido utilizado por los supremacistas fanáticos judíos como mazo ideológico para golpear a los Gentiles en la cabeza cada vez que los no-Judíos se atreven a criticar u oponerse al vandalismo global y la influencia amenazadora de los que se autoproclaman como "pueblo elegido".

A continuación tenemos los muchos recortes de prensa y artículos mostrando el cabalístico número "6.000.000", que se remontan al año 1900. Noten las referencias permanentes de multitud de autores a los "seis millones de judíos", la mendicidad continua por el dinero y la tierra (Palestina), y el término "holocausto" utilizado mucho antes de los acontecimientos de la década de 1940. También cabe destacar que los autores de la gran mayoría de estos artículos de propaganda eran los más ricos de los banqueros judíos de Wall Street, así como líderes de los grupos de presión SIONISTAS.

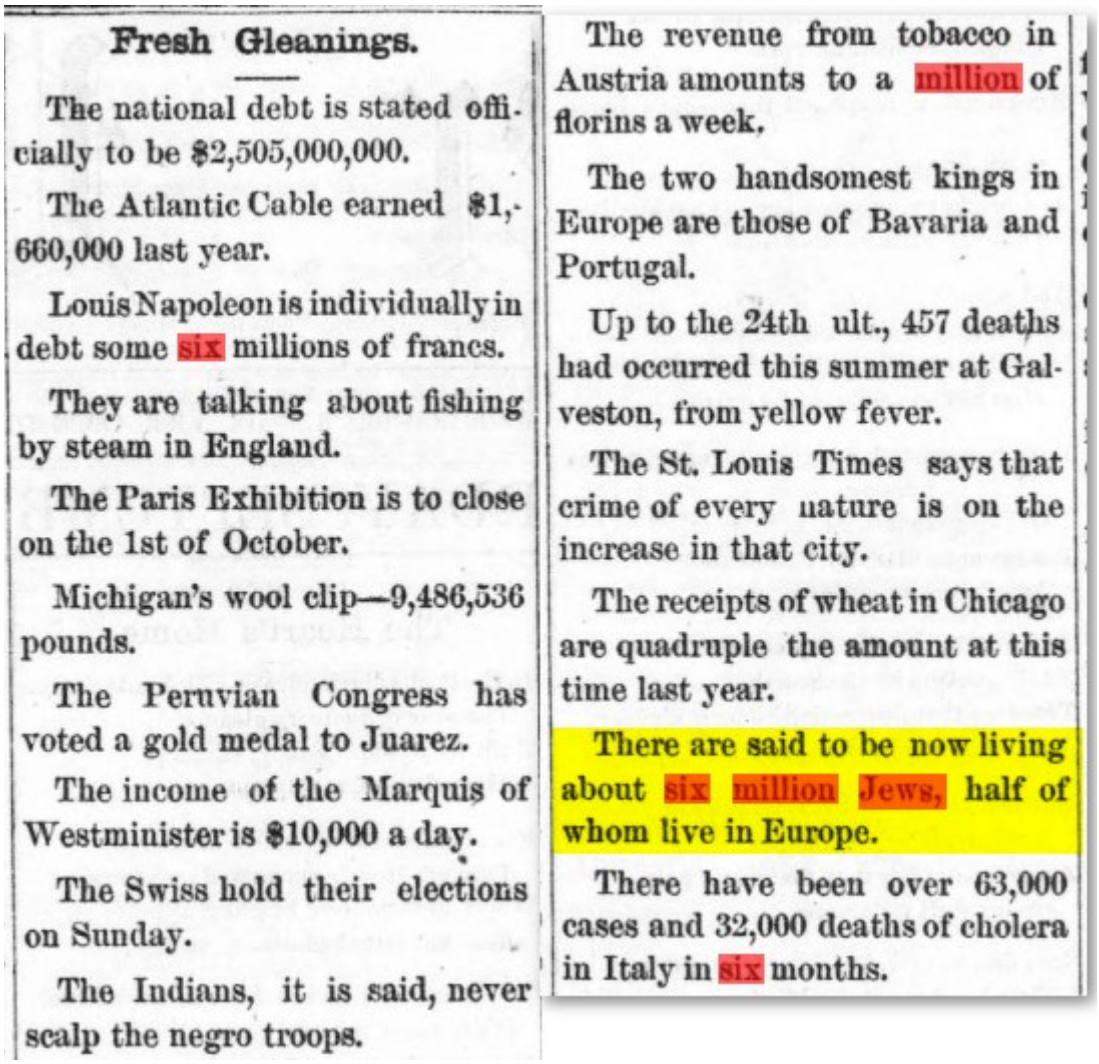
teuch laws of all kinds—some intended merely for their nomade existence in the desert, and some looking forward to their settled existence as a nation. We have laws of medical police—laws of social and personal cleanliness—regulations inculcating mercy, kindly feeling, temperance, and purity,—all calculated to shape into national form a rude, ignorant, wilful, unlettered race. Yet many of these laws—some intended only for the desert, and some for a secluded agricultural people in Palestine,—have been quoted as of force and obligation in the Christian church; and at this very hour there are some good men amongst us, to whom Paul would turn round and say, "I am afraid of ye, lest I have bestowed upon you labour in vain."

Moses, having hewn out the statue, was not permitted to place it on its pedestal. He died "on this side Jordan:" yet, ere he died, he saw "afar off the promised land." Before he died, his vision, undimmed by natural decay, was anointed with prophetic eye-salve; his generous spirit, yearning over the people he had ruled and guided for forty years, pierced the future, and hedged their pathway with blessing and cursing. Moses the Lawgiver departed, and Joshua the Conqueror came. He and his companion Caleb, with some of the Levites, were the only living links that connected Egypt with Palestine,—the only survivors of the host that had come out of "the house of bondage." All the rest of the cowardly, ungrateful, murmuring race had died; and, in their stead, their children were to show the influence of the desert training, in the conquest of the promised country. Yet, full as the Book of Joshua is of wars and rumours of wars, the history of the conquest of Palestine there recorded gives us but a poor idea of the courage, military skill, or the generous humanity of the conquerors. The slave-taint was still in the blood of the children of the slaves; the "hearts of the people melted, and became as water," because thirty-six men were struck down at the siege of Ai. Success inspired them with greater boldness; and at last, though the land was not all conquered, nor all the inhabitants subdued, it was divided by lot amongst the tribes of Israel.

Rapidly now must we pass over a period of several centuries, known as the period of the "Judges." The Jews were in a state of great rudeness and great simplicity; their manners and their government were patriarchal and agricultural; they existed as a simple federal republic, offering a rough outline of the government of the United States. Each tribe was governed by itself, but all were linked in union, and the Judge for the time being was the President. The Judges, indeed, were frequently only temporary officers, raised up in some emergency, when the nation was distressed by its neighbours. But from Joshua to Samuel is the republican era of the Jews, when they were simple, ignorant, sometimes interesting, often foolish and perverse, with little national forethought or spirit, yet primitive as well as often cruel in their habits; a period which includes the marvellous adventures of Samson, the singular deeds of Gideon, the affecting story of Ruth, and the enigmatical incident of Jephthah's daughter.

During all the time of the Judges, the nation was gradually—though slowly—advancing. There is a perceptible difference between the earlier and the later portions of its republican history. The people were more numerous, wealthier, had advanced in social life, and had attained a higher national spirit. At last they demanded a king, and a king was given them. Saul, whose varied, inconstant, flickering reign was ended by an ignominious death, was succeeded by David the Warrior—David the Bard—under whom the Jewish nation, as a monarchy, rose to splendour and glory.



The glorious period, then, of Jewish history commences with the reign of David. By his time, the Jewish population of Palestine is supposed to have nearly trebled in the six hundred years that had elapsed from the time of leaving Egypt;—David ruled over six million Jews, and many tributary nations. In his time, too, was Jerusalem—hitherto a hill-fortress in the possession of a Canaanitish nation—taken, and made the seat of government, and the central place of the national religion. When the Jews wandered in the desert, the tabernacle occupied the centre of the camp; and after they arrived in Palestine, the place where it rested was the point of union—the place of rendezvous—the spot where the annual celebration of the three great festivals took place, those annual festivals appointed, under God's direction, by the wise and provident Moses, that the bond of union might be strengthened by the tri-annual intercourse and meeting of the entire nation. But from the accident of David's having selected Jerusalem as the seat of his government, that city became intimately interwoven with the religious faith of the Jews; and when the Temple was built, that moveable IDEA, whose primary place was the centre of the Jews, wherever the Jews might be, became a fixture, irrevocably settled at Jerusalem.

In some respects, the reign of David contains a parallel to that of George III. Tremendous war raged, and conquests were made on every side; yet the nation, as a nation, advanced rapidly, became outwardly great, while a vast improvement was made in the art of government, in financial regulation and political economy, in the arts, and in literature. But the parallel—if parallel it can be called—extends no further; for David himself was the greatest literary character of his age; and left a son behind him, not only to occupy his throne, but to fill his literary station; for though Solomon had but a small portion of that poetic genius which immortalised his father, he had a far more varied knowledge, a more diversified and exquisite taste, and a much more extensive range as a writer. The world owes much to these two men, whose rank as king was but a mere adjunct to their higher character as noble men. Not only did they cause to be gathered, and placed in security, those earlier productions which are to us the only authentic documents of the first history of the earth, but their own writings will descend to the latest posterity, and fill many hearts yet unborn with inspiring thoughts and maxims of divine wisdom.

David the Warrior and the Bard died, after a glorious reign; and Solomon the Wise and Magnificent succeeded. Under him the Tabernacle disappeared, and the TEMPLE rose; the wandering Ark, with its sacred deposit, which David had brought into Jerusalem, that it might wander no more, was received into the "Holy Place" of the Temple, there to remain till it perished with the Temple itself. Truly was Solomon's reign a magnificent one. In peace he spent the rich treasures gathered in his father's wars; he built "Tadmor in the wilderness," supposed to have been the original of that city, whose more modern ruins are known as those of Palmyra; his ships went out with the Phœnicians, and he carried on a land commercial intercourse with the Egyptians and other nations—in oriental style he is said to have "made silver in Jerusalem as stones, and cedar trees made he as the sycamore trees that are in the low plains in abundance." Yet, said the TEACHER, pointing to the lilies, "Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one these."

Solomon the Wise was succeeded by Rehoboam the Foolish. We have said that David's reign, in some respects, presents a resemblance to that of George III.—if comparisons are worth any thing, we may also say that it resembled the reign of Louis XIV. of France—for the weight of David's glory and wars fell upon his grandson, and produced a revolution. At least, Solomon's expenses far outran David's gatherings—for David accumulated vast treasure. The people, groaning under the weight of taxation, came to Rehoboam, and desired to be lightened of their burdens. The Fool consulted the old men, who had been with his father, and they advised a meek and kind answer to be returned to the suffering people. Then he turned to his young companions, and they, in that spirit of sneering imbecility characteristic of pampered idiots in all ages, advised the king to return a mocking answer. Keep the people down, by all means, was the tenor of their advice: but sometimes the bent wand starts back and smites the bender in the face. "My father," said the Fool, "made your yoke heavy, and I will add to your yoke; my father chastised you with whips, but I will chastise you with scorpions." "Now when all Israel saw that the king hearkened not unto them, the people answered the king, saying, What portion have we in David? or inheritance in the son of Jesse! To your tents, O Israel! Now

DISTRICT COURT.—His Honor, Judge Weems, opened Court on last Monday, and dismissed the Jury because the drawing was less than thirty days previous to Court, although the Jury was drawn at this late day by his own order. He opened Court on Tuesday, and in less than an hour, adjourned the Court without doing any business, except to sign two or three orders that the Clerk could not sign. There was a heavy docket of non-jury cases, and probate business; yet his Honor thought fit to adjourn Court until the 4th Monday in November next, when he promises to give this parish three weeks. It is to be hoped that he will not fail us then, as we are informed that at the last March term no cases were tried but consent cases and the like.

We are entitled to four Courts a year, but we would be very thankful for one whole Court.

Probate Courts are defunct, and to be appointed administrator is as good as an inheritance, if the administrator desires it.

Our coming Radical convention would do a very good thing if they would give us Parish Courts.

☞ Radicalism is evidently weakening; it's all is staked on the negro, and if that fail all fails. They are loosing ground in the Northeast and West, but gaining in the South. How is it? We hear some say oh! we will have to submit, they are gaining strength every day and night, they are cementing the country together in one common league. Now let us examine this league and see of what it consists? Simply an order induced by a few miserable whites, that skulk around among the negroes, in each neighborhood, with their hats down over their eyes, avoiding decent white people, or if compelled to face them, it is with a hang dog look—they are rascals and thieves, and dread the searching glance of the honest and intelligent white man. They are in their element with the ignorant negroes, on whose soft elastic natures, they with novel proceeding may make impressions, but not of a lasting kind. They may possibly use them in the next election, but not longer, the negroes will soon find out that it don't feed and clothe them, and that the object of their pretended friends is one sided, with all their Loyal disunion leagues it is almost certain they will not carry the next elections. They hope to make the next President, and then they would have a fine time, but it can't be. And are they not beautifully consistent? They have enfranchised the blacks which gives them equal rights and privileges, and then turn around and promise them one half of the offices if they will vote with the Radical party—even make the negro believe that he cannot vote at all, if he does not belong to the Union League, and vote the Radical ticket. Many of the more sensible negroes have already found, how matters are working, but are holding on out of pure rascality, hoping to make something by it, but in this they will be deceived; then good bye Radicalism. When this country fills up with white people, and none but negroes of the very best character, can get employment or a place to lay their heads, what will then become of the pets of the Radicals? Wonder if they will take them to their bosoms? Not they. Poor darkie, we fear, will never realize his true position until it is too late.

☞ A few years more of Radical rule and the country will be hepelessly bankrupt, beyond the reach of resurrection. Civil liberty will have been gone forever, and a vile military despotism installed in its place. Every patriot who loves his country and her free institutions, should do his utmost to rescue her from the Goths and Vandals of Radicalism who are fast accomplishing her ruin and overthrow.

The admixture of Sea Island with the uplands explains the seemingly high valuation. Official comparisons with the foreign statistics reveal the fact that the cotton on arrival abroad fully realized in the market the value sworn to here, although the price of cotton has declined since October last. THE POLITICAL SITUATION.—A prominent Democrat, in conversation regarding the political situation, asserted publicly to-night that the Democratic party would continue its policy of opposition to the principles of the reconstruction acts in all future elections, adding that finally the Supreme Court would sustain them, and predicted that the next Presidential campaign will be narrowed down to a struggle over the legality of the fourteenth amendment. In explanation, he declared that repudiationists, as well as anti-reconstructionists, would unite on such a platform, because the amendment, while prohibiting the payment of the rebel debt, guarantees the payment of the national debt, and opposition to it is, therefore, the national inclination of the great masses of the Democratic party.—Washington Correspondence Philadelphia Press, October 28th.

The work of construction on the Berme-Bank railroad, to connect Georgetown with Alexandria and the Loudoun and Hampshire railroad, was commenced this morning, and a large force of workmen has been employed for steady work. The proposed road will be four miles long, and will run along the berme-bank of the canal. The work will be under the personal superintendence of Mr. Berkeley Ward, chief engineer of the Orange and Alexandria railroad, who made the preliminary survey. This road is designed to be a connecting link between the northern and southern railroads over the Aqueduct bridge, with the aid of the National Junction railway for the building of which road active steps are now being taken.—Washington letter in Baltimore Sun.

MORE TOBACCO FRAUDS.—Supervisor Fulton, of Baltimore, reports the seizure of a lot of tobacco that was shipped as eggs. It has been discovered that tobacco comes from Virginia and North Carolina in large packing trunks, some weighing as much as three hundred pounds.

FIVE-CENT NICKELS TO BE REDEEMED.—The five-cent coins, not redeemable heretofore by Government agents, will be redeemed shortly, the Secretary intending soon to issue a circular to that effect. Assistant treasurers and designated depositaries will redeem them in packages of $100 and upward.

FATHER HYACINTHE.—This worthy and much pestered gentleman desires the Tribune to say, in his behalf, as follows:

Although thankful for the manifold tokens of sympathy received at the hands of the American public, and which, in his opinion, express more than mere curiosity, the importunities of professional interviewers have forced the Rev. Father to give a standing order to the hotel employés not to bring up to his room the cards of visitors, except those of the few intimate friends who always have free access to him. He formally denies certain statements which have appeared from time to time in some papers, as he has on no occasion expressed views different from those contained in his letter to the General of his Order in Rome, published in the Tribune of the 4th instant.

The Father states that until present at the Œcumenical Council in Rome he will not express further his views and opinions; that he never has meddled with politics except so far as politics bear upon religion; that he is and will be a true and fervent Catholic, although opposed to extreme measures and outré sentiments detrimental to the welfare of the Church. He requests that during his further stay in the United States the public will extend to him that courtesy due to every foreigner, and to leave his further actions and movements unwatched and unrestricted; that all his visits to different places of worship, etc., are to be explained by the natural desire of a stranger to see and hear those whose names are celebrated.

THE CONNECTION BETWEEN THE SENSES—A REMARKABLE CASE.—In the last No. of the Mutes' Chronicle, published at the Deaf and Dumb Asylum in this city, Superintendent Fay has the following interesting account of one of his pupils named William E. Morfier: "This pupil, in his misfortune, illustrates the intimate connection between the senses of hearing and seeing in their origin. Last year, while a pupil at the Blind Asylum, he suddenly recovered his sight, with a simultaneous loss of hearing and power of speech. Accordingly, at the opening of this term he was transferred to this institution, and has been in all respects a genuine deaf mute. Last Sunday he was attacked with severe neuralgic pain in his head and chest, resulting soon in perfect restoration of hearing and the loss of sight, without even the power of raising the eyelids. His faculty of speech has not returned to him, but he communicates by the manual alphabet. He still suffers considerable pain."—Columbus Statesman.

State elections will be held on Tuesday the 2d day of November in the States of Maryland, New York, Illinois, Massachusetts, Minnesota, New Jersey, and Wisconsin. On Tuesday, November 9, a special election will be held in New Hampshire. On the 30th of November elections will be held in Mississippi and Texas for the adoption of the State constitutions, the former to continue two and the latter four days. These elections will close the political campaign for the present year.

VIRGINIA NEWS.

From our Special Reporter.

State Council Friends of Temperance. Last Day.

PETERSBURG, October 28, 1869.

We had this morning the installation of officers according to the beautiful ceremony of the Order.

The President, on taking his seat, delivered an appropriate inaugural.

The Committee on Grievances and Appeals reported through their chairman (Rev. C. F. Ross) that no case had come up, and that this fact indicates a rare degree of harmony in the subordinate Councils throughout the State.

Rev. R. H. Whitaker, Secretary of the State Council of North Carolina and editor of the Friend of Temperance, was called on, and made a very interesting statement of the state of the Order in North Carolina. The Friend of Temperance was recommended to the Council. There was a lengthy discussion as to the introduction of "degrees" into the Order, and a resolution adopted to the effect that it would be inexpedient to do so.

The report on the state of the Order was read by Rev. D. A. Long, and indicates that our prospects are "bright and brightening."

The committee on the Associate feature of the Order made a report, which was adopted, and which refers all of the details to each Council, which is exhorted to consider earnestly its surrounding circumstances, and act with great caution in the whole matter.

The Committee on Finance recommend that Junior Councils be charged only half the usual fees. Unanimously adopted.

There will be a grand mass meeting to-night; after which the Council will attend to some other matters and adjourn to meet in Waynesboro' the fourth Tuesday in April next.

A FRIEND.

Correspondence of the Richmond Dispatch.

PORTSMOUTH, October 28, 1869.

But little business was done last night besides what I telegraphed you. The vacancies in the standing committees were all filled, and the usual special committees appointed. The Division adjourned at a late hour to meet at 10 o'clock this morning.

SECOND DAY.

The Committee on the State of the Order reported this morning. As the best means of spreading the principles of temperance, the employment of a State lecturer is recommended. They also recommend the encouragement of the Temperance Avalanche, a paper which will soon be started in Richmond, devoted to the cause of total abstinence. Another measure they recommend is the holding of public temperance meetings by each Division at least once a month in their respective localities.

The members of Howard Division had arranged for a public meeting this evening, and the members of the Grand Division united with them, and at the appointed hour repaired to the church. Very excellent addresses were made by Rev. W. T. Lindsey, of Richmond, and William J. Blair, of Portsmouth, both members of the Grand Division. At the close of the meeting the Grand Division returned to the hall, and went into the election of officers for the ensuing year with the following result: G. W. P., R. G. Staples, of Norfolk; G. W. A., Rev. W. T. Lindsey, of Richmond; G. S., T. Wiley Davis, of Richmond; G. T., W. H. Pleasants, of Richmond; Grand Chaplain, William J. Bain, of Portsmouth; G. C., W. J. Cussen, of Richmond; G. S., C. C. McCabe, of Leesburg.

Mr. R. H. Mullen, of Richmond, was elected State Lecturer.

A fraternal communication from the "Friends of Temperance," now in session in Petersburg, was received through the hands of W. Hall Crew. It was cordially received, and a committee of seven (the Grand Worthy Patriarch as chairman) was immediately appointed to draft and report to-morrow morning a suitable reply. The resolutions of the Friends will be published in their proceedings, and your readers have no doubt seen them ere this.

I will send the reply of the Grand Division to-morrow, with all other matters of public interest which may transpire.

Lynchburg Fair, &c.

LYNCHBURG, VA., October 29, 1869.

The crowd upon the Fair Grounds yesterday was even larger than on the day before—a low estimate placing the number of people at from six to seven thousand. Though the sky was clear, ungallant winds shook crinolines mightily, and caused many a one not in the habit of doing so to assume the "Grecian bend," with faces looking down to prevent the clouds of dust from putting their eyes out. Notwithstanding this disagreeable feature of the programme, the ladies, who were more numerous than we men, acted their part manfully(?) in the storm, and stood their ground throughout the day. Everybody seemed to be in an excess of enjoyment—some in inspecting the latest improvements of mechanical art, others in social conversations with old friends, others in looking upon the races, etc., etc.

As we entered the grounds the first thing of interest that attracted our attention was seeing grown-up boys and men attempting to climb a smooth pole, about twenty feet high, with shoes, &c., on. Several succeeded in reaching an eminence of ten feet or so, but not one could touch the top. It was indeed amusing to see such a sight, and many a merry laugh was caused thereby.

The trial of ploughs on the farm of Mr. Frank Lee was largely attended by farmers. A brother of our countryman Mr. A. Plank, living in Cumberland, Penn.; Perkins, Nelson & Co., of Staunton; Collins & Co., of New York; W. J. Keller, of Staunton; and the manufacturer of the "Watt Plough," from Richmond, exhibited and thoroughly tested their respective implements in turning heavy sod land.

Perhaps the most entertaining part of the programme yesterday was connected with the tournament, which began at 3 o'clock P. M. and continued until nightfall. Major C. M. Blackford, of our city, delivered the charge to the knights (who were about thirty in number) in a very appropriate and interesting address. This being concluded, the knights proceeded at once, on fine chargers, to the race-course. In the contest Mr. Charles Hamner was thrown from his horse, though we are glad to say was not in the least injured. He had succeeded in taking all three rings, and would no doubt have been announced as the successful knight but for the accident, which prevented him from returning the ring to the stand—one of the requirements of the sport. As it was, Mr. J. A. Armistead, of this city, Knight of the Nursery, won the highest honor. It had to be submitted to a long contest who should be the honored ones to crown the Maids of Honor. Night coming on, the decision was postponed till to-day. The coronation ceremonies will take place to-day, and the ball to-night, at the Norvell House.

MAD.

Whiston, of Pennsylvania, 80 acres, just across the river in Stafford, belonging to Mrs. Sands, for $2,000 cash. Mr. Hendricks is a man of large means and fine intelligence, and will be a great acquisition to our community.—Fredericksburg News.

The farm belonging to Mr. William McFarland, near Guilford station, Loudoun county, Va., to R. W. Teese, of Pittsburg, Pa. Also, 1,000 acres in Loudoun county near the Loudoun and Hampshire railroad, to a gentleman from Maine. Also, a farm of 138 acres in Orange county, Va., belonging to Mr. William Berryman, to Jacob B. Hawk, of Reading, Pa.—Alexandria Gazette.

A RETURNED MISSIONARY.—The Rev. Elliott H. Thomson, of Fredericksburg, who left over ten years ago, is now sojourning here with his brother-in-law, S. C. Kearsley, Esq. For ten years Mr. Thomson has been incessantly and vigorously engaged in China as a missionary, under the auspices of the Episcopal Church. We understand that he will remain here, the place of his nativity, for several months to come. It is a richly-earned relaxation. During his absence Mr. Thomson wed a lady born in Philadelphia, who was also laboring in the good work in China.—Fredericksburg Herald.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT ATTORNEY.—It is stated that the papers for the removal of Mr. S. F. Beach from the office of United States District Attorney for Virginia, and the appointment of J. W. Jenkins in his stead, had been made out, and were on the eve of being sent to their respective destinations, when the friends of Mr. Beach in Washington were informed of the circumstance by a telegram in the Gazette from Richmond, and interfered and had further proceedings stopped. The cat was let out of the bag just in time to be caught.—Alexandria Gazette.

BUCKINGHAM RAILROAD.—A party of engineers are now engaged in surveying the route of the proposed railroad from this point to Buckingham Courthouse. The friends of the improvement are sanguine of its construction.—Farmville News.

BURNED.—Last week the wife of a German named Voght, who lives near Bristersburg, in this county, left her child locked up in the house. Some one passing by discovered that the house was on fire, and upon breaking down the door found the flames so far advanced as to prevent the rescue of the child, which perished.—Warrenton Sentinel.

Mr. Barney Finch, a well-known citizen of Campbell county, died at his residence, near the Courthouse, on Thursday. The deceased had passed his fourscore years and ten.—Lynchburg News.

POOR BEAU!—We find the following relative to one of Washington's well-known personages in the Baltimore American:

The hotels and the retail liquor establishments were haunted yesterday by a shabby-genteel old gentleman, wearing well-brushed although threadbare clothes, a plug hat with a huge weed pinned about it, and carrying an ivory-headed cane, with the air of John Hopkins surveying a block of his new buildings on south Frederick street. This imperious gentleman was the celebrated Beau Hickman, of Washington, who had forsaken the capital city to have a capital time in the city of Baltimore. He enjoyed considerable celebrity, and as he lounged in bar-rooms or wandered along the street was frequently pointed out by those who happened to know him. An amusing incident occurred on Baltimore street as he was standing on one of its corners. Two friends caught sight of him while he was standing near them. Said one, "There's Beau Hickman on the corner." Said the other, "The —— it is." Beau heard the last remark. He wheeled around, and with the air of the port warden contemplating his magnificent improvements on Jones's Falls, said, "Yes, the ——, this is Beau Hickman; and now you've seen my physiognomy, don't you think it worth a quarter?" The gentleman handed out a portrait of the late Mr. Fessenden and incontinently sloped.

The best colored talent of the country will be enlisted in its behalf.—Boston Advertiser.

A Miss Amy Wilkinson, of Benton county, Ind., has been sent to the insane asylum, she having lost her reason from the excessive use of tobacco.

Mrs. E. A. Stevens, of Hoboken, has given the handsome sum of $30,000 to Princeton College, to endow that institution with a mathematical professorship.

The extensive nut and spike factory of C. S. Tibbetts & Co., at Warsaw, Ind., was burned on Wednesday night. Loss, $35,000; insurance, $16,000.

According to the Hebrew National, of London, there are six millions of Jews in the world, one half of them living in Europe, and allowing only $80,000 in all America.

The Washington correspondent of the Charleston (S. C.) News states that it is more than probable that President Grant will visit Charleston, Augusta, and Mobile, before Congress convenes.

Ex-Senator Yulee is now president of the Florida railroad, and as such offers to give eligible sites for the erection of school-houses wherever they may be needed along the line of the road.

Negotiations are in progress for the consolidation of the Nashville and Northern railroad with the Iron Mountain road, in Missouri. The object of the consolidation is to allow passengers and freight to go through from St. Louis to Nashville without change.

Father Hyacinthe, it appears, following the example of his Protestant friend Henry Ward Beecher, is about to enter the field of journalism. He proposes to publish in Paris a newspaper to be entitled Le Chrétien, which shall be both religious and political, or rather secular, in its character.

A decided improvement in theatre construction has been introduced in Munich. The orchestra has been lowered three feet, bringing the heads of the performers and their instruments below the level of the stage, so that the view of the spectators is entirely uninterrupted. Other leading theatres in Europe will follow the example, which has already been copied at Booth's Theatre, in New York.

Panification is the name now applied to a process of bread-making recently discovered and patented in France. This method dispenses with the grinding of the wheat, and, it is asserted, will produce 150 pounds of bread from 100 pounds of grain; while by the old plan of using flour only 112 pounds of bread are produced from the 100 pounds of wheat. The new kind of bread is said also to be of better quality than the old, as the gluten is not decomposed and lost by the heat of grinding. The new mode of fermentation, it is also asserted, contributes greatly to the whiteness of the bread.

"A most estimable lady, who for many years has ornamented society by her grace and accomplishments" in New Orleans, has been deserted by her husband, an ex-colonel of the Union army. The New Orleans Times says: "Quite recently he invited the lady and her children out to walk, and stopping casually on a corner, asked them to wait there a few minutes until he rejoined them. Much to the surprise of all, an hour passed without his returning. Fearing some calamity, the lady started home. There, to her horror, the servants informed her the man had put his trunks in an express wagon and started off. The house had been stripped of every article of value. Plate, jewelry, and even the casket containing her diamonds, were gone. A note curtly informed the distracted woman her deceiver had suddenly been called away; and now the fact is developed that he has a wife and four children in the North."

LATEST WASHINGTON NEWS.

The United States Supreme Court Decisions.

WASHINGTON, October 29.—It is stated that upon the assembling of Congress a movement will be inaugurated modifying the powers of the Supreme Court to the extent of subjecting all its decisions affecting reconstruction to the revision of a special joint judiciary committee of Congress. [The foregoing is too absurd to need denial. Congress may oust the court of its jurisdiction, but will never dream of the silly project here attributed to it.]

The policy of the Government in the Yerger case seems to be to postpone the issue.

Attorney-General Hoar, in conversation with a friend a few days since, complained bitterly that the Republican press of the country does not seem to appreciate the situation in its true light. He explained that the next question would be upon the issue of the writ of habeas corpus, which would be followed by a delay occasioned by an argument on the questions involved on the points of the return made to the writ, and after that the Government might act in a manner calculated to effect further delay. It is evident, therefore, from this statement, as well as other circumstances, that the Administration has agreed to do everything in their power to defer final action by the Supreme Court relative to the reconstruction acts until after the admission of Mississippi and Texas is an accomplished fact.

The Cotton Crop—Estimates and Facts from the Agricultural Bureau.

WASHINGTON, October 29.—The report of the Bureau of Agriculture regarding cotton says fertilizers have been liberally used in the Atlantic States, and much money has been invested in improved implements. These agencies have forced the crop to early maturity, and the late picking will be comparatively light. The drought in the Carolinas and Georgia caused the early bolls to drop, in the uplands. The ravages of the caterpillar and boll worm, though severe in some sections, was by no means general. The picking will be over early, except on plantations short of labor. Without complete returns, the Bureau thinks 2,750,000 bales will be made this season, notwithstanding the newspaper reports to the contrary. [The Bureau knows nothing about it.]

The Mississippi and Texas Elections.

WASHINGTON, October 29.—The following is from a truthful source: General Clark and other Texans, and some Mississippians, have applied to the President to have the elections in those States indefinitely postponed. They insist that the decision in the Yerger case and the certainty that Hamilton and Dent will carry the elections render this necessary. It is not probable that they will succeed.

United States Supreme Court—Suit Against Mr. Peabody.

WASHINGTON, October 29.—In case No. 21, State of Texas versus George Peabody et. al., Judge Paschal to-day obtained writs of subpœna, returnable the first Monday in December next; and the first Friday in February was fixed for the hearing of the motion for a preliminary injunction.

Various Items.

WASHINGTON, October 29.—The revenue receipts to-day were $690,000.

The Senate Committee on Foreign Relations will meet here next week. It is hoped by Cuban sympathizers that their action will advance Cuban interests.

Secretary Boutwell has issued a circular to the revenue officers directing them to enforce the law regarding safety-valves on vessels carrying passengers.

Mrs. Agnes Paschal, aged ninety-four, one of the last of the widowed pensioners of the Revolution, died recently in Georgia.

The Mississippi Calamity—Further Particulars.

ST. LOUIS, October 29.—The steamer Rubicon has arrived here from the wreck of the Stonewall, bringing but two more of the survivors. It is apprehended that Colonel Casey, collector of customs at New Orleans, and his family, were on board the Stonewall.

On 'Change to-day $1,000 was subscribed, and a committee sent to visit the wreck and bury the dead. Other subscriptions will be made for the families made destitute by the disaster.

The Negro Militia in North Carolina—Their Movement and Destination.

RALEIGH, N. C., October 29.—The negro militia excitement continues unabated. Nothing definite can be ascertained in regard to Governor Holden's intentions. It is stated, upon good authority, that a body numbering 300 left this city very secretly last night for Chapel Hill, Orange county, where arms, it is believed, await them.

A train was sent to Goldsboro' yesterday to bring up more from the eastern portion of the State. It was expected to return this morning, but has not been heard from yet. The destination of the militia by that train is supposed to be Orange and Chatham counties.

The Standard (the Governor's organ) says this morning that no troops have been sent off yet, but facts have leaked out that show that a serious movement of some description is taking place.

The Lynchburg Fair—Serious Stabbing Affair.

LYNCHBURG, VA., October 29.—At the Fair Ground to-day William O. McCorkle, a prominent young merchant, was stabbed by Max. Sempter. It is thought Mr. McCorkle will die.

The trotting race to-day was won by Bradshaw's "Virginia Girl" over Paxton's "Oliver Twist."

The premiums, to the amount of $2,500, were awarded to-day. The receipts of the Fair aggregate $10,000.

The Fair closed to-night with a grand coronation ball.

Foreign News.

TURKEY.

CONSTANTINOPLE, October 29.—The shipping was decorated to-day, and to-night the city was illuminated, in honor of the reception of Francis Joseph of Austria by the Sultan. Great enthusiasm was displayed.

SPAIN.

MADRID, October 29.—Seven battalions of volunteers will soon depart for Cuba, and enlistments continue.

Dissensions among the Cabinet and the people touching who shall be monarch are unabated. The final election of the Duke of Genoa is probable.

ENGLAND—THE LOST SHIP WESER HEARD FROM—OVER THREE HUNDRED EMIGRANTS LOST.

LONDON, October 29.—A bottle has been found containing a memorandum giving the particulars of the foundering at sea of the emigrant ship Weser, on the 1st of July, with 340 persons aboard, bound from Bremen for New York.

The weather is unusually cold, and from all parts of the kingdom come advices of frost, ice, and snow.

Thanksgiving in Louisiana.

NEW ORLEANS, October 29.—Governor Warmouth designates November 18th for thanksgiving.

The Sloop-of-War Cuba.

WILMINGTON, N. C., October 29.—The argument in the case of the officers of the Cuba closed to-day. The Commissioner will give his decision to-morrow.

RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE.

The Hebrew National, a new Jewish journal published in London, gives the statistics of the Jews in the world. There are 6,000,000 Jews in the world, one-half of whom live in Europe. America contains 260,000.

The rectory of Pensthorpe, in England, just conferred on Rev. S. DENDY, is described as being worth £50 a year. It comprises twelve inhabitants, and contains no church.

Half a dozen clergymen of Bucyrus, Ohio, have united in a protest against "promiscuous dancing, at any time and anywhere, as an amusement," and add the request that they be not hereafter invited to any place or entertainment where dancing will be allowed.

The marriage fees now-a-days are somewhat different from those of the "olden time." Fifty years ago a minister in Otis received as a fee a peck of potatoes. Per contra, a Pittsfield clergyman was paid $50 the other day for the same service.

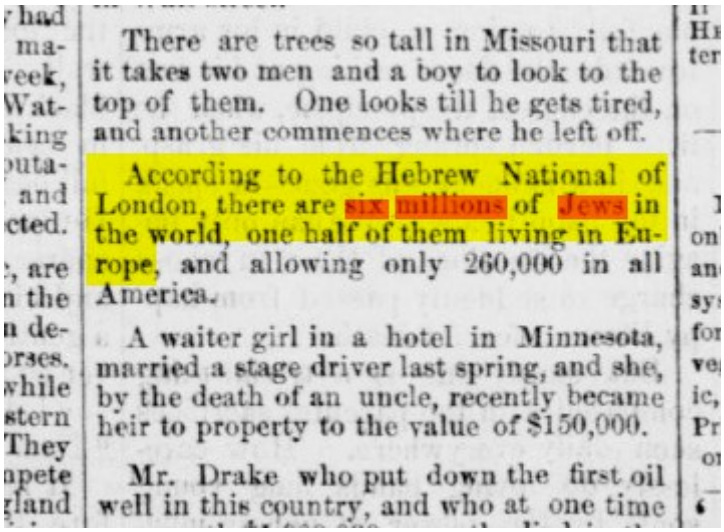
The fortieth anniversary of the New-Jersey Baptist Convention commenced its session at Hightstown, N. J., Oct. 27. D. M. WILSON was elected President for the ensuing year, and T. C. WRIGHT preached the annual sermon.



The Essex City Sunday School Convention met at Orange, N. J., on the 27th. From the report we find that there are in that county 158 schools, 663 officers, 8,015 teachers and 24,657 scholars. The united libraries number 52,526 volumes. The expenditures for the schools during the last year amounted to $15,516 53, and for benevolent purposes to $16,425 09.

It is rather striking to look at the statistics and see what Christians are giving for foreign missions. Taking the average of the last two years of receipts and membership, and we have as the average individual gifts:

A TERRIBLE STEAMBOAT DISASTER.—One of the worst steamboat disasters that has occurred within our remembrance, was that which happened Tuesday evening last, about fifty miles below St. Louis on the Mississippi river, when the steamer Stonewall, with about 250 persons on board took fire and burned with fearful rapidity, owing to a large quantity of hay that was on board becoming ignited, so that it was impossible to save the boat. It was immediately run upon a sand bar where the water was six feet deep in the shallowest place. All was confusion and consternation of course, and of the 250 passengers and deck hands but about thirty are positively known to be saved, so it is altogether probable not far from 200 were either burned or went to a watery grave. Of the eleven women on board but three were saved.—One man saved sixteen persons with a skiff and another swam ashore with a woman on his back and then returned and got her child. That man was a good swimmer and had a brave, impulsive heart, surely. As long as that woman lives he should not need a friend. 800 tons of freight were lost and 270 head of cattle, horses and mules, but this is nothing to the loss of human life. What an hour of horror, misery and anguish was that for the passengers and crew of the ill fated Stonewall!

OUR MIND EXACTLY.—The Caledonian of week before last, published a Montpelier letter that had the following, which has a volume of sound sense in it:

"There is something repugnant to the high calling of a minister of the gospel to see him mixing in the muddy matters of political strife, so far as to be looking for a paltry office, and even begging to receive the same—and all for the sake of three dollars per day compensation. The strife for the offices of chaplain of the two houses of the legislature, which is becoming more and more intense every year, is not calculated to raise the participants in those strifes in the estimation of truly christian men. Heretofore the strife has been mostly confined to the resident clergymen of Montpelier—sometimes conducted mostly by their friends, they in the meantime keeping in the back ground, by no means disinterested spectators. This year, however, the applicants for these offices were non-residents of this town, and in the house, at least, it became a matter of personal solicitation, which, to your correspondent, had too much the appearance of the English hustings, or more nearly, perhaps, resembling the hucksters upon the streets on election day—price three dollars a prayer."

PROLIFIC.—Dr. O. H. Watson, of West Topsham, has a prolific sow. Since May last he has sold $85,000 worth of pigs from her, and kept four for himself. The grandmother of this sow was imported from England by a Bradford man. Can any one equal this?—Argus and Patriot.

Well, this is "prolific," surely, "eighty-five thousand dollars worth of pigs" from one sow in less than eight months, and not all sold at that, beats anything we ever heard of. She must have democratic blood in her, seeing that she goes in so strong for the money. "Can any one equal this?" No, they can't.

A WOMAN'S RIGHTS BOOK.—We have received from the publisher, L. Stebbins, Hartford, Conn., a book entitled, "Woman; Her Rights, Wrongs, Privileges and Responsibilities." It contains a sketch of her condition in all ages and countries, from the earliest times; her present condition before the law in England, France and our own country; her relations to man, physiologically, socially, morally and intellectually considered. It closes with a few chapters on the inexpediency of female suffrage, and argues the case strongly on its disadvantages and objections.

Mr. John Thomas of Burnet has had a second crop of peas from the seed which was self-sown, grown from peas planted the past spring. This is rather an unusual circumstance.—Caledonian.

The same thing has happened here and more too. Mr. John Porter of this town, brought us a mess a few weeks ago, they being part of a second crop, and he brought us the blossoms of a third crop. The peas were not "self-sown."

A BLESSED COUNTRY.—Snow six feet deep on an average all last winter; planting not done till the middle of June the last summer; rained moderately most of the time till Oct. 4th, when it just laid everything all out for two weeks, and now (Oct. 29,) the snow is ten inches deep and snowing like fun, bids fair to be a foot deep by to-morrow. "Home, sweet home" (in a horn.) "'Tis sweet, O yes, 'tis sweet for such a country to die," for there is little pleasure living in it.

In the Galaxy we have three chapters each of Mrs. Edward's "Susan Fielding" and Chas. Reade's "Put Yourself in His Place." An article on "Imperialism in America" declares that there is really a movement on foot in this country to change the nature of our government. Anthony Trollope gives an entertaining story entitled "An Editors Tale. The Turkish Bath."

FIRE IN NEW YORK.—A fire broke out near the old North Dutch Church, corner of Fulton and William streets, Oct. 27th, and destroyed property to the amount of a half million.

SUICIDE IN BRADFORD.—Mr. Levi D. Corlis of this village, committed suicide by hanging, on Wednesday of this week.—For some time past, two or three years, we believe, Mr. Corlis had been in a melancholy state of mind, frequently expressing a fear that his family would come to penury and want, of which there was no probability whatever, he being a man of considerable property. His family and friends had long expected that he would attempt suicide, and indeed only a week ago he had fixed up a rope in his shed with the probable intention of hanging himself, but such a close watch was kept on his movements that this was discovered. On Wednesday he went first to the barn of Mr. Sibley, but being observed by one of the neighbors, he started down the street and slipped into Mr. Samuel Merrill's barn, climbed up on the side of the scaffold, fixed his rope, which was about four feet long, to a cross piece, put the noose about his neck and jumped off. He was discovered about fifteen or twenty minutes after by J. K. Clark, but life was extinct, his neck having been broken by the fall.—Bradford Opinion.

E. H. Uniac, the well-known temperance lecturer, died at his boarding house, No. 5 Asylum street, Boston, on Friday last, after a short illness. His death was undoubtedly caused by an overdose of opium which he had been taking Thursday during the day and evening. For a few days past he had relapsed into habits of intemperance, against which he had often vainly struggled to free himself. In these efforts he had been aided by many friends who will hear of his sad death with sorrow. He was attacked with delirium tremens Wednesday night and was using opiates to get relief. He was found dead in his bed. He was about 50 years of age, of unusual talent and brilliancy and was very popular as a lecturer.

Letter from New York.

This great city is never without its excitements. Thousands of these would be but momentary, and confined to narrow limits, but for the rivalry existing between the newspapers which must supply their readers with everything in the shape of news whether good or bad; and to our shame be it said, the worse the news the more popular the vehicle through which it reaches the people. Every day we read of murder, arson, burglary and other crimes indicating the existence of a phase of civilization before the flood. To-day a husband murders his wife and blows his own brains out. To-morrow a mother kills her child and then drowns herself. Now a bank is robbed of the wealth of a hundred rich men. Then comes the story of a fire fiend, who burns house after house for the gratification of an uncontrollable and inexplicable desire to work mischief. Clip from the last week's files of New York papers the various records of crime, O, Philosopher! and explain if you can, on any principles laid down in your books, or deduced from the ever-present experience of the past, or evolved from the workings of your own busy mind, what has produced this state of affairs now so common as to excite but little remark among any class of people except those, who, like yourself make mankind their study. Does the solution of the question lie in the fact that men are radically depraved, and that their depravity is more apparent now than of old, only by reason of the general advance of the world in mortality and the multiplication of news vehicles; Or, in the special case of New York, for example, can we account for it on the score of bad government?

Sometimes, it is but justice to say, criminals receive their deserts. On Saturday, Owen Hand, who murdered James O'Donnell, in the South Brooklyn Gas Works, was sentenced to expiate his crime on the 3d of December. This judgment was pronounced by Judge Gilbert, of the Kings County Court of Oyer and Terminer. On the day before, David Burke, convicted of the murder of Thomas Kane, at Hunter's Point, in October, 1868, was condemned by Judge Justice Barnard, to die on the 10th of December. In both cases the prisoners pleaded that they had acted in self-defence.

The Gold Conspiracy is still a prominent topic of conversation, and is now engaging more than ordinary attention, from the alleged complicity of Gen. Dan. Butterfield with the arch-conspirators, Fisk and Gould. Butterfield, as an officer of the army, has demanded a courtmartial to investigate the charges made against him; but it is very doubtful whether his request can be complied with. The offence with which he stands charged does not come within the jurisdiction of a military commission in times of peace, seeing that the misdemeanor was committed by an officer in the civil, and not the military service.

It had been decided at Washington to remove the General unless he resigned, but yesterday the decision was reconsidered. The Washington correspondent of the Tribune says: "The fact, however, that he is held under suspicion by the business public of New York, and that the full confidence necessary for the proper administration of the high office is now lacking, will, it is believed, soon effect a change in the office, whether the charges against him are sustained or not." The investigation will be made by a special committee of both Houses, in the beginning of December, and until then General Butterfield will remain at the head of the Sub Treasury.

Fisk is, of course, in hot water, an element out of which he could not enjoy an hour's existence. He has succeeded in padlocking the Sun, but the other papers scourge him unmercifully. It would be as difficult for him to tell where to seek for real friends as it was for Calmet and Herder and other geographers to determine the exact locality of the Garden of Eden. That the gold excitement increased his wealth I cannot believe, for he is even now unable to pay his workmen on the Erie Railway. He has a large and expensive Opera House to take care of, three or four private establishments to manage, one or two steamboat lines to keep in running order, two theatres, a passenger railway line, a magnificent ferry, a line of omnibuses, a line of cabs, a valuable stud of horses, a regiment of servants, clerks, messengers, private watchmen, &c., and a corps of friends who must be a severe drain upon his exchequer. A few days ago he was summoned to appear before the Grand Jury, but he failed to come. Jay Gould was also summoned, but, like his partner, remained invisible. What will come of this and the Erie Railway strike, and the unpleasantness with the Times, and the trouble with the President, it remains for Time to disclose. Certain it is, however, that the man who bullied Vanderbilt, frightened Drew, captured Wall street and fascinated Jay Gould, will not be undone without a struggle which shall make him famous the wide world over. Corbin is still in retirement, and the rest of the gold cabal are pursuing the even tenor of their devious way, with, seemingly, no apprehension of being brought to grief. If the proper investigation of the conspiracy, which so nearly plunged the business community in ruin is held, and the guilty parties are ever summoned to hear a righteous sentence pronounced, it is not wicked to hope that it could be uttered in the solemn words of the English judge who sent the counterfeiter back to jail as a preliminary to a longer journey. Said he: "William Higginbotham Fitz Lawrence, I trust that through the merits and mediation of our Blessed Redeemer you may experience in the world whereto you are going that mercy which a due regard for the credit of the National finances forbids you to hope for here."

The Second adventists are all agog again. They have been in a state of quiescence ever since the earthquakes and other convulsions of nature in South America; but the shocks down East the other day are a sign to one division of the Millenarians at least, that the world is now "on its last legs, and desperately sick." The second division, who may be very properly be called the conservatives, will not admit that we stand on ruin. They hold that many signs and omens and potents dire, and miracles must be witnessed before the final crack of doom is heard. Father Snow slides with the conservative Millinarians, but the radicals, the Millerite Millenarians, have many able prophets in whose foresight they have an abiding faith, equally creditable to head and heart.

Father Hyacinthe has been terribly bored by the reporters and by a legion of that class of visitors who prey only upon lions. He manages to live through the infliction, however, and seems to be about as stout and happy to-day as when he first landed. Yesterday morning he attended service at Beecher's Church, where, after the sermon, he had a pleasant conversation with the great preacher of Plymouth Church. It was a notable sight to see the brave Superior of the Barefooted Carmelites of Paris and the famous Beecher together. As neither of the great men could speak the language of the other, their words were interpreted by an accomplished young banker, a protege of Beecher's and a fast friend of the Carmelite.

The question is asked here every day, "What brings Father Hyacinthe to the United States?" The natural Yankee answer is, "To make money." But that is not his object. Neither does he propose to stir up new troubles in the Church he has vowed to live and die for. He has defied his superiors, and this morning received the official dispatch informing him that they have stripped him of all his honors and privileges and titles; but for this punishment he cares nothing. He says he is a Roman Catholic and will ever be one; but that he will never on that account cease to be a nun. He says that the wrath of the orthodox clergy of his church has been poured out against him because he dared to assert his right to judge for himself in matters non-essential. His attitude in this crisis of the church will have great influence not only in the Ecumenical Council, but everywhere in Christendom.—Strange as it may sound, there are liberal Catholics in every country. France had her Abbe Chatel, and has Pere Hyacinthe and a score of brave reformers to-day. Italy had Passaglia, who suffered the penalty of his boldness. The Spanish liberals will soon speak. In America they are speaking every day, and when the hour for action arrives, will not fail to denounce with earnestness and power the extravagances and the gross errors which disgrace the Romish Church in this age of enlightenment and progress.

In politics our fellow citizens are just now so busy that many of them who have no other business spend all their time in making slates and breaking them; and in holding meetings and drafting resolutions, and doing other things equally essential to the success of self and friends. Their meetings are held at noon and night, and so great is the interest in the business that many good people neglected divine worship last night and made speeches and voted on resolutions, and nominated candidates at separate and distinct meetings. Both parties are making bids for the German vote. The republicans have placed on their State ticket the name of Franz Sigel; the democrats promise a repeal of the Excise Law. These are excellent baits—but you know that if you add the same quantity to both members of an equation the relation between them is not changed—and it strikes me that, after all, the German vote will be divided just about as it was last year. The workingmen will be a great power during the campaign, and although they have not organized as a political party, it is thought that they will do so, and this will have a powerful influence in deciding the nature of the legislation at Albany when the new members go in. By the way, in the death of the old Earl of Derby Lord Stanley succeeds to the Earldom. Lord S. is one of the staunchest friends of the workingman in England, and has always been an able advocate for co-operation. His accession to new power will enable him to do much for the promotion of the laborer's interests in his own country and elsewhere. Another of the best friends and advisers of the workingman has just died in Brooklyn. Your readers all remember honest John W. Farmer, the plumber, who supplied soup to the poor in 1857—58, during those two hard winters. Some of them perhaps remember his queer hat and his beaming face and cheery voice. The workingmen of New York will never forget him. He was in the forefront of the co-operative movement here, and owned stock in every enterprise established in the country by associations of workingmen. For a long time before his death he kept one of his large uptown buildings open for the use of workingmen's organizations, and for three years his free reading room in the same buildings has been one of the most useful institutions of its kind in the country.

On the other hand, the garb of our sisters promises to be as complex this winter as the French modiste can make it. The mysteries of the coming costume have not all been explained. Only enough has been suggested to stimulate the curiosity of the fair ones who seem never to tire of novelty in garniture, and who, alas, seem pleased with any fashion however ridiculous. Let us bless what is left of the spirit of modesty, in that she has foiled the attempt of milliners to introduce the Black Crook costume, and to make familiar and dear to us the scanty enfoldings of the actors in that noted spectacle. We have yet the high and pointed heel on which our loved ones toddle and waddle—it would be folly to call it walking—such heels as Atalanta never could have run upon. We have also a few lingering locks of yellow hair—"blonde" is the modern name for it—left on the heads of charming creatures to whom Nature gave tresses of black or brown or red, with eyelashes to match. We have patches, too, in spots. And we shall have many more queer whims exhibited before women pass away—for there is danger that ere many days

"Our poets
Shall with satire steeped in gall and vinegar,
Rithme 'em to death, as they do rats in Ireland."

Why, in all seriousness, is it necessary for all the women in the land to dress alike? To say nothing of the heels they wear, of the panniers, the points, the puffs to their dresses, all cut after the same pattern; of the chignon on the back of each head—even the wooly heads bear them—why should those supplemental snaky locks, and all the rest of the capillary covering be of the same shade throughout the community? Why, even in Queen Bess' time, women, although given then as much as now to the marring of the fair form and face of nature's mold, had some independence. She who dyed her hair, dyed it to suit her individual taste. In those days, as in these, the man who loved a true woman, cared little for the shade of her wig; and Benedick, one of the types of manly wisdom, says of his future wife: "Her hair shall be of what color it pleases God"—not Miss McFlimsy. Far be it from your correspondent to ridicule a harmless device, intended to cover a natural deformity.—Physical peculiarities should never be the subject of jest. Let a man's ears be like those mentioned by Purchas in his "Pilgrim," or like ears of corn, or like asses' ears; let his nose be Slawkenbergian in its size, or so turned up that he must throw a somersault or stand on his head to blow it; let his eyes be fishy, or like the eyes of potatoes, or like unto saucers, or the espials of owls; let his legs bow like the arcs of a great circle, or come together at the knees like a capital X; these are not faults of his making. But he is a fair target, if, like Mephibosheth, he let his beard grow till David come again; or if he walk like a goose, or any other proudrooster [illegible] because 'tis the fashion; or if he part his hair in the middle and carry a switch cane like a country pedagogue, who hath use for it; or plaster his locks with unguents, and dye his red beard black; or imitate the tadpole in growing more and more bobtailed as his years increase, instead of hiding his shrunken shanks with an ample flow of skirting;—and no man should pity his sorrows. Why, it was but yesterday I saw what I thought must be the original of Shakspeare's Shallow. As Falstaff says: "You might have trussed him and all his apparel in an eel skin; the case of a treble haut-boy was a mansion for him—a court"—and how was he garnished? In the integuments of an alderman of two hundred pounds of obesity, and he strutted like a Bantam.

It may be interesting for you to know that a passenger by the Hudson River Railroad, who three years ago brought a charge of overcharge against the company, has just received from them to satisfy the verdict the nice little sum of $27,819.11.

VERMONT.

A Missouri editor alludes to the "Equinoxial Council" to be held in Rome.

Letter from Washington.

WASHINGTON, D. C. Oct. 28, 1869.

The Gay Season, the harvest season for hotel proprietors and boarding house mistresses, is approaching so rapidly that in almost every department of business, there seems to be more than usual life and energy exhibited in getting "the House in readiness" for the grand tournaments awaiting the meeting of Congress.

The National Theatre, capable of holding 4000 people, is thronged nightly to witness Miss Lydia Thompson's Burlesque Troupe, which with its familiar characters in "Sinbad," is attracting to it all classes of people, from President Grant, members of Congress, foreign ministers, &c., who occupy private boxes or orchestra chairs, to the humblest laborers who seem pleased with the privilege of securing 25 cent seats in the gallery.

The P. O. Department under the wise legislation of Congress, and efficient officers at its head, is continually undergoing reforms which effect the people more generally than reforms in any one of the other departments. The P. M. General has under consideration a contemplated change in the route agent service in his department, securing to railroad postal clerks, by which the mail will be assorted for the respective roads over which they are to go, and thereby prevent the delays now attending the mails in the various distributing offices of the country. These reforms keep step and become a part of the progress of the age. This government through all administrations, I think, has been exceedingly liberal in extending its favors even to the most sparse sections of our country; and the people in reciprocating those favors have gradually increased their patronage, until the department is now nearly self-sustaining. It is estimated that since the completion of the Pacific railroad, the government is saving at the rate of one million a year in the transmission of its mails to the Pacific.

The post office money order system, now being daily extended to the smaller offices of the country, netted to the government in the last fiscal year, after paying all expenses, $65,697, having issued 1,264,143 orders, amounting to $24,848,058.

It would seem with our present postal system, improved by a few changes contemplated by the post-master general, that if we could now have added to it, in practical operation, the postal telegraph system which it is hoped congress will arrange at its next session, we should be in a condition to challenge the whole world for our equal in securing "the greatest amount of good to the greatest number of people."

There has been but little said of late about the spurious seven-thirties that were thrown upon the public more than two years since, while S. M. Clarke was superintendent of the currency printing bureau. At that time it seems there were strong suspicions that those spurious bonds, which were so perfect that there were some forty or fifty thousand dollars taken by officers of the treasury, that the plates on which this money was printed, was electrotyped in the printing bureau. Mr. Clarke protested against there being any reason for such suspicion, and contended that they were engraved outside. It is reported here today that there has been sufficient proof elicited lately to substantiate the correctness of the first suspicions about the matter, and that there is not a question of doubt that, as I stated some time since in my correspondence, that there is much spurious money, duplicates, now afloat, printed either on the genuine plates in the treasury department or plates produced from electrotyping the genuine plate. In this connection I would say that some who are considered competent to judge, whom I have conversed with today on the subject, contend that the seal is counterfeit only, the rest being duplicates printed from the genuine plates in the treasury department.

The general land office is in receipt from the following district land offices, showing a disposal during the past month of 76,628 acres of the public lands; Denver, Colorado Territory, 52,146 acres; Ionia, Michigan, 8,814 acres; St. Cloud, Minnesota, 4,961 acres; Marquette, Michigan, 4,706 in the state of California, 42,149 acres, viz: San Francisco, 19,046 acres; Stockton, 9,794 acres; Marysville, 9,555 acres; Visalia, 3,735. The greater portions of these lands were sold for cash, and the remainder taken by actual settlers under the homestead law and located with military land warrants.

Of the number of patents issued from the patent office for the week ending Tuesday, four were granted to citizens of your State.

The following "Trip through the South," which I hope will be of interest to your readers, is a contribution from O. S. Lovell, Esq., of Cincinnati, one of the assistant counsels for the government in the cotton cases:

A TRIP THROUGH THE SOUTH.

FRIEND LIFE:—I found the Orange & Alexandria, Virginia & East Tennessee and Georgia railroad in a much better condition than any one had a right to expect after the long abuse without necessary repairs that was incurred during the war. The route was a new one to me, and I was constantly on the watch for the "scenery and incidents." We passed Manassas with only a slight allusion to Prentiss joke about the Yankees striking for their homes and firesides, at the battle of Bull Run, at the rate of 12 miles an hour. If they performed this feat, they nearly equaled the rate of traveling on the O. & A. railroad. At Charlottsville, passengers stop for what they are pleased to announce as dinner. Beyond the wing of a canary bird, I never conceived of a smaller fragment of bird to be set before one as his dinner, yet just such a fragment was offered me to dine off, water and corn meal stirred up for bread. Nothing but a traveling appetite would ever permit of his paying one dollar, (the price always asked) for such a miserable pretence for a meal. The views from Charlottsville to Lynchburg, are doubtless very fine, but inasmuch as that four of the five hours run are spent in cuts that are above the tops of the cars, you are somewhat restricted in your observations. Reaching Lynchburg, you get into the magnificent sleeping cars of the East Tennessee and Georgia railroad, and it is my opinion that we have none in the North to equal them. The attention of the steward or colored man who had charge excelled in every attention I had ever experienced before, and thinking it worthy of mention, I will here say to all those who are traveling on this road—and many of our Northern people are bound to travel it the coming year—that the colored women at different stations along the road will give them a better meal and more of it, for half the cost that these pretending feeding houses do.

In despite of the feeling that has heretofore been expressed against the sacred soil of Virginia being invaded by the Northern hordes, one will find thousands of sensible natives of the soil, quite anxious and willing to have Northern men and Northern capital introduced, and I had much inquiry made of me in that regard. Through the greater part of the way from Alexandria to Lynchburg, the soil presents no inducements for Northern settlers, but I was told that there were many desirable farms and lots for sale a short way back from the line of the railroad. Northern men and capital will not be turned away.

Crops this year have been very much diminished by the drouth that prevailed from about the middle of June until September. Corn and tobacco especially has been reduced from the usual yield.

In northern Georgia things were looking better in an agricultural point of view, and enough was to be seen of the cultivation of cotton for one to rest assured that all the meetings in England to extend encouragement to its growth in their colonies and other countries, would be "love's labor lost;" for we will yet raise King Cotton up to his former standard, and reassure the world of the adaptability of our soil and system of labor to meet every foreign demand for the raw material. I was confirmed in my belief of this by listening to a conversation at Kingston, Ga., between a farmer and a commission merchant, wherein the farmer had got an advance on his growing field of cotton; and I learned of the same farmer of many northern men who had this year cultivated plantations that had been divided into smaller tracts, and that many more would be soon growing cotton as they had been growing grain in their northern homes before the war.—In fact it will not take many years before a larger area than formerly, will be under cultivation for the growth of this staple, and be more thoroughly worked than when under slave labor. Time will show that cotton will be produced and sent or brot' to market much in the same manner as our corn, oats or wheat have heretofore been.

My trip south extended no farther than to the beautiful city of Rome. In my opinion this city of Rome will become a great point for manufacture and commerce; it was considered such before the war, but its future will to my mind, exceed its past experience in both branches of trade. It is situated at the junction of the Ostenaula and Etowah rivers, which rivers, running together, form the Coosa, all of which are more or less navigable. The iron works destroyed here during the war are rapidly being rebuilt on a much more extensive scale. Indeed, upon climbing the heights which surround this beautifully located place, the hum of the saw, the ring of the trowel and the pounding of the hammer was an increasing din in one's ears. In conclusion, for perhaps I have been tedious, let me say that I found everywhere a willingness and disposition to apply mind and active exertion to the rebuilding of the country, and a strong effort to forget and wipe out the terrible effects of the civil war.

'Gawkey's' Defence of Free Masonry

Mr. Editor—In common with many others, I had begun to fear that your generous and independent offer to open your columns, to a limited extent, for the temperate discussion of the subject of Masonry and Anti Masonry, would be declined by the gentlemen of the lodge. The communication of your correspondent "Gawkey," in your last issue, however, has dispelled my fears. That popular and influential body, the masonic fraternity, has found a champion.—To be sure this first response to the charges alleged against Masonry is not exactly such a one as an intelligent public had a right to expect. Nor is it, I apprehend, one of which Masons themselves will be very proud. Broad burlesque, interlarded with slang phrases about "the saints" and scraps of profanity will not satisfy any honest inquirer after the truth in this matter. Let me state the case as it presents itself to my mind: The opponents of secret societies affirm of speculative Free Masonry, that so far from being calculated to promote peace and good will among men, it is, as a system, intensely selfish and vindictive; that its claims to antiquity, beyond about two hundred years, are a tissue of falsehoods; that it has been guilty of numerous homicides, not to call them murders; that it has obstructed, and still obstructs, the righteous administration of criminal and civil justice; that it is a conspiracy against society; that although a system of pure Deism, it promises future eternal felicity to its members upon the sole condition of obedience to its own oaths and obligations, its oaths being outrageously atrocious and such as no good man, who is acquainted with their import, ought to take, and its whole liturgical service being so constructed as of set purpose, to exclude the name and merits of the Savior of mankind from the work; that it has corrupted and is still corrupting, to a fearful extent, the christian church and the christian ministry, and finally that if not arrested it will, at no distant day, mould the civil and most of the ecclesiastical institutions of our country to its own selfish purposes and ends. Now is it not reasonable and pertinent to ask if the Free Masons have no better, or rather no other, arguments with which to meet these grave charges than an assumed dignified silence, coarse burlesque and vituperation and personal abuse?—Such weapons never bring victory to a bad cause, and when used are always damaging to a good one. Surely an organization embracing so much of the culture, the influence and the piety of our land as the Masonic fraternity claims for itself, must be abundantly competent to attempt the work of defining and defending its position in a sober and intelligent manner. It is both absurd and useless to affirm that those who prefer those charges are bad men, actuated by malevolent motives, and unworthy of notice; for while it is cheerfully admitted that there are thousands of the purest patriots of our country, who owing to want of information in relation to their real objects and workings, patronize these societies; it is also confidently maintained that in the ranks of those who oppose them are men equally patriotic, intelligent and pure minded. But it will be asked, how should this last class be so much better informed in relation to the enormities of Free Masonry than the former; for the simple reason that they have read and believed the revelations made by seceding Masons and the others have not. The Free Mason who has read, or heard read, these disclosures and declines giving his opinion in relation to their credibility is either too honest to tell a lie by denying their truthfulness, or too conscientious to perjure himself, if he recognizes the validity of his Masonic oaths, by admitting their general truthfulness; and the Free Mason who affirms that these seceders are perjured and unworthy of credence is an unwilling, but unimpeachable witness that they have told the truth, and that per consequence, Free Masonry has no secrets about which it is worth any man's while to swear so horribly.

In conclusion I take the liberty kindly and earnestly to assure the gentlemen of the lodge that the time is fast approaching, if it has not already arrived, when the "silent contempt" ruse will be neither politic nor possible. The opponents of secret organizations in our free republic are organizing; prepare for the battle and may God defend the right. C.

Albany, Oct. 28.

TOO LATE.—Our Montpelier letter for this week, came just one day too late, so we are without legislative news. Not much matter.

ALASKA.—Where on this globe can we go beyond the omnipresent Yankee? Landing at Sitka, we had walked but a short distance into the town when we reached the northern depot of Dr. Ayer's medicines in full display among the huts, shanties and courts of these boreal tribes. There the familiar, homelike names of his Cherry Pectoral, Pills, &c., salute us from the exterior and the interior of a store which shows more business than its neighbors, and proves that these simple but sure remedies are even more neccessary to savage life than to ourselves where they visit every fireside.—Correspondent Alexand. Journal.

ELOPEMENT.—Edward M. Prentiss aged 19 years, and Hattie M. O'Brien, aged 15 years, of Milton, eloped to St. Albans, last week Monday and got married. The girl's parents arrived just too late, and had to take two children or none, as Mrs. Prentiss obstinately refused to leave her husband. The laws ought to prevent such marriages as this.

Mr. M. O. Pingree informs us that from October 19th to October 23d, ninety-four freight trains passed Montpelier Junction. Allowing 25 cars to each train, which is a fair average, we have a total of 2350 cars which passed this place in five days.—Argus.

PEDDLER ROBBED.—A peddler named Rothschild was robbed at Danville last week Tuesday night. His cart was broken open, it standing under the shed at Smith's hotel, and dress goods, furs, &c., stolen therefrom. The circumstances showed that the thief came with a wagon from St. Johnsbury way, and went toward West Danville.

During the recent flood an engineer discovered a cow swimming in the Hartford meadows, near the railroad track. SUICIDE.—Donald Mann, a nephew of Charles W. Rich, of Swanton, and a junior in the University of Vermont, was found dead, hanging in his room in the college last Tuesday morning. ARM AMPUTATED.—Luther Bradley had his right arm drawn into a threshing machine on Tuesday morning of last week, while at work for widow Hastings in Waterford, mangling the flesh and breaking the bones in a shocking manner. H. & W. E. Peck of Passumpsic, are carrying on an extensive business in the line of horses. They have this season delivered and sold in market over 250 horses. Wm. Peck usually does the selling, while his brother travels through the Western States buying and shipping East. They claim that no Eastern buyer can compete with them. They say that New England is losing her prestige as a horse raising country and that the West is every day improving.

YOUTHFUL HIGHWAYMEN.—Two Lyndon lads named Geo. M. Downs and James Howard, with morals sadly dilapidated by the example of some of the leading Jacobins over there, undertook to enact the role of highwaymen. Armed with a revolver, in mid-afternoon, they frightened Charles Houghton and Charles Nichols, full grown men, into being searched and robbed. The boys were afterward arrested and lodged in jail at St. Johnsbury.

CHEESE.—Mr. E. D. Mason of Richmond, exhibited at the darymen's meeting yesterday, a specimen number of the product of his dairy the present season. It was cylindrical in form, resembling in this respect "fixed ammunition," for a Parrott gun, but this resemblance ended when the shell was broken, as a large number of tasters can attest. About twelve hundred cheeses in this form have been manufactured by Mr. Mason the present season, commanding a price of eight or ten cents per pound in advance of the ordinary best dairy cheese. This is an inducement for other Vermont farmers to try and improve in cheese making.—Montpelier Journal.

The people of West Addison are enjoying a gracious revival in answer to faithful and earnest prayer. Our meetings have been greatly broken up by the rains, but the faith of God's children has not wavered, and we are now seeing our children, neighbors and friends coming to the blessed Saviour. The marked feature of the work is the great number of young men that have been reached, some of whom are heads of families. Husbands and wives kneel at the altar, and children by their side. The meetings have been marked by an absence of any unusual excitement, but a thoughtful spirit pervades the entire audience.—Register.

A RUM FIGHT.—Wm. O'Donnel and Jeremiah Crowley went to visit Michael McNamara of St. Johnsbury. They found their host and Edmund Bailey enjoying themselves with a "shrup of the crather" from a bottle the latter had, and they took a swig too. After a time Bailey refused to treat, whereupon O'Donnell and McNamara took the stuff from him and threw him out of doors. Afterwards O'Donnell and Crowley found Bailey outside very drunk, and led him home, enlivening the road by a "permiscus" fight. The sequel was Bailey paid $5 and costs, for being drunk; and O'Donnell paid $10 and costs, for breach of the peace, and one cent to Bailey for the broken rib, damaged shoulder and disfigured countenance the latter got.

EAST HAVEN.—John Hosford of this town, got married on the first of October. John had numerous friends, and about 40 of them got together to invent some method of paying him a compliment. After due deliberation, a serenade was determined upon. John lives in a low house, with low chimneys. His friends had never played in Gilmore's band, and their names were not recorded in the orchestra list of the far famed coliseum. But they were skilled in the several branches of musical science. Having organized a band of tin horns—some people don't like this music—pans, rattles, and stentorian lungs, they proceeded to the house, slyly arranged themselves—serenaders are always very still—upon the house top and around the building, inserting horns down the chimney, into the cat holes, against the windows and key holes, and at a given signal commenced the first tune—they only played one tune—which lasted about two hours, till about two o'clock in the morning. John never heard the first note. The musicians worked away till their instruments and ears froze up, and their patience gave out, when they went home. The next week they went again, but John, not having much taste for music, learned of their appointment, and quietly vacated before their arrival. They came and serenaded, but after another two hours' performance they adjourned again in disgust. On the following Sabbath, John came to meeting at the school house, when some of the musicians stole his horse blanket and part of his harness, so he was obliged to lead his horse and his wife home. They considered this a compensation equivalent to a serenade treat, and have since let him alone. This class of musicians sometimes hear echoes in the form of explosive notes from a shot gun. In localities where these echoes are prompt, musicians are so much annoyed that they don't play long, and very frequently break off right in the middle of a tune.—Union.

REMARKS.—The stock trains are heavy and late this week. Over 1600 cattle and some 15,000 sheep and lambs are large numbers with which to cross Charles river bridge, with the understanding that a good supply from the West and the East is expected at Brighton. While waiting this morning for the arrivals of trains, the audience were treated to a small display of "held over," or stale stock—the remnants of last week's market. The first train since the freshet from the Northern part of New York, we believe, came in today. During the early part of the fall trade farmers held back their stock for better prices, and partly perhaps from the effects of the backwardness of the season; but now a little flurry of snow in many parts of the North admonishes them of the approach of a long foddering season, the surplus stock is forced upon the market with the usual result of a depression of prices.

BRADFORD, FRIDAY, NOV. 5, 1869.

Legislature of Vermont.

The usual number of bills have been introduced, a good proportion of which have been acts of incorporations, or for change of names.—But one act—that making an additional appropriation of $2000 for the expenses of the council of censors—has as yet become a law; the final adjournment of the council rendering it necessary that that act should be hurried through. The more important bills introduced in the Senate are: to define who shall be voters in town meetings; to amend an act of 1833 incorporating the Newbury seminary (authorizing the sale or transfer of the property at Newbury to the Vermont Conference seminary at Montpelier;) to permit parties in civil suits to challenge jurors; to amend the act of last session to enable the towns in Washington, Caledonia and Orange counties to aid the Vermont Historical Society, (appropriating $2.0 ;) to create degrees in the crime of murder; to amend the general statutes relating to forgery and counterfeiting; also relating to offences against the lives and persons of individuals; besides acts of incorporation, and others of a more local interest. The more important bills introduced in the House are: to commute the sentence of Horace B. Plumley (the discussion of which may involve the question of capital punishment;) an enabling act for the Fairhaven and Lake Shore railroad; two bills in amendment of the general statutes relating to the traffic in intoxicating drinks (persons selling intoxicating drinks contrary to law to be liable for all damage that shall be sustained in consequence thereof;) to increase the rate of interest (six per cent. to remain the legal rate where none is named, but legalizing as high as seven and three tenths per cent. when agreed to in writing;) in amendment of the general statutes relating to mechanics' and other liens; to amend an act incorporating Newbury seminary (so changing the act as to prevent the sale or transfer of the property at Newbury to the Vermont Conference seminary at Montpelier;) in amendment of the general statutes relating to the rights of married women, and relating to the levy of execution (increasing the list of property to be exempt from attachment;) laying a tax on the county of Caledonia; authorizing the trustees of the Springfield Wesleyan seminary to consolidate that school with the Vermont Conference seminary at Montpelier; to abolish the office of railroad commissioner; to amend the acts of 1867 relating to married women as witnesses; and various other acts of a more local interest.

Proposals of Amendment.

The Council of Censors have finished up their business and adjourned, having proposed the following articles of amendment to the constitution and called a constitutional convention.

ARTICLE 1.

Corporations shall not be created, nor their powers increased or diminished by special laws, except for municipal purposes.

ARTICLE 2.

Sec. 1. The General Assembly shall meet on the first Wednesday of October, biennially; the first election shall be on the first Tuesday of September, A. D. 1870; the first session of the General Assembly on the first Wednesday of October, A. D. 1870.

Sec. 2. The Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Treasurer of the State, Senators, Town Representatives, Assistant Judges of the County Court, Sheriffs, High Bailiffs, State's Attorneys, Judges of Probate and Justices of the Peace, shall be elected biennially, on the first Tuesday of September, in the manner prescribed by the Constitution of the State.

Sec. The term of office of the Governor, Lieutenant Governor and Treasurer of the State, respectively, shall commence when they shall be chosen and qualified, and shall continue for the term of two years, or until their successors shall be chosen and qualified, or to the adjournment of the session of the Legislature, at which, by the Constitution and laws, their successors are required to be chosen, and not after such adjournment.

Sec. 4. The term of office of Senators and Town Representatives shall be two years, commencing on the first Wednesday of October following their election.

Sec. 5. The term of office of the Assistant Judges of the County Court, Sheriffs, High Bailiffs, State's Attorneys, Judges of Probate and Justices of the Peace, shall be two years, and shall commence on the first day of December next after their election.

ARTICLE 3.

Whenever the office of Senator or of town Representatives shall become vacant from any cause, the Legislature may provide by law for filling such vacancy.

ARTICLE 4.

Sec. 1. The term of office of the Judges of the Supreme Court shall be six years: provided that under the first appointment made in pursuance of this section one-third of the Judges first appointed shall hold their offices for the period of six years; one-third thereof second in the order of appointment shall hold their office for a period of two years.

Sec. 3. The Judges of the Supreme Court shall at stated times receive a reasonable compensation for their services, which shall not be diminished during the terms of their offices.

ARTICLE—

(Proposed for adoption if Article 2 is adopted and Article 4 is rejected.) The Judges of the Supreme Court shall be elected biennially, and their term of office shall be two years.

ARTICLE 5.

Hereafter shall women be entitled to vote with no other restrictions than men.

ARTICLE 6.

Sec. 1. At the session of the General Assembly of this State, A. D. 1880, and at the session thereof every tenth year thereafter, the Senate may, by a vote of two thirds of its members, make proposals of Amendment to the Constitution of the State, which proposals of amendment, if concurred in by a majority of the members of the House of Representatives, shall be entered on the journals of the two Houses and referred to the General Assembly then next to be chosen, and be published in the principal newspapers of the State; and if a majority of the members of the Senate and of the House of Representatives of the next following General Assembly shall, respectively, concur in the same proposals of amendment, or any of them, it shall be the duty of the General Assembly to submit the proposals of amendment so concurred in to a direct vote of the freemen of the State; and such of said proposals of amendment as shall receive a majority of the votes of the freemen voting thereon, shall become a part of the Constitution of this State.

Sec. 2. The General Assembly shall direct the manner of voting by the people upon the proposed amendments, and enact all such laws as shall be necessary to procure a free and fair vote upon each amendment proposed, and to carry into effect all the provisions of the preceding section.

Sec. 3. The House of Representatives shall have all the power now possessed by the Council of Censors, to order impeachments, which shall in all cases be by a vote of two thirds of its members.

Sec. 4. The forty third section of the second part of the Constitution of this State, is hereby abrogated.

ALASKA.—Where on this globe can we go beyond the omnipresent Yankee? Landing at Sitka, we had walked but a short distance into the town when we reached the northern depot of Dr. Ayer's medicines in full display among the huts, shanties and courts of these bored tribes. There the familiar, homelike names of his Cherry Pectoral, Pills, &c., salute us from the exterior and the interior of a store which shows more business than its neighbors, and proves that these simple but sure remedies are even more necessary to savage life than to ourselves where they visit every fireside.—[Correspondent Albany Journal.

Communications.

Those who so blatantly oppose female suffrage, as a new and hitherto unheard of thing, are not probably aware of the fact, that it is only a recognition of a fundamental principle of the English constitution, which was acknowledged and followed more than a thousand years ago. Under the Saxon law, females were accustomed to sit in the wittenagemots, or councils of the wise men. And in the great council held at Becconceld, A. D. 694, abbesses sat among the chiefs of the realm, and took part in the deliberations. Several of them indeed, seem to have filled official positions in the council, their names being subscribed to the decrees which were passed. Women also appeared in Ethelwolf's parliament, at Winchester, A. D. 855, and some of the charters granted by King Edward were countersigned by abbesses. Even in the time of Henry the Third, and in the reign of Edward the First, as late as the year A. D. 1300, women were among the members of Parliament summoned by the King's writ. X.

List of patents issued to Vermonters from the U. S. Patent Office, for the week ending Oct. 12, each bearing that date: C. M. Huckins of Ea. Topsham, for bridle bit. E. W. Haven of Brandon, for hand corn planter. J. K. Collins of Hartford, for hay tedder. Thomas J. Rockwood of St. Johnsbury, for machine for milling the knife edges of scale beams. S. W. Rowell of Rutland, for screw propeller. E. C. Merrill and A. W. Willard of Charlestown, assignors to E. C. Merrill, for composition for emery wheels and other abrading implements. George J. Wardwell of Rutland, assignor to Steam Stone Cutter Company of New York city, for stone channeling machine.

A man who brought a suit for overcharge against the Hudson River railroad company, has just received the nice little sum of $27,-819.11. So it seems there is, in some places, protection to the people against the greediness of railroad corporations.

LOUISVILLE, Oct. 25. A bloody tragedy occurred yesterday at Mitchellville, Tennessee. Two citizens and a man named Moses Crane became involved in a dispute during which pistols were drawn and the three parties were mortally wounded.

The government has decided to recall James D. Long, Consul at Montevideo, South America, for his offensive manifestations of sympathy with the "lost cause." He was one of Johnson's appointees from Maryland; and part of his official equipment is said to be a rebel flag.

On Saturday work was resumed on span sixteen of the bridge across the Ohio River at Louisville. This is called the "fatal span," as in three years fifty seven men have here lost their lives by falling upon the rocks below. The last death occurred on Sunday last, the victim being a stranger who walked out on the span.

E. H. Unise, the well-known temperance lecturer, died at his boarding house, No. 5 Asylum street, Boston, on Friday last, after a short illness. His death was undoubtedly caused by an overdose of opium which he had been taking Thursday during the day and evening. For a few days past he had relapsed into habits of intemperance, against which he had often vainly struggled to free himself. In these efforts he had been aided by many friends who will hear of his sad death with sorrow. He was attacked with delirium tremens Wednesday night and was using opiates to get relief. He was found dead in his bed. He was about 30 years of age, of unusual talent and brilliancy and was very popular as a lecturer.

Good argument in favor of the biennial sessions.

During the recent flood an engineer discovered a cow swimming in the Hartford meadows, near the railroad track. He fastened a rope to her horns, and making the other end fast to his locomotive, and towed the beast ashore. She proved to be a valuable cow, which had come down from the upcountry somewhere, nobody knew from what State.

A little "waif" two months old was left in a parlor at the Stevens House in Rutland on Thursday, by a young woman who came to town on the Bennington & Rutland railroad.—How wretched must be the feelings of the parent who would thus abandon her own offspring to the chilling cares of the world. The little "waif" was soon provided for however, as a gentleman stepped in and proposed to adopt it.

H. & W. E. Peck, of Passumpsic, are carrying on an extensive business in the line of horses. They have this season collected and sold in market over 200 horses. Wm. Peck mostly does the selling, while his brother travels through the Western States buying and shipping East. They claim that no Eastern buyer can compete with them. They say that New England is losing her prestige as a horse raising country and that the West is every day improving.

PROLIFIC.—Dr. O. H. Watson, of West Topsham, has a prolific sow. Since May last he has sold $50,000 worth of pigs from her, and kept four for himself. The grand mother of this sow was imported from England by a Bradford man. Can any one equal this?—[Argus and Patriot.

Well, this is prolific, surely, eighty five thousand dollars worth of pigs from one sow in less than eight months, and not all sold at that, beats anything we ever heard of. She must have democratic blood in her, seeing than she goes in so strong for the money. Can any one equal this? No, they can't.—[Barton Standard.

THE LIQUOR LAW.—Mr. Grover, of Wells, has introduced a bill into the House amendatory of the "liquor law." It is designed to empower and direct the mayor, alderman, selectmen, or grand-juror, sheriff, constable or policeman of any city or town in the State, to seize, without warrant, any liquors kept or supposed to be kept in violation of law, and the person so seizing shall make a complaint to the proper officer who shall immediately summons the owner or keeper before him to show the cause, why the said liquor shall not be forfeited together with the casks or vessels in which it is kept, and in case the liquor is declared forfeited the owner or keeper thereof shall pay the costs of prosecution. Another provision is, that persons selling or furnishing intoxicating drinks shall be liable for the damage sustained in consequence of such sale or furnishing.

During Anna Dickinson's sojourn at Salt Lake City—so the story goes—a crowd gathered to serenade her. A dispute arose as to whether she should be called out as a "Miss" or "Mister," when a compromise was effected by an individual, who shouted; "Bring it out."

The Coliseum was drawn by lottery last Saturday. John Meguire, a fancy dealer of Boston, held the lucky number, (83,451), and he does not propose to sell it to the builders for $15,000, but to job it out to his customers, when he expects to realize $25,000. Besides Mr. Meguire, there were a hundred thousand ticket-holders, more or less, who didn't draw the coliseum.

The great question now is where Fisk Jr. lives. There are plenty of men who swear that his residence and house are in Boston, and just as many swear he belongs to New York. Perhaps so great a man cannot live in one small State.—Fisk alternately supports each side and says moreover that his relations with Mrs. Fisk have been of the pleasant and amiable kind ever since their marriage.

A very good story is told to the effect that at the time of the first issue of greenbacks Mr. Chase consulted, among others, with the president of a Philadelphia bank, as to placing some motto upon the bills, as "In God we trust" has been stamped upon some of the coins. After mentioning several scriptural texts that had occurred to him, the Secretary asked the banker's opinion. "Perhaps," was the reply, "the most appropriate would be: Silver and gold have I none; but such as I have I give thee." The project was not carried further.

National Thanksgiving.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8, 1869.

By the President of the United States.

A PROCLAMATION.

The year which is drawing to a close has been free from pestilence; health has prevailed throughout the land; abundant crops reward the labors of the husbandman; commerce and manufactures have successfully prosecuted their peaceful paths; the mines and forests have yielded liberally; the nation has increased in wealth and strength;—peace has prevailed, and its blessings have advanced every interest of the people in every part of the Union; harmony and fraternal intercourse are obliterating the marks of the past conflict and estrangement; burdens have been lightened and means increased; civil and religious liberty are secured to every inhabitant of the land whose soil is trod by none but freemen. It becomes a people thus favored to make acknowledgment to the Supreme Author, from whom such blessings flow, of their gratitude and their dependence, to return praise and thanksgiving for the same and devoutly to implore a continuance.

Therefore, I, Ulysses S. Grant, President of the United States, do recommend that Thursday, the 18th day of November next, be observed as day of thanksgiving and of praise and of prayer to Almighty God, the Creator and the Ruler of the Universe; and second, I do further recommend to all the people of the United States to assemble on that day in their accustomed places of public worship and to unite in the homage and praise due to the bountiful Father of all mercy, and in fervent prayers for the continuance of the manifold blessing he has vouchsafed to us as a people.

U. S. GRANT.

By the President:
HAMILTON FISH, Secretary of State.

BEL AIR, MD.

Friday, November 5th, 1869.

The "Ægis" has a more extended circulation among the intelligent farmers and business men of Harford than any other paper in the county. No "Lock Hospital" or other obscene or "Lottery" advertisements will appear in our columns at any price. A large number of our subscribers pay for their paper in advance, and consequently are just the class advertisers desire to reach. The attention of respectable and legitimate advertisers is directed to the above facts.

To Correspondents.

All communications for publication must be accompanied with the real name of the author, or no attention will be paid to them. The real name of the author will not be published unless desired, but we cannot consent to insert communications unless we know the writer.

THE ELECTION.

The election passed off quietly throughout this county, on Tuesday last, and a very light poll was made—not much over one-half of the registered vote being cast. The result was not difficult to predict, and was in accordance with previous expectation. We think it much to be regretted that so many voters absented themselves from the polls at this particular election. Although the obvious reason for so doing was the assurance of the result being in favor of the Democratic party, still the moral effect of our full strength being recorded as unmistakably opposed to the revolutionary tendencies of the Republican party, would have been something for us in the future. As it is, the returns received so far indicate the election of an entire Democratic representation in the next Legislature, from every county in the State. This may not be entirely certain in regard to one or two counties, although we think it is, but even granting that we lose those, it will not affect, one way or the other, the status of that body.

From New York the returns indicate that the Democratic State ticket is elected by from 10,000 to 20,000 majority—leaving the Legislature, as it was previously, Republican. The Democratic majority in the city has fallen off somewhat, but is more than compensated for by their gains in other parts of the State. Horace Greely, the Republican candidate for comptroller, runs 7,000 ahead of his ticket in New York city.

Massachusetts, Illinois and Wisconsin have gone Republican, from all indications. In Alabama, the returns from the city of Mobile show a success for the Democrats. West Virginia, with her mixture of "let up" Republicans and proscriptive Republicans, shows a divided vote. New Jersey has gone Democratic. The elections in all these States were held on last Tuesday.

Upon the result in our own State we have every reason to congratulate ourselves; and as much important business will be before our next legislature, it is well that we shall be represented by men of character and integrity throughout the State.

We presume that some of our newly elected county officers will qualify at an early day, and new official faces will shortly be seen among us, although happily in the persons of very old personal friends. We are sure those whose terms are about to expire will bear with them, wherever may be their future walks in life, the best wishes of their fellow citizens for the able and courteous manner in which their respective duties have ever been discharged.

Railroad Meeting.

We remind our readers and the public generally that an adjourned meeting of the friends of the Maryland Central Railroad will be held at the Court House, in Bel Air, on Tuesday next, Nov. 9th. This meeting will go far to show us whether our hopes may be any longer centred in this work, for a communication by railroad with the outer world. We presume that our friends of the Edgewood route will take immediate steps, after this meeting, to see to the prospects for that road, and that the initiatory steps will be taken to convene a meeting in its interest. Let us have a railroad at the earliest practicable time, and see that we do not expend our time and energies in meetings only.

R. Corbin, who married Grant's sister and resides in New York. Mrs. Grant had transferred to that gentleman sometime ago, it appears, $12,000, to be used in a New Jersey land speculation, and from that circumstance Fisk and Gould got the impression that Corbin was the broker of the Grant family, and this fact influenced them in their late operations in Wall street.—Agnes Paschal, aged ninety-five years, the mother of Judge Paschal, and one of the last widow pensioners of the revolutionary war, died recently in Georgia.—An eloquent English clergyman, Rev. Thomas Noble, is said to be only one inch taller than Tom Thumb.—Mr. George Peabody was announced to be seriously ill in London last week, but late accounts report him to be recovering.—A Miss Pet McKay, a beautiful young lady of Quincy, Illinois, deliberately drowned herself in the Mississippi river, at that place, on Thursday last. She left a note stating that she did not commit suicide for shame, or love, or anything of that sort, but because "all her friends were enemies," and that "this is a cold, dreary world to live in."—At the Lynchburg fair grounds, Va., on last week, Col. Wm. O. McCorkle, a prominent merchant, was mortally stabbed by Sam Sumpter.—The Janitor of the building No. 63 Liberty street, New York city, with his wife and two children, were suffocated with the smoke by the burning of the same on Friday last.—In England two scholarship of $250 annual value each, have recently been founded for the benefit of females who wish to study for the medical profession.—It appears that the cause of the fire on board the Stonewall, the steamer burnt on the Mississippi river recently, was the carelessness of some deck hands, who were engaged in playing cards with a lighted candle near some hay.—A fire occurred at the Licking county (Ohio) Infirmary last week, and one of the buildings occupied by the insane was entirely destroyed and ten of the inmates perished in the flames.—Hon. Lot M. Morrell has been appointed by Governor Chamberlain, of Maine, United States Senator, to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of Senator Fessenden.—Belle Boyd, late of Virginia, and well known during the war from her connection with the Confederate secret service, has been sent to the State insane asylum in California.—All the officers of the Cuban ship of war Hornet, tried at Wilmington, North Carolina, for a violation of the neutrality laws, have been discharged, except seven who gave bail in $500 each for their appearance before the United States District Court, which met on Monday last.—Governor Geary's removals and appointments in Pennsylvania are creating a great deal of dissatisfaction among some classes of the Republicans in that State.—Miss Louisa Muhlbach, whose historical novels have been so widely read throughout this country, has abandoned her intention of making a lecturing tour through the United States, and is about to marry a professor of medicine in the Berlin University.—The irrepressible conflict among the New York brokers, seems still to rage, as witness the following: Mr. Orlando W. Joslyn, a New York broker on Broad street, was arrested on Saturday afternoon last, and arraigned before Justice Dowling at the Tombs, on a charge of perjury preferred by J. Fisk, Jr. Joslyn waived an examination and gave bail to answer at the Court of General Sessions. The alleged perjury was the affidavit of Joslyn that his house sold Fisk $435,000 gold, at $1.60, on the memorable 24th September last and which Fisk now denies.—From Spain we learn that the prospects of their again having a king shortly is increasing, as 141 deputies in the Cortes are pledged to vote for the Duke of Genoa for that position.—In the Tennessee legislature, on Monday last, Mr. White offered a preamble reciting a clause in the Constitution of that State which says that no senator or representative shall during the time for which he was elected, be eligible to any office or place of trust, the appointment which is vested in the executive or in the general assembly, &c., and as Henry Cooper, the newly elected U. S. Senator, was a representative from Davidson county, in the Legislature, the same gentleman offered a resolution that his election was illegal and void. Mr. White is understood to be a fast friend of Andrew Johnson, and no doubt the action is taken to attempt to yet secure his election. Nothing has yet been done with the resolution. Andy seems to die hard.—Father Hyacinthe remains in New York, closely watched and besieged by the newspaper reporters, who chronicle such startling events in the history of this great man, as that he arose on Sunday morning, took breakfast, (wonderful!) attended a Catholic Church, and finally went to bed again at ten o'clock at night.—Ex-Governor Wickliffe, of Kentucky, died on Saturday last, at the residence of his son-in-law Judge William M. Merrick, in Howard county, Md. He was formerly a member of Congress and also of the Peace Congress of 1861, and under President Tyler held the position of Post Master General.

Farmers to be Taxed.—There is a rumor to the effect that the present Commissioner of Internal Revenue has decided that for the privilege of selling their own produce, farmers are to be required to pay a license of $10 per annum to the government. We have seen nothing official on the subject, but the above report has attained considerable circulation, and we give it as we heard it.

The New Eclectic For November.—This is, according to our judgment, the best number of this publication we have yet seen, and we have received it since it started. "Tennessee's Partner," from the Overland Monthly, is a story of a new style of writing, several of the same kind having been published in the New Eclectic. They deal with uncouth characters, but there is much of real pathos and humor mingled in these productions and we venture the assertion that when collected and published together, they will become immensely popular. The contents for this month are of varied character and all interesting. Turnbull & Murdoch, Publishers, 54 Lexington St., Baltimore. Price $4 per annum.

Good Health—A Journal of Physical and Mental Culture.—The articles in this Journal are so far adapted to general reading as to be comprehended by every one, and so far founded upon scientific principles as to impart much valuable information at the same time. "First Help in Accidents" has been continued for some time, and chapter 6th is contained in this, the November, number, relating to fractures of bones. Many other kindred subjects are treated of, besides a department of purely literary matter of choice selection. Published by Alexander Moore, No. 21 Franklin St., Boston, at $2 per annum, or three copies for $5.

Sales to Take Place.—All sales of property advertised in The Ægis, or for which handbills may be printed at our office, will hereafter be noticed under the above heading. We call attention to the following:

On Tuesday, Nov. 28th, by Charles W. Banks, farming stock, implements, &c. S. R. Gilbert, auctioneer.

On Monday, Nov. 7th, by Carvil Treadway, a variety of stock, farming implements, household furniture, &c. Isaac C. Pyle, auctioneer.

On Thursday, November 11th, by James Maynes, on the farm of Wm. Rodham, Esq., near Fallston, a variety of personal property. J. S. Richardson, auctioneer.

Premiums Awarded.—Among the premiums awarded at the Maryland Agricultural Fair, which was held at the Pimlico grounds, near Baltimore, last week, we notice the following to citizens of Harford:

For best native Heifer between one and two years old, to Col. R. McHenry, $10; for second best do., to Col. R. McHenry, $5. For five Pigs, to Samuel Sutton, Esq., $15. For second best Mare "Belle Boyd," to E. J. R. Whitaker, Esq., 2d premium of $25. For second best yoke of Oxen to John Hawsland, Esq., 2d premium (amount not stated). For second best assortment of garden vegetables, to S. & J. Parry, $15.

Col. R. McHenry was elected one of the Vice Presidents of the Society for this county.

The York County Tournament.—This tournament was held on the farm of Foulk Jones, Esq., near Peach Bottom, on Wednesday last, and was well attended. We regret that we cannot give full particulars, but have received them too late for this week. The following named gentlemen were the successful knights, in the order named:

John Gladden, Knight of Frost.
Frank B. Macatee, Knight of Hope.
Samuel Whiteford, Knight of Leona, and William McCurdy, Knight of Mount Holly.

The following named ladies were crowned Queen and Maids of Honor:

Miss Annie Morgan, Queen of Love and Beauty.
Miss Glenn, 1st Maid of Honor.
Miss Day, 2d Maid of Honor, and Miss Stoddard, 3d Maid of Honor.

Naval Orders.—We see that orders have issued at Washington, as follows:

Lieutenant Commander William C. Wise, Lieutenants J. S. Newell and J. K. P. Ragsdale, Masters James H. Dayton and Wm. Watts, Ensign H. R. Ingersoll and Surgeon Newton L. Bates to the Miantonomoh.

Lieut. Ragsdale has been sojourning in this neighborhood, since his leave of absence from a three years' cruise on the Pacific, and has many friends here, who will regret to learn of his departure so soon again, on active service.

Circuit Court.—The Circuit Court for Harford county will commence for the November term, on Monday next, 8th inst. Judge Bateman is already here, and it is expected that Judges Grason and Yellott will arrive on the day named. This term is generally one of the most important terms held during the year, for the trial of cases, and as there are large criminal and civil dockets to be disposed of, it may last for several weeks.

All-Hallow Eve.—Last Sunday evening was what is known as All-Hallow Eve, a season but little celebrated now, as Burns sang that it used to be, and generally devoted, in late days, in this vicinity, to playing all manner of tricks and practical jokes. The proper observance of it by the boys of this town was made by their abstaining from the usual number of petty depredations, and much to the credit of the place, but little mischief was done.

Purchase of Land for a Church.—The congregation of Providence (Meth Prot.) church, we learn, have purchased from Moses Price, Esq., a lot of ground, containing one acre and a quarter, on the road leading from Fallston to the Upper Cross Roads, and about half a mile from the latter place, for $250. It is contemplated to erect a neat and substantial house of worship on this lot, to take the place of the one now occupied by the congregation named.

Cold Weather.—The weather in this vicinity last week was severely cold for so early in the season. On several mornings ice was formed over pools of standing water. A day or two since, however, it moderated very considerably and the indications are that we shall have a week or two of the fine weather known as the Indian Summer.

All-Saints' Day.—Last Monday was the festival of All-Saints, and was celebrated by proper religious observances, at Saint Ignatius' (Catholic) Church, near the Hickory, in this county. Rev. P. F. O'Connor, the pastor in charge, officiated on the occasion.

Large Chestnuts.—Mr. Noble J. Mitchell, residing near this place, sent us some fine specimens of chestnuts last week. One dozen of these chestnuts lying in a row, touching each other sideways, measured thirteen and a half inches.

Death of Miss Smith.—This lady, who it will be remembered was brutally outraged, some weeks ago, by a negro named Jim Quinn, near Jarrettsville, in this county, and for which the negro was lynched, we learn died from her injuries in Baltimore last week. She was in the sixty-fourth year of her age.

Sale of Property.—John S. Dallam, real estate agent, of this place, recently sold to James McKee, a dwelling, with storehouse attached, and 20 acres of land, located at Mechanicsville, and belonging to Thomas M. Treadway, for $1,900.

The Next Elections.—The next elections occur on the 30th instant, in Texas and Mississippi, on adopting the new State constitutions and for officers under them. The total registration in Mississippi is 139,237, of whom 50,176 are white and 80,761 colored. There were 76,016 votes cast at the convention election, of which 63,822 were colored and 69,737 were for the convention. In Texas the vote for the convention last year was 54,308, giving 30,-896 majority in its favor; but several counties are not included in the return.

People are seldom tired of the world until the world is tired of them.

Don't expect much from him who is lavish of promises.

A Prince Among Fools in Canada.—The eagerness with which a certain class of people seek after anything in any way pertaining to any celebrated individual has been especially noticeable throughout the whole tour of Prince Arthur in Canada. Where he has stopped to dine, the remnants of wine and water have been eagerly drunk up, and in some cases the glasses themselves have even been taken away. One servant gave satisfaction to a much larger number than could otherwise have had a sip, at one railway eating saloon, by changing the glass and refilling it as often as the credulous maidens drained it. When the prince had turned the sod of the new railway, all the ladies in the vicinity of the new earth rushed for it and triumphantly exhibited small bits of the same wrapped in handkerchiefs. Colonel Elphinstone very considerately wears nice new gloves when he travels, and the prince usually wears a pair of soiled lavenders. The two gentlemen also wear hats exactly alike on all occasions. When they take off their hats and leave their gloves, every one thinks that the best gloves must belong to the prince, and the consequence is that Colonel Elphinstone has lost seven right hand gloves! The prince's pocket-handkerchief was snatched from his hand at London and every effort to recover it proved ineffectual, but about a week afterward it was sent to him through some unknown source. The governor-general, too, is a sufferer at the hands of the relic plunderers. He is accustomed to wear a white kersey hat, and during his trip through Ontario he has lost not less than six.—London (Canada) Journal.

The North-German Lloyd.—The European Mail's correspondent at Bremen writing on October 6, says:—You are no doubt aware that the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company is largely interested in the North-German-Lloyd's line of steamers between Bremen and Baltimore, holding one half of the shares specially issued for the construction of the vessels now running with such success between those two ports. The above mentioned enterprising American Railroad Company has made a fresh proposal to the equally enterprising German Steam Navigation Company, which some people might be disposed to stigmatize as the height of audacity, it being nothing more nor less than to run a new line of steamers between Baltimore and Liverpool on the same terms as the Bremen and Baltimore line, viz., each Company to furnish one half of the capital required, the profit and loss to be for joint account, the steamers to be placed under the German flag, and the management exclusively in the hands of the North German Lloyd. Such a signal manifestation of confidence has created a favorable impression in this city, and it was with a deep feeling of regret that the directors of the North German Lloyd were obliged to decline for the present the tempting offer, not from any fear of the result, or danger from competing with the formidable Cunard and Inman steamers in their own port, but from the necessity of directing all their attention and energy, to the perfect organization of the new line they have undertaken to establish between Bremen and Central America, and which of course requires much forethought and consideration in working out with all its details, so as to have everything arranged for commencing the spirited undertaking with a reasonable chance of success."

Destructive Fire in Baltimore City.—Last evening about seven o'clock one of the extensive buildings, known as the Abbott Rolling Mills, situated near Harris's creek, Canton, accidentally caught fire, and before it was extinguished a large portion of the works were destroyed. The fire caught in what is known as the "hot shed," and, though early discovered, the workmen were unable to stop its progress. The buildings front on Hudson street. The main building was three hundred feet long and ninety feet wide, connecting with another building on the east side but recently erected, 200 feet long and 90 wide. On the west side of the main building there was another building one hundred and fifty feet long and thirty feet wide. All were of heavy frame work, iron braced, and covered with slate. They were especially erected and used for the rolling of railroad iron, and were filled with costly machinery required for that purpose. The cost of the building and machinery was stated to be not less than $300,000—how much the actual loss is, could not be learned last night, nor could the amount of insurance, if any, be ascertained. The loss must be great.—Balt. Sun.

Subsequently, it is ascertained that the loss by the above fire will be about $70,000, upon which there is insurance to the amount of $40,000.

An illiterate man, wishing to enter some animals at an agricultural exhibition, wrote as follows to the secretary: "Also enter me for the best jackass. I am sure of getting the prize."

A Japanese Novel.—The Athenæum says, the Japanese novelist Kiong to Bakin has finished a new novel which he began nearly forty years ago; but then it is in a hundred and six volumes. The romance readers in Japan will have a "nice book" for long evenings of several long winters.

The Virginia State Fair at Richmond was attended yesterday by about 25,000 persons, chiefly farmers from all parts of the State. The display of blooded stock is represented as having been splendid. Over two hundred pure blooded horses were exhibited on the course. A Philadelphia horse took the $600 prize for the fastest trotting.

The Jewish People.

The Hebrew National, of London, says that there are six millions of Jews in the world. It is a remarkable fact that the numbers of this wonderful people have not materially increased or diminished since the time of King Solomon. Persecuted as no other people have ever been, they have maintained their ancient faith, and though for hundreds of years they were liable at any time to be exterminated in almost any kingdom of Europe, and thousands of them were put to death every year, by the most cruel torments, yet they were not very much reduced in number during all those dark ages. Now that their persecutions have been generally stopped in all civilized nations, this fact does not seem to have caused the desendants of Israel to increase much, and not many more of the race adore Elohim in the days of prosperity than in those of adversity.

There is a reason for this difference in the increase of the Jewish people compared with that of all the families of the earth. What is the cause of the strange phenomena we cannot yet tell, but it will be explained to future generations.

In the mean time the House of Israel is a standing miracle—a record before the eyes of this unbelieving nineteenth century of the truths of the prophecies from those of Moses to those of Malachi.

"El Hebrew National, de Londres, dice que hay seis millones de judíos en el mundo. Es un hecho remarcable que los números de esta maravillosa gente no han aumentado o disminuido materialmente desde los tiempos del Rey Salomón. Perseguidos como ninguna otra gente ha sid, ellos han mantenido su antigua fe, y aunque por cientos de años ellos tendían a ser exterminados en cualquier tiempo y en casi cualquier reino de Europa, y miles de ellos eran asesinados cada año, por los más curlese tormentos, incluso [así] ellos no fueron precisamente reducidos en número durante todas aquellas épocas oscuras. Ahora que su persecución ha parado generalmente en todas las naciones civilizadas, este hecho no parece haber causado que los descendientes de Israel aumenten mucho,..."

"Hay una razón por esta diferencia en el crecimiento de la gente judía comparada con las demás familias de la Tierra. Lo que es la causa de este extraño fenómeno no podemos explicar lo aún, pero será explicado en las futuras generaciones."

e temporary absence of the family church, the house of Mrs. Elizabeth
Phillips, No. 818 Washington street, as entered by robbers and two gold atches and other jewelry valued at bout $200 stolen. The entry was ade through the parlor window, the

WILMINGTON & READING RAILROAD.
—The Philadelphia Telegraph says:
Announcement is made that the inter-st coupons of the Wilmington & Readng Railroad Company, due on the 1st proximo, will not be paid. The mortgage is $1,250,000. A prominent broker of this city, who holds a number of the coupons of this road, states that the company offered to pay the interest on the first mortgage, provided the second mortgage coupon holders would withdraw their suit, which is now pending. The coupons of the second mortgage, were defaulted on the 1st of January, 1874.

SPLENDID PIANOS.—Prof. F. Becher is the agent in this city for the sale of Chas. F. Stieff's First Premium Grand and Square Piano Fortes, manufactured at No. 9, North Liberty Street, Baltimore. These instruments are not surpassed for beauty, and finish, and elegance of workmanship, while they excel all others for sweetness and power of tone. Prof. Recher can furnish satisfactory references, as a large number of pianos from this well established and reliable manufacturer have been sold in this city.

LODGERS.—There were 54 lodgers at the City Hall cells, last night, a very large number for this time of the year.
Nearly all of them carried bundles of clothing, and said they were going down to the fishing shores to try to get work. Fish ought to be cheap next week, if there is any virtue in getting fishermen at low wages.

LICENSE IN CECIL COUNTY.—The question of license was decided by the Grand Jury of Cecil county, Md., last week. That body allowed the issuance of license to sell intoxicants to twenty-five houses in the county, which is a considerable reduction from last year.
In Elkton the number was reduced from fourteen to seven.

SALE OF MONEY.—Last evening, at the 108th monthly meeting of Willington Loan Association, $250 at 4 1-10 and 300 at 9¾. All these sales were in the first series. The remaining receipts were devoted to the payment of withdrawing shareholders.

Amusements.

MR. CHARLES FECHTER AT THE GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

Mr. Fechter was not very warmly greeted last evening, the Opera House was scarcely one-third filled. The audience, however, in the main, was composed of our most fashionable and intelligent people.

Mr. Fechter is certainly a great actor, but not of the nature which the American people delight to witness. He is careful and pains-taking and faithful to exactness in all his delineations, but he lacks the impassioned vigor and earnestness which seems necessary to secure the favor of American audiences. Like Toole, he received very little and very lukewarm applause. His supporting company was very good, including Miss Lizzie Price, Miss Kate Hackett and Miss Julia Mannering, W. E. Sheridan, G. W. Howard, Wallace Grant, Jos. Kennedy and E. P. Wilks.

The play itself, "Rockdale, or Love's Penance," was hardly of a character to amuse or interest the audience. It was heavy, almost sombre in its details, peculiar if not objectionable in portions of the plot, and only redeemable in the faithful portrayal of those two great human passions—love and revenge.

On the whole we scarcely think Mr. Fechter leaves a very favorable impression with our people.

MRS. ANN ELIZA YOUNG.

There is nothing second hand about her budget of wrongs and what not. She is acting the part of an escaped dove, spying out dry land for the thousands of poor mortals chained up to the beasts that freight the Mormon ark.—Oakland (Cal.) Tribune.

The sale of reserved seats opens, at Boughman, Thomas & Co.'s Book Store, at 9 o'clock, to-morrow, Thursday morning, April 1st.

HELEN HOUGHTON, AS "JANE EYRE."

At the Grand Opera House, Friday evening, Miss Helen Houghton will appear in the charming drama of "Jane Eyre." Miss Houghton is a charming artiste, and her creation of the "queer little governess" is said to be at once quaint and pleasing.

STRAY WAIFS

Look out for "April fool" to-morrow morning.

Several letters are lying at this office for "C. H. D."

Three drunks comprised this morning's police record.

Shad and herring are becoming and more plentiful.

Cheap rates and good work at the GAZETTE job printing office.

The sale of fine paintings will take place this evening at 816 Market street, (Masonic Temple.)

SPELLING MATCHES have been held frequently in many of our public schools during the last two years. The superintendents is now making arrangements to have them held in all the primary and second grade grammar schools, on Friday afternoons, between 2½ and 3½ o'clock. The names of the pupils who take the honors in these contests will be furnished us by the superintendent, on Saturday, mornings, and we shall take pleasure in publishing them.

PURCHASE OF A SOAP ESTABLISHMENT.—Messrs. J. A. Wilson & Co.—Jourdan A. Wilson and John Splane—have purchased the Carswell soap establishment, on Third street between Spruce and Church, and will hereafter conduct the soap business there. Mr. Wilson for the past six years has been connected with Moore & Co.'s soap works, and his partner was at the same place for a quarter of a century.

THE SCHOOL ELECTION.—W. J. Morrow, the efficient retiring member, will be a candidate for re-election to the School Board from the Fourth Ward. There is not likely to be any opposition to him.

In the Tenth Ward, Joseph C. Taylor is a candidate, the retiring member, Lewis P. Lynch, declining to run again.

SHAD AND HERRING.—Shad and herring are now becoming quite plentiful in our market, the former selling at from 25 to 30 cents each, and the latter at 25 cents per dozen.

The Heart is a Wonderful Pump, the valves of which open and shut seventy or eighty times per minute. If an alcoholic stimulant is added to the blood the pump soon works much faster and this unnatural speed wears out the vital machinery. All the intoxicating nostrums advertised as "tonics," "preservators," "correctives," &c., produce this disastrous effect, and hence all intelligent Christians are thankful that Dr. Walker's Vegetable Vinegar Bitters—an invigorant and alterative without a sting—is everywhere supplanting these proprietary poisons. mh25-4w

MILL BURNED.—The mill of Joseph H. Smith, on the West Branch, in Lower Oxford township, Chester county, Pa., was destroyed by fire on Friday—night. The fire was first discovered by a neighbor, who proceeded hastily to inform Mr. Smith, but the fire had made such progress that nothing could be saved. The loss is heavy. The building was a stone and frame structure, with two run of burrs. It contained a considerable quantity of flour, wheat and other grain, a portion of which was grists and wheat of the neighboring farmers on storage. There was an insurance of $2000 on the building and $900 on the contents, in the Chester County Mutual Co. The origin of the fire is unknown, but a supposition exists that the mill was robbed and the burglar dropped sparks from a candle on retiring.

Railroaders do not Renounce.

THE REPORT CONTRADICTED—AFFAIRS IN THE SCHUYLKILL REGION.

The information received and published here regarding the strike of the mechanics and working men in the employ of the Reading Railroad Company at Schuylkill Haven, as having renounced the association and resumed work on the railroad, is without foundation.

The president of the branch at that place in reply to inquiries made for the facts, telegraphs denying it, and saying that the branch was still firm, and there had been no renunciation.—The men on other portions of the road still refuse to leave their organization and resume work, for which they have been suspended.

Reports from Shamokin state that the miners who have heretofore refused to join the Miners' and Workingmen's benevolent association, now out on a strike for the 1874 basis, have been induced to join and have quietly done so during the last week and been admitted. Many of the miners have been working at that place regardless of any basis, the prices of mining and labor being arranged between the various individuals and operator.

Fears are now entertained that this state of affairs will last long. In Schuylkille there has been no incendiarism or acts of violence to report, yesterday, though an engine was run off the track on Sunday, night and at Mt. Carmel the freight depot was broken open and a quantity of flour stolen. In several tows the store keepers have refused to trust the miners any longer. Reading Eagle.

U. S. COURT.—In the U. S. Circuit Court, yesterday, the bankruptcy case of John McLear & Son was considered, in the hearing of a rule to show cause why the claim of Amelia F. McLear should not be stricken off. Messrs. Bradford and Bates are counsel for the assignee and Mr. Nields for the respondent.

At noon Court adjourned until 10 o'clock this morning, at which time hearing was resumed. The morning session was occupied by the arguments of counsel.

THE PORT DEPOSIT & COLUMBIA R. R. —As soon as spring opens it is proposed to begin the laying of the track of the Columbia & Port Deposit R. R. The company have 100,000 tons of iron at Columbia; enough of iron to lay fifty-six miles of track.

IN THE FLOWER AND SEED BUSINESS Thos. Y. deNormandie, of this city, is now engaged in the flower and seed business. His nursery is on his Riverview farm, near New Castle, and his office at No. 302 Market street, this city.

THE SPELLING BEE.—Rev. John Wilson, President of Wesleyan Female Seminary, will preside over the spelling Bee, and Stansbury J. Wiley, principal of School No. 1, will give out the words to the spellers. The affair will take place at the Grand Opera House, on Friday evening April 16th.

DROWNED IN A WATER TANK.—On last Sunday evening, Miss Tacy Sullivan, a girl about 14 years old, who lives with her parents at Five Points, about one mile from Edge Hill Station North Pennsylvania Railroad, went to draw water from a tank, near the house, and as she did not return for a considerable time her mother went to look for her, and horrified to find that she had fallen into the tank and was drowned.

NEXT ECLIPSE OF THE SUN.—There will be an eclipse of the sun on the 5th of April. But this astronomical event will be of little interest to us of this hemisphere. The only good point of observation will be in Siam, and the Siamese King has invited the astronomers of foreign nations to make themselves quite at home in the land of the white elephant.

THIRD EDITION.

Population of the World,

The latest and best authority gives the population of the globe at 1,350,000,000. In America, 72,800,000; in Europe, 287,000,000; in Asia, 798,000,000; in Africa, 188,000,000; in Australia and Polynesia, 5,300,000. These people speak about 3,000 different languages, and are cut up into 1,000 different religious sects. The adherents of the principal sects, recounting the whole population, are supposed to be nearly thus: Roman Catholics, one hundred and ninety-five million; Protestants, fifty-seven million, one hundred and thirty thousand; Mohammedans, four hundred million; Buddhists, three hundred and forty millions; the six other Oriental churches, six million, five hundred thousand; other Asiatic religions, two hundred and sixty million; Pagans, two hundred million; Jews, six millions.

She Will Hardly Get the Full Amount.

Some time ago the Indianapolis papers published an item to the effect that Mrs. Oliver Perry Rice, of that city, had received from George Pendleton a legal opinion that she was heir to sixty-eight million dollars worth of property in Allegheny county, Pennsylvania. It is possible that there may be some mistake about Mrs. Rice's enormous prospective wealth, for the Pittsburg Post of Wednesday alludes to the inheritance as follows: "We would advise Mr. Pendleton, if he has anything to do with such a case, to come here with Mrs. Oliver Perry Rice and have a talk with our county commissioners. They might make some arrangement to transfer the whole county in part pay for the claim."

Mexican Raiders.

In reply to a telegram from General Augur, inquiring about the Mexican raids in Texas, Colonel Potter, commandant at Brownsville, states that he has no knowledge of these raids except by report. He does not doubt, however, that several ranches have been robbed and burned, that several persons have been killed, and that others have been taken captive by gangs from Mexico. He and General Hatch have sent troops to intercept the raiders.

ALL CLEAR AT PORT DEPOSIT—NO FURTHER DANGER.

PORT DEPOSIT, MD., March 30th.—There is a slight rise in the river here to-night, but the gorge has entirely past away and the river is clear of ice. No further danger is apprehended, as it is confidently believed by those of the most experience that any rise that may come from above cannot at this late season be accompanied by ice, and a water freshet now will do no damage. In addition to being covered with ice several feet deep, the track and bank of the Baltimore Central Railroad Company are found to be badly damaged. The ties are standing on end for the distance of one hundred yards, and the rails broken and twisted. The Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore Company have suspended work on their road for the present, and it will be some time before the two roads connect at the depot again. All trains leave and arrive at the upper and lower ends of town on their regular time.

Artículo publicado en el The morning star and Catholic messenger:

A Jewish paper published in London says that of the six million Jews in the world, a quarter of a million are in the United States. Rabbi Gottheil of New York considers this estimate far too low, he believing that in the city of New York alone 70,000 can be found. And they are to counted by many thousands in all our large cities, including New Orleans San Francisco, Chicago, St. Louis, and Cincinnati. There has been a large immigration of Jews to the United States from the various countries of Europe during the last twenty years; and the prosperity they have here enjoyed has enlarged the current in this direction from year to year.

St. Joseph's Cadet Total Abstinence Society meets this evening. See advertisement.

We are indebted to Misses M. Scallen and F. Malone, of the Centennial Table at the St. Anthony's Fair, Grunewald Hall, for sundry delicious refreshments.

When the Chaplain of the United States Senate said the opening prayer the other day only three Senators were present; Messrs. White, Kernan and Merrimon.

The ladies of Galveston have just given the first festival of the season in aid of St. Patrick's new church. Quite a handsome amount was realized, though no dancing was allowed and no liquor permitted to be sold.

The Queen of Madagascar is a temperance society unto herself. The Government is compelled by the treaty with France to admit intoxicating drinks, the duty being one-tenth part of what is imported, and payable in spirits. The Queen has this tithe publicly emptied into the sea.

To Our Texas Patrons.—Mr. Thos. P. Currey, representing the Southern publishing and advertising house of J. Curtis Waldo, No. 90 Camp street, New Orleans, on the grounds at the seventh Texas State Fair, is duly authorized to receive subscriptions and advertisements for the Star.

To-day at High Mass, 10 o'clock, the Rev. A. McFeeley, O.P., of Louisville, Ky., will preach in the church of St. Vincent de Paul, Third District. Father McFeeley is at present on a visit to his family in this city. The Rev. Father is a native of Louisiana, and is a most eloquent pulpit orator.

Society St. Vincent de Paul.—The General Communion of the members of this Society will take place this morning, at the 7 o'clock Mass, in St. Ann's Church, St. Philip street, between Roman and Prieur streets. The Canal and Claiborne, and the Dumaine street lines of cars pass down near the church. The general meeting will be held in the Morning Star Hall, at 5 o'clock in the evening.

The contest for a handsome silk flag between Division No. 1 and 2 of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, at St. Joseph's Fair, seems, so far, to be in favor of No. 2, but we suppose that during the coming week the friends of No. 1 will make an effort to put that Division in the van. It is but just to suppose that this will be the case, in view of the great interest Father Smith has always taken in the welfare of Division No. 1.

At the Census of 1871, no less than 566,540 persons in England and Wales, and 207,770 in Scotland, returned themselves as born in Ireland, or a total of 774,310 in both countries of Irish birth; while, if we consider the immigration for the previous twenty years, it is entirely below the mark to set down those of Irish blood in Great Britain as considerably over one million.

It is a singular thing that although nine-tenths of the New York musicians are Germans, almost all the principal band-masters are of other nationalities. Grafulla, of the Seventh, is a Spaniard; Downing, of the Ninth, an American; Dodworth, of the Twelfth, an Englishman; Gilmore, of the Twenty-second, an Irishman, and Conterno, of the Twenty-third, an Italian.

Entertainment To-Night.—By referring to our advertising columns, it will be seen that in St. Theresa's Hall, Erato street, between Camp and Magazine streets, this Sunday night, April 30th, 1876, the St. Louis Literary Association, under the auspices of the Fathew Mathew Rifles, will give a dramatic performance, consisting of olio, song and dance sketches, and a couple of farces. Prof. Hammersley has generously consented to exhibit the Indian club exercise. The entertainment, taken as a whole, promises to be a most enjoyable one. We would advise those who can to attend. The admission has been fixed at fifty cents.

The Martha Washington Tea Party was one of those delightfully entertaining events which only an unusual combination of happy circumstances can produce. In itself a masterpiece of spectacular effect, it was presented before the most crowded and brilliant audience that ever assembled in the Opera House. The charity which prompted the design seemed to pervade the whole affair with a spirit of beauty and harmony, which imparted a tone and character to the occasion that we have never seen excelled. The self-sacrificing performers in the court scene and the minuet were applauded to the echo; the picturesque tableau of Washington crossing the Deleware was an unexpected addition to the programme for which the Continental Guards were cordially thanked and encored; the music by the renowned German Military Band was peculiarly well appreciated, their "Cloud Building" pot pourri being a gem in its way, the decoration of the refreshment tables was a work of art, conceived by Siebrieght's tasteful genius and the evident fascination of the audience was, by itself, at once the triumph and adequate reward of the noble efforts put forth by some of our best and loveliest ladies in aid of the most helpless, hapless, and innocent of the community. The pecuniary result was equal to the artistic and social success, and it was never more needed or deserved.

Unavoidable circumstances prevent us from publishing the details of this elegant affair, but we shall probably present in our next issue a record for the "perpetual memory of the thing."

The Pursuit of the Dollar.

The Galaxy for May has an entertaining article under the above caption, in the course of which some pretty sound sentiments are enunciated and some pretty hard raps given. It commences by deploring the admiration for rich men which is so common in America. To be rich is the crown of virtue. The self-made man is biographied and engraved in rampant journalism. The self-made man always turns out to be a rich man. And he made his own money; therefore he made himself. His likeness is struck off by millions in the illustrated papers and sent by mail to be worshipped by American youth, as graven images. The rising generation is expected to look with solemnest veneration, if not with religious worship, on the counterfeit presentment of some pug-nosed tallow chandler whose virtuous bank account is discussed in connection with his engraving. The same story, says our author, is always told, of how he commenced with one dollar and multiplied it successfully—perhaps knavishly, perhaps cruelly, but at any rate successfully;—nothing is said of his honor, his honesty, his charity, his patriotism, his magnanimity, his unselfishness; he is rich, that is all—except that he made his money himself. This is the picture.

The Galaxy man says that this is demoralizing to the young; that it whets their eagerness for money, dwarfs their appreciation of noble ends and sheds a false halo of respectability over the detestable vice of avarice. We say so too. We believe with the Galaxy that the man who has bent all his energies and devoted all the affections of his immortal soul to the acquisition of dollars is a wretch whose depravity should be held up to the inspection of ingenuous youth, as an object, not of reverence, but of detestation.

This worship of wealth, this spirit of money getting, is the essentially American vice, and to it our author traces the astounding financial corruption prevailing in this country. He says:

> In political morality the comparison between ourselves and England and France is not to our advantage. The development of crime, exhibited by Congress and State functionaries during the last few years, would be impossible in the two countries named. The germ would have been eradicated long before it reached the sturdy proportions which it has attained with us, as revealed in Congressional investigations.

But the thieving propensity is by no means confined to office-holders. The Galaxy writer says that he lately sat in a church where he was surrounded by rich gentlemen who had the habit of going through bankruptcy. Every time they had performed that ceremony they had become richer under the names of their wives, until finally they really felt no shame in their specialty of swindling. The Galaxy thinks the parson ought to have reasoned with them to the effect that their proper place was the penitentiary instead of a cushioned front pew in church, but he neglected to do it.

The writer continues:

> The great moral question of its day was the abolition of slavery, and now it is that of preventing our people from becoming thieves. The public mind is so accustomed to theft that if committed even by the highest functionaries of the State, it does not produce a shock corresponding to the proportions of the crime. It is a dark cloud, reaching from the Lakes to the Gulf and from ocean to ocean, blighting in its shadow municipal, State, and Federal governments. No enlightened nation in the world shows the corruption which infests almost every branch of the American Government; its parallel can only be found in the semi-civilization of Mexico.

Riches have built up to themselves in America a caste, an aristocracy. The grand passion, the ruling ambition, of American society being money, the possessors of that desideratum assume airs of superiority and find a social supremacy easily conceded to them by their humbler co-votaries at the shrine of Mammon. Mammon having thus captured the domain of aristocratic distinction, presents it to his worshippers as an additional guerdon for activity in his service, and thus strengthens his empire. Americans love money for itself and they love it for the social rank which it brings.

Avarice is disgusting in itself, but when it assumes aristocratic pretensions it becomes doubly so. Your self-made man looks with immense complacency on himself and sets up his achievements as the standard of fame and merit. If another man has not gotten rich, that's enough; he is nobody. He may have sundry valuable acquirements or native gifts; if he has not coined them into money he is an inferior being. He may be a Shakespeare in dramatic writing, a Burke in oratory, a Byron in poetry, a Raphael in painting, an Angelo in architecture, a Vincent de Paul in charity, a Bayard in chivalrous valor, a Bacon in philosophy, an Augustine in theology, a Francis Xavier in conquering zeal;—for your rich snob he is unworthy of notice, a nonentity.

The Galaxy says that Christianity ought to be the most important agent in counteracting the avidity for riches, but that unfortunately it has fallen into the current and floats along with it. It says:

> Indeed, Christianity seems to have fallen into the general movement, as exhibited in the lives of many of its spiritual representatives who are on the lookout for "higher calls," and playing the ecclesiastical comedy of consulting their Maker with much prayer as to whether they shall stay where they are, or go elsewhere for a better salary. When the Divine will is consulted by these prayerful pastors, it is generally pretty well known what the result will be; namely, to go wherever there is the most money to be had. "Entering on a larger field of usefulness" is their way of putting an advance of salary. * * * It is proverbial in the communities where these pastors live, that they take unto themselves more rich wives in proportion to their number than men who belong to any other profession. * * * It is hard to restrain a smile when a wealthy pastor of this class tells his hearers that in order to follow the Lord one's riches must be given to the poor; in other words, he does not mean what he says.

Again:

> Rich men who are known to give are much beset for money by clergymen, both in the pulpit and out of it, in the name of the Lord, and it is to be feared that the sums thus obtained are often used for purposes which are not sanctioned by Him whose name is invoked for them. * * * * To know that many people in the most populous quarters of the cities are sufferings for the want of food and medical treatment, and in the face of this knowledge to give a handsome sum to a fashionable clergyman to build an ostentatious and costly church, indicates a singular idea of Christian duty.

The writer then alludes in a caustic manner to the enormous salaries paid to some fashionable pastors for very inferior spiritual wares, and to the gallantries practiced by the same gentlemen towards the fairer portion of their flocks. Altogether he is dissatisfied with the reformatory power of Christianity as exhibited in America.

The Christianity of this country was almost exclusively Protestantism during those years when our present national character was forming, and to its influence we attribute the money worshiping developments in that character. Protestantism is essentially worldly. It boasts of its riches, its temporal power, its secular splendor as exemplified in certain great Protestant nations. It goes into transports of exultation over the material wealth of Great Britain, the vast political empire which that nation has established, the apex of worldly greatness to which she has struggled since adopting its principles. These worldly aims and achievements are clearly and constantly pressed as most desirable, as even an unanswerable proof of godliness. How then can such Christianity be expected to counteract the love of riches?

The construction of magnificent temples to God cannot be per se classed among the proofs of ecclesiastical worship of wealth. The Temple of Solomon has never been equalled in splendor, and was the work of inspired zeal. Of course it is all a question of motive; if the promoter of these grand edifices is moved by true zeal for the glory of God, his work is another Temple of Solomon; if by a spirit of vain glory and pride, it is, so far as he can make it, a monument to Mammon.

The writer in the Galaxy, though doubtless a Protestant, does not seem to take an orthodox Protestant view of the godliness of the Dollar. To love thyself as thy neighbor, he says, is above nature, but it is fully within human strength to respect the rights of others, and the probabilities in case of so doing are against getting rich. He evidently does not find wealth to be a presumption of piety, nor poverty a proof of ungodliness.

Neither does money afford, properly speaking, a presumption of happiness. It does not even constitute real wealth. Wealth is of no moment except as a means of enjoyment, and he is, therefore, really the wealthiest who controls the greatest means of enjoyment. A man condemned to live in a desert, though surrounded with gold and diamonds, would not be rich. He who spends his hundred thousand a year, but must work like a slave day and night to make it, is but a slave after all. Such a one has no time to enjoy himself, no time to cultivate his tastes, his powers of enjoyment. Money is but one element of wealth, there are two other elements, the capacity and the leisure to enjoy the uses of the money. If a man has not these, the money is not really his; he is but its keeper. The Italian lazzarone is of en a richer man than the shoddy aristocrat, tortured under the exigences of his new-found state like an Indian in a dandy's full rig.

Philosophically speaking, we ought to learn to reduce the dollar to its proper rank as one of the factors in the sum of temporal enjoyments in this life. The chief of those factors is the culture necessary to enjoy. The material resources are generally amply at command, if people would be satisfied with what God gives them and would devote some of their time to being happy instead of wasting it all in an insane race after money.

Nominating Conventions.

Who takes an interest in the election of delegates to these conventions? This is a question of some moment when we consider that their nominees, on one side or the other, are nearly always elected. As a general thing, the self-constituted candidate, or the nominee of "many voters" has no chance whatever. From time immemorial a certain class of newspapers has been trying to get up what is called a third party, by which they probably intend to be understood as meaning a party, not of measures, but of men, not of politics, but of personal merits. These virtuous newspapers, which always claim to be independent, are so far from being friends to corruption that they cannot be bought, and never sell themselves body and soul to carpet-baggers and lottery gamblers, and, being thus immaculate, they look with horror on the intrigues and trickery of professional politicians on both sides.

Now this third party movement has always hitherto proved to be an utter impossibility. New parties have been formed, but none of them ever existed as a third party. If they obtained a footing at all, it was as the successor of one of the two which had previously existed. The notion of permanently maintaining a third party in a Republic has hitherto proved a delusion and a snare. It is impossible in practice, though it looks well in theory, to get a number of public spirited gentlemen to combine in a body pledged to throw their weight, as a balance of power, in favor of either party which shall nominate the best men.

The fact is that by a still less onerous display of public spirit, these unselfish citizens could effect the same object of respectable nominations by acting within their respective parties. If they are public spirited enough to organize effectively as an independent concern, they ought to be willing to take as much trouble to influence the policy of the party in the principles of which they concur. By even less exertion they could easily control party action in the matter of nominations.

But if good citizens are too busy or too genteel or too lazy to attend primary meetings and to take interest in ward politics; if they leave all that to "rats" and "bummers" and unscrupulous intriguers, whom have they to blame if these same intriguers get the nomination for themselves or their confederates and fill our offices with men of doubtful character? Why should our solid men then, when it is too late, grumble, and perhaps, swear, and assert that one party is as corrupt as the other? Any party will be corrupt when its control is left to the worst elements contained within it.

It is true that the Democratic party in this State has, in many instances, not been advantageously represented in office. It has confided its trusts to many persons not entirely above suspicion and who are said to be nearly as easy of access as carpetbaggers to the advances of moneyed men. But it would be very unjust to think this a fair indication of the party material and of the party capacity. It is the unfortunate result of a very culpable supineness on the part of our most respectable Democratic citizens. They have the power absolutely to shape nominations so as to bring credit instead of disgrace upon their party.

At any rate, this is no time for a third party. Mississippi did not get rid of her carpet-bag masters through a third party. On the contrary, such a party would have divided and destroyed that moral power under the influence of which the colored vote was so largely divorced from the baneful control to which it had been for years wedded. In this State, the same long hoped for and anxiously awaited result can only be securely compassed in the same way. To succeed beyond the danger of contestation, we must gain a large colored vote, and that can be done only by presenting a compact front of white voters unbroken by any carping discontent or untimely experiment.

We do not attribute to our independent press any invidious motives in their deprecations of party loyalty and their open penchant for political novelties, but we do think that they would do better to forego their hobby for the present and urge the "solid men" to zealous party organization, if they really favor the conge of carpetbaggery.

A Double Marriage.—On Thursday last, in the church of St. John the Baptist, Rev. Father Kenny united in the holy bonds of Matrimony Mr. John McNally and Miss Jane Wark, also Mr. Samuel Perrault and Miss Mary Wark, all of this city, except Mr. Perrault, who is an enterprising young merchant of Natchez, Miss. The two brides were sisters. From childhood up they were the joy of a happy household; two of the most thoughtful and devoted of children—active, accomplished and pious. They excelled in the varied arts of housekeeping. Home was indeed made bright, and mother and father made happy by the sweet words, endearing deeds, and exemplary behavior of their affectionate daughters. Models of perfection in the gracefulness of action and propriety of manner becoming Christian women, these young ladies were ever pointed to as persons whose lives were a source of great edification to others of their age and sex, and whose works and ways were most worthy of imitation.

They lived always together, and loved one another with true sisterly devotion. They sang with one voice, they served with one will, they loved with one heart, and God has willed it that they should go forth together at one and the same hour to be married in the one fold, in the one faith, and with the blessings of the priest of the One God.

Tears of a pathetic sorrow were freely mingled on all sides with those of conjugal joy and congratulatory salutations. So strange is the blendings of the sad and the gay in the human soul! Eugenie de Guerin has sweetly said that we can never expect to be wholly happy in this life because it is not Heaven; nor yet entirely unhappy because it is the way to Heaven.

The blessing of the Church followed the young people to their new homes. "May their ways be the ways of pleasantness and all their paths be peace."

> Their years be full many; their coffers well filled;
> Their joys in full measure from love be distilled;
> May health, as a handmaid, deputed for life,
> Attend with her gifts upon husband and wife.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

A Study of Masonry. Translated from the French of Monseigneur Dupanloup, Bishop of Orleans. New York: Sadlier & Co. New Orleans: P. F. Gogarty.

A work prepared by the learned Bishop of Orleans needs no recommendation at our hands, and we have, therefore, only to point at its many claims upon our readers' interest. The scope of the work is to show that Free Masonry is opposed to all Christianity, and works with all the means known to itself, to make its victims lose their faith in God. The author shows from good authority that members of this order openly proclaim that the existence of God is a hypothesis which cannot be verified, and that Free Masonry has no business to affirm such an existence.

He also proves the solidarity of all orders of Masons, viz: those of Italy, Germany, England and other nations, and traces its connection with the communistic movement in France. The information of the Bishop is drawn from the public meetings and speeches and printed works of the French and Belgian masons; and it is wonderful to read their own declarations as evidences against them on the score of religion and respect to authority.

One of their many assertions is that "only fools still dream of God or of the immortality of the soul." And another that "Christianity is repudiated by common sense."

Truly, this little volume will convince its readers that Free Masonry is one of the most active and powerful agents of the Evil One in his warfare against the people of God.

Life of Rev. Mother St Joseph. By L'Abbe Lebeurier. Translated from the French by a Sister of St. Joseph. New York: D. & J. Sadlier & Co. New Orleans: P. F. Gogarty.

This life is almost as charming as that of the Cure d'Ars, because of its simplicity, devotion and entire absence of all abstruse speculations on spiritual subjects.

We can follow the steps of Mother St. Joseph and feel that she lived in our time, was like one of us, in troubles and trials of every kind; but because she knew how to suffer for the love of God, and how to bear humiliations in union with her crucified Saviour, and how to live always in the presence of God, and how to find time to do good to the poor—for these reasons the Church may, some day or other, place her name in the calendar of saints, and then we will wonder why with less troubles and crosses and responsibilities and humiliations for our share, we should fall so far short of this beautiful model of Christian souls.

It is said that the Cure d'Ars replied to a request to say Mass for the repose of her soul, that "she did not need it," and these words are high authority, if there can be any authority in matters where the Church has not spoken. However, it pleased us much to learn that Mother St. Joseph had been known and esteemed by this great servant of God, and we assure our readers that her life cannot fail to edify all Catholics whether belonging to the world or the cloister.

The Speeches and Public Letters of the Liberator. By M. F. Cusack. Dublin: McGlashan & Gill. New Orleans: C. D. Elder.

This work is in two volumes, large octavo, printed in clear type, handsomely bound, and carrying the stamp of Sister Mary Clare's most wonderful genius; but the publishers made a great oversight in omitting a table of contents. This want of an index makes the work imperfect, and this omission is much to be regretted as the work is very popular and in great demand.

No one can know O'Connell in all his greatness except by viewing him in these works of his heart and pen. Here he stands revealed in the threefold glory of statesman, patriot and Christian, and we find him as wonderful in statesmanship as he was ardent in his patriotism and sincere in his faith.

We wish his letter to Parson Daly, May 22d, 1826, could be read by all Christians, as a proof of his clear logical way of dealing with stupid slanders and ignorant misrepresentations. His rapid but almost exhaustive reason for "the hope that is in me," makes this letter very valuable to Catholics, apart from the great interest of the whole work to Irishmen and true lovers of Ireland. We know O'Connell so well as the great Agitator, Liberator and Emancipator that we would derive a new pleasure in learning from these volumes how great also were his zeal and devotion and championship of Holy Mother Church.

Perico the Sad, and other Stories.
Flaminia, and other Stories.
Robert, or the Influence of a Good Mother. New York: Catholic Publication Society. New Orleans: C. D. Elder.

These are beautiful premium volumes, handsomely bound in blue and gold, printed in good type and containing in each volume fifteen to eighteen interesting stories, culled, we believe, from the pages of the Catholic World during the last four or five years.

But while recommending them as premiums, which we do simply because we need something new in that line, we do not wish to detract from their interest as works acceptable to all readers of light literature.

The stories are all good, and a few of them real little gems of taste and genius.

As it is a common thing to hear Catholics regret the want of Catholic literature, we hope these volumes will meet with welcome, and that the Catholic Publication Society will have reason to feel that its very zealous and most creditable labors are not altogether unappreciated by those in whose behalf these volumes have been so carefully prepared.

The American Catholic Quarterly Review. Philadelphia: Hardy & Mahoney. San Francisco: M. Flood. New Orleans: C. D. Elder.

We welcome with sincere pleasure the April number of the American Catholic Quarterly Review, a new acquaintance, but one whose present attractions, joined to its January merits, make us feel already towards it as a dear friend.

The first article on "The Actual Condition of the Church," is by the Rev. A. J. Thebaud, S J., and all who have read his late magnificent work on Gentilism will fully understand the treat provided for them by the Review. We have never read a sketch so comprehensive and so luminous, so simply written and yet so eloquently expressed—a sketch which goes back to the beginning of Christianity—includes the dark ages, and stretches out over the whole of the present days. It holds up the Church before us as the Great Teacher and the Great Judge, and it is impossible for a sincere mind not to realize the benefits conferred upon mankind in all ages by the Church in this her two-fold character.

"Secular Education in England and the United States," an article by T. W. M. Marshall, L.L D., is one to be read again and again, and each time one discovers new beauties of thought, new charms of expression. We know that the very name of Marshall is synonymous with genius, and we recognize the quality of it in the work before us. We cannot refrain from quoting the last thought in this magnificent essay which possesses a melody of diction in keeping with the grandeur of the theme. Referring to the Church as the great Teacher of Nations, he says:

> The Church will plead for the world to the last with her mighty intercession. She is able to save not only her own, but many who as yet know her not. She will save by teaching them. The world may stop its ears, but the great Mother of all elect souls will not cease to speak. The spirit of God is upon her, and speak she must. Even in this age of Pagan Secularism she will continue to teach; and there is joy in the thought that many a poor captive of the world and the sects will listen in spite of himself, and, while she perseveres in teaching, will consent at last to be taught.

Among the contributors to this number we are struck by the preponderance of the names of laymen. Four out of the seven articles in the book are written by laymen, and this is a very significant and agreeable fact. We need a learned and thoughtful laity as well as an erudite clergy. Even piety in our day requires the complement of talent; for every Catholic has to be a theologian in the sense of giving a reason for the faith that is in him, and, as the witty Daniel O'Connell once observed in a letter to a Protestant parson, "There is no theologian so dangerous to religion as a very pious fool."

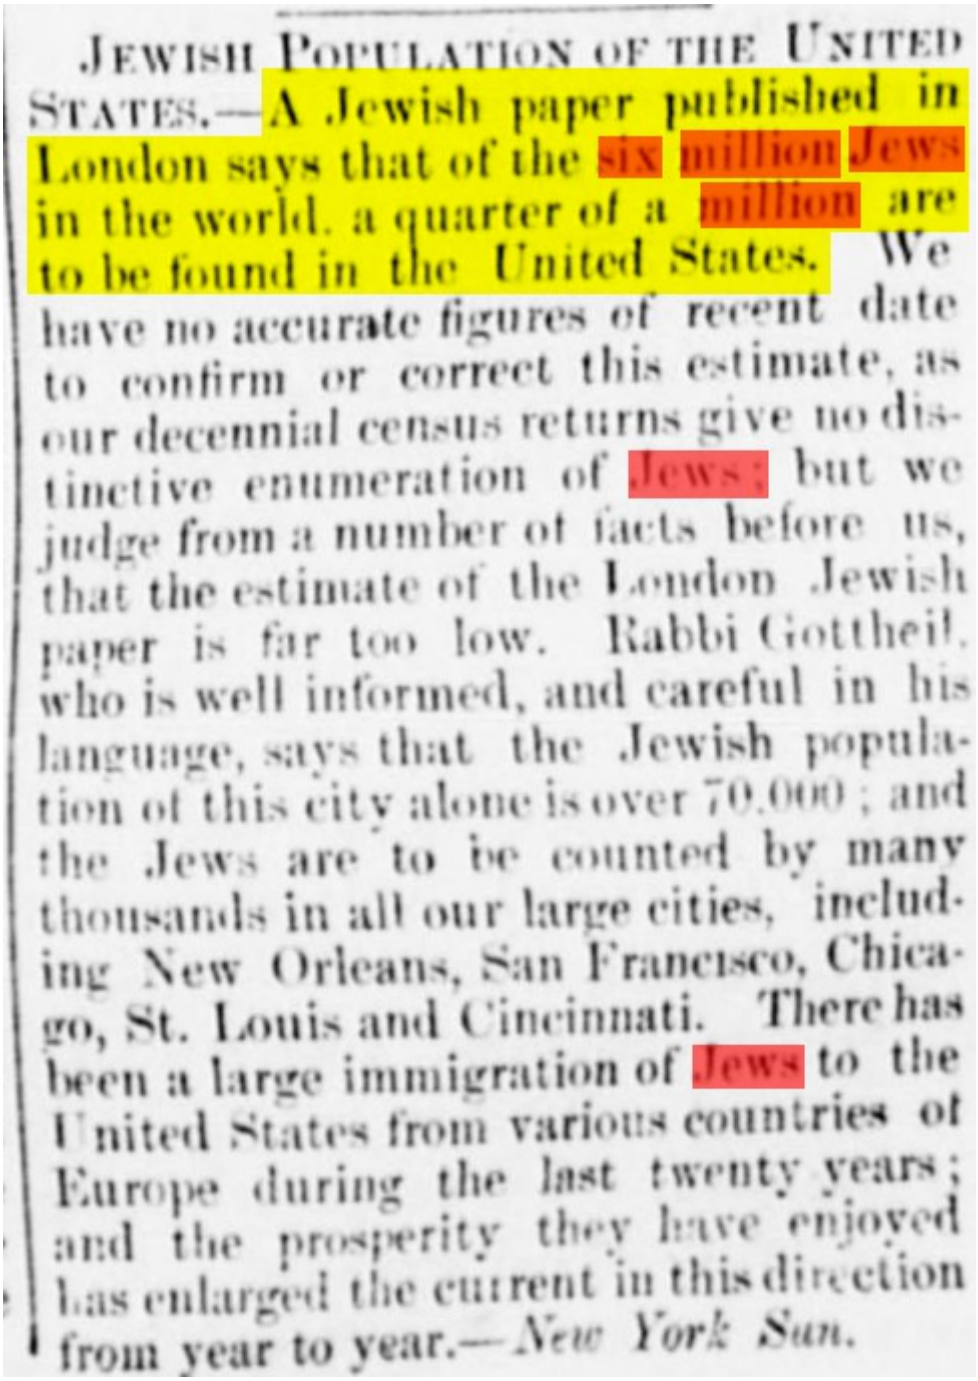
Moreover, articles written by men of the world, of society, of the bar, of the field, are received with less suspicion and distrust by our non-Catholic friends than are those written by priests. But we particularly rejoice because both the lay and clerical elements have joined in this labor of love, and both working harmoniously yet independently, cannot fail to accomplish a great good in our day and among our people.

Gen. Gibbon's "Rambles in the Rocky Mountains" is a delightful paper full of the charm of novelty and of the interest of truth. Few of our readers are aware of the gigantic beauties and varied wonders of our far western land, and to them, as well as all our readers, this article will unfold most interesting information.

We have not time to speak critically of the other papers of the Review, but we can assure our readers that every article is deserving of careful attention, and although while we read we are possessed of a longing to extend its excellent information to our non-Catholic friends, still by instructing ourselves thoroughly even upon subjects with which we are partially acquainted, we will be able, if the opportunity present itself, to instruct others and thus realize Mr. Marshall's hope so beautifully expressed in the article referred to.

The Golden Wreath for the Month of May. "Ave Maria" Press, Notre Dame, Ind. P. F. Gogarty, New Orleans.

This is a neat little book of about 130 pages, consisting of daily considerations on the triple crown of our Blessed Mother's joys, sorrows, and glories, with hymns set to music for May devotions. It was compiled, we presume, either by the Fathers of the Holy Cross at Notre Dame, Ind., or under their direction, though this is not stated, the title page bearing simply the imprint of the "Ave Maria" steam press. From the preface we take the following extracts:



> "To present a new Month of Mary is almost to bring a drop of water to the sea,—and yet, however, much has been written on the subject which is common to all the Months of May, little in reality has been said if compared to what should be said, for it is an abyss: the more is drawn from it, the more evident its inexhaustibility appears, * * * * Our main object is to enlighten the minds and warm the hearts of the clients of Mary; as to the means to obtain our end, we have adopted the simplest and yet the richest we know of, viz, the Rosary, which, by a practice of 31 days, while affording the purest praises of our holy mother may soon become a saving and delightful habit. We therefore invite those who will read our modest little manual to place themselves with us, one and all, at the school of the heavenly teacher—the Archangel Gabriel, to learn from him how to approach our great Queen, how to salute her in his own words: 'Hail! full of grace!' while reciting day after day this sweetest of prayers, in which so many fervent souls the world over will join at the same time, they will daily refresh their minds with the sweet consideration of one of our divine mysteries. Hymns have been composed to suit our object: they have been set to music, comparatively easy, and yet susceptible of great effect if properly executed. At the beginning we have given a beautiful new Litany just received from France."

Negotiations are in progress between the New York fire insurance companies and the executive officers of the State of New Jersey for the transfer of the entire fire insurance capital of New York city to New Jersey. If this arrangement should be consummated, it will throw some $30,000,000 into the tax lists of the New Jersey assessors. Some of the largest life companies have already quietly secured New Jersey charters.

A Jewish paper published in London says that of the six million Jews in the world, a quarter of a million are in the United States. Rabbi Gottheil of New York considers this estimate far too low, he believing that in the city of New York alone 70,000 can be found. And they are to counted by many thousands in all our large cities, including New Orleans, San Francisco, Chicago, St. Louis, and Cincinnati. There has been a large immigration of Jews to the United States from the various countries of Europe during the last twenty years; and the prosperity they have here enjoyed has enlarged the current in this direction from year to year.

JEWISH POPULATION OF THE UNITED STATES.—A Jewish paper published in London says that of the six million Jews in the world, a quarter of a million are to be found in the United States. We have no accurate figures of recent date to confirm or correct this estimate, as our decennial census returns give no distinctive enumeration of Jews; but we judge from a number of facts before us, that the estimate of the London Jewish paper is far too low. Rabbi Gottheil, who is well informed, and careful in his language, says that the Jewish population of this city alone is over 70,000; and the Jews are to be counted by many thousands in all our large cities, including New Orleans, San Francisco, Chicago, St. Louis and Cincinnati. There has been a large immigration of Jews to the United States from various countries of Europe during the last twenty years; and the prosperity they have enjoyed has enlarged the current in this direction from year to year.—New York Sun.

TIMELY TOPICS.

DR. PRIME admits that comparatively a small proportion of clergymen's sons become preachers, but indignantly denies the assertion that "ministers' sons are the worst in the parish." "One prodigal," he says, "from the pastor's own fold makes more talk than ninety-and-nine apostates from the rest of the church."

IT is highly probable that the widow of Alexander T. Stewart will be annoyed and persecuted beyond measure by beggars of various degrees, even now that Judge Hilton is employed to assist her in disbursing it. If she had retained the whole she could not, during her life, give away more than the merest fraction of the interest of her vast fortune. If she knew on whom to bestow it, and occupied all her time in making small donations, she could not give it all away during her lifetime. Supposing her to be worth $50,000,000, and to disburse only the interest, she could get rid of $10,000 a day, or $1,000 every working hour. In other words, she could perpetually give away $16 a minute for ten hours of every working day and never touch the principal! If resolved to transfer to others the entire fortune, it would take her a year if she counted out $3.50 a second.

THE Disraeli minister in Great Britain must be considered a success in its ability to find avenues for the expenditure of money. It does not propose to adopt the "cheese-paring policy" of Gladstone, by means of which expenditures were so curtailed that a reduction in taxation was possible. Disraeli wants upwards of £78,000,000 for the current fiscal year, an amount larger by several million pounds sterling than was expended in any one year when Gladstone was at the helm of state. With the present sources of revenue there would be a deficiency of nearly £800,000, and this the chancellor of the exchequer proposes to make up and have a surplus of £365,000 by an increase of a penny a pound in the income tax. This tax is made a great source of revenue in England whenever an unusual sum of money is needed. A tax of a penny a pound, though only a little over two-fifths of one per cent. will produce, according to the chancellor of the exchequer, about £1,000,000 per annum. This shows what immense wealth is concentrated in the united kingdom in the hands of the men who have incomes subject to taxation.

ACCORDING to a contemporary, a curious case has been decided in the court of justice at Munich. It has always been the custom to deck the two towers of the cathedral with flags upon occasions of public festivity, and until recently this practice had never given rise to any misunderstanding. Since the unification of Germany the Archbishop of Munich has always hoisted the yellow and white flag with the keys of St. Peter upon the towers on saints' days, while upon political holidays the municipality has displayed from the two towers the black, red, and yellow flag, surmounted by the imperial eagle. Upon the last anniversary of the battle of Sedan, these emblems of the new empire "floated proudly in the breeze," but the chapter of the cathedral protested against their exhibition, basing their objections upon statutes which date from the eleventh century. They instituted proceedings against the municipal council, and the trial lasted several days. The judge at last decided that while the body of the cathedral is the exclusive property of the judges, the towers belong to the city, which consequently may deck them as it pleases.

THE San Francisco News Letter describes the newest discovery in natural history, being an insect which has been christened without consulting the scientist—or, as the News Letter calls them, the "bug sharps"—a "man bug." The description is as follows: "The creature has a body of a dark green color, mottled with yellow or orange-colored spots. This is about five inches long by two and a half broad, of a beetle shape, and terminating at the head in a pair of red and very vicious looking eyes and two horny mandibles of a like color and a decidedly snappish appearance. It has no appearance of wings. Its most peculiar feature, however, is a single pair of spidery legs attached to the lower end of its body. These are about twelve or fourteen inches in length and singularly resemble those of a man in regard to the number of joints and the fact that it stands bolt upright on them. The creature stands some foot and a half high, walks with a long, crane-like stride, and is like nothing so much as an immense June bug on stilts. Its only known food is mice, and these, when introduced into the large bird-cage that confines it, it seizes with a sudden dash of its foot or claw and dispatches voraciously." It was found on the island of Iwiwau, some sixty miles south of Steinberger's domain.

MR. BUCKLE states that human nature has changed very little in the last three thousand years, but we do not remember any record of a Roman senator trying to account to his wife for a light deposit of pearl powder on the left shoulder of his toga on the ground that he had been playing chec-

LATEST NEWS.

SOUTH AND WEST.

The Louisville, Paducah and Southwestern railroad, now in a receiver's hands, has been ordered to be sold at a time to be hereafter specified.

A new cotton mill will be built in Columbus, Ga., with six hundred looms and twenty thousand spindles. Its capacity will be six thousand bales per year.

The supreme court of Louisiana has decided the issue of two million five hundred thousand dollars of state bonds to the Mobile and Chattanooga railroad to be invalid and unconstitutional.

Capt. Eads informs the jetty company that the depth of water in South Pass varies from fifteen and a half to twenty-eight feet. The former depth is on the shoals, which will have disappeared by the first of May.

Diaz writes to Antoine, of New Orleans, that he has four thousand men with whom he expects to consummate the revolution begun under his name at Matamoras. He says he will begin at once his advance upon the capital.

The proprietors of the Missouri state lottery have brought suit against the board of police commissioners of St. Louis, asking $100,000 damages for breaking up their business by the late raids upon their offices and seizure of their property.

The Nashville life insurance company and the Odd-Fellows' widows' and orphans' life insurance company have both been suspended by the state insurance commissioner. The available assets of the Nashville life were $289,875; liabilities, according to the act of 1875, $918,760. The company proposes reinsuring the policies. The available assets of the Widow and Orphan Life, $298,000. The liabilities are over $400,006.

The New Orleans Times says the break at Bass levee, in Carroll parish, is a mile wide, and the water is flowing through without making a ripple. The loss there is tremendous, and it is estimated that it will reduce the crop fully two hundred and fifty thousand bales. This levee is the largest protection levee in the state of Louisiana. On the Mississippi side, at Buck ridge, the breaks will devastate Bolivar, Issaquena and Warren counties, and the loss will be equally as large as on the opposite side.

A heated fight is raging in west-bound passenger traffic out of Cincinnati. The contest is carried on by the Ohio and Mississippi and the Indianapolis, Cincinnati and Lafayette and Vandalia lines. The latest reports were that round-trip tickets from Cincinnati to Kansas City were selling at twelve dollars; to Omaha, thirteen dollars and fifty cents. Fully as heavy reductions are also made to many other prominent western points. The opinion prevails that still lower rates will be offered before the war is over.

The Charleston Courier finds that northern manufacturers of fertilizers have made large shipments to southern ports. These have generally passed into the interior, and, in some instances, were offered at unusually low rates. But the greater part of the shipments are believed to be in the hands of agents awaiting buyers. The Courier adds that the planters are poor; that the tendency year by year is to rely more and more on small grain, and to make cotton an incident and not the main object of the year's work, and the conclusion is that they who count on a big cotton crop, because of the shipment of fertilizers this season, will surely be disappointed.

EAST.

Besides the losses from the unparalleled falling off in immigration, New York has lost one-fourth of its import trade in four years, as the subjoined table will show:

| 1872-3 | $325,015,000 |
| 1873-4 | 286,160,000 |
| 1874-5 | 279,467,000 |
| 1875-6 | 240,883,000 |

These lost imports were not diverted to other ports, nearly all the other importing cities in this country showing a proportioned loss.

FOREIGN.

The drought is severe in Cuba, and is ruining the growing corn and other crops. In the Vuelta Abajo region the tobacco crop especially is in a very bad condition, and planters are disheartened.

The three European powers have intimated to the porte that if a massacre should follow the arming of the Mahommedan population a military expedition, composed of Austrian and Russian troops, will certainly be undertaken.

The revolution in Hayti is triumphant. Dominique, late president, has fled. President Ramea, and Larquet, the general in command of the government forces, have been shot. Biron Canal, who was exiled from the country, is now in Port au Prince, and it is presumed that he will take charge of the government.

The Chinese have given up the contest with the Portugese over the possession of the island city of Macao. The dispatch relating to this matter states that the Portugese occupy Macao wrongfully, but three hundred years ago, it seems, the territory was awarded them by China for defending the Chinese coast from Japanese pirates.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The new census of Philadelphia, just taken, shows a population of 817,428.

The direct cable has been repaired and telegraphic communication is restored.

The president has vetoed the bill reducing the salary of president to $25,000 per annum from and after the 4th of March next.

A championship bicycle race of fifty miles, between D. Stanton, English champion, and W. L. McLellan, American champion, took place at New York Monday night, and resulted in a victory for Stanton, who finished the fifty miles in three hours and four minutes.

The baby farming business, as carried on in Montreal, is attracting considerable attention. The board of health had a meeting and discussed the subject. It was shown that out of seven hundred and nineteen babies received at the Gray Nun hospital last year, only eighty-eight survived.

The Washington authorities are advised that Spain is preparing to send a formidable force to Cuba, which will be composed in large part of troops lately under the command of Don Carlos. The expedition will not leave till fall, to avoid the sickly season and be ready for a decisive campaign before spring and yellow jack return. Our Cuban brethren of the republican persuasion may look for hot times next winter.

The treasury department has purchased two months' supply of silver bullion at the low rates which prevailed a few weeks ago, the average price paid having been about three cents per ounce less than the present market rate. This stock, together with the bullion fund, will, it is believed, be sufficient for coinage until the annual statement at the mints, which will be made in June.

The ocean carrying trade of the country was never, according to the New York Shipping List, in a more unsatisfactory condition than at present. The rates of freight in all directions are declared to be unprofitable, and vessels much more frequently come home in debt than with a surplus of freight money, over and above their running expenses. The steamers are faring worse than sailing vessels. It is the same abroad. Even in the more remote countries, where good freights have been the rule, the accounts are very discouraging to shipowners. The commerce of the whole world appears to be in a condition bordering upon paralysis.

Treasurer New will issue a circular immediately, warning the country that the substitution of silver for fractional currency will undoubtably lead counterfeiters to put out spurious notes of the denomination of twenty-five and fifty cents. As a number of these counterfeit plates are still in possession of operators in the stuff, the public should be warned that all the old issue extant of the first four series will come to light, and as but few of the genuine notes are to be found in any one locality, the counterfeiters will the better be able to successfully put out their stuff and flood the country with it.

The supreme court of the United States has at length decided the celebrated Osage land case, the decision being in favor of the settlers against the railroad companies. The question involved the title of 960,000 acres of land in Kansas, and was the largest and perhaps most important land case ever presented for adjudication in this country. There are now on these ceded lands a population of at least fifteen thousand people, possessing schools, churches and various industrial establishments. A decision in favor of the railroad companies would have abrogated the title of these people to their property, which was regularly purchased from the United States.

The February report of the bureau of statistics, just published, shows that during that month our imports were valued at but $38,528,319, while the exports were valued at $60,893,953. Excluding specie and bullion, the imports were $37,746,477 and the exports $51,766,828. Taking the specie value of our exports, the balance of trade in our favor during that month was nearly $12,000,000 in gold, or, including the foreign exports in the account, fully $13,000,000, rejecting the specie and bullion movements altogether. As compared with the corresponding month of 1875, our exports increased nearly fifteen per cent. in value, while the imports diminished more than twenty-five per cent. Manufactured goods have increased more than other articles.

CONGRESSIONAL.

SENATE.

In the senate, on the 17th, there was unusual activity, preparing for the impeachment trial of W. W. Belknap, late secretary of war. After the journal of Thursday's proceedings had been read, various petitions and memorials were presented, but at half past twelve o'clock legislative business was suspended, and the senate proceeded to the consideration of the articles of impeachment. The secretary was ordered to notify the house that the senate was ready to proceed with the trial, and that seats had been provided for the members. At fifteen minutes to one o'clock ex-Secretary Belknap, with his counsel, entered and proceeded to the table provided for them. The managers of the impeachment and members of the house appeared at one o'clock, when the minutes of the session of the senate as a court of impeachment, held on the 5th inst., were read. The return on the writ served upon the ex-secretary having been read, Mr. Carpenter read and had filed a plea denying the jurisdiction of the senate to try Belknap on the articles of impeachment, as he was not an officer of the United States at the time such articles were found and presented to the senate. Mr. Lord, on the part of the managers, asked that time be allowed them until the 19th instant to consider what replication shall be made to the plea of Belknap, and it was so ordered. Mr. Mitchell, from the committee on privileges and elections, to which was referred the question as to the proper amount of compensation to be paid P. B. S. Pinchback, late contestant for a seat from Louisiana, reported a resolution to pay Pinchback the sum equal to the compensation and mileage of a senator from the beginning of the term for which he was a contestant to the termination of the contest by the senate. Ordered printed and to lie on the table. The committee on appropriations reported the house deficiency appropriation bill with amendments, including the following: To pay the expenses of transportation, custody, exhibition and return of United States property to be exhibited at the centennial; $15,000 for the interior department, $18,500 for the war department, $14,000 for the treasury department, $21,000 for the Smithsonian institute, $8,000 for the United States commission of food for fishes, and $25,000 for the Black Hills commission. The unfinished business being the bill for the repavement of Pennsylvania avenue, it was resumed, and pending the discussion the senate went into executive session and soon adjourned.

In the senate, on the 18th, Mr. Sherman reported favorably on the senate bill to amend the laws relating to legal-tenders of silver coin. He gave notice he would call it up Thursday. The bill reported and recommended for passage by the finance committee, in its full text, is as follows: There shall be coined at the mints of the United States a silver coin of the weight of 412 8-10 grains troy of standard silver, the emblems, devices and inscriptions of which shall conform to those prescribed by law for gold and silver coins of the United States, with such modifications thereof as may be necessary to render said dollar distinguishable from the trade dollar, and in the coinage and delivery thereof the same deviations from standard weight and fineness shall be allowed as are prescribed by law for the trade dollar, and said dollar herein authorized shall be a legal-tender at its nominal value for any amount not exceeding twenty dollars in any one payment, except for custom duties and interest on the public debt, and the trade dollar shall not be a legal-tender therefor. The secretary of the treasury is hereby authorized to exchange, for an equal amount of United States notes, which shall be retired and cancelled, and not be again replaced by other notes, and all United States notes redeemed under this act shall be held to be a part of the sinking fund provided for by an existing law, the interest to be computed thereon as in the case of bonds redeemed under the acts relating to the sinking fund. Any owner of silver bullion may deposit the same at the mints, to be taken at its market value, to be ascertained and publicly announced from time to time by the director of the mint, with the approval of the secretary of the treasury, and to be paid for either in silver dollars or gold coin, or United States notes. The bullion for the coinage of said silver dollars may be procured in the mode provided for as to other silver coins by section 326 of the revised statutes of the United States, the gain and wastage to be accounted for as provided in said section. Mr. Morrill called up house bill making appropriations to supply deficiencies in the appropriations for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1876, and for prior years. Various amendments were agreed to, among them the following: For the payment of mileage to the senators who took their seats at the session convened on the 5th of March, 1875, by proclamation of the president, who were not members of the previous congress, $6,336. The amendment of the committee on appropriations, $25,000 to pay compensation and expenses of the Black Hills commission, was agreed to; also the amendment appropriating $73,500 to defray expenses of exhibiting articles belonging to the United States at the centennial. Mr. Paddock submitted an amendment providing that nothing contained in the bill should be construed so as to allow compensation to members of the Black Hills commission who are prohibited from receiving the same by the revised statutes of the United States. Agreed to. After executive session, the senate adjourned.

In the senate, on the 19th, immediately after the journal of yesterday's proceedings was read, the chairman laid before that body the message from the president vetoing the act fixing the salary of the president. Ex-Secretary Belknap and counsel entered at twenty-five minutes after twelve, and legislative business was suspended to resume the impeachment trial. Mr. Lord sent to the secretary's desk and had read the answer adopted by the house of representatives to the plea of Belknap, to the effect that at the time of the commission of the acts charged Belknap was an officer of the United States, and was such officer until after the house, by its proper committee, had completed its investigation into the charges against him, and were preparing for his impeachment, a fact known to him when he resigned. Mr. Carpenter, for the accused, asked for a copy of the replication of the house, and until Monday next to answer. Mr. Edmunds submitted an order that the respondent file his answer to the replication of the house by the 24th instant, and the managers file their rejoinder by the 25th, and that the trial proceed on the 27th instant. Agreed to. Legislative business was then resumed, and the house bill to define the tax on fermented and malt liquors was passed. Before the passage of the above bill, it was amended so that nothing in the act shall have the effect to change the rates of the law respecting the evidence in any prosecution or suit. Mr. Thurman called up the motion entered by him several days ago to reconsider the vote by which the bill in regard to counting votes for president and vice-president was passed. He says he did not think the bill which passed the senate could pass the house of representatives, and the result would be no new law on the subject. Mr. Morton spoke at length as to the necessity of having a new law on this subject, and said that since the bill had passed the senate a circumstance had been discovered which would startle the country when it was made public. It was a case where a vice-president was counting for president, being himself a candidate, and counted a false or void return in his own favor. Mr. Thurman said he had seen it stated that this vice-president, when his attention was called to the fact that the return was false, directed the clerk to count and tear up the paper. That great man never did such a thing. It was no use to conceal the name of that man. It was no less than he whose hand wrote the declaration of independence. It was no less a man than Thomas Jefferson. It would not do now to make such a charge as that against him. The senate went into executive session, and soon adjourned.

In the senate, on the 20th, Mr. Morrill introduced a bill authorizing the secretary of the treasury to allow Mrs. Minnie Sherman-Fitch to receive, free from duty, the wedding present from the khedive of Egypt. Passed. After the expiration of the morning hour, the bill to amend the laws relating to the legal tender of silver coin was taken up, and Senator Bogy moved to amend so as to make the silver dollar, authorized by the bill to be coined, a legal-tender for any amount, and also receivable for customs duties; and providing that the relative value between gold and silver of the lawful standard be fixed at fifteen and a half to sixteen. Senator Booth reported favorably on the bill to amend section 4698 of the revised statutes, so as to allow a pension of thirty-seven dollars a month to soldiers who have lost both an arm and a leg, in lieu of twenty-four dollars a month now allowed. Ordered to be placed on the calendar. After executive session the senate adjourned till Monday.

HOUSE.

In the house, on the 15th, Mr. White offered a resolution instructing the judiciary committee to inquire into that Mr. Smith, journal clerk of the house, offered to prosecute additional bounty claims for a commission. Mr. Douglas reported a bill to amend the charter of the Freedman's bank. Made special order for Saturday next. Mr. Knott reported back senate bill to provide for the administration of oaths in impeachment trials. Passed. Mr. Hurd reported a resolution in the habeas corpus case of Hallet Kilbourne, the recusant witness in the real estate pool investigation, directing the sergeant-at-arms to make a careful return to the writ, setting out the causes of detention of Kilbourne, and retain custody of his body and not to produce it before the judge or court without further order of the house. He intimated that the testimony of Kilbourne might implicate high officials, and that all efforts in the direction of investigation would be thwarted if he were taken out of the power of the house. Mr. Lynde offered, on behalf of the minority, a substitute for the resolution, directing the sergeant-at-arms to make a careful return to the writ of habeas corpus that the prisoner is duly held by authority of the house in proceedings against him for contempt, and to take with him the body of Kilbourne before the court when making such return. Mr. Kasson hoped that the time was long distant when an American citizen whose property or liberty was involved was to find his final court in the house of representatives. Mr. Kelly argued against the resolution offered by Mr. Hurd. He believed that the commitment of Kilbourne was a grave mistake, which no court has made, and which the house would not have made if it had heard Kilbourne through his counsel. Mr. Hoar said this was a question before the house. Was the extent of rights of this house limited by the discretion and by the judgment of a single judge of the supreme court of the District of Columbia? If so, then that court has a right to do the same next week to the senate. Mr. Garfield quoted from May's parliamentary law, to the effect that habeas corpus law in binding on all persons whatever, and that it is therefore competent for judges to have before them persons committed by houses of parliament for contempt. Mr. Hurd stated that he had just been informed by the sergeant-at-arms that he had appeared before the judge this morning, and that a hearing of the case had been postponed until next Tuesday. He therefore gave notice that he would call the previous question Monday at three o'clock. Adjourned.

In the house, on the 17th, the debate on the Kilbourne habeas corpus case was interrupted by the house proceeding in a body to the senate to attend the impeachment trial of the late secretary of war. Returning therefrom, discussion was resumed. Mr. Tucker proposed an amendment to the resolution proposed by the majority of the judiciary committee, directing the sergeant-at-arms to appear by counsel before court and to make a motion to quash or dismiss the writ, or to take such other procedure as he should be advised, to raise the question of legality and propriety of the issue of the writ on the facts stated in petition and by complainant. An acrimonious discussion ensued, and at its close the amendment was tabled—86 to 149. The substitute offered by Mr. Lynde, directing the sergeant-at-arms to make a return to the writ and produce Kilbourne, was adopted—165 to 75. Adjourned.

In the house, on the 18th, the report of the election committee on the Alabama contested election case of Bromberg against Haralson was taken up. The report was unanimous, declaring the sitting member, Haralson, entitled to the seat. The report was agreed to. The house then took up the Floyd contested election case, the resolution of the majority of the committee being that Mr. Walls, the sitting member, is not entitled to the seat, and that Jesse J. Finlay, the contestant, is, the resolution of the minority being to the opposite effect. Several speeches were made, but no vote was taken. Mr. Scales introduced a bill to refund certain direct taxes on land, collected from citizens of the late resurrectionary states. At the evening session speeches favoring the transfer of the Indian bureau to the war department were made by Culberson, Hooker and Banning. Adjourned.

In the house, on the 19th, Mr. Lord reported a replication to the plea of jurisdiction filed on behalf of Belknap. The replication was adopted and ordered communicated to the senate. The sergeant-at-arms reported that he had obeyed the writ of habeas corpus in the Hallet Kilbourne case, and that Kilbourne was ordered by the judge into the custody of the marshal. Mr. Whitehouse introduced a bill for retiring the interest bearing debt of the United States into United States consols bearing four per cent. gold interest and having forty years to run. Referred. Mr. O'Brien introduced a bill to provide for the coinage of centennial coins. Referred. The bill provides for silver dollars and half dollars, one side of the coins to give a corresponding value in the coins of the other principal commercial nations. The house then resumed consideration of the Florida contested election case. After several speeches, the report was adopted—113 to 83. Mr. J. J. Finlay was declared entitled to the seat, and was sworn in, taking the modified oath. The house took up the senate bill to repeal the act making restriction in the distribution of public lands in Alabama, Mississippi, Arkansas and Florida, confining them the provisions of the homestead law. No action was taken on the bill. The proceedings in the evening session were entirely devoid of public interest.

In the house, on the 20th, bills were introduced and referred as follows: To grant to Ohio the unsold and unappropriated public lands in that state; to limit the power of courts to punish for contempt; also, to enlarge the privileges of the writ of habeas corpus. Mr. Singleton, from the committee on appropriations, reported back the senate amendments to the consular and diplomatic appropriation bill, and moved that they be concurred in. Agreed to. Mr. Wells reported back the senate amendments to the deficiency bill, some of which were rejected and some concurred in without being read to the house. The bill to transfer the Indian bureau to the war department was then taken up, and Mr. Cox made a speech against the bill. Mr. Conger opposed the bill in the name of the churches of the country, of all religious denominations, which would look with amazement at this effort to substitute the sword for the bible. Mr. Mills advocated the bill, in the interest of the white men of the frontier. Mr. Hunton moved an amendment allowing officers on the retired list to be employed as Indian agents. Adopted. Mr. Sparks offered an additional section providing for the admission to United States citizenship of any Indian who may prove to the satisfaction of a court nearest to the reservation of his tribe or nation that he is sufficiently intelligent and prudent to conduct his own affairs and interests, and that he has adopted the habits of civilization. Adopted. Without making a final disposition of the bill the house adjourned.

PUBLIC OPINION.—Mr. Disraeli is credited with this reminiscence: I remember that I once asked one of the most sagacious gentlemen who ever sat in this house—Mr. Walter, the father of one of our colleagues now in the house of commons—and who had great knowledge of the press and of public opinion—I asked him, "How do you ascertain what is public opinion?" "Well," he he said, 'the way I ascertain public opinion is this—petitions may be got up and meetings may be got up, or the country may feel a great deal without expressing its opinion either by petitions or by public meetings; but," he said, "there is an infallible test, and that is the post. The way I always know what is the real feeling of the country is the letter-bag." He then had the conduct of one of those powerful journals which it is the fashion now to quote in the house of commons. It was never so when I first entered it. He said: "I receive about one hundred letters a day, perhaps more, when there is anything stirring in the country; and I understand and find out what is public feeling from the post-bag. It is that which tells me what the feeling of the country is, and I know it before petitions or public meetings—they follow it."

NORMAN M'LEOD was once preaching in a district in Ayres, where the reading of a sermon is regarded as the greatest fault of which the minister can be guilty. When the congregation dispersed, an old woman, overflowing with enthusiasm, addressed her neighbor: "Did ye ever hear any thing sae gran'? Wasna that a sermon?" but her expressions of admiration being met by a stolid glance, she shouted, "Speak, woman! wasna that a sermon?" "Oh, ay," replied her friend, sulkily, "but he read it." "Read it," said tho other, with indignant emphasis, "I wadna ha cared if he had whustled it."

FAMILY LIKENESS AND VITALITY.

Their Remarkable Transmission in Certain Royal Families.

In spite of certain alterations, the typical features peculiar to the houses of Guise and Lorraine were transmitted to all their descendants through a long series of generations. The Bourbon countenance, the Condes' aquiline nose, the thick and protruding lower lip bequeathed to the house of Austria by a Polish princess, are well-known instances. We have only to look at a coin of George III. to be reminded of the British royal family. During Addison's short ministry Mrs. Clarke, who solicited his favor, had been requested to bring with her the papers proving that she was Milton's daughter. But as soon as she entered the cabinet Addison said: "Madam, I require no further evidence; your resemblance to your illustrious father is the best of all." The Compte de Pont, who died in 1867, at nearly one hundred told Dr. Froissac that during the restoration he often met in the salons of M. Desmousseaux de Givre, prefect of Arras, a man at whose approach he shuddered as he would at the sight of an apparition, so wonderfully was he like Robespierre. M. de Pont confided his impression to the prefect, who told him, smiling at his prejudice, that the person in question passed for Robespierre's natual son; that, in fact, it was a matter of notoriety.

Next to family likenesses vitality or duration of life is the most important character transmitted by inheritance. The two daughters of Victor Amadeus II., the Duchess of Burgundy and her sister Marie Louise, married to Philip V., both remarkable for their beauty, died at twenty-six. In the Turgot family fifty years was the usual limit of life. The great minister, on the approach of that term, although in good health, remarked to his friends that it was time to put his affairs in order; and he died in fact, at fifty-three. In the house of Romanoff the duration of life is short, independent of the fact that several of its members met with violent deaths. The head of this illustrious race, Michael Federovitch, died at forty-nine; Peter the Great was scarcely fifty-three. The Empress Anne died at forty-seven; the tender-hearted Elizabeth at fifty-one. Of Paul's four sons, Alexander died at forty-two; Nicholas at fifty-nine; and the Grand Duke Michael at fifty-one. In the houses of Saxony and Prussia, on the contrary, examples of longevity are far from rare. Frederick the Great, in spite of his continual wars and his frequent excesses at table, was seventy-four; Frederick William III. was seventy; the Emperor William, in his seventy-ninth year, is still hale and hearty. In all countries of Europe families of octogenarians, nonogenarians, and centenarians may be cited. On April 1, 1726, there died in Paris a saddler of Doulevant, in Champagne, more than one hundred years old. To inspire Louis XIV. with the flattering hope of living as long, he was made, two years previously, to present that monarch with a bouquet on St. Louis' day. His father had lived one hundred and thirteen years, his grandfather one hundred and twelve. Jean Surrington, a farmer in the environs of Berghem, lived to be one hundred and sixty. The day before his death, in complete possession of his mental faculties, he divided his property among his children; the eldest was one hundred and three, and what was still more remarkable, the youngest was only nine. Jean Golembiewski (the oldest man in the French army, if still alive), who accompanied King Stanislas Loczinski into France, belonged to a family of centenarians. His father lived to be one hundred and twenty-one, his grandmother to be one hundred and thirty.

Reorganizing the United States Army.

The committee on military affairs of the United States' house agreed upon a bill to reorganize the army, it being Representative Banning's bill, with some amendments, and ordered it to be reported favorably to the house. It does not reduce the present effective force of the army, but reduces the number of infantry regiments from twenty-five to twenty, and the cavalry from ten to eight, thus reducing the number of infantry officers fifty-five and of cavalry officers fifteen, and increases the size of the companies and regiments. It does away with the regimental organization of the artillery, reducing the field officers of artillery seventeen. It consolidates the quartermaster and commissary departments into one, designated as the department of supplies, making a large reduction of officers. It provides for a board to examine officers and for the discharge of all worthless and inefficient officers, and for an examination of the condition of retired officers. All officers who lose their places under the bill are placed upon a list of supernumeraries, and are permitted to resign with one year's pay for each eight years of service, or remain in service to perform such duty as they may be assigned to.

It provides for the education of non-commissioned officers and soldiers by the commissioned officers, and for the promotion of non-commissioned officers to commissioned officers. It abolishes the office of judge advocate, fixes the pay of first sergeants at $40 per month, makes the headquarters of the general of the army at Washington in time of peace, and provides that he may act as secretary of war in the absence of the secretary or temporary vacancy in the office.

It provides that sutlers and post-traders shall be first elected by a council of the administration, approved by the department commander and the general of the army, and appointed by the secretary of war. It reduces the staff of all general officers, and requires the general of the army to report reforms to Congress annually, and to look to economy in all branches of the army. The bill is approved by the testimony of many of the officers of the army. It is a reduction of about two hundred officers, and proposes reforms which, if adopted, will, a Washington dispatch says, it is claimed, add greatly to the efficiency of the army.

THE art of being happy lies in the power of abstracting happiness from very common things. If we pitch our expectations high, if we are arrogant in our pretensions, if we will not be happy except when our self-love is gratified, our pride stimulated, our vanity fed, or a fierce excitement kindled, then we shall have but little satisfaction out of this life.

Curious Transfers in Stewart's Estate.

The New York Tribune says: While the late merchant prince still lay robed for the grave in his house on Fifth avenue, an inventory of his property was taken, the amount, according to current but perhaps inaccurate report, being found to be something lihe twenty-five millions of dollars. On Good Friday, the day after the funeral, his widow sold the entire property, only excepting the real estate in New York city, to Judge Hilton himself, receiving in payment the million of dollars which the dead man had left the judge for his service "in managing, closing and winding up the partnership business affairs."

This is a rapid succession of important events. The business transactions are of a gigantic magnitude, and, on their face, seem of so extraordinary a nature that it is impossible to accept them as embodying the whole case, or as a possible finality. They are observed by the people of New York with the keen interest of legatees.

For there was given to the public, with the will, and by the authority of the widow and heir, a letter from Mr. Stewart to his wife, renewing his oft repeated declaration of his purpose to provide for various public charities, intimating that he had been engaged in elaborating several plans for the welfare of his fellow-beings, and had already begun some of them, and in the event of his sudden death, should depend upon his widow in carry them out. He added, that their friend Judge Hilton would give any assistance in his power, and referred her to him for details. There was no intimation that Judge Hilton was to bestow these charities. Mr. Stewart's letter informed his wife thas he must depend upon her to carry out the plans he had devised. For the consideration of the million dollars which he gave to Judge Hilton, in order to secure and reward his interest in this matter, the widow has now, under the judge's advice, sold all the property, excepting the New York real estate, to the Judge himself. In other words, the judge seems to have traded his own legacy for the rest of the property.

JEWISH POPULATION OF THE UNITED STATES.—A Jewish paper published in London says that of the six million Jews in the world, a quarter of a million are to be found in the United States. We have no accurate figures of recent date to confirm or correct this estimate, as our decennial census returns give no distinctive enumeration of Jews; but we judge from a number of facts before us, that the estimate of the London Jewish paper is far too low. Rabbi Gottheil, who is well informed, and careful in his language, says that the Jewish population of this city alone is over 70,000; and the Jews are to be counted by many thousands in all our large cities, including New Orleans, San Francisco, Chicago, St. Louis and Cincinnati. There has been a large immigration of Jews to the United States from various countries of Europe during the last twenty years; and the prosperity they have enjoyed has enlarged the current in this direction from year to year.—New York Sun.

TIMELY TOPICS.

DR. PRIME admits that comparatively a small proportion of clergymen's sons become preachers, but indignantly denies the assertion that "ministers' sons are the worst in the parish." "One prodigal," he says, "from the pastor's own fold makes more talk than ninety-and-nine apostates from the rest of the church."

IT is highly probable that the widow of Alexander T. Stewart will be annoyed and persecuted beyond measure by beggars of various degrees, even now that Judge Hilton is employed to assist her in disbursing it. If she had retained the whole she could not, during her life, give away more than the merest fraction of the interest of her vast fortune. If she knew on whom to bestow it, and occupied all her time in making small donations, she could not give it all away during her lifetime. Supposing her to be worth $50,000,000, and to disburse only the interest, she could get rid of $10,000 a day, or $1,000 every working hour. In other words, she could perpetually give away $16 a minute for ten hours of every working day and never touch the principal! If resolved to transfer to others the entire fortune, it would take her a car if she counted out $3.50 a second.

THE Disraeli minister in Great Britain must be considered a success in its ability to find avenues for the expenditure of money. It does not propose to adopt the "cheese-paring policy" of Gladstone, by means of which expenditures were so curtailed that a reduction in taxation was possible. Disraeli wants upwards of £78,000,000 for the current fiscal year, an amount larger by several million pounds sterling than was expended in any one year when Gladstone was at the helm of state. With the present sources of revenue there would be a deficiency of nearly £800,000, and this the chancellor of the exchequer proposes to make up and have a surplus of £365,000 by an increase of a penny a pound in the income tax. This tax is made a great source of revenue in England whenever an unusual sum of money is needed. A tax of a penny a pound, though only a little over two-fifths of one per cent. will produce, according to the chancellor of the exchequer, about £1,000,000 per annum. This shows what immense wealth is concentrated in the united kingdom in the hands of the men who have incomes subject to taxation.

ACCORDING to a contemporary, a curious case has been decided in the court of justice at Munich. It has always been the custom to deck the two towers of the cathedral with flags upon occasions of public festivity, and until recently this practice had never given rise to any misunderstanding. Since the unification of Germany the Archbishop of Munich has always hoisted the yellow and white flag with the keys of St. Peter upon the towers on saints' days, while upon political holidays the municipality has displayed from the two towers the black, red, and yellow flag, surmounted by the imperial eagle. Upon the last anniversary of the battle of Sedan, these emblems of the new empire "floated proudly in the breeze," but the chapter of the cathedral protested against their exhibition, basing their objections upon statutes which date from the eleventh century. They instituted proceedings against the municipal council, and the trial lasted several days. The judge at last decided that while the body of the cathedral is the exclusive property of the judges, the towers belong to the city, which consequently may deck them as it pleases.

THE San Francisco News Letter describes the newest discovery in natural history, being an insect which has been christened without consulting the scientist—or, as the News Letter calls them, the "bug sharps"—a "man bug." The description is as follows: "The creature has a body of a dark green color, mottled with yellow or orange-colored spots. This is about five inches long by two and a half broad, of a beetle shape, and terminating at the head in a pair of red and very vicious looking eyes and two horny mandibles of a like color and a decidedly snappish appearance. It has no appearance of wings. Its most peculiar feature, however, is a single pair of spidery legs attached to the lower end of its body. These are about twelve or fourteen inches in length and singularly resemble those of a man in regard to the number of joints and the fact that it stands bolt upright on them. The creature stands some foot and a half high, walks with a long, crane-like stride, and is like nothing so much as an immense June bug on stilts. Its only known food is mice, and these, when introduced into the large bird-cage that confines it, it seizes with a sudden dash of its foot or claw and dispatches voraciously." It was found on the island of Iwiwau, some sixty miles south of Steinberger's domain.

When the congregation dispersed, an old woman, overflowing with enthusiasm, addressed her neighbor: "Did ye ever hear any thing sae gran'? ### SOUTH AND WEST.

The Louisville, Paducah and Southwestern railroad, now in a receiver's hands, has been ordered to be sold at a time to be hereafter specified.

The supreme court of Louisiana has decided the issue of two million five hundred thousand dollars of state bonds to the Mobile and Chattanooga railroad to be invalid and unconstitutional.

Capt. Eads informs the jetty company that the depth of water in South Pass varies from fifteen and a half to twenty-eight feet. The former depth is on the shoals, which will have disappeared by the first of May.

Diaz writes to Antoine, of New Orleans, that he has four thousand men with whom he expects to consummate the revolution begun under his name at Matamoras. He says he will begin at once his advance upon the capital.

The proprietors of the Missouri state lottery have brought suit against the board of police commissioners of St. Louis, asking $100,000 damages for breaking up their business by the late raids upon their offices and seizure of their property.

The New Orleans Times says the break at Bass levee, in Carroll parish, is a mile wide, and the water is flowing through without making a ripple. The loss there is tremendous, and it is estimated that it will reduce the crop fully two hundred and fifty thousand bales. This levee is the largest protection levee in the state of Louisiana. On the Mississippi side, at Buck ridge, the breaks will devastate Bolivar, Issaquena and Warren counties, and the loss will be equally as large as on the opposite side.

A heated fight is raging in west-bound passenger traffic out of Cincinnati. The contest is carried on by the Ohio and Mississippi and the Indianapolis, Cincinnati and Lafayette and Vandalia lines. The latest reports were that round-trip tickets from Cincinnati to Kansas City were selling at twelve dollars; to Omaha, thirteen dollars and fifty cents. Fully as heavy reductions are also made to many other prominent western points. The opinion prevails that still lower rates will be offered before the war is over.

The Charleston Courier finds that northern manufacturers of fertilizers have made large shipments to southern ports. These have generally passed into the interior, and, in some instances, were offered at unusually low rates. But the greater part of the shipments are believed to be in the hands of agents awaiting buyers. The Courier adds that the planters are poor; that the tendency year by year is to rely more and more on small grain, and to make cotton an incident and not the main object of the year's work, and the conclusion is that they who count on a big cotton crop, because of the shipment of fertilizers this season, will surely be disappointed.

EAST.

Besides the losses from the unparalleled falling off in immigration, New York has lost one-fourth of its import trade in four years, as the subjoined table will show:

| 1872-3 | $325,015,000 |
| 1873-4 | 286,160,000 |
| 1874-5 | 279,467,000 |
| 1875-6 | 240,883,000 |

These lost imports were not diverted to other ports, nearly all the other importing cities in this country showing a proportioned loss.

FOREIGN.

The drought is severe in Cuba, and is ruining the growing corn and other crops. In the Vuelta Abajo region the tobacco crop especially is in a very bad condition, and planters are disheartened.

The three European powers have intimated to the porte that if a massacre should follow the arming of the Mahommedan population a military expedition, composed of Austrian and Russian troops, will certainly be undertaken.

The revolution in Hayti is triumphant. Dominique, late president, has fled. President Ramen, and Larquet, the general in command of the government forces, have been shot. Biron Canal, who was exiled from the country, is now in Port au Prince, and it is presumed that he will take charge of the government.

The Chinese have given up the contest with the Portugese over the possession of the island city of Macao. The dispatch relating to this matter states that the Portugese occupy Macao wrongfully, but three hundred years ago, it seems, the territory was awarded them by China for defending the Chinese coast from Japanese pirates.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The president has vetoed the bill reducing the salary of president to $25,000 per annum from and after the 4th of March next.

A championship bicycle race of fifty miles, between D. Stanton, English champion, and W. L. McLellan, American champion, took place at New York Monday night, and resulted in a victory for Stanton, who finished the fifty miles in three hours and four minutes.

The ocean carrying trade of the country was never, according to the New York Shipping List, in a more unsatisfactory condition than at present. The rates of freight in all directions are declared to be unprofitable, and vessels much more frequently come home in debt than with a surplus of freight money, over and above their running expenses. The steamers are faring worse than sailing vessels. It is the same abroad. Even in the more remote countries, where good freights have been the rule, the accounts are very discouraging to shipowners. The commerce of the whole world appears to be in a condition bordering upon paralysis.

Treasurer New will issue a circular immediately, warning the country that the substitution of silver for fractional currency will undoubtably lead counterfeiters to put out spurious notes of the denomination of twenty-five and fifty cents. As a number of these counterfeit plates are still in possession of operators in the stuff, the public should be warned that all the old issue extant of the first four series will come to light, and as but few of the genuine notes are to be found in any one locality, the counterfeiters will the better be able to successfully put out their stuff and flood the country with it.

The supreme court of the United States has at length decided the celebrated Osage land case, the decision being in favor of the settlers against the railroad companies. The question involved the title of 960,000 acres of land in Kansas, and was the largest and perhaps most important land case ever presented for adjudication in this country. There are now on these ceded lands a population of at least fifteen thousand people, possessing schools, churches and various industrial establishments. A decision in favor of the railroad companies would have abrogated the title of these people to their property, which was regularly purchased from the United States.

The February report of the bureau of statistics, just published, shows that during that month our imports were valued at but $38,528,319, while the exports were valued at $60,893,953. Excluding specie and bullion, the imports were $37,746,477 and the exports $54,766,828. Taking the specie value of our exports, the balance of trade in our favor during that month was nearly $12,000,000 in gold, or, including the foreign exports in the account, fully $13,000,000, rejecting the specie and bullion movements altogether. As compared with the corresponding month of 1875, our exports increased nearly fifteen per cent. in value, while the imports diminished more than twenty-five per cent. Manufactured goods have increased more than other articles.

CONGRESSIONAL.

SENATE.

In the senate, on the 17th, there was unusual activity, preparing for the impeachment trial of W. W. Belknap, late secretary of war. After the journal of Thursday's proceedings had been read, various petitions and memorials were presented, but at half past twelve o'clock legislative business was suspended, and the senate proceeded to the consideration of the articles of impeachment. The secretary was ordered to notify the house that the senate was ready to proceed with the trial, and that seats had been provided for the members. At fifteen minutes to one o'clock ex-Secretary Belknap, with his counsel, entered and proceeded to the table provided for them. The managers of the impeachment and members of the house appeared at one o'clock, when the minutes of the session of the senate as a court of impeachment, held on the 5th inst., were read. The return on the writ served upon the ex-secretary having been read, Mr. Carpenter read and had filed a plea denying the jurisdiction of the senate to try Belknap on the articles of impeachment, as he was not an officer of the United States at the time such articles were found and presented to the senate. Mr. Lord, on the part of the managers, asked that time be allowed them until the 19th instant to consider what replication shall be made to the plea of Belknap, and it was so ordered. Mr. Mitchell, from the committee on privileges and elections, to which was referred the question as to the proper amount of compensation to be paid P. B. S. Pinchback, late contestant for a seat from Louisiana, reported a resolution to pay Pinchback the sum equal to the compensation and mileage of a senator from the beginning of the term for which he was a contestant to the termination of the contest by the senate. Ordered printed and to lie on the table. The committee on appropriations reported the house deficiency appropriation bill with amendments, including the following: To pay the expenses of transportation, custody, exhibition and return of United States property to be exhibited at the centennial; $15,000 for the interior department, $18,500 for the war department, $14,000 for the treasury department, $21,000 for the Smithsonian institute, $8,000 for the United States commission of food for fishes, and $25,000 for the Black Hills commission. The unfinished business being the bill for the repavement of Pennsylvania avenue, it was resumed, and pending the discussion the senate went into executive session and soon adjourned.

In the senate, on the 18th, Mr. Sherman reported favorably on the senate bill to amend the laws relating to legal-tenders of silver coin. He gave notice he would call it up Thursday. The bill reported and recommended for passage by the finance committee, in its full text, is as follows: There shall be coined at the mints of the United States a silver coin of the weight of 412 8-10 grains troy of standard silver, the emblems, devices and inscriptions of which shall conform to those prescribed by law for gold and silver coins of the United States, with such modifications thereof as may be necessary to render said dollar distinguishable from the trade dollar, and in the coinage and delivery thereof of the same deviations from standard weight and fineness shall be allowed as are prescribed by law for the trade dollar, and said dollar herein authorized shall be a legal-tender at its nominal value for any amount not exceeding twenty dollars in any one payment, except for custom duties and interest on the public debt, and the trade dollar shall not be a legal-tender therefor. The secretary of the treasury is hereby authorized to exchange, for an equal amount of United States notes, which shall be retired and cancelled, and not be again replaced by other notes, and all United States notes redeemed under this act shall be held to be a part of the sinking fund provided for by an existing law, the interest to be computed thereon as in the case of bonds redeemed under the acts relating to the sinking fund. Any owner of silver bullion may deposit the same at the mints, to be taken at its market value, to be ascertained and publicly announced from time to time by the director of the mint, with the approval of the secretary of the treasury, and to be paid for either in silver dollars or gold coin, or United States notes. The bullion for the coinage of said silver dollars may be procured in the mode provided for as to other silver coins by section 326 of the revised statutes of the United States, the gain and wastage to be accounted for as provided in said section. Mr. Morrill called up house bill making appropriations to supply deficiencies in the appropriations for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1876, and for prior years. Various amendments were agreed to, among them the following: For the payment of mileage to the senators who took their seats at the session convened on the 5th of March, 1875, by proclamation of the president, who were not members of the previous congress, $6,336. The amendment of the committee on appropriations, $25,000 to pay compensation and expenses of the Black Hills commission, was agreed to; also the amendment appropriating $73,500 to defray expenses of exhibiting articles belonging to the United States at the centennial. Mr. Paddock submitted an amendment providing that nothing contained in the bill should be construed so as to allow compensation to members of the Black Hills commission who are prohibited from receiving the same by the revised statutes of the United States. Agreed to. After executive session, the senate adjourned.

In the senate, on the 19th, immediately after the journal of yesterday's proceedings was read, the chairman laid before that body the message from the president vetoing the act fixing the salary of the president. Ex-Secretary Belknap and counsel entered at twenty-five minutes after twelve, and legislative business was suspended to resume the impeachment trial. Mr. Lord sent to the secretary's desk and had read the answer adopted by the house of representatives to the plea of Belknap, to the effect that at the time of the commission of the acts charged Belknap was an officer of the United States, and was such officer until after the house, by its proper committee, had completed its investigation into the charges against him, and were preparing for his impeachment, a fact known to him when he resigned. Mr. Carpenter, for the accused, asked for a copy of the replication of the house, and until Monday next to answer. Mr. Edmunds submitted an order that the respondent file his answer to the replication of the house by the 24th instant, and the managers file their rejoinder by the 25th, and that the trial proceed on the 27th instant. Agreed to. Legislative business was then resumed, and the house bill to define the tax on fermented and malt liquors was passed. Before the passage of the above bill, it was amended so that nothing in the act shall have the effect to change the rates of the law respecting the evidence in any prosecution or suit. Mr. Thurman called up the motion entered by him several days ago to reconsider the vote by which the bill in regard to counting votes for president and vice-president was passed. He says he did not think the bill which passed the senate could pass the house of representatives, and the result would be no new law on the subject. Mr. Morton spoke at length as to the necessity of having a new law on this subject, and said that since the bill had passed the senate a circumstance had been discovered which would startle the country when it was made public. It was a case where a vice-president was counting for president, being himself a candidate, and counted a false or void return in his own favor. Mr. Thurman said he had seen it stated that this vice-president, when his attention was called to the fact that the return was false, directed the clerk to count and tear up the paper. That great man never did such a thing. It was no use to conceal the name of that man. It was no less than he whose hand wrote the declaration of independence. It was no less a man than Thomas Jefferson. It would not do now to make such a charge as that against him. The senate went into executive session, and soon adjourned.

In the senate, on the 20th, Mr. Morrill introduced a bill authorizing the secretary of the treasury to allow Mrs. Minnie Sherman-Fitch to receive, free from duty, the wedding present from the khedive of Egypt. Passed. After the expiration of the morning hour, the bill to amend the laws relating to the legal tender of silver coin was taken up, and Senator Bogy moved to amend so as to make the silver dollar, authorized by the bill to be coined, a legal-tender for any amount, and also receivable for customs duties; and providing that the relative value between gold and silver of the lawful standard be fixed at fifteen and a half to sixteen. Senator Booth reported favorably on the bill to amend section 4698 of the revised statutes, so as to allow a pension of thirty-seven dollars a month to soldiers who have lost both an arm and a leg, in lieu of twenty-four dollars a month now allowed. Ordered to be placed on the calendar. After executive session the senate adjourned till Monday.

HOUSE.

In the house, on the 17th, the debate on the Kilbourne habeas corpus case was interrupted by the house proceeding in a body to the senate to attend the impeachment trial of the late secretary of war. Returning therefrom, discussion was resumed. Mr. Tucker proposed an amendment to the resolution proposed by the majority of the judiciary committee, directing the sergeant-at-arms to appear by counsel before court and to make a motion to quash or dismiss the writ, or to take such other procedure as he should be advised, to raise the question of legality and propriety of the issue of the writ on the facts stated in petition and by complainant. An acrimonious discussion ensued, and at its close the amendment was tabled—86 to 149. The substitute offered by Mr. Lynde, directing the sergeant-at-arms to make a return to the writ and produce Kilbourne, was adopted—165 to 75. Adjourned.

In the house, on the 18th, the report of the election committee on the Alabama contested election case of Bromberg against Haralson was taken up. The report was unanimous, declaring the sitting member, Haralson, entitled to the seat. The report was agreed to. The house then took up the Floyd contested election case, the resolution of the majority of the committee being that Mr. Walls, the sitting member, is not entitled to the seat, and that Jesse J. Finlay, the contestant, is, the resolution of the minority being to the opposite effect. Several speeches were made, but no vote was taken. Mr. Scales introduced a bill to refund certain direct taxes on land, collected from citizens of the late resurrectionary states. At the evening session speeches favoring the transfer of the Indian bureau to the war department were made by Culberson, Hooker and Banning. Adjourned.

In the house, on the 19th, Mr. Lord reported a replication to the plea of jurisdiction filed on behalf of Belknap. The replication was adopted and ordered communicated to the senate. The sergeant-at-arms reported that he had obeyed the writ of habeas corpus in the Hallet Kilbourne case, and that Kilbourne was ordered by the judge into the custody of the marshal. Mr. Whitehouse introduced a bill for retiring the interest bearing debt of the United States into United States consols bearing four per cent. gold interest and having forty years to run. Referred. Mr. O'Brien introduced a bill to provide for the coinage of centennial coins. Referred. The bill provides for silver dollars and half dollars, one side of the coins to give a corresponding value in the coins of the other principal commercial nations. The house then resumed consideration of the Florida contested election case. After several speeches, the report was adopted—113 to 83. Mr. J. J. Finlay was declared entitled to the seat, and was sworn in, taking the modified oath. The house took up the senate bill to repeal the act making restriction in the distribution of public lands in Alabama, Mississippi, Arkansas and Florida, confining them the provisions of the homestead law. No action was taken on the bill. The proceedings in the evening session were entirely devoid of public interest.

In the house, on the 20th, bills were introduced and referred as follows: To grant to Ohio the unsold and unappropriated public lands in that state; to limit the power of courts to punish for contempt; also, to enlarge the privileges of the writ of habeas corpus. Mr. Singleton, from the committee on appropriations, reported back the senate amendments to the consular and diplomatic appropriation bill, and moved that they be concurred in. Agreed to. Mr. Wells reported back the senate amendments to the deficiency bill, some of which were rejected and some concurred in without being read to the house. The bill to transfer the Indian bureau to the war department was then taken up, and Mr. Cox made a speech against the bill. Mr. Conger opposed the bill in the name of the churches of the country, of all religious denominations, which would look with amazement at this effort to substitute the sword for the bible. Mr. Mills advocated the bill, in the interest of the white men of the frontier. Mr. Hunton moved an amendment allowing officers on the retired list to be employed as Indian agents. Adopted. Mr. Sparks offered an additional section providing for the admission to United States citizenship of any Indian who may prove to the satisfaction of a court nearest to the reservation of his tribe or nation that he is sufficiently intelligent and prudent to conduct his own affairs and interests, and that he has adopted the habits of civilization. Adopted. Without making a final disposition of the bill the house adjourned.

In the house, on the 21st, Mr. Knott introduced a bill to regulate the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus in certain cases. Referred. It provides that the supreme court shall have original and exclusive jurisdiction to issue the writ of habeas corpus in all cases where the party shall be detained or restrained of his liberty by authority or under orders of either house of congress; that whenever it shall appear by petition that the party is detained or restrained of his liberty by authority of either house of congress, before a state or United States judge or court other than the supreme court of the United States, the writ shall be denied if not issued, or dismissed if issued; that if any such state or United States judge or court other than the supreme court award a writ of habeas corpus in such cases, the supreme court may award a writ of prohibition, and that if the supreme court shall not be in session at the time, any judge of such court may take such action with the right of appeal to the supreme court. Mr. Burchard reported a bill concerning corporations engaged in the business of distilling. After a good deal of discussion the bill passed. Consideration of the bill to transfer the Indian bureau to the war department was resumed. The bill then passed—139 to 94. It provides that after the first of July next the secretary of the war department shall exercise the supervising and appelate powers and possess the jurisdiction now exercised and possessed by the secretary of the interior in relation to Indian affairs; that he shall from time to time make details of army officers to administer the affairs of the Indian branch of the war department; that the commanding officers of the geographical departments shall be ex-officio in charge of Indian affairs in their departments, and shall make details of officers, including officers on the retired list, to administer the affairs of the Indian service, and that the inspector general of the army shall discharge the duties of inspector of Indian affairs. The act is not to be construed to authorize an increase in the number, rank, pay or allowances of army officers. All contracts for Indian supplies and transportation are to be made in the same manner and at the same time, when practicable, as those for the army. All religious denominations are to enjoy a free and equal right to erect and maintain churches and school buildings on Indian reservations. Individual Indians who have adopted the habits of civilized life may become citizens of the United States without forfeiting their right to their share of tribal property. Adjourned.

FAMILY LIKENESS AND VITALITY.

Their Remarkable Transmission in Certain Royal Families.

In spite of certain alterations, the typical features peculiar to the houses of Guise and Lorraine were transmitted to all their descendants through a long series of generations. The Bourbon countenance, the Condes' aquiline nose, the thick and protruding lower lip bequeathed to the house of Austria by a Polish princess, are well-known instances. We have only to look at a coin of George III. to be reminded of the British royal family. During Addison's short ministry Mrs. Clarke, who solicited his favor, had been requested to bring with her the papers proving that she was Milton's daughter. But as soon as she entered the cabinet Addison said: "Madam, I require no further evidence; your resemblance to your illustrious father is the best of all." The Compte de Pont, who died in 1867, at nearly one hundred told Dr. Froissac that during the restoration he often met in the salons of M. Desmousseaux de Givre, prefect of Arras, a man at whose approach he shuddered as he would at the sight of an apparition, so wonderfully was he like Robespierre. M. de Pont confided his impression to the prefect, who told him, smiling at his prejudice, that the person in question passed for Robespierre's natural son; that, in fact, it was a matter of notoriety.

Next to family likeness vitality or duration of life is the most important character transmitted by inheritance. The two daughters of Victor Amadeus II., the Duchess of Burgundy and her sister Marie Louise, married to Philip V., both remarkable for their beauty, died at twenty-six. In the Turgot family fifty years was the usual limit of life. The great minister, on the approach of that term, although in good health, remarked to his friends that it was time to put his affairs in order; and he died in fact, at fifty-three. In the house of Romanoff the duration of life is short, independent of the fact that several of its members met with violent deaths. The head of this illustrious race, Michael Federovitch, died at forty-nine; Peter the Great was scarcely fifty-three. The Empress Anne died at forty-seven; the tender-hearted Elizabeth at fifty-one. Of Paul's four sons, Alexander died at forty-two; Nicholas at fifty-nine; and the Grand Duke Michael at fifty-one. In the houses of Saxony and Prussia, on the contrary, examples of longevity are far from rare. Frederick the Great, in spite of his continual wars and his frequent excesses at table, was seventy-four; Frederick William III. was seventy; the Emperor William, in his seventy-ninth year, is still hale and hearty. In all countries of Europe families of octogenarians, nonogenarians, and centenarians may be cited. On April 1, 1726, there died in Paris a saddler of Doulevant, in Champagne, more than one hundred years old. To inspire Louis XIV. with the flattering hope of living as long, he was made, two years previously, to present that monarch with a bouquet on St. Louis' day. His father had lived one hundred and thirteen years, his grandfather one hundred and twelve. Jean Surrington, a farmer in the environs of Berghem, lived to be one hundred and sixty. The day before his death, in complete possession of his mental faculties, he divided his property among his children; the eldest was one hundred and three, and what was still more remarkable, the youngest was only nine. Jean Golembiewski (the oldest man in the French army, if still alive), who accompanied King Stanislas Loczinski into France, belonged to a family of centenarians. His father lived to be one hundred and twenty-one, his grandmother to be one hundred and thirty.

Reorganizing the United States Army.

The committee on military affairs of the United States' house agreed upon a bill to reorganize the army, it being Representative Banning's bill, with some amendments, and ordered it to be reported favorably to the house. It does not reduce the present effective force of the army, but reduces the number of infantry regiments from twenty-five to twenty, and the cavalry from ten to eight, thus reducing the number of infantry officers fifty-five and of cavalry officers fifteen, and increases the size of the companies and regiments. It does away with the regimental organization of the artillery, reducing the field officers of artillery seventeen. It consolidates the quartermaster and commissary departments into one, designated as the department of supplies, making a large reduction of officers. It provides for a board to examine officers and for the discharge of all worthless and inefficient officers, and for an examination of the condition of retired officers. All officers who lose their places under the bill are placed upon a list of supernumeraries, and are permitted to resign with one year's pay for each eight years of service, or remain in service to perform such duty as they may be assigned to.

It provides for the education of non-commissioned officers and soldiers by the commissioned officers, and for the promotion of non commissioned officers to commissioned officers. It abolishes the office of judge advocate, fixes the pay of first sergeants at $40 per month, makes the headquarters of the general of the army at Washington in time of peace, and provides that he may act as secretary of war in the absence of the secretary or temporary vacancy in the office.

It provides that sutlers and post-traders shall be first elected by a council of the administration, approved by the department commander and the general of the army, and appointed by the secretary of war. It reduces the staff of all general officers, and requires the general of the army to report reforms to Congress annually, and to look to economy in all branches of the army. The bill is approved by the testimony of many of the officers of the army. It is a reduction of about two hundred officers, and proposes reforms which, if adopted, will, a Washington dispatch says, it is claimed, add greatly to the efficiency of the army.

LAZINESS travels so slow that poverty soon overtakes him.

AMERICA'S BIG SHOW.

A Model of National Wonders—An Exhibition Postoffice.

For some time past Major J. W. Powell, chief of the second division of the "geological survey of the territories," has been engaged in modeling in clay a relief map which he intends to cast in papier-mache or plaster of Paris for exhibition at the centennial display at Philadelphia. From the negative cast will be made the map which is to go to Philadelphia, and also such other copies of it as may be needed. Major Powell's excellent map brings together for comparison the Grand canyon of the Colorado, the Yosemite valley, and the Niagara gorge. We at the east are used to thinking of Niagara as the superlative of natural wonders, but a glance at this relief map will forever cure one of any such feeling. The entire gorge occupies on it a space 3½ inches in length by 1 inch in breadth. The Yosemite valley occupies 7½ inches in length by 6 inches in breadth, while the Grand canyon of the Colorado occupies a space of 6 square feet. The scale is one-half an inch to the mile. We find therefore that Niagara gorge is 7 miles in length by 2 miles in width; the Yosemite valley is 15 miles in length by 12 miles in breadth; while the Grand canyon of the Colorado is 144 miles each way. Further, the greatest depth of Niagara gorge is 260 feet; the greatest depth of the Yosemite valley is a little more than 4,000 feet, while the depth of the Grand canyon of the Colorado varies from 4,000 feet to more than 6,000 feet. All these points are presented to the eye at a glance. Their relative sizes are matters of immediate observation, and not of abstruse calculation. This instructive map will be one of the curiosities of our great exhibition. Comparative relief maps of this kind should become popular aids in the teaching of topography.

The United States government building and its contents will form an extremely interesting portion of the centennial exposition. It is situated on Belmont avenue, opposite the women's pavilion. At present the postoffice is the most advanced portion of the government building's interior, and is situated in the southeast corner of the edifice. It is intended to show the complete workings of an American postoffice, and practically illustrate them by affording mail conveniences to the centennial public. The office comprises money-order and registration departments, letter-drops, boxes, etc., and the mail will be collected every hour for all parts of the world. These boxes are distributed throughout the entire grounds and other buildings, and are decidedly ornamental. They bear the picture of a letter sealed and the words "Mail collections hourly" in the English, Spanish, French, Italian, German, Russian, and Chinese languages. Boxes will be rented to the general public at the postoffice. Above the space which these occupy is the American shield. Below are eagles' heads upholding a scroll upon which are the words "Centennial branch postoffice," and on either side are designed carrier-doves holding letters in their bills.

The English buildings promise to be among the largest, and in themselves the most interesting, at the exhibition. They compose a group of three buildings, the largest one being intended for the commissioners' offices, while the others are to be used, one as a kitchen, the other for the police force. They are half-timbered structures, their ephemeral character being shown by the filling that is used, which is neither brick nor stone, but simply of laths and plaster. The facade of the large building is occupied by three large gables, which express their construction with all possible frankness, and have that air of picturesqueness which is found in the old half-timbered houses of Chester and other parts of England. The body of the building seems to be all window; for the casements of the rooms and corridors in the two stories are connected, and form an uninterrupted line of windows. The interior is attractively finished, great attention having been paid to the mantelpieces, which are of sculptured hard wood, fireplaces, stairway and furniture. As might be expected, free use has been made of tiles; painted tiles for the fireplace jambs, enameled tiles for the hearths, encaustic tiles for the floors. There are two halls; one a kind of interior porch, the other a larger and more handsomely finished room, having at one end a large black-walnut mantelpiece, and from which the grand stairway ascends to the upper floor. A long corridor opens right and left from this hall, giving access to the various offices of the commissioners. In the upper story there are other offices for the commissioners, and a variety of smaller rooms appropriated to the use of the housekeeper and domestics.

I think the Egyptian is the farthest advanced toward completion of any national display. The entire enclosure is up, finished with the exception of the ornamental paintings. Their goods are all within the inclosure and some of their cases have already been opened. I saw yesterday some specimens of their building stones. The pale cream colored stone peculiar to Egypt is really as fine as marble for building purposes. Each block is beautifully cut and polished and labeled. Their exhibit consists of all the modern arms, many interesting antiquities, papyrus, and carved stones, ancient and modern jewelry, embroideries, inlaid furniture, including two inlaid cabinets the equal of which in point of elegance of design and workmanship does not exist, and specimens of the mineral and agricultural wealth of the country. The silk interest will be fully represented, as well as all other industries.

No country, except it be America, can show such abundance of species of agricultural products as Egypt. No country made so good a display as Egypt in the exposition of Vienna, as regards perfection of classification, methodical and tasteful arrangement and elegance and beauty of all articles. Beautiful palm trees made the entire section resemble some fairy grotto where the delicate gossamer robes heavily embroidered with silver, gold and jewels seemed waiting for the fairy's presence alone. The Arab Bedouin's hut seemed cool and inviting enough to have persuaded more than one fair lady to leave the pomps and vanities of the grande monde and become an Arab chieftain's (fourth or fifth) wife, while the dreamy quiet and extravagant luxury of the miniature palace with its vision of felicity in the shape of an oriental beauty reclining inside on the satin divans was enough to turn the head of any average man.

His excellency, Brugsch Bey, who was the chief commissioner from Egypt for Vienna, holds also the same position here, and so without doubt the exhibition will be as well arranged as it was at Vienna. Brugsch Bey is the most profound Egyptian scholar in the world, and is the only person who has succeeded in deciphering perfectly all the ancient hieroglyphics, and has made the task of others easy in having written a complete hieroglyphic dictionary. Being so profound a scholar in all that pertains to that land whose buried and forgotten greatness so much exceed our wildest fancy, it is impossible for any other nation to be represented by any one who brings so sincere a desire to raise their country to its proper place in the estimation of all the world.

Come Just as You Are.

In one of his recent sermons at the Hippodrome in New York, Mr. Moody said: There are a great many men that want to come, and they say, "Wait until I am a better man, and then I will come." I never knew a man to be saved that came to Christ in that way. You can not cleanse yourselves. Every day and hour that you are staying from Christ you are getting worse instead of better. The very act of you staying away is a sin, and so, instead of trying to get better, and get ready to come, just come as you are and be clothed with the garments of salvation. He will clothe you with His own righteousness. I noticed when our war was going on men used to come to enlist, and the man who came with a fine suit of clothes on, and the hod-carrier in his dirty garments, wou'd both have to take off their clothes and put on the uniform of the government. And so when men go into the Kingdom of God they have to put on the livery of Heaven. You need not dress up for Christ, because He will strip you when you come, and put on you the robes of His righteousness. My friends, you can not stand before God in your own righteousness. Come to God as a poor beggar, and He will have mercy upon you. I heard some years ago of an artist who wanted a model for the prodigal. He went to many institutions and prisons, but could not get a man who suited his ideas of the prodigal. One day, however, while walking down the street, he met a poor, miserable tramp, and he suited the artist's eye, so he asked him if he would be willing to sit for his portrait. The tramp said he would, if he would pay him for it. The artist promised, and set a day and hour for him to come. At the appointed time, while the artist was sitting in his studio, the man came in, but he was so well dressed the artist didn't know him, and told him he had no appointment with him. When the beggar told him the circumstances, the artist said: "What have you been doing?" "Why," says the man, "I thought if I was going to sit for my portrait I would get a new suit of clothes." "Ah," said the artist, "you won't do; I wanted you just as you were." So, when you go to Christ go as you are, with all your rags, your filth and your sin, and He will receive you. I don't care how bad you are. He came for that purpose, and there is not a man or a woman in this hall to-day that is so bad that Christ would not have you if you will only come.

PUBLIC OPINION.—Mr. Disraeli is credited with this reminiscence: I remember that I once asked one of the most sagacious gentlemen who ever sat in this house—Mr. Walter, the father of one of our colleagues now in the house of commons—and who had great knowledge of the press and of public opinion—I asked him, "How do you ascertain what is public opinion?" "Well," he said, "the way I ascertain public opinion is this—petitions may be got up and meetings may be got up, or the country may feel a great deal without expressing its opinion either by petitions or by public meetings; but," he said, "there is an infallible test, and that is the post. The way I always know what is the real feeling of the country is the letter-bag." He then had the conduct of one of those powerful journals which it is the fashion now to quote in the house of commons. It was never so when I first entered it. He said: "I receive about one hundred letters a day, perhaps more, when there is anything stirring in the country; and I understand and find out what is public feeling from the post-bag. It is that which tells me what the feeling of the country is and I know it before petitions or public meetings—they follow it."

Paying Out the Silver.

The exchange of silver coin for fractional currency has fairly begun at the several assistant treasuries and government depositories, but the amount of silver paid out is small in comparison with what it will be about the first of next week, when orders from remote or so-called country banks are received. As fractional currency is received in exchange for silver, the paper money will be destroyed, but it is the purpose of the department to hold for reissue in case of future necessity such fractional currency as may be presented by banks and other parties for redemption in greenbacks, of which there is now on hand about $150,000. The director of the mint has ordered the mints to do extra work in order to coin silver as fast as possible. About two million dollars per month can be coined by the mints when worked to their full capacity. Should the bill pass now under consideration in the senate, which provides a new silver dollar, to be legal tender, except for customs duties and interest on the public debt, to the extent of twenty dollars, and with which greenbacks may be redeemed, dollar for dollar, it will make necessary the establishment of an additional mint.

THE editor of a heathen paper in Bengal says, in an article which will pass for a sort of review of the Scriptures: "It a person studies the English language with a view to gain wisdom, there is not a book more worthy of being read than the Bible."

A MAN may beat down the bitter fruit from an evil tree until he is weary; whilst the root abides in strength and vigor, the beating down of the present fruit will not hinder it from bringing forth more. This is the folly of some men. They set themselves with all earnestness and diligence against the appearing eruptions of lust, but, leaving the principle and root untouched, perhaps unsearched out, they make but little or no progress in this work of mortification.

Curious Transfers in Stewart's Estate.

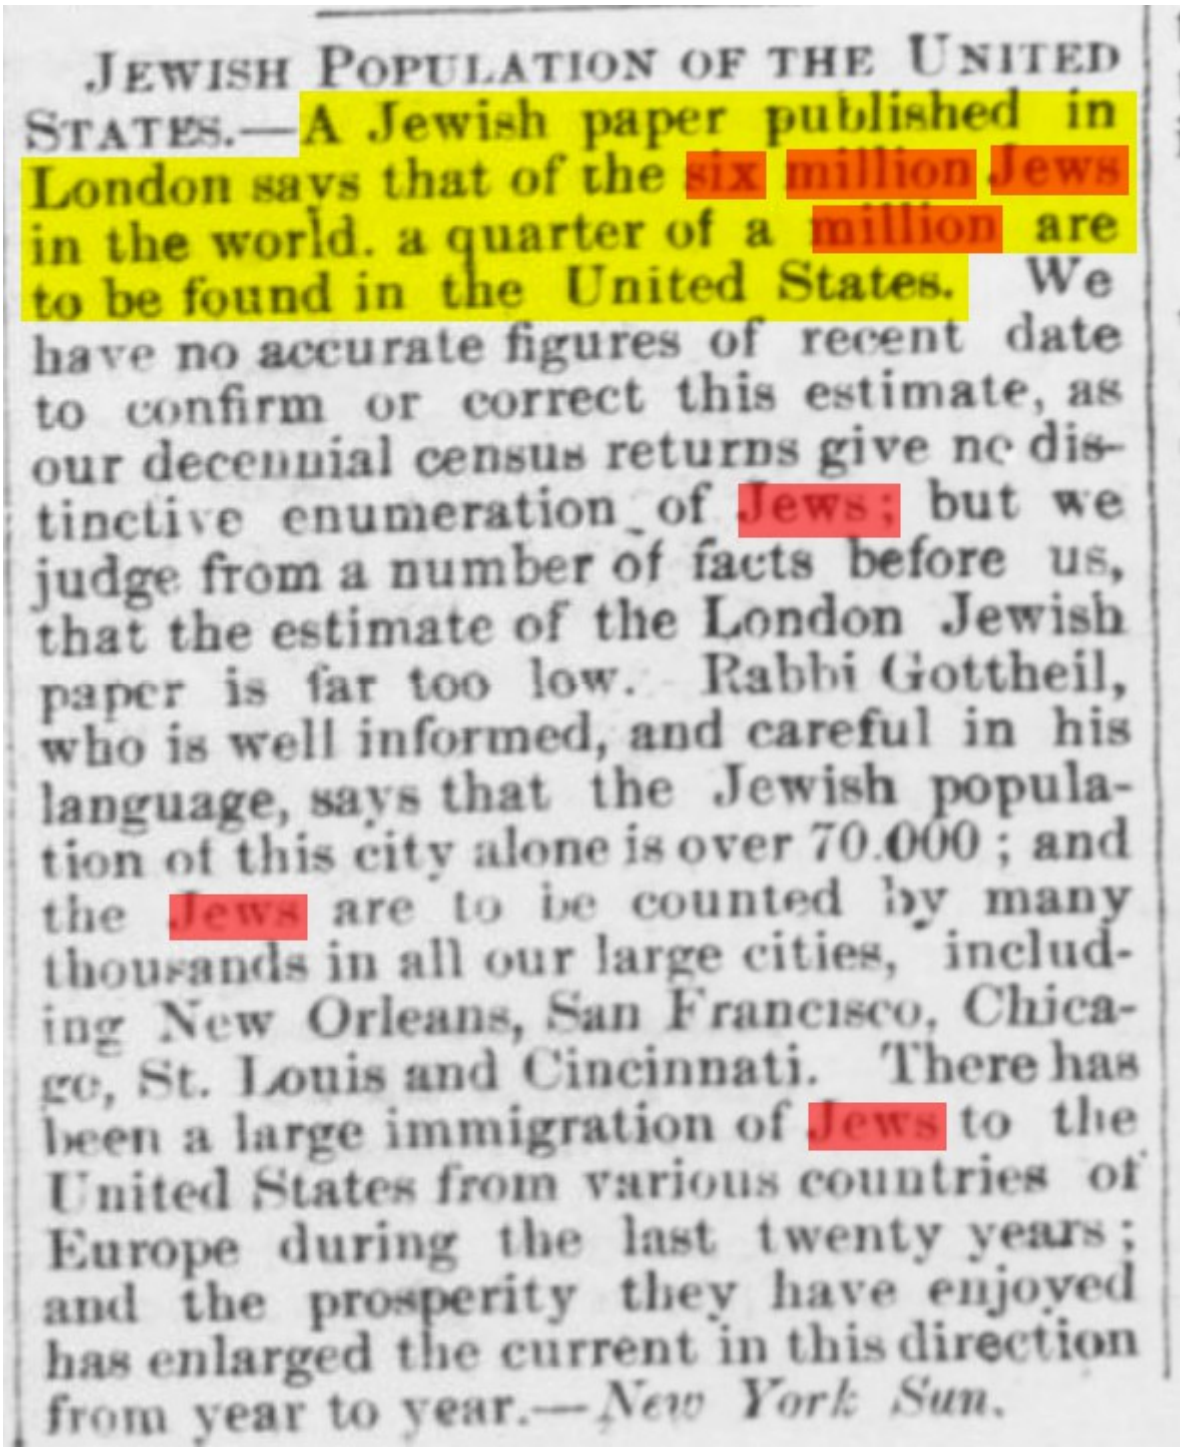
The New York Tribune says: While the late merchant prince still lay robed for the grave in his house on Fifth avenue, an inventory of his property was taken, the amount, according to current but perhaps inaccurate report, being found to be something like twenty-five millions of dollars. On Good Friday, the day after the funeral, his widow sold the entire property, only excepting the real estate in New York city, to Judge Hilton himself, receiving in payment the million of dollars which the dead man had left the judge for his service "in managing, closing and winding up the partnership business affairs."



This is a rapid succession of important events. The business transactions are of a gigantic magnitude, and, on their face, seem of so extraordinary a nature that it is impossible to accept them as embodying the whole case, or as a possible finality. They are observed by the people of New York with the keen interest of legatees.

For there was given to the public, with the will, and by the authority of the widow and heir, a letter from Mr. Stewart to his wife, renewing his oft repeated declaration of his purpose to provide for various public charities, intimating that he had been engaged in elaborating several plans for the welfare of his fellow-beings, and had already begun some of them, and in the event of his sudden death, should depend upon his widow in carry them out. He added, that their friend Judge Hilton would give any assistance in his power, and referred her to him for details. There was no intimation that Judge Hilton was to bestow these charities. Mr. Stewart's letter informed his wife that he must depend upon her to carry out the plans he had devised. For the consideration of the million dollars which he gave to Judge Hilton, in order to secure and reward his interest in this matter, the widow has now, under the judge's advice, sold all the property, excepting the New York real estate, to the Judge himself. In other words, the judge seems to have traded his own legacy for the rest of the property.

JEWISH POPULATION OF THE UNITED STATES.—A Jewish paper published in London says that of the six million Jews in the world, a quarter of a million are to be found in the United States. We have no accurate figures of recent date to confirm or correct this estimate, as our decennial census returns give no distinctive enumeration of Jews; but we judge from a number of facts before us, that the estimate of the London Jewish paper is far too low. Rabbi Gottheil, who is well informed, and careful in his language, says that the Jewish population of this city alone is over 70,000; and the Jews are to be counted by many thousands in all our large cities, including New Orleans, San Francisco, Chicago, St. Louis and Cincinnati. There has been a large immigration of Jews to the United States from various countries of Europe during the last twenty years; and the prosperity they have enjoyed has enlarged the current in this direction from year to year.—New York Sun.

STEINBERGER'S DISASTROUS FALL.—The fall of Steinberger ought to be a warning to future adventurers who may dream of usurping a cannibal throne. They must understand that leanness is the indispensable condition of safety. It is generally known that not a single missionary has been eaten since Banting published his famous instructions how to become thin. Had Steinberger grasped the meaning of this fact, and kept himself down to the missionary standard of weight, he would not have tempted the Samoan appetite, and he might still be a de facto monarch. Eternal emaciation is the price of power among the cannibals, and the fate of Steinberger, who slowly fattened to his fall, shows that the tenderest feelings of the human stomach can not be safely outraged and defied.

TIMELY TOPICS.

DR. PRIME admits that comparatively a small proportion of clergymen's sons become preachers, but indignantly denies the assertion that "ministers' sons are the worst in the parish." "One prodigal," he says, "from the pastor's own fold makes more talk than ninety-and-nine apostates from the rest of the church."

THE forests of Europe are estimated as being 500,000,000 acres in extent. In North America 1,460,000,000 acres are covered with trees, of which area 700,000,000 are in British North America. In South America forests occupy 700,000,000 acres. The proportion of forest land to the whole area of Europe is computed at twenty per cent.; in America, twenty-one. Supposing, therefore, twenty per cent. to be the proportion in Asia, Africa and Australia, the grand total of the forests of the world cover a space of 7,734,000 geographical miles.

AN English judge has decided that a woman can keep her wedding ring and wear it when she pleases, but she cannot give it away without his consent. It is the one ring that all women want to have a finger in once in their lives, but which not a few are glad to get their finger out of. It does pinch awfully sometimes, but it has been remarked that most women who get their finger out of one are never quite easy till they get it into another. And Herbert Spencer says the gold ring now worn as an ornament on the finger is the sign of the iron ring that was worn about the neck or ankle, and indicates the subjection of the wearer. A very beautiful reminiscence it must be to one of the strong-minded.

IT is highly probable that the widow of Alexander T. Stewart will be annoyed and persecuted beyond measure by beggars of various degrees, even now that Judge Hilton is employed to assist her in disbursing it. If she had retained the whole, she could not, during her life, give away more than the merest fraction of the interest of her vast fortune. If she knew on whom to bestow it, and occupied all her time in making small donations, she could not give it all away during her lifetime. Supposing her to be worth $50,000,000, and to disburse only the interest, she could get rid of $10,000 a day, or $1,000 every working hour. In other words, she could perpetually give away $16 a minute for ten hours of every working day and never touch the principal! If resolved to transfer to others the entire fortune, it would take her a year if she counted out $3.50 a second.

THE Disraeli ministry in Great Britain must be considered a success in its ability to find avenues for the expenditure of money. It does not propose to adopt the "cheese-paring policy" of Gladstone, by means of which expenditures were so curtailed that a reduction in taxation was possible. Disraeli wants upwards of £78,000,000 for the current fiscal year, an amount larger by several million pounds sterling than was expended in any one year when Gladstone was at the helm of state. With the present sources of revenue there would be a deficiency of nearly £800,000, and this the chancellor of the exchequer proposes to make up and have a surplus of £365,000 by an increase of a penny a pound in the income tax. This tax is made a great source of revenue in England whenever an unusual sum of money is needed. A tax of a penny a pound, though only a little over two-fifths of one per cent. will produce, according to the chancellor of the exchequer, about £1,000,000 per annum. This shows what immense wealth is concentrated in the united kingdom in the hands of the men who have incomes subject to taxation.

ACCORDING to a contemporary, a curious case has been decided in the court of justice at Munich. It has always been the custom to deck the two towers of the cathedral with flags upon occasions of public festivity, and until recently this practice had never given rise to any misunderstanding. Since the unification of Germany the Archbishop of Munich has always hoisted the yellow and white flag with the keys of St. Peter upon the towers on saints' days, while upon political holidays the municipality has displayed from the two towers the black, red, and yellow flag, surmounted by the imperial eagle. Upon the last anniversary of the battle of Sedan, these emblems of the new empire "floated proudly in the breeze," but the chapter of the cathedral protested against their exhibition, basing their objections upon statutes which date from the eleventh century. They instituted proceedings against the municipal council, and the trial lasted several days. The judge at last decided that while the body of the cathedral is the exclusive property of the judges, the towers belong to the city, which consequently may deck them as it pleases.

THE San Francisco News Letter describes the newest discovery in natural history, being an insect which has been christened without consulting the scientist—or, as the News Letter calls them, the "bug sharps"—a "man bug." The description is as follows: "The creature has a body of a dark green color, mottled with yellow or orange-colored spots. This is about five inches long by two and a half broad, of a beetle shape, and terminating at the head in a pair of red and very vicious looking eyes and two horny mandibles of a like color and a decidedly snappish appearance. It has no appearance of wings. Its most peculiar feature, however, is a single pair of spidery legs attached to the lower end of its body. These are about twelve or fourteen inches in length and singularly resemble those of a man in regard to the number of joints and the fact that it stands bolt upright on them. The creature stands some foot and a half high, walks with a long, crane-like stride, and is like nothing so much as an immense June bug on stilts. Its only known food is mice, and these, when introduced into the large bird-cage that confines it, it seizes with a sudden dash of its foot or claw and dispatches voraciously." It was found on the island of Iwiwau, some sixty miles south of Steinberger's domain.

A SAD PICTURE.—A lady who has been paying the milkman seven cents per quart all winter ventured to remark the other day that now, as grass had started, he could afford to sell it at six. "Grass!" he exclaimed, as he gave her a terrified look, "grass started! You ought to see the cow I turned out to graze last week! She walked five hundred times around a fifty acre lot after one mouthful of grass, and when she got that it was full of nails, old bottles and clothes-pins. She has been under the doctor's care ever since, and if I lose her I'll have to put up the price to ten cents!" The lady is not an agriculturist, and she couldn't say anything more.

SOUTH AND WEST.

The Louisville, Paducah and Southwestern railroad, now in a receiver's hands, has been ordered to be sold at a time to be hereafter specified.

Gen. Sabert Oglesby, who had command of the division of Andrew Jackson's army nearest the river in the battle of New Orleans, is still living in Texas. He was one hundred years old in February.

An English agent representing a capital of fifteen million dollars is in Charlotte, N. C., considering the expediency of establishing a smelting furnace for the treatment of sulphurets and refractory ores.

Diaz writes to Antoine, of New Orleans, that he has four thousand men with whom he expects to consummate the revolution begun under his name at Matamoras. He says he will begin at once his advance upon the capital.

The proprietors of the Missouri state lottery have brought suit against the board of police commissioners of St. Louis, asking $100,000 damages for breaking up their business by the late raids upon their offices and seizure of their property.

Gov. Coke, in his annual message to the Texas legislature, in referring to the Mexican raids, says there is no hope of any better condition of affairs as long as the Rio Grande remains the limit to which the thieves can be pursued. He favors pursuit on Mexican soil.

The New Orleans Times says the break at Bass levee, in Carroll parish, is a mile wide, and the water is flowing through without making a ripple. The loss there is tremendous, and it is estimated that it will reduce the crop fully two hundred and fifty thousand bales. This levee is the largest protection levee in the state of Louisiana. On the Mississippi side, at Buck ridge, the breaks will devastate Bolivar, Issaquena and Warren counties, and the loss will be equally as large as on the opposite side.

A heated fight is raging in west-bound passenger traffic out of Cincinnati. The contest is carried on by the Ohio and Mississippi and the Indianapolis, Cincinnati and Lafayette and Vandalia lines. The latest reports were that round-trip tickets from Cincinnati to Kansas City were selling at twelve dollars; to Omaha, thirteen dollars and fifty cents. Fully as heavy reductions are also made to many other prominent western points. The opinion prevails that still lower rates will be offered before the war is over.

The Charleston Courier finds that northern manufacturers of fertilizers have made large shipments to southern ports. These have generally passed into the interior, and, in some instances, were offered at unusually low rates. But the greater part of the shipments are believed to be in the hands of agents awaiting buyers. The Courier adds that the planters are poor; that the tendency year by year is to rely more and more on small grain, and to make cotton an incident and not the main object of the year's work, and the conclusion is that they who count on a big cotton crop, because of the shipment of fertilizers this season, will surely be disappointed.

EAST.

Farm laborers in Vermont are engaging themselves at fifteen dollars per month and board, where last year twenty-five dollars was paid.

Besides the losses from the unparalleled falling off in immigration, New York has lost one-fourth of its import trade in four years, as the subjoined table will show:

| 1872-3 | $325,015,000 |
| 1873-4 | 286,160,000 |
| 1874-5 | 279,467,000 |
| 1875-6 | 240,883,000 |

These lost imports were not diverted to other ports, nearly all the other importing cities in this country showing a proportioned loss.

FOREIGN.

The drought is severe in Cuba, and is ruining the growing corn and other crops. In the Vuelta Abajo region the tobacco crop especially is in a very bad condition, and planters are disheartened.

The three European powers have intimated to the porte that if a massacre should follow the arming of the Mahommedan population a military expedition, composed of Austrian and Russian troops, will certainly be undertaken.

The revolution in Hayti is triumphant. Dominique, late president, has fled. President Ramez, and Lacquet, the general in command of the government forces, have been shot. Biron Canal, who was exiled from the country, is now in Port au Prince, and it is presumed that he will take charge of the government.

The Chinese have given up the contest with the Portuguese over the possession of the island city of Macao. The dispatch relating to this matter states that the Portuguese occupy Macao wrongfully, but three hundred years ago, it seems, the territory was awarded them by China for defending the Chinese coast from Japanese pirates.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The president has vetoed the bill reducing the salary of president to $25,000 per annum from and after the 4th of March next.

The postoffice appropriation has been agreed upon. The amount, thirty-three million dollars; about three million five hundred thousand dollars less than last year.

A championship bicycle race of fifty miles, between D. Stanton, English champion, and W. L. McLellan, American champion, took place at New York Monday night, and resulted in a victory for Stanton, who finished the fifty miles in three hours and four minutes.

At the beginning of the next fiscal year a large reduction will be made in the clerical force of the United States treasury department, which will render necessary the discharge of several hundred of the present employes. The amount of this reduction will depend upon the action which congress finally takes on the appropriation bill now pending in the house.

The ocean carrying trade of the country was never, according to the New York Shipping List, in a more unsatisfactory condition than at present. The rates of freight in all directions are declared to be unprofitable, and vessels much more frequently come home in debt than with a surplus of freight money, over and above their running expenses. The steamers are faring worse than sailing vessels. It is the same abroad. Even in the more remote countries, where good freights have been the rule, the accounts are very discouraging to shipowners. The commerce of the whole world appears to be in a condition bordering upon paralysis.

The February report of the bureau of statistics, just published, shows that during that month our imports were valued at but $38,528,319, while the exports were valued at $60,893,953. Excluding specie and bullion, the imports were $37,746,477 and the exports $54,766,828. Taking the specie value of our exports, the balance of trade in our favor during that month was nearly $12,000,000 in gold, or, including the foreign exports in the account, fully $13,000,000, rejecting the specie and bullion movements altogether. As compared with the corresponding month of 1875, our exports increased nearly fifteen per cent. in value, while the imports diminished more than twenty-five per cent. Manufactured goods have increased more than other articles.

CONGRESSIONAL.

SENATE.

In the senate, on the 18th, Mr. Sherman reported favorably on the senate bill to amend the laws relating to legal-tenders of silver coin. He gave notice he would call it up Thursday. The bill reported and recommended for passage by the finance committee, in its full text, is as follows: There shall be coined at the mints of the United States a silver coin of the weight of 412 8-10 grains troy of standard silver, the emblems, devices and inscriptions of which shall conform to those prescribed by law for gold and silver coins of the United States, with such modifications thereof as may be necessary to render said dollar distinguishable from the trade dollar, and in the coinage and delivery thereof the same deviations from standard weight and fineness shall be allowed as are prescribed by law for the trade dollar, and said dollar herein authorized shall be a legal-tender at its nominal value for any amount not exceeding twenty dollars in any one payment, except for custom duties and interest on the public debt, and the trade dollar shall not be a legal-tender therefor. The secretary of the treasury is hereby authorized to exchange, for an equal amount of United States notes, which shall be retired and cancelled, and not be again replaced by other notes, and all United States notes redeemed under this act shall be held to be a part of the sinking fund provided for by an existing law, the interest to be computed thereon as in the case of bonds redeemed under the acts relating to the sinking fund. Any owner of silver bullion may deposit the same at the mints, to be taken at its market value, to be ascertained and publicly announced from time to time by the director of the mint, with the approval of the secretary of the treasury, and to be paid for either in silver dollars or gold coin, or United States notes. The bullion for the coinage of said silver dollars may be procured in the mode provided for as to other silver coins by section 326 of the revised statutes of the United States, the gain and wastage to be accounted for as provided in said section. Mr. Morrill called up house bill making appropriations to supply deficiencies in the appropriations for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1876, and for prior years. Various amendments were agreed to, among them the following: For the payment of mileage to the senators who took their seats at the session convened on the 5th of March, 1875, by proclamation of the president, who were not members of the previous congress, $6,536. The amendment of the committee on appropriations, $25,000 to pay compensation and expenses of the Black Hills commission, was agreed to; also the amendment appropriating $72,[illegible] to defray expenses of exhibiting articles belonging to the United States at the centennial. Mr. Paddock submitted an amendment providing that nothing contained in the bill should be construed so as to allow compensation to members of the Black Hills commission who are prohibited from receiving the same by the revised statutes of the United States. Agreed to. After executive session, the senate adjourned.

In the senate, on the 19th, immediately after the journal of yesterday's proceedings was read, the chairman laid before that body the message from the president vetoing the act fixing the salary of the president. Ex-Secretary Belknap and counsel entered at twenty-five minutes after twelve, and legislative business was suspended to resume the impeachment trial. Mr. Lord sent to the secretary's desk and had read the answer adopted by the house of representatives to the plea of Belknap, to the effect that at the time of the commission of the acts charged Belknap was an officer of the United States, and was such officer until after the house, by its proper committee, had completed its investigation into the charges against him, and were preparing for his impeachment, a fact known to him when he resigned. Mr. Carpenter, for the accused, asked for a copy of the replication of the house, and until Monday next to answer. Mr. Edmunds submitted an order that the respondent file his answer to the replication of the house by the 24th instant, and the managers file their rejoinder by the 25th, and that the trial proceed on the 27th instant. Agreed to. Legislative business was then resumed, and the house bill to define the tax on fermented and malt liquors was passed. Before the passage of the above bill, it was amended so that nothing in the act shall have the effect to change the rates of the law respecting the evidence in any prosecution or suit. Mr. Thurman called up the motion entered by him several days ago to reconsider the vote by which the bill in regard to counting votes for president and vice-president was passed. He says he did not think the bill which passed the senate could pass the house of representatives, and the result would be no new law on the subject. Mr. Morton spoke at length as to the necessity of having a new law on this subject, and said that since the bill had passed the senate a circumstance had been discovered which would startle the country when it was made public. It was a case where a vice-president was counting for president, being himself a candidate, and counted a false or void return in his own favor. Mr. Thurman said he had seen it stated that this vice-president, when his attention was called to the fact that the return was false, directed the clerk to count, and tear up the paper. That great man never did such a thing. It was no use to conceal the name of that man. It was no less than he whose hand wrote the declaration of independence. It was no less a man than Thomas Jefferson. It would not do now to make such a charge as that against him. The senate went into executive session, and soon adjourned.

In the senate, on the 20th, Mr. Morrill introduced a bill authorizing the secretary of the treasury to allow Mrs. Minnie Sherman-Fitch to receive, free from duty, the wedding present from the khedive of Egypt. Passed. After the expiration of the morning hour, the bill to amend the laws relating to the legal tender of silver coin was taken up, and Senator Bogy moved to amend so as to make the silver dollar, authorized by the bill to be coined, a legal-tender for any amount, and also receivable for customs duties; and providing that the relative value between gold and silver of the lawful standard be fixed at fifteen and a half to sixteen. Senator Booth reported favorably on the bill to amend section 4698 of the revised statutes, so as to allow a pension of thirty-seven dollars a month to soldiers who have lost both an arm and a leg, in lieu of twenty-four dollars a month now allowed. Ordered to be placed on the calendar. After executive session the senate adjourned till Monday.

In the senate, on the 24th, the bill to abolish the office of supervisor of internal revenue was discussed until the expiration of the morning hour, when the consideration of the bill to amend the laws relating to legal-tender of silver coin was resumed, and Mr. Jones, of Nevada, took the floor. He made a very long argument in favor of the double standard of gold and silver money, and when about half through his speech the senate adjourned.

HOUSE.

In the house, on the 18th, the report of the election committee on the Alabama contested election case of Bromberg against Haralson was taken up. The report was unanimous, declaring the sitting member, Haralson, entitled to the seat. The report was agreed to. The house then took up the Floyd contested election case, the resolution of the majority of the committee being that Mr. Walls, the sitting member, is not entitled to the seat, and that Jesse J. Finlay, the contestant, is, the resolution of the minority being to the opposite effect. Several speeches were made, but no vote was taken. Mr. Seales introduced a bill to refund certain direct taxes on land, collected from citizens of the late insurrectionary states. At the evening session speeches favoring the transfer of the Indian bureau to the war department were made by Culberson, Hooker and Banning. Adjourned.

In the house, on the 19th, Mr. Lord reported a replication to the plea of jurisdiction filed on behalf of Belknap. The replication was adopted and ordered communicated to the senate. The sergeant-at-arms reported that he had obeyed the writ of habeas corpus in the Hallet Kilbourne case, and that Kilbourne was ordered by the judge into the custody of the marshal. Mr. Whitehouse introduced a bill for retiring the interest bearing debt of the United States into United States consols bearing four per cent. gold interest and having forty years to run. Referred. Mr. O'Brien introduced a bill to provide for the coinage of centennial coins. Referred. The bill provides for silver dollars and half dollars, one side of the coins to give a corresponding value in the coins of the other principal commercial nations. The house then resumed consideration of the Florida contested election case. After several speeches, the report was adopted—115 to 83. Mr. J. J. Finlay was declared entitled to the seat, and was sworn in, taking the modified oath. The house took up the senate bill to repeal the act making restriction in the distribution of public lands in Alabama, Mississippi, Arkansas and Florida, confining them the provisions of the homestead law. No action was taken on the bill. The proceedings in the evening session were entirely devoid of public interest.

In the house, on the 20th, bills were introduced and referred as follows: To grant to Ohio the unsold and unappropriated public lands in that state; to limit the power of courts to punish for contempt; also, to enlarge the privileges of the writ of habeas corpus. Mr. Singleton, from the committee on appropriations, reported back the senate amendments to the consular and diplomatic appropriation bill, and moved that they be concurred in. Agreed to. Mr. Wells reported back the senate amendments to the deficiency bill, every one of which were rejected and some concurred in without debate, read to the house. The bill to transfer the Indian bureau to the war department was then taken up, and Mr. Cox made a speech against the bill. Mr. Conger opposed the bill in the name of the churches of the country, of all religious denominations, which would look with amazement at this effort to substitute the sword for the bible. Mr. Mills advocated the bill, in the interest of the white men of the frontier. Mr. Hunton moved an amendment allowing officers on the retired list to be employed as Indian agents. Adopted. Mr. Banks offered an additional section providing for the admission to United States citizenship of any Indian who may prove to the satisfaction of a court nearest to the reservation of his tribe or nation that he is sufficiently intelligent and prudent to conduct his own affairs and interests, and that he has adopted the habits of civilization. Adopted. Without making a final disposition of the bill the house adjourned.

In the house, on the 21st, Mr. Knott introduced a bill to regulate the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus in certain cases. Referred. It provides that the supreme court shall have original and exclusive jurisdiction to issue the writ of habeas corpus in all cases where the party shall be detained or restrained of his liberty by authority of either house of congress; that whenever it shall appear by petition that the party is detained or restrained of his liberty by authority of either house of congress, before a state or United States judge or court other than the supreme court of the United States, the writ shall be denied if not issued, or dismissed if issued; that if any such state or United States judge or court other than the supreme court issue a writ of habeas corpus in such cases, the supreme court may award a writ of prohibition, and that if the supreme court shall not be in session at the time, any judge of such court may take such action with the right of appeal to the supreme court. Mr. Burchard reported a bill concerning corporations engaged in the business of distilling. After a good deal of discussion the bill passed. Consideration of the bill to transfer the Indian bureau to the war department was resumed. The bill then passed—139 to 94. It provides that after the first of July next the secretary of the war department shall exercise the supervising and appellate powers and powers the jurisdiction now exercised and possessed by the secretary of the interior in relation to Indian affairs; that he shall from time to time make details of army officers to administer the affairs of the Indian branch of the war department; that the commanding officers of the geographical departments shall be ex-officio in charge of Indian affairs in their departments, and shall make details of officers, including officers on the retired list, to administer the affairs of the Indian service, and that the inspector general of the army shall discharge the duties of inspector of Indian affairs. The act is not to be construed to authorize an increase in the number, rank, pay or allowances of army officers. All contracts for Indian supplies and transportation are to be made in the same manner and at the same time, when practicable, as those for the army. All religious denominations are to enjoy a free and equal right to erect and maintain churches and school buildings on Indian reservations. Individual Indians who have adopted the habits of civilized life may become citizens of the United States without forfeiting their right to their share of tribal property. Adjourned.

In the house, on the 24th, the following were among the bills introduced and referred under the call of the states: To reorganize the navy. It provides that there shall be on the active list six rear admirals, eighteen commodores, fifty captains and seventy-five commanders, and that the promotions in these grades shall cease until those numbers shall be reached. To permit the national banks to issue circulating notes equal in amount to one hundred per cent. of the current market value of the bonds deposited by them. Mr. Sayler presented a petition from the tobacco manufacturers of Cincinnati and Covington, for a reduction of tax on tobacco to sixteen cents per pound. Referred. Mr. Blaine took the floor, and proceeded to make a personal explanation in regard to the newspaper charges connecting him with the Union Pacific railroad. In refutation of the charge that he had received, in some indirect manner, the large sum of sixty-four thousand dollars in 1871, which allegation was based partly upon the authority of Morton, Bliss & Co., bankers, of New York, through whom a draft for sixty-four thousand dollars was said to have been negotiated for his benefit, Mr. Blaine presented a letter from the firm denying that any draft, note or check had ever passed through their hands in which he was supposed to have any interest, direct or indirect. Other documentary evidence was submitted to the same tenor, and in summing up the senator denounced the charges, each and all, as without a shadow of truth. The house then resumed consideration of the district tax bill, but without action adjourned.

Reorganizing the United States Army.

The committee on military affairs of the United States' house agreed upon a bill to reorganize the army, it being Representative Banning's bill, with some amendments, and ordered it to be reported favorably to the house. It does not reduce the present effective force of the army, but reduces the number of infantry regiments from twenty-five to twenty, and the cavalry from ten to eight, thus reducing the number of infantry officers fifty-five and of cavalry officers fifteen, and increases the size of the companies and regiments. It does away with the regimental organization of the artillery, reducing the field officers of artillery seventeen. It consolidates the quartermaster and commissary departments into one, designated as the department of supplies, making a large reduction of officers. It provides for a board to examine officers and for the discharge of all worthless and inefficient officers, and for an examination of the condition of retired officers. All officers who lose their places under the bill are placed upon a list of supernumeraries, and are permitted to resign with one year's pay for each eight years of service, or remain in service to perform such duty as they may be assigned to.

It provides for the education of non-commissioned officers and soldiers by the commissioned officers, and for the promotion of non-commissioned officers to commissioned officers. It abolishes the office of judge advocate, fixes the pay of first sergeants at $40 per month, makes the headquarters of the general of the army at Washington in time of peace, and provides that he may act as secretary of war in the absence of the secretary or temporary vacancy in the office.

It provides that sutlers and post-traders shall be first elected by a council of the administration, approved by the department commander and the general of the army, and appointed by the secretary of war. It reduces the staff of all general officers, and requires the general of the army to report reforms to Congress annually, and to look to economy in all branches of the army. The bill is approved by the testimony of many of the officers of the army. It is a reduction of about two hundred officers, and proposes reforms which, if adopted, will, a Washington dispatch says, it is claimed, add greatly to the efficiency of the army.

THE Burlington (Vt.) Free Press says: "John Hall, of North Troy, has seven children, four of whom, under fourteen years old, weigh exactly 200 pounds each. The youngest are twins, girls ten years of age, healthy and intelligent. Two boys, one about twelve and the other something over thirteen, are so much alike that they would pass readily for twins. These children have each ten well-formed fingers, two thumbs and twelve toes.

AMERICA'S BIG SHOW.

A Model of National Wonders—An Exhibition Postoffice.

For some time past Major J. W. Powell, chief of the second division of the "geological survey of the territories," has been engaged in modeling in clay a relief map which he intends to cast in papier-mache or plaster of Paris for exhibition at the centennial display at Philadelphia. From the negative cast will be made the map, which is to go to Philadelphia, and also such other copies of it as may be needed. Major Powell's excellent map brings together for comparison the Grand canyon of the Colorado, the Yosemite valley, and the Niagara gorge. We at the east are used to thinking of Niagara as the superlative of natural wonders, but a glance at this relief map will forever cure one of any such feeling. The entire gorge occupies on it a space 2½ inches in length by 1 inch in breadth. The Yosemite valley occupies 7½ inches in length by 6 inches in breadth, while the Grand canyon of the Colorado occupies a space of 8 square feet. The scale is one-half an inch to the mile. We find, therefore, that Niagara gorge is 7 miles in length by 2 miles in width; the Yosemite valley is 15 miles in length by 12 miles in breadth; while the Grand canyon of the Colorado is 144 miles each way. Further, the greatest depth of Niagara gorge is 260 feet; the greatest depth of the Yosemite valley is a little more than 4,000 feet, while the depth of the Grand canyon of the Colorado varies from 4,000 feet to more than 6,000 feet. All these points are presented to the eye at a glance. Their relative sizes are matters of immediate observation, and not of abstruse calculation. This instructive map will be one of the curiosities of our great exhibition. Comparative relief maps of this kind should become popular aids in the teaching of topography.

The United States government building and its contents will form an extremely interesting portion of the centennial exposition. It is situated on Belmont avenue, opposite the women's pavilion. At present the postoffice is the most advanced portion of the government building's interior, and is situated in the southeast corner of the edifice. It is intended to show the complete workings of an American postoffice, and practically illustrate them by affording mail conveniences to the centennial public. The office comprises money-order and registration departments, letter-drops, boxes, etc., and the mail will be collected every hour for all parts of the world. These letter-drops are distributed throughout the entire grounds and other buildings, and are decidedly ornamental. They bear the picture of a letter sealed and the words "Mail collections hourly" in the English, Spanish, French, Italian, German, Russian, and Chinese languages. Boxes will be rented to the general public at the postoffice. Above the space these occupy is the American shield. Below are eagles' heads upholding a scroll upon which are the words "Centennial branch postoffice," and on either side are designed carrier-doves holding letters in their bills.

The English buildings promise to be among the largest, and in themselves the most interesting, at the exhibition. They compose a group of three buildings, the largest one being intended for the commissioners' offices, while the others are to be used, one as a kitchen, the other for the police force. They are half-timbered structures, their ephemeral character being shown by the filling that is used, which is neither brick nor stone, but simply of laths and plaster. The facade of the large building is occupied by three large gables, which express their construction with all possible frankness, and have that air of picturesqueness which is found in the old half-timbered houses of Chester and other parts of England. The body of the building seems to be all window; for the casements of the rooms and corridors in the two stories are connected, and form an uninterrupted line of windows. The interior is attractively finished, great attention having been paid to the mantel-pieces, which are of sculptured hard wood, fireplaces, stairway and furniture. As might be expected, free use has been made of tiles; painted tiles for the fire-place jambs, enameled tiles for the hearths, encaustic tiles for the floors. There are two halls; one a kind of interior porch, the other a larger and more handsomely finished room, having at one end a large black-walnut mantelpiece, and from which the grand stairway ascends to the upper floor. A long corridor opens right and left from this hall, giving access to the various offices of the commissioners. In the upper story there are offices for the commissioners, and a variety of smaller rooms appropriated to the use of the housekeeper and domestics.

I think the Egyptian is the farthest advanced toward completion of any national display. The entire enclosure is up, finished with the exception of the ornamental paintings. Their goods are all within the inclosure and some of their cases have already been opened. I saw yesterday some specimens of their building stones. The pale cream-colored stone peculiar to Egypt is really as fine as marble for building purposes. Each block is beautifully cut and polished and labeled. Their exhibit consists of all the modern arms, many interesting antiquities, papyrus, and carved stones, ancient and modern jewelry, embroideries, inlaid furniture, including two inlaid cabinets the equal of which in point of elegance of design and workmanship does not exist, and specimens of the mineral and agricultural wealth of the country. The silk interest will be fully represented, as well as all other industries.

No country, except it be America, can show such abundance of species of agricultural products as Egypt. No country made so good a display as Egypt in the exposition of Vienna, as regards perfection of classification, methodical and tasteful arrangement and elegance and beauty of all articles. Beautiful palm trees made the entire section resemble some fairy grotto where the delicate gossamer robes heavily embroidered with silver, gold and jewels seemed waiting for the fairy's presence alone. The Arab Bedouin's hut seemed cool and inviting enough to have persuaded more than one fair lady to leave the pomps and vanities of the grande monde and become an Arab chieftain's (fourth or fifth) wife, while the dreamy quiet and extravagant luxury of the miniature palace with its vision of felicity in the shape of an oriental beauty reclining inside on the satin divans was enough to turn the head of any average man.

His excellency, Brugsch Bey, who was the chief commissioner from Egypt for Vienna, holds also the same position here, and so without doubt the exhibition will be as well arranged as it was at Vienna. Brugsch Bey is the most profound Egyptian scholar in the world, and is the only person who has succeeded in deciphering perfectly all the ancient hieroglyphics, and has made the task of others easy in having written a complete hieroglyphic dictionary. Being so profound a scholar in all that pertains to that land whose buried and forgotten greatness so much exceed our wildest fancy, it is impossible for any other nation to be represented by any one who brings so sincere a desire to raise their country to its proper place in the estimation of all the world.

FAMILY LIKENESS AND VITALITY.

Their Remarkable Transmission in Certain Royal Families.

In spite of certain alterations, the typical features peculiar to the houses of Guise and Lorraine were transmitted to all their descendants through a long series of generations. The Bourbon countenance, the Condes' aquiline nose, the thick and protruding lower lip bequeathed to the house of Austria by a Polish princess, are well-known instances. We have only to look at a coin of George III. to be reminded of the British royal family. During Addison's short ministry Mrs. Clarke, who solicited his favor, had been requested to bring with her the papers proving that she was Milton's daughter. But as soon as she entered the cabinet Addison said: "Madam, I require no further evidence; your resemblance to your illustrious father is the best of all." The Compte de Pont, who died in 1867, at nearly one hundred told Dr. Froisset that during the restoration he often met in the salons of M. Desfontenaux de Givre, prefect of Arras, a man at whose approach he shuddered as he would at the sight of an apparition, so wonderfully was he like Robespierre. M. de Pont confided his impression to the prefect, who told him, smiling at his prejudice, that the person in question passed for Robespierre's natural son; that, in fact, it was a matter of notoriety.

Next to family likeness vitality or duration of life is the most important character transmitted by inheritance. The two daughters of Victor Amadeus II., the Duchess of Burgundy and her sister Marie Louise, married to Philip V., both remarkable for their beauty, died at twenty-six. In the Turgot family fifty years was the usual limit of life. The great minister, on the approach of that term, although in good health, remarked to his friends that it was time to put his affairs in order; and he died in fact, at fifty-three. In the house of Romanoff the duration of life is short, independent of the fact that several of its members met with violent deaths. The head of this illustrious race, Michael Federovitch, died at forty-nine; Peter the Great was scarcely fifty-three. The Empress Anne died at forty-seven; the tender-hearted Elizabeth at fifty-one. Of Paul's four sons, Alexander died at forty-two; Nicholas at fifty-nine; and the Grand Duke Michael at fifty-one. In the houses of Saxony and Prussia, on the contrary, examples of longevity are far from rare. Frederick the Great, in spite of his continual wars and his frequent excesses at table, was seventy-four; Frederick William III. was seventy; the Emperor William, in his seventy-ninth year, is still hale and hearty. In all countries of Europe families of octogenarians, nonogenarians, and centenarians may be cited. On April 1, 1726, there died in Paris a saddler of Boulevant, in Champagne, more than one hundred years old. To inspire Louis XIV. with the flattering hope of living as long, he was made, two years previously, to present that monarch with a bouquet on St. Louis' day. His father had lived one hundred and thirteen years, his grandfather one hundred and twelve. Jean Surrington, a farmer in the environs of Berghem, lived to be one hundred and sixty. The day before his death, in complete possession of his mental faculties, he divided his property among his children; the eldest was one hundred and three, and what was still more remarkable, the youngest was only nine. Jean Golembiewski (the oldest man in the French army, if still alive), who accompanied King Stanislas Leczinski into France, belonged to a family of centenarians. His father lived to be one hundred and twenty-one, his grandmother to be one hundred and thirty.

Come Just as You Are.

In one of his recent sermons at the Hippodrome in New York, Mr. Moody said: There are a great many men that want to come, and they say, "Wait until I am a better man, and then I will come." I never knew a man to be saved that came to Christ in that way. You can not cleanse yourselves. Every day and hour that you are staying from Christ you are getting worse instead of better. The very act of you staying away is a sin, and so, instead of trying to get better, and get ready to come, just come as you are and be clothed with the garments of salvation. He will clothe you with His own righteousness. I noticed when our war was going on men used to come to enlist, and the man who came with a fine suit of clothes on, and the hod-carrier in his dirty garments, would both have to take off their clothes and put on the uniform of the government. And so when men go into the Kingdom of God they have to put on the livery of Heaven. You need not dress up for Christ, because He will strip you when you come, and put on you the robes of His righteousness. My friends, you can not stand before God in your own righteousness. Come to God as a poor beggar, and He will have mercy upon you. I heard some years ago of an artist who wanted a model for the prodigal. He went to many institutions and prisons, but could not get a man who suited his ideas of the prodigal. One day, however, while walking down the street, he met a poor, miserable tramp, and he suited the artist's eye, so he asked him if he would be willing to sit for his portrait. The tramp said he would, if he would pay him for it. The artist promised, and set a day and hour for him to come. At the appointed time, while the artist was sitting in his studio, the man came in, but he was so well dressed the artist didn't know him, and told him he had no appointment with him. When the beggar told him the circumstances, the artist said: "What have you been doing?" "Why," says the man, "I thought if I was going to sit for my portrait I would get a new suit of clothes." "Ah," said the artist, "you won't do; I wanted you just as you were." So, when you go to Christ go as you are, with all your rags, your filth and your sin, and He will receive you. I don't care how bad you are. He came for that purpose, and there is not a man or a woman in this hall to-day that is so bad that Christ would not have you if you will only come.

NORMAN M'LEOD was once preaching in a district in Ayres, where the reading of a sermon is regarded as the greatest fault of which the minister can be guilty. When the congregation dispersed, an old woman, overflowing with enthusiasm, addressed her neighbor: "Did ye ever hear any thing sae grun'? Wasna that a sermon?" but her expressions of admiration being met by a stolid glance, she shouted, "Speak, woman! wasna that a sermon?" "Oh, ay," replied her friend, sulkily, "but he read it." "Read it," said the other, with indignant emphasis, "I wadna ha cared if he had whusiled it."

MARRIAGE.

Some Sensible Observations on this Interesting Topic.

It is sometimes argued by our newspaper and magazine writers that a certain class of bachelors cannot afford to get married. Here is a young man with a salary of one, two or three thousand dollars a year. On this he can not only live comfortably and dress in good style, but can also buy books and pictures, go to concerts, take trips to Saratoga, and perhaps to Europe. If he marries, he cannot keep house in the style of the wealthy families with whom he has been able to associate as a single man, and as for books, pictures, travel, etc., they will be utterly out of the question.

Now, it must be admitted that the bachelor has many advantages over the married man; but it must also be admitted that the married man has some advantages over the bachelor. And one cannot have both these sets of advantages, any more than he can have the pleasures of travel while enjoying the comforts of home. The question is this: Whether the society of a family, even with care and financial perplexity, be not worth more than the ease and freedom of bachelor life, together with its loneliness and general forlornness?

Marriage may be a lottery, but it has a hundred prizes to one blank. The man who has not drawn so great a prize as some one else—who has not done so well as he might have done, had he used a little more judgment—even this one will have nothing to complain of—he will find that he has done better than if he had not ventured the chance at all. When a marriage alliance is not the wisest; when friends are obliged to conceal their chagrin, and the one who has made the bargain finds that a better one might have been made—even then it is rare that we should not say that the marriage was better than a life of perpetual celibacy. It is a poor marriage, indeed, which is not better than forever "to be alone."

This is the more to be noticed, because such large numbers of marriages are made where the parties know next to nothing of each other. And royal marriages, formed solely for state reasons—where previous love was entirely out of the question, the parties never having seen each other—have often been as happy for both parties as marriage could be. If one hundred young men and one hundred young women were joined in marriage by lot, according to the custom often followed at times among the Moravians, ninety-five of those unions would prove happy—happier, that is, for each party, than perpetual single life would have been. In many cases where "incompatibility of temper" has discovered itself, the fact that the parties could not separate has often made them cast aside their differences and lead happy lives together. The "ifs," therefore, in marriage are small, and even the irrevocable nature of the vow makes those risks less. The indissoluble nature of the marriage tie may work hardship in particular cases, but on the whole it secures the good of unhappy couples far more thoroughly than lax divorce laws would. It was Infinite Wisdom that established the ordinance of marriage.

But while one has thus the best of prospects for happiness in wedlock, it is not every life that finds in marriage the enjoyment of which it is capable. A man is sometimes in too much of a hurry to get married. Before he has become established in business, before he has completed his studies or gained a position in his profession, he rushes into matrimony. Now the happiness of wedlock is a fruit which should not be picked until it is ripe. It is not alone the pleasure of the present that is to be thought of—the happiness of a long life is to be considered. It is a little thing to wait two, three or four years if the happiness of forty years is to be increased by it. The question is not only what will be the pleasantest now, but what will give greatest pleasure a quarter of a century hence, and the boy of nineteen may not be competent to select a wife for a man of forty. The question is not so much whether the girl now before the eyes is pretty and lively, as whether she will be the best companion in the long years of after life. Every young man should exercise the self-command—the self-denial it may be—necessary to keep him from a premature marriage or a premature engagement. He is worthy of ridicule who cannot leave his mother, but he is a bigger booby who cannot get along without the society of his sweetheart!

And let not the opinions of friends be disregarded when one is choosing a marriage companion. Rarely, indeed, should a young man marry the girl with whom his mother and sister are not pleased. Rarely, indeed, should a young woman marry the man with whom her father and brother are not pleased. True friends will think of their own interests or tastes even, when the happiness of a child, brother or sister is at stake; and any objections they make to a proposed match will be prompted by an anxiety regarding that one's happiness. Their cool judgment will often discern valid objections to a marriage alliance which the excited view of the one more directly interested does not see.

But with all this marriage is a matter of love, and nothing will take love's place. An ounce of love will weigh down fifty pounds of brown-stone house and brussels carpet. And love has a "prudence" of its own. It will warm the room itself when the coal has given out, and bring angels to the bedside when there is no money to hire a doctor. It is only sham love that makes the discreditable flight by the window when poverty comes in at the door. A woman may be happier in poverty with a man of her choice than with another in ease and luxury. A man may be happier in marrying some sickly girl who will be to him in one sense a burden all his life, than in espousing another who will make a "smart" housekeeper. Indeed, what is the use of marrying at all except for love? But still when one is going to depend on love for everything, it is well to be sure that it is true love, and is not mere whim, which is guiding the steps.

And few men make as much of their married life as they should. They are not near as happy in it as they might be. They do not do courting enough. A man would do well occasionally to dress up and come and make a formal call on his wife, the way he used to do before they were married. If he would sit down with her in the moonlight and talk a little of the nonsense that he used to talk, it might be one the wisest things he ever did in his life. It will pay a man to make love to his wife as long as they live—the wedding day should merely open a new courtship. A woman's heart is deeper than a gold mine, and though a man may have had possession of it for forty years, it will yield him yet richer treasures of love if he will still seek for them.

PUBLIC OPINION.—Mr. Disraeli is credited with this reminiscence: I remember that I once asked one of the most sagacious gentlemen who ever sat in this house—Mr. Walter, the father of one of our colleagues now in the house of commons—and who had great knowledge of the press and of public opinion—I asked him, "How do you ascertain what is public opinion?" "Well," he said, "the way I ascertain public opinion is this—petitions may be got up and meetings may be got up, or the country may feel a great deal without expressing its opinion either by petitions or by public meetings; but," he said, "there is an infallible test, and that is the post. The way I always know what is the real feeling of the country is the letter-bag." He then had the conduct of one of those powerful journals which it is the fashion now to quote in the house of commons. It was never so when I first entered it. He said: "I receive about one hundred letters a day, perhaps more, when there is anything stirring in the country; and I understand and find out what is public feeling from the post-bag. It is that which tells me what the feeling of the country is, and I know it before petitions or public meetings—they follow it."

Anecdotes of the Stage.

Lord Faulkner, the author of the play called "The Marriage Night," was chosen while very young, to sit in parliament, and when he was first elected some of the members opposed his admission, urging that he had not sown his wild oats! "Then," he replied, "it will be the best way to sow them in the house, where there are so many geese to pick them up!"

Actors frequently find it difficult to remember their parts after a "long run." When "The Beggars' Opera" had been played in London seventy odd times (a great event in those days), Walker, the original Captain Macheath, one night forgot the text. "Hallo!" cried Rich, "your memory ought to be good by this time." "My memory's good enough," growled Walker, "but you can't expect it to last forever!"

Mrs. Siddons was once very much pleased with a young actor who played "Norval" to her "Lady Randolph;" but she told him that much as his talents had impressed her, "he was too little to become a great actor." The prediction was falsified, for the little "Norval" became the great Kean.

When the king of the Sandwich islands was entertained at a concert, he was asked what instrument he preferred. His majesty frankly confessed he liked the drums better than any other instrument in the orchestra.

In a play in which "Cleopatra" was the heroine, Vancauson, the celebrated maker of automata, had been intrusted with the manufacture of the asp, which hissed loudly as the principal actress placed it at her breast. A critic being asked what he thought of the piece, replied dryly, "I agree with the asp."

A young author offering a five-act tragedy to a manager, described his work thus: "My play is a masterpiece; it must be a success, as I have tried to satisfy the public by making the action extremely tragic. All the characters die in the third act." "Then what personages occupy the stage during the last two acts?" inquired the manager. "The ghosts of those whom I killed in the third."

"Horace" is the title of one of Corneille's tragedies, in which the heroine, "Camille," is murdered by the actor impersonating the title role. A celebrated actress was playing "Camille" one night at the theater Francaise, Paris, when, just before receiving her deathblow, she slipped and fell heavily on the stage. "Horace" politely rushed forward, helped her up, and then stabbed her.

Madame Suzanne Lagier, a good actress, but extremely stout, was one night enacting a part in a melodrama with Taillade, the original "Pierre" of "The Two Orphans," and thus had, at one moment, to carry her fainting off the stage. He tried with all his might to lift the fat heroine, but although she helped her little comrade by standing on tiptoe, in the usual manner, he was unable to move her an inch. At this juncture a boy in the gallery cried out, "Take what you can, and come back for the rest!"

An actress, playing in a piece in rhyme, had to begin a long speech with these words: "I'll tell you about it with all my heart," but her memory failing her, she added quickly, "That is, if you'll permit me to look at my part!" and pulling a manuscript from her pocket, she went on reading her lines.

One night a trombone player wished to be absent from the orchestra in a New York theater, and, as there was another trombone, instead of asking leave of the leader, he resorted to the expedient of getting a friend to go in and take his seat. "Watch the other trombone," said he to his friend; "puff out your cheeks well, keep your fingers active, look alive, and you will pass muster." All went right until a passage for two trombones was reached. Not a sound from the instruments was heard! It turned out that both trombone players had resorted to the same ruse.

Curious Transfers in Stewart's Estate.

The New York Tribune says: While the late merchant prince still lay robed for the grave in his house on Fifth avenue, an inventory of his property was taken, the amount, according to current but perhaps inaccurate report, being found to be something like twenty-five millions of dollars. On Good Friday, the day after the funeral, his widow sold the entire property, only excepting the real estate in New York city, to Judge Hilton himself, receiving in payment the million of dollars which the dead man had left the judge for his service "in managing, closing and winding up the partnership business affairs."

This is a rapid succession of important events. The business transactions are of a gigantic magnitude, and, on their face, seem of so extraordinary a nature that it is impossible to accept them as embodying the whole case, or as a possible finality. They are observed by the people of New York with the keen interest of legatees.

For there was given to the public, with the will, and by the authority of the widow and heir, a letter from Mr. Stewart to his wife, renewing his oft repeated declaration of his purpose to provide for various public charities, intimating that he had been engaged in elaborating several plans for the welfare of his fellow-beings, and had already begun some of them, and in the event of his sudden death, should depend upon his widow to carry them out. He added, that their friend Judge Hilton would give any assistance in his power, and referred her to him for details. There was no intimation that Judge Hilton was to bestow these charities. Mr. Stewart's letter informed his wife that he must depend upon her to carry out the plans he had devised. For the consideration of the million dollars which he gave to Judge Hilton, in order to secure and reward his interest in this matter, the widow has now, under the judge's advice, sold all the property, excepting the New York real estate, to the Judge himself. In other words, the judge seems to have traded his own legacy for the rest of the property.

JEWISH POPULATION OF THE UNITED STATES.—A Jewish paper published in London says that of the six million Jews in the world, a quarter of a million are to be found in the United States. We have no accurate figures of recent date to confirm or correct this estimate, as our decennial census returns give no distinctive enumeration of Jews; but we judge from a number of facts before us, that the estimate of the London Jewish paper is far too low. Rabbi Gottheil, who is well informed, and careful in his language, says that the Jewish population of this city alone is over 70,000; and the Jews are to be counted by many thousands in all our large cities, including New Orleans, San Francisco, Chicago, St. Louis and Cincinnati. There has been a large immigration of Jews to the United States from various countries of Europe during the last twenty years; and the prosperity they have enjoyed has enlarged the current in this direction from year to year.—New York Sun.

LOVE has the tendency of pressing together all the lights—all the rays emitted from the beloved object by the burning-glass of fantasy—into one focus, and making of them one radiant sun without any spots.

IT is because gold is rare that gilding has been invented, which, without having its solidity, has all its brilliancy. Thus, to replace the kindness we lack, we have devised politeness, which has all its appearance.

DEATH is the wish of some, the relief of many, and the end of all. It sets the slave at liberty, carries the banished man home, and places all men on the same level, insomuch that life itself were a punishment without it.

THE editor of a heathen paper in Bengal says, in an article which will pass for a sort of review of the Scriptures: "If a person studies the English language with a view to gain wisdom, there is not a book more worthy of being read than the Bible."

MR. BUCKLE states that human nature has changed very little in the last three thousand years, but we do not remember any record of a Roman senator trying to account to his wife for a light deposit of pearl powder on the left shoulder of his toga on the ground that he had been playing checkers in a grist mill.

THE art of being happy lies in the power of abstracting happiness from very common things. If we pitch our expectations high, if we are arrogant in our pretensions, if we will not be happy except when our self-love is gratified, our pride stimulated, our vanity fed, or a fierce excitement kindled, then we shall have but little satisfaction out of this life.

A COLLEGE professor tells the following: During the after-dinner talk the rough specimen for whom I was surveying remarked that mathematics had always seemed a very wonderful thing to him. Thinking to interest him somewhat I began to illustrate some of the wonders; among others, tried to show him the way in which Neptune was discovered. After some twenty minutes of elaborate explanation I was somewhat taken aback to hear him say: "Yes, yes, it is very wonderful, very; but [with a sigh] there's another thing that's allers troubled me, and that is, why you have to carry one for every ten; but if you don't 'twont come out right."

Negro Settlers Not Wanted.

A Topeka correspondent of the Chicago Tribune says: If anybody has lost any colored friends or proteges, Topeka is the place to make application for them. A large delegation of negroes have recently reported themselves at Kansas headquarters, and graciously intimated that numbers more of their tribe are yet on the way. Kansas is not altogether happy over this unexpected acquisition, and, like the individual with the elephant on his hands, doesn't exactly know what to do with it. Some of the dusky party profess to hail directly from old Tennessee; but they aver in the same breath that, in the incoming host which they herald, various states are represented. Their plans for the future, their ideas of their new home, are about as shadowy as their faces. They seem to imagine Kansas a region whose productions spring spontaneously from the soil, or require only a little tickling of the earth with a hoe, the one implement of husbandry with which any of them have provided themselves. They come hither penniless and aimless; and the suggestion has been made that the state government should be appealed to to adopt measures to prevent this commonwealth from being overrun by this helpless class of people.

Paying Out the Silver.

The exchange of silver coin for fractional currency has fairly begun at the several assistant treasuries and government depositories, but the amount of silver paid out is small in comparison with what it will be about the first of next week, when orders from remote or so-called country banks are received. As fractional currency is received in exchange for silver, the paper money will be destroyed, but it is the purpose of the department to hold for reissue in case of future necessity such fractional currency as may be presented by banks and other parties for redemption in greenbacks, of which there is now on hand about $150,000. The director of the mint has ordered the mints to do extra work in order to coin silver as fast as possible. About two million dollars per month can be coined by the mints when worked to their full capacity. Should the bill pass now under consideration in the senate, which provides a new silver dollar, to be legal tender, except for customs duties and interest on the public debt, to the extent of twenty dollars, and with which greenbacks may be redeemed, dollar for dollar, it will make necessary the establishment of an additional mint.

CHEAP MEAT AND PLENTY OF IT.—Thanks to the transcontinental railway lines, it is now possible to ship cattle to the east by hundreds of thousands without subjecting them to the flesh impairing worry and risks of a long "drive," while the method which has recently been introduced of slaughtering cattle at the shipping entrepot and sending the carcasses eastward in refrigerator cars cannot fail to give a new stimulus to the trade. It permits a very large saving on the cost of transportation, while, by bringing to the market rich, juicy meat, fresh from the pasture, instead of the carcasses of lank cattle, slaughtered after a fortnight of semi-starvation and worry in a cattle train, it reduces to the minimum the shippers' risks. It appears from well-founded estimates that the number of cattle shipped this year will be from thirty to eighty per cent. greater than during any previous year; and there is no reason to anticipate any falling off in the future.

STEINBERGER'S DISASTROUS FALL.—The fall of Steinberger ought to be a warning to future adventurers who may dream of usurping a cannibal throne. They must understand that leanness is the indispensable condition of safety. It is generally known that not a single missionary has been eaten since Banting published his famous instructions how to become thin. Had Steinberger grasped the meaning of this fact, and kept himself down to the missionary standard of weight, he would not have tempted the famous appetite, and he might still be a de facto monarch. Eternal emaciation is the price of power among the cannibals, and the fate of Steinberger, who slowly fattened to his fall, shows that the tenderest feelings of the human stomach can not be safely outraged and defied.

JEWISH POPULATION OF THE UNITED STATES.—A Jewish paper published in London says that of the six million Jews in the world, a quarter of a million are to be found in the United States. We have no accurate figures of recent date to confirm or correct this estimate, as our decennial census returns give no distinctive enumeration of Jews; but we judge from a number of facts before us, that the estimate of the London Jewish paper is far too low. Rabbi Gottheil, who is well informed, and careful in his language, says that the Jewish population of this city alone is over 70,000; and the Jews are to be counted by many thousands in all our large cities, including New Orleans, San Francisco, Chicago, St. Louis and Cincinnati. There has been a large immigration of Jews to the United States from various countries of Europe during the last twenty years; and the prosperity they have enjoyed has enlarged the current in this direction from year to year.—New York Sun.

THE forests of Europe are estimated as being 500,000,000 acres in extent. In North America 1,460,000,000 acres are covered with trees, of which area 900,000,000 are in British North America. In South America forests occupy 700,000,000 acres. The proportion of forest land to the whole area of Europe is computed at twenty per cent.; in America, twenty-one. Supposing, therefore, twenty per cent. to be the proportion in Asia, Africa and Australia, the grand total of the forests of the world cover a space of 7,734,000 geographical miles.

IT is highly probable that the widow of Alexander T. Stewart will be annoyed and persecuted beyond measure by beggars of various degrees, even now that Judge Hilton is employed to assist her in disbursing it. If she had retained the whole she could not, during her life, give away more than the merest fraction of the interest of her vast fortune. If she knew on whom to bestow it, and occupied all her time in making small donations, she could not give it all away during her lifetime. Supposing her to be worth $50,000,000, and to disburse only the interest, she could get rid of $10,000 a day, or $1,000 every working hour. In other words, she could perpetually give away $16 a minute for ten hours of every working day and never touch the principal! If resolved to transfer to others the entire fortune, it would take her a year if she counted out $3.50 a second.

THE Disraeli minister in Great Britain must be considered a success in its ability to find avenues for the expenditure of money. It does not propose to adopt the "cheese-paring policy" of Gladstone, by means of which expenditures were so curtailed that a reduction in taxation was possible. Disraeli wants upwards of £78,000,000 for the current fiscal year, an amount larger by several million pounds sterling than was expended in any one year when Gladstone was at the helm of state. With the present sources of revenue there would be a deficiency of nearly £800,000, and this the chancellor of the exchequer proposes to make up and have a surplus of £365,000 by an increase of a penny a pound in the income tax. This tax is made a great source of revenue in England whenever an unusual sum of money is needed. A tax of a penny a pound, though only a little over two-fifths of one per cent. will produce, according to the chancellor of the exchequer, about £1,000,000 per annum. This shows what immense wealth is concentrated in the united kingdom in the hands of the men who have incomes subject to taxation.

ACCORDING to a contemporary, a curious case has been decided in the court of justice at Munich. It has always been the custom to deck the two towers of the cathedral with flags upon occasions of public festivity, and until recently this practice had never given rise to any misunderstanding. Since the unification of Germany the Archbishop of Munich has always hoisted the yellow and white flag with the keys of St. Peter upon the towers on saints' days, while upon political holidays the municipality has displayed from the two towers the black, red, and yellow flag, surmounted by the imperial eagle. Upon the last anniversary of the battle of Sedan, these emblems of the new empire "floated proudly in the breeze," but the chapter of the cathedral protested against their exhibition, basing their objections upon statutes which date from the eleventh century. They instituted proceedings against the municipal council, and the trial lasted several days. The judge at last decided that while the body of the cathedral is the exclusive property of the judges, the towers belong to the city, which consequently may deck them as it pleases.

THE San Francisco News Letter describes the newest discovery in natural history, being an insect which has been christened without consulting the scientist—or, as the News Letter calls them, the "bug sharps"—a "man bug." The description is as follows: "The creature has a body of a dark green color, mottled with yellow or orange-colored spots. This is about five inches long by two and a half broad, of a beetle shape, and terminating at the head in a pair of red and very vicious looking eyes and two horny mandibles of a like color and a decidedly snappish appearance. It has no appearance of wings. Its most peculiar feature, however, is a single pair of spidery legs attached to the lower end of its body. These are about twelve or fourteen inches in length and singularly resemble those of a man in regard to the number of joints and the fact that it stands bolt upright on them. The creature stands some foot and a half high, walks with a long, crane-like stride, and is like nothing so much as an immense June bug on stilts. It is only known food is mice, and these, when introduced into the large bird-cage that confines it, it seizes with a sudden dash of its foot or claw and dispatches voraciously." It was found on the island of Iwiwau, some sixty miles south of Steinberger's domain.

The available assets of the Nashville life were $289,875; liabilities, according to the act of 1875, $918,700. The company proposes reinsuring the policies. The available assets of the Widow and Orphan Life, $288,000. The liabilities are over $400,000.

The New Orleans Times says the break at Bass levee, in Carroll parish, is a mile wide, and the water is flowing through without making a ripple. The loss there is incalculable, and it is estimated that it will reduce the crop fully two hundred and fifty thousand bales. This levee is the largest protection levee in the state of Louisiana. On the Mississippi side, at Buck ridge, the breaks will devastate Bolivar, Issaquena and Warren counties, and the loss will be equally as large as on the opposite side.

A heated fight is raging in west-bound passenger traffic out of Cincinnati. The contest is carried on by the Ohio and Mississippi and the Indianapolis, Cincinnati and Lafayette and Vandalia lines. The latest reports were that grand-trip tickets from Cincinnati to Kansas City were selling at twelve dollars; to Omaha, thirteen dollars and fifty cents. Fully as heavy reductions are also made to many other prominent western points. The opinion prevails that still lower rates will be offered before the war is over.

The Charleston Courier finds that northern manufacturers of fertilizers have made large shipments to southern ports. These have generally passed into the interior, and, in some instances, were offered at unusually low rates. But the greater part of the shipments are believed to be in the hands of agents awaiting buyers. The Courier adds that the planters are aware that the tendency year by year is to rely more and more on small grain, and to make cotton an incident and not the main object of the year's work, and therefore do not believe they can count on a big cotton crop, because of the shipment of fertilizers this season, will surely be disappointed.

EAST.

Besides the losses from the unparalleled falling off in immigration, New York has lost one-fourth of its export trade in four years, as the subjoin ed table will show:

| 1872-3 | $325,015,000 |
| 1873-4 | 286,160,000 |
| 1874-5 | 279,467,000 |
| 1875-6 | 240,853,000 |

These lost imports were not diverted to other ports, nearly all the other importing cities in this country showing a proportioned loss.

The treasury department has purchased two months' supply of silver bullion at the low rates which prevailed a few weeks ago, the average price paid having been about three cents per ounce less than the present market rate. This stock, together with the bullion fund, will, it is believed, be sufficient for coinage until the annual statement at the mints, which will be made in June.

The ocean carrying trade of the country was never, according to the New York Shipping List, in a more unsatisfactory condition than at present. The rates of freight in all directions are declared to be unprofitable, and vessels much more frequently come home in debt than with a surplus of freight money, over and above their running expenses. The steamers are faring worse than sailing vessels. It is the same abroad. Even in the new grounds constantly opening, where new freights have been the rule, the accounts are very discouraging to shipowners. The commerce of the whole world appears to be in a condition bordering upon paralysis.

Treasurer New will issue a circular immediately, warning the country that the substitution of silver for fractional currency will undoubtedly be commenced very soon, but spurious notes of the denomination of twenty-five and fifty cents. The supreme court of the United States has at length decided the pacific railroad land case, the decision being in favor of the settlers against the railroad companies. The question involved the title of 960,000 acres of land in Kansas, and was the largest and perhaps most important land case ever presented for adjudication in this country. There are now on these ceded lands a population of at least fifteen thousand people, and numerous towns and villages and large industrial establishments. A decision in favor of the railroad companies would have abrogated the title of these people to their property, which was regularly purchased from the United States.

The February report of the bureau of statistics, just published, shows that during that month our imports were valued at but $38,528,319, while the exports were valued at $60,893,953. Excluding specie and bullion, the imports were $37,746,477 and the exports $54,766,826. Taking the specie value of our exports, the balance of trade in our favor during that month was nearly $12,000,000 in gold, or, including the foreign exports in the account, fully $15,000,000. Specie and bullion movements altogether. As compared with the corresponding month of 1875, our exports increased nearly fifteen per cent. in value, while the imports diminished more than twenty-five per cent. Manufactured goods have increased more than other articles.

CONGRESSIONAL.

SENATE.

In the senate, on the 17th, there was unusual activity, preparing for the impeachment trial of W. W. Belknap, late secretary of war. After the journal of Thursday's proceedings had been read, various petitions and memorials were presented, but at half past twelve o'clock legislative business was suspended, and the senate proceeded to the consideration of the articles of impeachment. The secretary was ordered to notify the house that the senate was ready to proceed with the trial, and that seats had been provided for the members. At fifteen minutes to one o'clock ex-Secretary Belknap, with his counsel, entered and proceeded to the table provided for them. The managers of the impeachment and members of the house appeared at one o'clock, when the minutes of the session of the senate as a court of impeachment, held on the 5th inst., were read. The return on the writ served upon the ex-secretary having been read, Mr. Carpenter read and had filed a plea denying the jurisdiction of the senate to try Belknap on the articles of impeachment, as the late civil officer of the United States at the time such articles were found and presented to the senate. Mr. Lord, on the part of the managers, asked that time be allowed them until the 19th instant to consider what replication shall be made to the plea of Belknap, and it was so ordered. On motion of Mr. Edmunds the committee on privileges and elections, to which was referred the question of the proper amount of compensation to be paid P. B. S. Pinchback, late contestant for a seat from Louisiana, reported a resolution that it is inexpedient to back the sum equal to the compensation and mileage of a senator for the whole term, or for the term for which he was a contestant to the termination of the contest by the senate. Ordered printed and to lie on the table. The committee on appropriations reported the deficiency appropriation bill with amendments, including the following: To pay the expenses of transportation, custody, and maintenance of the Modoc Indian prisoners of war, $40,000; for the interior department, $115,000 for the war department, $14,000 for the treasury department, $21,000 for the Smithsonian institute, $8,000 for the United States commission of food for fishes, and $25,000 for the Jacob Hills commission. The morning business being the bill for the repayment of Pennsylvania moneys, the senate proceeded to the consideration of the bill, which, after debate, was passed.

In the senate, on the 18th, Mr. Sherman reported favorably on the senate bill to amend the laws relating to legal-tenders of silver coin. He gave notice he would call it up Thursday. The bill reported and recommended for passage by the committee, in its full text, is as follows: There shall be coined at the mints of the United States a silver coin of the weight of 412 5 grains troy of standard silver, the emblems, devices and inscriptions of which shall conform to those prescribed by law for gold and silver coins of the United States, with such modifications thereof as may be necessary to distinguish dollar distinguishable from the trade dollar, and in the coinage and delivery thereof the same deviations from standard weight and fineness shall be allowed as are prescribed by law for the trade dollar. The silver dollar herein authorized shall be a legal-tender at its nominal value for any amount not exceeding twenty dollars in any one payment, except for custom duties and interest on the public debt, and the trade dollar shall not be a legal-tender therefor. The secretary of the treasury is hereby authorized to exchange, for an equal amount of United States notes, which shall be thereupon cancelled, and not be again replaced by other notes, and all United States notes redeemed under this act shall be held to be a part of the sinking fund provided for by an existing law, the interest to be paid thereon as in the case of bonds redeemed under the acts relating to the sinking fund. Any owner of silver bullion may deposit the same at the mints, to be taken at its market value, to be ascertained and publicly announced from time to time by the director of the mint, with the approval of the secretary of the treasury, and to be paid for either in silver dollars or gold coin, or United States notes. The bullion for the coinage of said silver dollars may be procured in the mode provided for as to other silver coins by section 226 of the revised statutes of the United States. The charge and wastage to be accounted for as provided in said section. Mr. Morrill called up house bill making appropriations to supply deficiencies in the appropriations for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1876, and for prior years. Various amendments were agreed to, among them the following: For the payment of mileage to the senators who took their seats at the session convened on the 5th of March, 1875, by proclamation of the president, who were not members of the previous congress, $6,336. The amendment of the committee on appropriations, $25,000 to pay compensation and expenses of the Black Hills commission, was agreed to; also the amendment appropriating $75,500 to defray expenses of exhibiting articles belonging to the United States at the centennial. Mr. Paddock submitted an amendment providing that nothing contained in the bill should be construed so as to allow compensation to members of the Black Hills commission who are now receiving compensation as the law by the revised statutes of the United States. Agreed to. After executive session, the senate adjourned.

In the senate, on the 19th, immediately after the journal of yesterday's proceedings was read, the chair laid before the senate the message from the president vetoing the act fixing the salary of the president. Ex-Secretary Belknap and counsel entered at twenty-five minutes after twelve, and legislative business was suspended to resume the impeachment trial. Mr. Lord sent to the secretary's desk and had read the answer adopted by the house of representatives to the plea of Belknap, to the effect that at the time of the commission of the acts charged Belknap was an officer of the United States, and was such officer until after the house, by its proper committee, had completed its investigation into the charges against him, and were preparing for his impeachment, a fact known to him when he resigned. Mr. Carpenter, for the defense, asked for a copy of the replication of the house, and until Monday next to answer. Mr. Edmunds submitted an order that the respondent file his answer to the replication of the house by the 20th inst., and the managers file their rejoinder by the 29th, and that the trial proceed on the 27th instant. Agreed to. Legislative business was then resumed, and the house bill to declare the tax on oleomargarine oils and lards reduced was passed. Before the passage of the above bill, it was amended so that nothing in the act should have the effect to change the rates of the law respecting the evidence in any prosecution or suit. Mr. Thurman called up the motion entered by him several days ago to reconsider the vote by which the bill in regard to counting votes for president and vice-president was passed. He says he did not think the bill which passed the senate could pass the house of representatives, and the result would be no new law possessing the bill. Mr. Morrill, in reply as to the necessity of having a new law on the subject, said that since the bill had passed the senate a circumstance had been discovered which would startle the country when it was made public. It was a case where a vice-president was counting for himself, being himself a candidate, and counted a false or void return in his own favor. Mr. Thurman said he had seen it stated that this vice-president, when his attention was called to the fact that the return was false, directed the clerk to count and tear up the paper. That great man never did such a thing. It was no use to cancel the name of that man. It was no less than he whose hand wrote the declaration of independence. It was no less a man than Thomas Jefferson. It would not do now to make such a charge as that against him. The motion went into executive session, and soon adjourned.

In the senate, on the 20th, Mr. Morrill introduced a bill authorizing the secretary of the treasury to allow Mrs. Minnie Sherman-Fitch to receive, free from duty, the wedding present from the khedive of Egypt. Passed. After the expiration of the morning hour, the bill to amend the laws relating to the legal-tender of silver coin was taken up, and Senator Boggy moved to amend so as to make the silver dollar, authorized by the bill to be coined, a legal-tender for any amount, and also receivable for customs duties; and providing that the relative value between gold and silver of the lawful standard be fixed at fifteen and a half to sixteen. Senator Boggy's amendment was voted on the bill to amend section 4698 of the revised statutes, so as to allow a pension of thirty-seven dollars a month to soldiers who have lost both an arm and a leg, in lieu of twenty-four dollars a month now allowed. Ordered to be placed on the calendar. After executive session the senate adjourned till Monday.

HOUSE.

In the house, on the 15th, Mr. White offered a resolution instructing the judiciary committee to inquire into that Mr. Smith, journal clerk of the house, offered to prosecute and obtain bounty claims for a commission. Mr. Douglas reported a bill to amend the charter of the Freedman's bank. Made special order for Saturday next. Mr. Knott reported the senate bill to amend the law for the administration of oaths in impeachment trials. Passed. Mr. Hurd reported a resolution in the habeas corpus case of Hallet Kilbourne, the recusant witness in the real estate pool investigation, directing the sergeant-at-arms to make a careful return to the writ issued upon the cause of detention of Kilbourne, and retain custody of his body and not to produce it before the judge or court without further order of the house. He intimated that the testimony of Kilbourne was not required in the case, and that all efforts in the direction of investigation would be thwarted if he were taken out of the power of the house. Mr. Lynde offered, on behalf of the minority, a substitute for the resolution, directing the sergeant-at-arms to make a careful return to the writ of habeas corpus that the prisoner is duly held by authority of the house, and to file an affidavit against him for contempt, and to take with him the body of Kilbourne before the court in obedience to such return. Mr. Kasson hoped that the time was long distant when an American citizen would appear before the house and be solved was to find his final court in the house of representatives. Mr. Kelly supported the resolution offered by Mr. Hurd. He believed that the commission to examine into such a grave mistake, which no court has made, and which the house would not have made if it had had the information which its counsel. Mr. Hoar said this was a question not for the house. Was the agent of rights bound by the judgment of a single judge of the supreme court of the District of Columbia? If so, then that court has a right to do the same next week to the senate. He quoted from May's parliamentary law, to the effect that habeas corpus law in binding on the commons whatever, and that it is therefore competent for judges to have before them arrested persons for the purpose of parliament for contempt. Mr. Hurd stated that he had just been informed by the sergeant-at-arms that he had appeared before the judge this morning, and that a hearing of the case had been postponed until next Tuesday. He therefore gave notice that he would call the previous question Monday at three o'clock. Adjourned.

In the house, on the 17th, the debate on the Kilbourne habeas corpus case was interrupted by the house proceeding in a body to the senate to attend the impeachment trial of the late secretary of war. Returning therefrom, discussion was resumed. Mr. Tucker proposed an amendment to the resolution proposed by the majority of the judiciary committee, directing the sergeant-at-arms to appear by counsel before such court and to make a motion to quash or dismiss the writ, and to take such further proceedings as he should be advised, to raise the question of legality and propriety of the issue of the writ in the case stated in petition and by complainant. An acrimonious discussion followed, and at its close the amendment was tabled—86 to 149. The substitute offered by Mr. Lynde, directing the sergeant-at-arms to make a return to the writ and produce Kilbourne, was adopted—165 to 75. Adjourned.

In the house, on the 18th, the report of the committee on elections in the contested election case of Bromberg against Haralson was taken up. The report was unanimous, declaring the sitting member, Haralson, entitled to the seat. The report was accepted. The house then took up the Floyd contested election case, the resolution of the majority of the committee being that Mr. Walls, the sitting member, is not entitled to the seat, and that Jesse J. Finley, the contestant, is, the resolution of the minority being to the opposite effect. Several speeches were made, but no vote was taken. Mr. Scales introduced a bill to refund certain direct taxes on land, collected from citizens of the late resurrectionary states. At the evening session speeches favoring the transfer of the Indian bureau to the war department were made by Culberson, Hooker and Banning. Adjourned.

In the house, on the 19th, Mr. Lord reported a replication to the plea of jurisdiction filed on behalf of Belknap. The replication was adopted and ordered communicated to the senate. The sergeant-at-arms reported that he had obeyed the writ of habeas corpus in the Hallet Kilbourne case, and that Kilbourne was under custody of the judge by direction of the marshal. Mr. Whitehouse introduced a bill for retiring the commissioned officers of the United States into United States consols bearing four per cent. gold interest and having forty years to run. Referred. Mr. O'Brien introduced a bill to provide for the coinage of centennial coins. Referred. The bill provides for fifteen dollars and half dollars, one side of the coins to give a corresponding value to the coins of the other principal commercial nations. The house then resumed consideration of the Kilbourne habeas corpus case. After several speeches, the report was adopted—113 to 83. Mr. J. J. Finley was declared entitled to the seat, and was sworn in, taking the modified oath. The house took up the senate bill to repeal the act making restriction in the distribution of public lands in Alabama, Mississippi, Arkansas and Florida, combining with the provisions of the homestead law. No action was taken on the bill. The proceedings in the evening session were entirely devoid of public interest.

In the house, on the 20th, bills were introduced and referred as follows: To grant to Ohio the unsold and unappropriated public lands in that state; to limit the power of courts to punish for contempt; also, to enlarge the privileges of the writ of habeas corpus. Mr. Singleton, from the committee on appropriations, reported back the senate amendments to the consular and diplomatic appropriation bill, and moved that they be concurred in. Agreed to. Mr. Wells reported back the senate amendments to the civil tenency bill, some of which were rejected and some concurred in, the latter being read to the house. The bill to transfer the Indian bureau to the war department was then taken up, Mr. Scales in a speech opposing it and Mr. Cougar opposed the bill in the name of the churches of the country, of all religious denominations, which would look with amazement at this effort to substitute the sword for the bible. Mr. Mills advocated the bill, in the interest of the white men of the frontier. Mr. Hunton moved an amendment allowing officers on the retired list to be employed as Indian agents. Adopted. Mr. Sparks offered an additional section providing for the admission to United States citizenship of any Indian who may prove to the satisfaction of a court nearest to the reservation of his tribe or nation that he is sufficiently intelligent and prudent to conduct his own affairs and interests, and that he has adopted the habits of civilization. Adopted. Without making a final disposition of the bill the house adjourned.

Capt. Eads' Jetties.

There is complaint in New Orleans that Eads' jetties are turning out as well as they promised. A remonstrance, sent to Washington against the proposed removal of the government dredgeboat from southwest pass, says that Capt. Eads has not been able to accomplish what he promised, and that "since he has erected his jetties the water at the head of south pass has shoaled from seventeen to fourteen feet, and a bar has formed in the gulf in front of the jetties, on which there is now less than twenty-four feet, and rapidly shoaling." In Bennett's recently published "Louisiana as it is," Capt. Eads' work is thus spoken of: "The jetties at the mouth of the Mississippi, at the south pass, are all fair to be a success. Judging from the deepening of the channel up to the middle of the jetties, we expect to get over the twenty-five feet of water in less than six months." In the same pamphlet a popular description of the jetties is also given: "Imagine two rows of piling, twelve feet apart, to be driven in the bed of the river, from the mouth of the Mississippi, extending two and a half miles from deep water in the river to deep water in the gulf. The piles are to be spiled on the inside, like two lines of fences of plank and post, and fill to the tops of the posts with small willow mats and rocks. The inside twelve feet out of the line, the outside of the shallow channel, place two other rows of piling, filled with willows and rocks as the others were, and when completed the mattresses on top to the edges of the piling. Then two artificial banks are formed, and between these banks, the inside edges of the mattresses—is a surface of mud and sand about nine hundred feet wide, and two miles long, which is the new opening to play upon and wash out." It was expected that during the high-water season of 1875 this channel would wash out to depth that a vessel drawing twenty-five feet of water would be able to come up to New Orleans; but the petition of the delta farmers, just sent to Congress and Washington, alleges that the plan is not working such satisfactory results as were expected.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

PUBLIC OPINION.—Mr. Disraeli is credited with this reminiscence: I remember that I once asked one of the most sagacious gentlemen who ever sat in this house—Mr. Walter, the father of one of our colleagues now in the house of commons—and who had great knowledge of the press and of public opinion —I asked him, 'If you want to ascertain what is the public opinion?' "Well," he said, 'I do not say I ascertain public opinion is this—petitions may be got up and meetings may be got up, or the country may feel a great deal without expressing its opinion either by petitions or by public meetings; but,' he said, 'there is an infallible test, and that is the post. The way I always know what is the public opinion of the country is the letter-bag." He then had the conduct of one of those powerful journals which it is the boast of England to have in the house of commons. It was never so when I first entered it. He said: "I receive about one hundred letters a day, perhaps more; when there is anything suffering in the country; and I understand and find out what is public feeling from the letters that I receive, which tells me what the feeling of the country is, and I know it before petitions or public meetings—they follow it."

JEWISH POPULATION OF THE UNITED STATES.—A Jewish paper published in London says: "There are six million Jews in the world, a quarter of a million are to be found in the United States. We have no accurate means at present at hand to confirm or correct this estimate, as our decennial census returns give no distinctive enumeration of Jews; but we judge from a number of facts before us, that the estimate of the London Jewish paper is far too low. Rabbi Gotthiel, who is well informed, and careful in his language, says that the Jewish population of this city alone is over 70,000; and the Jews are to be counted by many thousands in all our large cities, including New Orleans, San Francisco, Chicago, St. Louis and Cincinnati. There has been a large immigration of Jews to the United States from various countries of Europe during the last twenty years; and the prosperity they have enjoyed has enlarged the current in this direction from year to year.—New York Sun.

FAMILY LIKENESS AND VITALITY.

Their Remarkable Transmission in Certain Royal Families.

In spite of certain alterations, the typical features peculiar to the houses of Guise and Lorraine were transmitted to all their descendants through a long series of generations. The Bourbon countenance, the Condes' aquiline nose, the thick and protruding lower lip bequeathed to the house of Austria by a Polish princess, are well-known instances. We have only to look at a coin of George III. to be reminded of the British royal family. During Addison's short ministry Mrs. Clarke, who solicited his favor, had been requested to bring with her the young prince that she was Milton's daughter. But as soon as the entered the cabinet Addison said: "Madam, I want no further evidence; your resemblance to your illustrious father is the best of all." The Compte de Pont, who died in 1867, at nearly one hundred told Dr. Froissac that during the restoration he often met in the salons of M. Desmousseaux de Givre, prefect of Arras, a man at whose appearance he shuddered as he would at the sight of an apparition, so wonderfully was he like Robespierre. M. de Pont confided his impression to the prefect, who told him, smiling at his prejudice, that the person in question had been Robespierre's natural son; that, in fact, it was a matter of notoriety.

Next to family likeness vitality or duration of life is the most important character transmitted by inheritance. The two daughters of Victor Amadeus II., the Duchess of Burgundy and her sister Marie Louise, married to Philip V., both remarkable for their beauty, died at twenty-six. In the Turgot family of fifty years the usual limit of life. The great minister, on the approach of that term, although in good health, repeated to his friends that it was time to put his affairs in order; and he died in fact, at fifty-three. In the house of Rothschild, in which the character of longevity is independent of the fact that several of its members met with violent deaths. The head of this illustrious house, Michael Federovitch, died at forty-nine; Peter the Great was scarcely fifty-three. The Empress Anne died at forty-seven; the under-tenderfoot Elizabeth at fifty-one. Of Paul's four sons, Alexander died at forty-two; Nicholas at fifty-nine; and the Grand Duke Michael at fifty-one. In the houses of Saxony and Prussia, on the contrary, examples of longevity are far from rare. Frederick the Great, in spite of his continual wars and his frequent excesses at table, was seventy-four; Frederick William III. was seventy; the Emperor William, in his seventy-ninth year, is still hale and hearty. In all countries of Europe families of long lives, nonagenarians, and centenarians may be cited. On April 1, 1726, there died in Paris a soddler of Montevart, in Champagne, more than one hundred years old. To inspire Louis XIV. with the flattering hope of living as long, he was made, two years previously, to present that monarch with a bouquet on St. Louis' day. His father had lived one hundred and thirteen years, his grandfather one hundred and twelve. Jean Surrington, a farmer in the environs of Berghem, lived to the one hundred and sixty. The day before his death, in complete possession of his mental powers, he divided his property among his children; the eldest was one hundred and three, and what was still more remarkable, the youngest was one hundred. Jean Golembiewski (the oldest man in the French army, if still alive), who accompanied King Stanislas Leczinski into France, belonged to a family of centenarians. His father lived to be one hundred and twenty-one, his grandmother to be one hundred and thirty.

Reorganizing the United States Army.

The committee on military affairs of the United States' house agreed upon a bill to reorganize the army. The bill practically is Banning's bill, with some amendments, and ordered it to be reported favorably to the house. It does not reduce the present effective force of the army, but reduces the number of infantry regiments from twenty-five to twenty, and the cavalry from ten to eight, thus reducing the number of infantry officers fifty-five and of cavalry officers fifteen, and increases the size of the companies and regiments. It does away with the regimental organization of the artillery, designated as the department of artillery, and provides that he may act as secretary of war in the absence of the secretary or temporary vacancy in the office.

It provides that suitors and post-traders shall be first elected by a council of the department commanders, approved by the department commander and the general of the army, and appointed by the secretary of war. It abolishes the staff of the general officers, and requires the general of the army to report reforms to Congress annually, and look to economy in all branches of the army. The bill is approved by the testimony of many of the officers of the army. It is a reduction of about two hundred officers, and suggests reforms which, if adopted, will, a Washington dispatch says, it is claimed, add greatly to the efficiency of the army.

STEINBERGER'S DISASTROUS FAIL.—The fall of Steinberger ought to be a warning to future adventurers who may dream of usurping a cannibal throne. They must understand that leanness is the indispensable requisite of royalty. It is generally known that not a single missionary has been eaten since Banting published his golden instructions how to become thin. Had Steinberger grasped the meaning of this fact, and brought down to the missionary standard of weight, he would not have tempted the Saxonan appetite, and he would be a de facto monarch. Eternal emaciation is the price of power among the cannibals, and the fate of Steinberger, who slowly fattened to his fall, shows that the tenderest feelings of the human stomach, can not be safely outraged and defied.

SHUN the inquisitive, for thou wilt be sure to find him leaky; open ears do not keep conscientiously what has been intrusted to them, and a word once spoken flies never to be recalled.

THE art of being happy lies in the power of abstracting happiness from very common things. If we pitch our expectations high, if we are arrogant in our pretensions, if we will not be happy except when our self-love is gratified, our pride stimulated, our vanity fed, or a fiere excitement kindled, then we shall have but little satisfaction out of this life.

A MAN may beat down the bitter fruit from an evil tree until he is weary; whilst the root abides in strength and vigor, the beating down of the present fruit will not hinder it from bringing forth more. This is the folly of some men. They set themselves with all earnestness and diligence against the appearing eruptions of lust, but, leaving the principle and root untouched, perhaps unsuspected out, they make but little or no progress in this work of mortification.

NORMAN M'LEOD was once preaching in a district where, when the reading of a sermon is regarded as the greatest fault of which the minister can be guilty. When the congregation, including an old woman, overflowing with enthusiasm, addressed her neighbor: "Did ye ever hear sic a sermon in a' your days? what a sermon ?" but her expressions of admiration being met by a stolid glance, she shouted, "Speak, woman! speak, that a body can hear!" "Oh, ay," replied her friend, sulkily, "but he read it." "Read it," said the other, with indignant emphasis, "I wadna ha cared if he had whustled it."

Curious Transfers in Stewart's Estate.

The New York Tribune says: While the late merchant prince still lay robed in the grave in his house on Fifth avenue, an inventory of his property was taken, the amount, according to current but perhaps inaccurate report, being found to be something like twenty-five millions of dollars. On Good Friday, the day after the funeral, his widow sold the entire property, only excepting the real estate in New York city, to Judge Hilton himself, receiving in payment the million of dollars with the deed man had left the judge for his service "in managing, closing and winding up the partnership business affairs."

This is a rapid succession of imperiant events. The business transactions are of a gigantic magnitude, and, on their face, seem of so extraordinary a nature that it is impossible to accept them as embodying the whole case, or as a possible finality. They are observed by the people of New York with the keen interest of legatees.

For there was given to the public, with the will, and by the authority of the widow and heir, a letter from Mr. Stewart to his wife, renewing his oft repeated declaration of his purpose to provide for various public charities, intimating that he had been engaged in elaborating several plans for the welfare of his fellow-beings, and had already begun some of them, and in the event of his death that she should depend upon his widow in carry them out. He added, that their friend Judge Hilton would give any assistance in his power, and referred her to him for details. There was no intimation that Judge Hilton was to bestow these charities. Mr. Stewart's letter informed his wife that he must depend upon her to carry out plans he had already laid. For the consideration of the million dollars which he gave to Judge Hilton, in order to secure and reward his interest in this matter, the widow has now, under the judge's advice, sold all the property, excepting the New York real estate, to the Judge himself. In other words, the judge seems to have traded his own legacy for the rest of the property.

The Duration of the Life of Man.

To ascertain how long a man should live, the learned reason from analogy. The duration of life with the horse, and with other animals of the higher species, is proportionate to the time expended in their growth. The learned and ingenious Flowrens has improved on the working out of this idea suggested by Buffon. All the larger animals, he observes, live five times as long as the time expended by them in reaching maturity. Thus:

| The Camel grows for | 8 | years and lives | 40 |
| The Horse | " | 5 | " | " | 25 |
| The Ox | " | 4 | " | " | 15 or 20 |
| The Lion | " | 5 | " | " | 20 |
| The Dog | " | 2 | " | " | 10 or 12 |
| The Man | " | 20 | " | " | 100 or more |

By a physical analogy, therefore, the ordinary life of a man should be 100 years at least.

The Cotton Frauds.

A Washington letter to the Baltimore Sun says:

"The committee on the expenditures of the Treasury Department have been investigating the operations of the cotton bureau, and have had before them a number of officials and ex-officials of the bureau. Secretary Bristow was before the committee recently, and declined to hand over certain records of the cotton division which the committee asked for. The Secretary based his declination on the fact that it was against the law to suffer the originals to go out of his custody, but said he would furnish the committee with copies, or the committee could inspect the originals at the department. The investigation confirms the suspicions heretofore entertained of the loose administration of this bureau under former Secretaries of the Treasury. A gentleman who occupied a prominent position in the bureau under Secretary McCulloch has testified that he was permitted to expend $100,000 without giving vouchers therefor. It seem to be demonstrated that Simon Draper, who was sent as cotton agent to Savannah by President Lincoln, failed to account to the government for a large amount of money which passed through his hands. Draper's seizures of cotton amounted to millions of dollars. It is represented that Draper seized all the private cotton he could lay his hands on, even taking from the Catholic Orphan Asylum two bales which the Sisters were about making up into mattresses. It is not probable that the full measure of the cotton frauds will or can ever be discovered by investigating committees."

The people of this section of North Carolina well remember the rascality of cotton agents who operated here just after the war.

The Follies of Indiscreet Women.

The Tar River Beacon, printed at Greenville, N. C., comes to us with the ninth chapter of a story called "The Wickedest Woman," written by Mrs. T. J. Jarvis, wife of Hon. T. J. Jarvis. Speaking in the commencement of this story of how doubly pure woman should be in proportion to the other high gifts that God has bestowed on her, the writer says:

"How often follies deepen into sin, and sin is the mother of great crimes. A pressure of the hand which means nothing—yet is too bold for friendship—a kiss, lightly thought of and lightly given, an amorous glance, may fire brother's or husband's arm to shed the life's blood of brave men, emboldened to such weakness by no other motive than the criminal vanity or self-love of woman. Yet how few of our sex realize until too late how real and earnest a thing life is! We know of more than one leader of fashion, keeping up the same eternal simper and paint and bedizzerment of finery in ball rooms and other festive scenes, who can and may lay her head upon her pillow without an anguished remembrance of a low grave in which has been laid a manly breast, whose young life's blood has been poured as a libation to the cold shrine of her self-love. Or name or fame of which she had been wickedly heedless."

Strange Cases.

The Washington (N. C.) Echo is reliably informed that a gentleman named White lives in Warren county in this State and he has never yet been able to speak to his own father, though he has made repeated attempts to do so and failed. The editor of the Age in this city endorses the Echo's statement as the truth, and says he knows the man's father has offered his son every inducement to speak to him but without success. When the Age editor was last in Warren the father and son were both living and the son was about forty years of age. We call this a remarkable fact and something more curious than will be seen at the Centennial. We trust parties who live near Mr White will write us and tell all they know of the case, the reasons White gives why his speech fails him on such occasions.

The Greensboro Patriot comes with old Mr Hutchison in Stokes county, 100 years old, never in court, on a jury or in town in all his life, don't know one letter or figure from another, owns a good farm, never sells or trades anything he buys, and if you asked him a question, wouldn't answer it to save your life till the next time he met you, and this old man has lived a hundred years at just such a life as this.

And next comes old man Miles Mitchener down here about Smithfield not far from this city. The Johnston Courier tells us that the old man keeps his well locked and wouldn't give a dying man a drink of water, a smart working old farmer, and yet has been under the impression all his life that the whole race of mankind had conspired to poison his well of water, and if anybody burns his fence he fires off a gun immediately to counteract the evil effect. Here are three old men all living in different sections and each one a curiosity. The woods are full of them if a man will just take the trouble to look.—Raleigh News.

☞ They were sitting together, he and she, and he was arduously thinking what to say. Finally he burst out with: "In this land of noble achievements and undying glory, why is it that women do not come to the front? why is it that they do not climb the ladder of fame?" "I suppose," said she, putting her finger in her mouth, "It is all on account of their pull-backs."

☞ A young and beautiful widow was about to marry a rich old widower. Her friends wished to know what she wanted to marry him for. She replied: "For pure love. I love the ground"—meaning the estate, probably—"on which he walks."

☞ A young lady, when invited to partake of the pudding, replied, "No, many thanks, my dear madame. By no manner of means. I have already indulged the clamorous calls of a craving appetite, until the manifest sense of an internal fullness admonishes my stay; my deficiency is entirely and satisfactorily satisfied."

The Bird Law.

From the Raleigh News.

At the request of a valued correspondent we republish the Bird law enacted at the last session of the Legislature for the protection of a specific class of birds in certain counties of the State named in the Act. Our opinion, in response to the inquiry of our correspondent, is that the law, like all others, must be construed literally, and therefore no trespass, or the pursuit of any other game, than is specifically set forth makes parties liable to the penalties imposed by the act. But it is in the power of owners of land under the laws authorizing them to post their lands to exclude trespassers of any description and in the pursuit of any game. The law of last Winter was enacted more for the preservation of certain birds, liable to extirpation, from pursuit within certain seasons than for the prevention of trespass.

Our correspondent views the subject from a sensible point of view, and we give below an extract from his letter, which breathes the very spirit we wish to see roused in the State. Whenever farmers come to the recognition of the superior importance of stock as an item of farm prosperity, then they will rise to demand the enactment of protective laws against the encroachment of idlers, who commit damaging trespass under the cover of sport. Let the farmers remember they constitute the vast majority of the voters in the State. If they wish their interests to be protected, they can have it done. He adds:

"We find it impracticable to preserve stock, particularly sheep, and allow the hunting of any class of game in our fields or on our farms. To allow one, is to allow all; to allow all, is to introduce all classes of men and dogs; and to allow all, is to destroy all. This is the practical result of the whole matter. Our section is beginning to make a start in good farming and stock raising, and the most intelligent of our farmers are, to a man, in favor of the strictest construction of the law. Birds, fences, and stock must be made inviolate."

AN ACT to protect birds in the Counties of Davidson, Randolph, Rowan, Anson, Warren, Guilford, Rockingham, Orange, Caswell, Mecklenburg and Edgecombe.

Section 1. The General Assembly of North Carolina do enact, That it shall be unlawful to kill or shoot, trap or net, any partridges, quails, doves, robin, lark or mocking bird or wild turkey in the above named counties, between the first day of April and the first day of October in each and every year, and any person so offending shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be fined not exceeding $10 for each and every offence.

Sec. 2. That it shall be unlawful for any person to take by net, trap or kill with gun any birds mentioned in section one of this act on the lands of any person living within the boundaries of the above named counties, to-wit: Davidson, Randolph, Rowan, Anson, Warren, Guilford, Rockingham, Orange, Caswell, Mecklenburg and Edgecombe, without permission from the owner or his agent of said lands, and any person so offending against the provisions of this act, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined ten dollars for each and every offence.

Sec. 3. This act shall be in force from and after its ratification.

Ratified the 18th day of March, A. D., 1875.

Jewish Population of the United States.

From the New York Sun.

A Jewish paper published in London, says that of the 64 millions Jews in the world, a quarter of a million are to be found in the United States. We have no accurate figures of recent date to confirm or correct this estimate, as our decennial census returns give no distinctive enumeration of Jews; but we judge from a number of facts before us, that the estimate of the London Jewish paper is far too low. Rabbi Gottheil, who is well informed, and careful in his language, says that the Jewish population of the country alone is over 70,000; and the Jews are to be counted by many thousands in all our large cities, including New Orleans, San Francisco, Chicago, St. Louis and Cincinnati. There has been a large immigration of Jews to the United States from the various countries of Europe during the last twenty years; and the prosperity they have enjoyed has enlarged the current in this direction from year to year.

No Daniel for Her.

To the best of our recollection he was an Arkansas man who was tried on account of trailing his "true in wardness" in the company of the wrong women. Under these painful circumstances, his wife was frequently compared to a "noble Roman matron;" but she didn't seem to mind it, and firmly declared her belief in her husband's innocence. When the day of the trial arrived, she sat in the court house all day and moved the jury to tears by arranging a fifty cent bouquet in the button hole of his coat. The case was at last opened, and the witnesses for the prosecution called. There were thirty or forty of them; but, before half-a-dozen testified, a mighty change came over the face of his wife; and, getting right up, and addressing her remarks to the Bench, she said: "See here, Judge; I'm satisfied if you are. Don't mind me; I can stand it. I reckon I'm into enough to get over it. Just hold on to him till called for; and, if enny woman wants him, he's her'n, and no questions asked." Then turning to her husband and snatching the floral tokens from his button-hole, she bitterly exclaimed: "Remember, from this day forward my home's a den of ragin' lions, and you ain't no Daniel."

Romance of Lamartine's Marriage.

The story of the marriage of the great French poet and statesman is one of romantic interest. The lady was of an English family named Birch, and very wealthy. She first fell in love with the poet from reading his "Meditations Poetiques." She was slightly past the bloom of youth, but still young and fair. She read and re-read the "Meditations" and nursed the tender sentiment in secret. At length she saw Lamartine in Geneva, and her love became a part of her very life. Not long after this she was made acquainted with the fact that the poet was suffering, even to unhappiness, from the embarrassed state of his pecuniary affairs. Miss Birch was not long in deciding upon her course. She would not allow the happiness of a lifetime to slip from her if she could prevent it. She wrote to the poet a frank and womanly letter, acknowledgeing her deep interest and profound respect, and offering him the bulk of her fortune, if he were willing to accept it. Of course Lamartine could not but suspect the truth. Deeply touched by her generosity, he called upon her, and found her to be not only fair to look upon, but a woman of a brilliant literary and artistic education. He made an offer of his hand and heart, and was promptly and gladly accepted, and in after years Alphonse De Lamartine owed not more to his wife's wealth than to her sustaining love and inspiring enthusiasm.

Kissing the Bride.

The custom of kissing the bride at a wedding is of great antiquity, and while among the most refined classes it has fallen into disuse, it is still insisted on by many people with great vigor. A very amusing story is told of a Kentucky backwoodsman who had, after a long and ardent courtship of the belle of one of the Kentucky cities, won her for a bride.

She had, for a long time, wavered in her choice, undecided whether to take him or a gentleman of wealth and position in the city, but finally chose the humbler lot in obedience to her heart. The wedding was celebrated in great style, and the manly groom was almost as much admired for his colossal proportions and athletic symmetry as was the bride for her exceeding loveliness.

Among the guests was the unsuccessful suitor, who was well aware of the jealousy with which the groom had regarded him, but who had overcome his chagrin at his failure, and was sincerely anxious to congratulate the bride. One by one the guests offered their good wishes and hearty kisses, while the groom looked on with approval and delight. At length, among the rest, came the rejected lover.

The young groom watched him keenly but without the least animosity in his expression. The unfortunate rival felt the delicacy of his position, and not caring to provoke the husband's ire, he did not proffer the salute which was customary. As he was giving place to others, after wishing the newly-married pair well, the groom grasped his arm with his iron fingers, and in a low tone said:

"She's my wife, and I propose to see that she is treated as my wife should be treated. If you don't kiss her, I'll break every bone in your body."

Rather than quarrel, the gentleman kissed the not unwilling bride, and the groom was satisfied.

"I'll Pay You for That."

A hen trod on a duck's foot. She did not mean to do it, and it didn't hurt her much. But the duck said, "I'll pay you for that!" So the duck flew at the hen; but as she did so her wing struck an old goose who stood close by.

"I'll pay you for that!" cried the goose, and she flew at the duck; but as she did so her foot tore the fur of a cat who was just then in the yard.

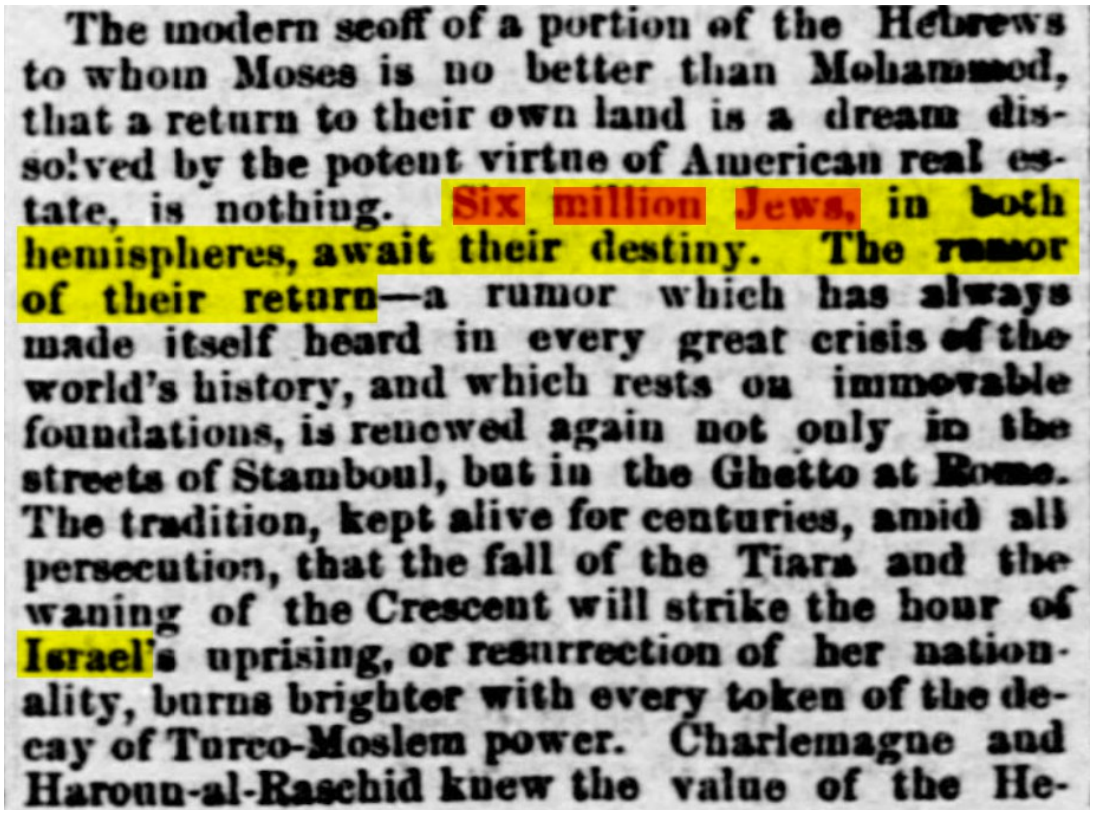
"I'll pay you for that!" cried the cat, and she flew at the goose; but as she did so her tail brushed the eye of a sheep who was near.

"I'll pay you for that!" cried the sheep, and he ran at the cat; but as he did so his foot hit the foot of a dog who lay in the sun.

"I'll pay you for that!" cried he, and he ran at the sheep; but as he did so his leg struck an old cow who stood by the gate.

"I'll pay you for that!" cried she, and she ran at the dog; but as she did so her horn grazed the skin of a horse who stood by a tree.

"I'll pay you for that!" cried he, and he ran at the cow. What a run there was! The horse flew at the cow, and the cow at the dog, and the dog at the sheep, and the sheep at the cat, and the cat at the goose, and the goose at the duck, and the duck at the hen. What a noise they made, so be sure!



"Hi! hi! What is all this?" cried the man who had the care of them. "I cannot have this noise. You may stay here," he said to the hen. But he drove the duck to the pond, and the goose to the field, and the cat to the barn, and the sheep to her fold, and the dog to his house, and the cow to her yard, and the horse to his stall. "I'll pay you for that!" said the man.—Nursery.

☞ An uptown man who believes in self-improvement, suggested to his wife recently that they should argue some question frankly and freely every evening and try to learn more of each other. The question for the first night happened to be whether a woman could be expected to get along without a Spring hat, and he took the affirmative; but when he was last seen he had climbed up into the hay-loft and was pulling the ladder up after him.

☞ A pious father entered a saloon with a horsewhip one night last week, and found his son playing euchre. He tanned the young man's jacket and sent him home.

Un artículo publicado en el The Weekly Kansas chiefdice que: "Seis millones de judíos, en ambos hemisferios, esperan su destino. El rumor de su regreso (a Israel)..."

The modern scoff of a portion of the Hebrews to whom Moses is no better than Mohammed, that a return to their own land is a dream dissolved by the potent virtue of American real estate, is nothing. Six million Jews, in both hemispheres, await their destiny. The rumor of their return—a rumor which has always made itself heard in every great crisis of the world's history, and which rests on immovable foundations, is renewed again not only in the streets of Stamboul, but in the Ghetto at Rome. The tradition, kept alive for centuries, amid all persecution, that the fall of the Tiara and the waning of the Crescent will strike the hour of Israel's uprising, or resurrection of her nationality, burns brighter with every token of the decay of Turco-Moslem power. Charlemagne and Haroun-al-Raschid knew the value of the He-

THE WHITE OF THE BRITISH EYE.

BY THERON BROWN.

Midnight stars on the blue bay quiver,
And mellowly on the mild air swell
The holy tones of the Old South bell;
And the Copp's hill sentries, sleepy and slow,
Answer back, as they come and go,
"Twelve o' the clock—all's well, all's well!"
And dark in the frith of Mystic river,
And over Point Lechmere's shallow bar,
Lazily lie the sloops of war;
And Governor Gage, in his city quarters,
Guarded (he thought) from the rebel arm
Of the rascal Putnam at Inman's farm,
By cannon on Boston forts and waters,
Dreams abed in his careless calm;
Nor ever a lisp of ill breathes by,
To lift the lid of a British eye.

"Past twelve o'clock—all's well, all's well!"
And nothing told to the Summer night,
That a thousand Yankees on Charlestown height,
With a thousand spades that rose and fell
To Liberty's heart-beats, hour by hour,
Were undermining King George's power.
And none of them guessed, on shore or ship,
How the boldest rogue in the rebel game,
The wolf-den hero of Ranger fame,
Had given their drowsy guards the slip,
Or thought what a deed of daring grand Old Prescott ventured and Gridley planned—
Till daylight broke with a warning cry,
And the hoarse, quick bark of the Lively's gun
Woke all the battle-dogs far and nigh,
With the red-coats mustering on the run;
And a solemn sight to the rising sun,
Was the stare, and the wonder how and why,
That opened the white of the British eye.

June Seventeenth, Seventeen Seventy-five,
Copp's Hill hummed like a hornet's hive;
Quoth Gage and Clinton, Burgoyne and Howe,
"What will we do with the Yankees now!"
They've stolen a march on Bunker and Breed's,
And a royal drubbing their treason needs.
To arms!"

And the drums and bugles called
From tent and barrack the red platoons,
Artillery, infantry, dragoons,
Till the sun in Heaven rose high and hot—
While afar, through tempest of shell and shot,
The sturdy minute-men, unappalled,
Their terrible toil in the trenches sped,
At the beck of Prescott's bald gray head,
Bare to the storm of iron and lead,
And echoed old Putnam's warlike shout,
As he ran and rode by the rude redoubt,
And fearless galloped his deadly round,
General, volunteer, orderly, scout,
To Cambridge and back to the battle-ground.

Half-past two. 'Twas a stirring sight,
When the King's cool regulars, trained to fight,
Marched up with discipline firm and fine;
While under the breast-work on the height,
The yeomen waited their leader's sign,
And Putnam's order ran down the line—
"Shoot them at forty yards—let fly
When you see the white of the British eye!"

Ah, vain was the valor of England then,
'Neath the awful aim of those raw, rude men,
So late the jest of her tongue and pen;
And a thousand red-coats rued her sport,
When that first hot volley out of the fort
Toppled the front of their plumed parade,
And mowed them down like a reaper's blade.
Three times, watching the foeman's van,
Each costless marksman covered his man,
And up to the fiery fusillade,
Three times, rallied in fresh array,
The regiments marched—and melted away.
For patriots' gun-shot range, that day,
Measured their need to strike and win,
Where powder was scarce and lead was high,
And shortened its deadly view-line in,
Till it showed the white of the British eye.

Cheer for Liberty's grand Old Guard,
The stern militia of spade and plough!
Grim, bare-headed, and battle-scarred,
They faced bold Pigot and haughty Howe
With hearts so mighty and hands so hard,
That made crowned Tyranny's forehead bow.
They fought till the red-barred sea went down
In smoke of cannon and burning town,
Earning a nation the right to life,
And the first green leaf of a long renown,
Bravely they fought, and they never quailed,
By twice their number and strength assailed,
But gallantly timed their strokes of strife
To "Yankee Doodle" on drum and fife,
And stood where bullets and bomb-shells hailed,
Till the fort was flanked—and their powder failed!

Honor the heroes who broke the sod,
And piled the bulwark of freemen's scorn
Against oppression, that ancient morn;
Who loaded their guns in the name of God,
And, served with faith to the trial fray,
Held the field till they won the day.
For England's triumph was England's woe,
When the flower of her veteran host lay low
At Charlestown, a hundred years ago;
And pity closed from the battle sky,
The stony white of the British eye.

Select Story.

A SURGEON'S STORY.

The regiment to which I was attached, was the Sixth New York. Its Colonel was an officer of great capacity and remarkable promise. Yet he was, withal, a cold, stern man. He was somewhere near fifty, and had come to New York from Italy, where he had been in service with Garibaldi. He was an American by birth, but had been away from his native land so long that he had become almost denationalized.

In the same regiment was a private, a young man of about twenty-five. He was a handsome, energetic young fellow, and one of the best soldiers in the regiment. He was of English birth, he said, and seemed to have no friends, no relations in this country, for he never received any letters or presents, as did the other men. He had frequently attracted the attention of his company, and some of the regimental officers; but to the astonishment of all, the Colonel steadily exerted himself to prevent any reward being given to the young man. Hill, for that was the name he went by, never complained, however, though he knew very well what was going on. He was strict in the discharge of his duty, and gave no cause for complaint.

During the winter of 1861–62, the army lay before Centreville, doing very little but scouting, picketing, and preparing for the spring campaign. Though there was nothing exciting in all this, it was very trying to the men, for the season was unusually severe, and the hospitals were well filled.

One morning, Hill came to my quarters.

"Well, Hill," said I, as he entered, "what can I do for you, this morning?"

"I wish to go on the sick list, if you please, sir," he replied, in a quiet tone.

I started, and looked at him searchingly. Though I had seen the young soldier often, I had never been in his presence before. He was a slight, finely-formed fellow, with the most effeminate face I ever saw. Had he been a woman, I should have called him a beauty; and as it was, I could not deny him the distinction of being pretty. His voice was soft and clear, and, though it did not seem to be that of a man, was hardly that of a woman. I gazed at him searchingly, but he bore my scrutiny well.

"You are not sick, I hope?" I remarked, at length.

"I am broken down, doctor," he answered. "I have been on guard for five successive nights."

"The deuce you have!" I exclaimed, in astonishment. "The regiment isn't so short of men as that, is it?"

"No, sir," he replied, quietly; "I was kept on by the Colonel's orders. He says the guard duty is very important just now, and he wants the best men in the regiment to be put on it."

"Has he kept any one else on so long?" I questioned.

"No, sir; I would not have come to you to-day, but that I know I am incapable of standing another night. I should fall asleep on post, from sheer exhaustion. Then, I suppose I would be shot for sleeping in the presence of the enemy."

"By Jove!" I muttered, "that's what Colonel Anson is up to."

I spoke louder than I intended. He heard me, and replied, in a tone in which there was some bitterness, in spite of his efforts to repress it.

"I am afraid so, sir. I do not see why Colonel Anson should dislike me so much. I have never merited his displeasure. Heaven knows," he added, and I saw his features tremble, as with a sharp pain, "I would die to serve him."

"Very good," I said. "You can remain at your quarters for two days, and consider yourself on the sick list for that time."

Thanking me, he went away.

The fellow perplexed me. I was confident that there was some mystery existing between him and the Colonel, and known only to these two. While I was musing upon this, the Colonel sent for me. He received me with cold politeness.

"What is the matter with Hill?" he asked.

"He is broken down by the unusual fatigue to which he had been subjected. Five successive turns of guard duty would kill a man much stronger than he is."

"Who has kept him on so long?" asked the Colonel, biting his lip.

"He was kept on by your orders, I believe, sir," I replied, looking him full in the face; "and I must say, Colonel, that I am surprised at your putting him to such a test, unless you wish to kill him."

Colonel Anson started, and looked at me very searchingly.

"Has Hill dared to reflect upon the conduct of his commanding officer?" he asked coldly, but without meeting my eye.

"He said no more than every one in the regiment has," I replied—"that he regretted having gained your dislike, as he was sure he had done nothing to merit it."

"Was that all he said, doctor?"

"He added," I replied, after hesitating a moment, "that he would gladly die to serve you."

An expression of intense pain swept over Colonel Anson's face; but he was silent. After a brief pause, he said, quietly: "I will not detain you longer, doctor. I am sorry to hear of Hill's sickness."

I was more perplexed when I left the room than I was when I entered it; and during the long winter, I had no means of gratifying my curiosity. Indeed, it was intensified by the fact that, at the request of Colonel Anson, the President promoted Hill to a vacant lieutenancy in his company.

At last we went to the Peninsula, and ere long my regiment was called on to participate in the desperate battle of Fair Oaks. That engagement brought me work enough, for my regiment suffered terribly. As hardened as I thought I had become, I grew faint and sick over the dreadful work that gave me neither rest nor hope of rest. The little field hospital which I had established on the edge of the swamp, seemed to be a perfect slaughter house, and I longed more eagerly than I had ever done, for a cessation of the fighting. It came at last, a little after 10 o'clock on Sunday morning.

I had cleared out my hospital, and had sent my last man across the Chickahominy. My assistants were absent for some purpose, and I was the only person in the little structure of boughs. Suddenly I was aroused from a reverie into which I had fallen, by the hurried entrance of some one. I looked up, and saw Colonel Anson standing before me. He was pale and exhausted, and was bleeding from a deep cut in the head. He held in his arms the inanimate form of Lieutenant Hill. I never saw so much grief in a human face as was written on that of Colonel Anson, as he laid his burden on the rude table.

"Be quick, doctor, for Heaven's sake!" he said, painfully.

"But you are wounded, Colonel!" I exclaimed, when my astonishment would let me speak.

"Never mind me," was the quick retort. "Attend to this one."

Hill was wounded in the breast, and I saw at a glance that it was a dangerous and doubtful case. I bent down to loosen his coat, and examined the injury. I could do no good. The aim had been true, and the ball had gone right through the heart. This was not my only discovery. I had learned a part of the mystery that had hung over Hill.

"Heavens, Colonel!" I exclaimed, looking up at him; "this is a woman!"

"The only one that ever loved me," groaned the Colonel. "She followed me here, in male disguise; and, this morning, when I was in danger, saved me, who had done nothing but wrong her, at the cost of her own life. She was my wife, doctor."

He left me, before I could speak.

This was all I ever knew. The next day, the Colonel was shot in a skirmish. I had him buried in the grave where we had laid his wife; and to this day, I have never learned the secret of their unhappy lives.

VENERABLE MILITARY PROBLEMS.

Most of the military problems which are to be solved by the war now in progress belong to antiquity. There are two great natural obstacles to an advance of the Russians upon Constantinople—the Danube and the Balkans. The Danube is a wide, deep river, the passage of which can only be made with ease at four points in the Turkish dependencies. But at each of these points the Turks have heavy fortifications. Widin, on the extreme right of the Russian advance, is mounted with Krupp guns, and is well supplied with all the modern appliances of war. Silistria, on the extreme left, has been the subject of equal care with the Turkish government. Widin, though frequently besieged, has never yet fallen. Silistria has been assaulted seven times by the Russians; and succumbed only once, in 1829. The intervening forts are also carefully constructed, and capable of stout defense.

These forts were projected at the time when the science of military bridge-making was in its infancy. It would now take the Russian military engineers but a very short time to throw pontoons over any part of the Danube they might select if there was no opposition. But the Turks have a flotilla of monitors in the river to the number of sixteen, carrying twenty-four Krupp guns. They are strong enough to make bridge-building very hazardous work. These are the new conditions under which the crossing of the Danube has to be made. The Russians have already made their way over it many times. It is expected if the crossing should be seriously resisted by the Turks, that some of the newest forces in warfare will be put to the test. The Russians have no monitors to oppose to those of the Turks. They can only cope with them by means of the torpedo, which many scientists believe is bound to introduce another and probably the last revolution in naval warfare. They can be made with an explosive force which nothing in the shape of iron can resist. The Danube once crossed, the next obstacle in the path of the Russians on their march to Constantinople, is the line of the Balkans, a mountain chain, through which there are only a very few passes practicable for an army. These passes are, of course, all held by the Turks. The Russians in 1829 crossed them by a stratagem, and advanced as far as Andrianople. The Turks on this occasion massed their forces at Shumla, and left the passes weakly defended.

But the Russians always demonstrate heavily on their extreme left—Kars, and after that upon Erzeroum. They laid siege to the former city during the Crimean war, but were repulsed. The place was held by an English officer. Considerable heroism was manifested in the defence. Success in this direction may make it the real line of the Russian advance. But there is nothing new in any of the movements. They have all been undertaken already many times. Two years seem to be the limit of most of these campaigns. In 1828 it took the Russians a year to cross the Danube—another to turn the Balkans. The Crimean war was a two years struggle. But then the Russians were not only fighting the Turks, but the English, French and Sardinians.—San Francisco Bulletin.

An Answer to Prayer.—A well known and much esteemed gentleman of the city, who by a peculiar accident became impoverished, was one day, not very long since, without food in his house for himself and family, though his friends and acquaintances never imagined that he was brought to such distress. He went to his closet and prayed for help, and that very day he received through the post office a letter containing a ten dollar bill. He does not know to this hour, nor has he the least idea, where the letter came from, and he implicitly believes God heard and answered that prayer. The cloud that overshadowed him has since been removed, and he is now employed where he earns a support for his family.—Boston Traveller.

TO MR. HAYES.

[In Iowa, the strongest Republican State in the Union, the opposition to Hayes' Southern policy is the most bitter. This feeling is illustrated in the following poem, published in the Iowa State Register, at Des Moines, the leading Republican paper in the State.]

To you, Mr. Hayes, I would like to propound
A clear, straightforward question or two;
What wonderful drug have your doctors prescribed,
That has wrought such a change upon you?

Whatever the name of this wonderful drug,
Upon you it has had the effect
Of making you do such contemptible things,
As to lose you all good men's respect.

Are those who opposed you by murders most foul,
And who did your supporters pursue;
Are these to be trusted more faithfully now,
Than the friends who stood firmly by you?

I know not, of course, what your motives may be,
But this much I will venture to say:
If actions speak truly, then yours indicates
That your party you mean to betray.

Could it have been known that you wo'd hasten so soon
The cause to desert and surrender,
The President's chair you would never have filled,
By even the claim of pretender.

For you, like a hero, brave Chamberlain fought,
And behold the reward he receives;
You desert him in need, and leave him alone,
To contend against cut-throats and thieves.

The Hamptons and Butlers you call to your aid,
And to them all your plans you unfold;
Their guilty, stained hands are clasped warmly in thine,
While your friends are deserted and sold.

And now, Mr. Hayes, I would ask you to pause,
Just to see where your policy tends;
You may distrust the North as much as you please,
But beware of your Southern friends.

Now, suppose for each friend you make in the South,
In the North you make enemies two;
What would be the effect of your policy then,
And wherein the advantage to you?

Yet this is just what you have done, Mr. Hayes,
You have bartered your true friends away;
And now you have neither the love of the blue,
Nor the fear or respect of the gray.

And now, Mr. Hayes, still one question more,
Let your answer be candid and fair:
Were you not, by the vote that Packard received,
Lifted into the President's chair!

Knowing this as you did, you calmly stood by,
And beheld the brave man overthrown;
And thus, by assisting his claim to defeat,
You have cast quite a cloud on your own.

His title, you say, to the Governor's seat,
Was extremely defective in law;
If this is the case, then it follows, of course,
That yours is not free from a flaw.

I trust you may never have cause to regret
Your preferring the gray to the blue;
And though you now sit in the President's chair,
I would rather be Packard than you!

MODERN EUROPE.

NO. VI.

THE EASTERN QUESTION.

VARIOUS SOLUTIONS OF IT—FOUR GUIDE LIGHTS—RUSSIAN TRADITIONS—THE PALESTINE QUESTION.

Various solutions of the Eastern question have been proposed. The first is the continued independence and integrity of the Ottoman Empire under reform. The second is to dismiss the Turk to Asia, and erect a new Greek Christian Kingdom on the ruins of the Turkish Mohammedan Empire. The third is to change the form of Turkey from that of an empire to that of a "bund," or confederation of States, each sovereign in itself, with a Sultan over all as a Suzerain, and not as an Autocrat, all being tributary to him and his Cabinet. The fourth is to partition Turkey between Russia, Austria, and England, each third part being under its respective protectorate. The fifth is to partition it similarly between Russia, Austria, and Germany, making Constantinople a free city, like Frankfort and Hamburg. The sixth is the conquest of Turkey by Russia, with the approval of Austria and Germany, for certain specified territorial considerations, and certain agreements as to the navigation of the Bosphorus, Black Sea, and Mediterranean.

The first is impossible. "Tanzimaut," or "reform," is a failure, after all that England has spent in this interest. So long as the Koran is the fundamental law of the Empire, it must perish, and for the Turk to become Christian is to end the Ottoman power. The second is only an exchange of one evil for another. A Greek Empire is impossible. The Greeks are only 1,000,000 in European Turkey, while there are 3,800,000 pure Osmanlis, or Ottomites (who would be helped by 10,000,000 in Asia), the rest being Moldo-Walachians, Bulgarians, Servians, Bosnians, etc., all Sclavic or mixed races of Roman, Greek, Armenian, and Sclavic blood. Ubicini's tables show that in Constantinople there are 475,000 Mohammedans, 205,000 Armenians, 130,000 Greeks, and 60,000 of other religions, besides many of none. The predominant races and religions would antagonize the minority, and to erect a Greek Empire would only be to compel the Christian Powers of Europe to uphold for the Greek what they are now upholding for the Turk. It would only put the Greeks in the place of the Turks, and at greater disadvantage. The third solution, that of a federal alliance of discordant States, laws and interests, is impracticable. The history of the old Achean league, the petty Italian Republics of the Middle Age, and even of the late German Confederation, forbid the experiment. The fourth plan, the partition of Turkey into three divisions, each under a protectorate of Russia, Austria and England, is simply a bribe to England, while all mention of Germany is omitted. Besides, the history of protectorates, such as the wolf gives to the lamb, is sufficiently illustrated by Æsop, if history itself were not a warning. The fifth plan, that of a partition of Turkey between Russia, Germany, and Austria, with Constantinople as a free city, and the Golden Horn a free port, infringes on all the Muscovite policy and traditions, and would be resisted alike by Russia, England, and France, if not by all the Powers. The sixth, the conquest of Turkey by Russia, with the acquiescence or co-operation of Austria and Germany, in view of certain territorial slices, here and there, inside and outside of Turkey, and certain provisions as to maritime relations, seems the more probable. This solution involves what has been expressed in the closing part of the previous article, viz.: the Danubian provinces to Austria; part of Egypt and the Island of Candia to England, in order to keep open her way to India; some further accession to Germany, northward; while the Bosphorus, the Straits of Gibraltar, and the Isthmus of Suez are made free to the commercial flags of all nations.

Previous to the Franco-Prussian War—that is, previous to the restoration of the German Empire, the unification of modern Italy and the establishment of the Austro-Hungarian monarchy, and while Russia was fettered by the Paris treaty of 1856, just after the Crimean War, this solution would have been impossible. The case is different now. The German and Sclavonic Powers are in good understanding with each other. France is prostrate, and Russia's preparations for war are on a tremendous scale. Her movements toward the Bosphorus are significant. The present generation is her time of opportunity. England and France both look with dread upon a Russian, Austrian, and German alliance, to attend to the case of the "sick man." Siberia, broken up into hailstones for canister, and driven by a tempest across the earth, would not be half so disastrous. Besides Russia's release in 1871 from the Paris treaty of 1856, is a portent of no pleasant savor. A late writer in England suggests that the United States might be invoked to assist England and France in an effort to resist the Czar, unless England should previously come to an amicable understanding with Russia, and leave Turkey to its fate. This, however, is to forget the friendly obligations the United States is under to Russia, for her assistance by a portion of her navy, off Charleston Harbor, when England threatened our blockade, during our late civil war. It is also to forget our obligations to the German Power. The United States will never assist England and France to maintain the fabulous independence of the Turkish Empire, now rotten to its core and barbarous to the last degree. The support England has given to Turkey has been England's shame long enough, and in that the United States will have no share.

Whoever watches the sweep of events, in connection with the progress of civilization, will observe four great facts, of the first importance in their bearing upon the Eastern question. The first is the altered condition of the Great Powers of Europe, within five years past, or since the end of the Schleswig-Holstein question and the Franco-Prussian War, already alluded to. The second is the tendency of the century to the consolidation of cognate races and nationalities into one common interest, so as to divide Europe into what foreign publicists denominate "Pan-Teutonism," "Pan-Sclavism," and "Pan-Latinism," the German people, the Sclavonic people, and the Latin people, each combining in common policy according to their respective national sympathies, and those the nearest each other, as the Germans and Sclavonians, supporting each other, as against the Romanic or Latin Catholic nations. It is this that lends such interest to the Alliance of Germany, Austria (somewhat doubtful) and Russia, in the solution of the Eastern question, and make, Russia's success most probable. The third is, that the principle of the "Balance of Power," on which the peace of Europe rests, is passing away and giving place to the principle of the political fusion of cognate races, languages, and interests, and consolidated empire. Family and national affections, popular sympathies and affiliations, are to reanimate international law and determine the government of the world. This alone would give Bosnia and Servia to Austria, and send back, after great conflict, the Turk to Asia. No more such policies as that of marrying Maria Louisa to Napoleon, in order to unite Austria and France, will ever be made by the Talleyrands of the future. The fourth is that every great people has its mission, and that, just as the contest of the German Emperors of the middle age with the Popes of Rome, and the events of the great reformation of the sixteenth century, and the whole policy of Germany, eminently conspicuous in the Franco-Prussian War, have been to attend to the case of the "Infallible Man," at Rome, so the uniform contest of the Russian Czars with the Sultans of Turkey, from the very beginning of the Ottoman Empire till now, reveals a Muscovite mission to attend to the case of the "sick man" at Constantinople. The Tiara and Crescent must go down together—the one under Germanic influence, the other under Sclavonic. And it may be that, if the Papal power in Austria shall be rallied in any tolerable degree to the support of the Turks, and Pope and Sultan make common cause, then the whole Protestantism of Christendom will be arrayed, in conflict, on one side, against the whole of Mohammedanism and the Papacy on the other. In that case, Germany, Russia, part of Austria, even England herself, and Italy too, will combine as against Turkey, part of Austria, divided France, and Spain. But whatever be the combination, if Turkey, depending on Catholic aid, is resolved to fight on, the war will become not only a European, but an Asiatic and African war. It will involve a Hemisphere. It is probable, however, that the influence of Germany and Russia, if England's support is withdrawn from Turkey, will hold Austria in the line of reforms, aloof from the policy of Rome.

The traditions and prophecies of the Russian people are revived to-day with unusual interest. One is an old one, "The Turkish Empire is to be broken by the races beyond the Danube." Another is, "The Northern people will get the Eastern Seven-Hilled City." This was rife long before the Turks took Constantinople, in 1453, and is even repeated by the Turks themselves. Another is, "Four hundred years shall the people of Ismael rule in the Stamboul," which term, added to 1453, makes 1853 for the time of its fulfillment, a fact already patent when it is remembered that not the Turk but the European Powers, since 1840, when Turkey was admitted, for protection, into the peculiar States' system of Europe, have held the Ottoman Empire at their mercy—an empire now virtually dissolved. The Empress Catherine, when founding Cherson on the Dneiper, last century, wrote over its western gate, "This is the way to Constantinople." And, to-day, the Christian population of Turkey, the "Rayahs," wait for the Czar as a coming deliverer.

With the settlement of the Eastern question comes the settlement of the "Palestine question." Look at the maps. It is part of the general issue. What shall be the fate of the Holy Land, for which Christian Europe, battling the Turk, sacrificed 6,000,000 of human beings, emptied the exchequers of Popes and Emperors, levied a tithe tax on every man in Christendom, called "Saladin's tax," and endured two centuries of toil and agony? What is to be the fate of Jerusalem, once possessed by the Saracen, now by the Turk? The house of Rothschild, a Jewish house, controling the capital of Europe, already holds a mortgage on Palestine for money lent the Sultan in the war of Greek independence, 1820-29. Recently it has made a bid for Turkey's "silver mines" in Asia, and "the city of Jerusalem" besides. In the development of the principles alluded to, in a preceding paragraph, the Jews will certainly find their nationalization again, and Jerusalem, redeemed from the sword of the Moslem, will wake the world to a new wonder, greater than when Godfrey stood with the Christian Banner on the Mount of Olives. Some new Tasso will yet sing "Jerusalem Delivered." Certain it is, that the Russian Jews have a tradition that "Constantinople is the Gate to Jerusalem." Still more, the Russian Government has erected, in the heart of its own empire, a place known by the euphonious title, "Vokresecuskee," which means "New Jerusalem," to which multitudes of pilgrims repair, every year, to keep alive the thought that Jerusalem itself, one day, will be, as they say, "The future capital of the Orient." This one thought the Muscovite rulers and teachers instil into the minds of the people. Under the wonderful political changes occurring in our day, it is not impossible that the Hebrews may yet, with the fall of the Ottoman Empire, be renationalized in their own land, and stand at the head of the future advancing civilization of the East. The paddle-wheel will yet dash the waters of Galilee into foam, and the shrill whistle of the locomotive be heard echoing among the hills of Judea, and along the plains of Sharon and Esdraelon. The wires of the telegraph will stretch from the Mediterranean ports to the Jordan, and beyond to the far East.

Nothing is to be gained by listening to stories of one month tourists in the Holy Land. Standard works are a better account. Palestine is capable of supporting a dense population. What is needed is the aid and spirit of modern progress. The old-fashioned early and latter rains begin to return and fertilize the soil, and furnish pure water. Already railways are projected from Joppa to Jerusalem, and to Egypt and the Persian Gulf. Jerusalem has become a telegraph centre. By a firman of Abdul Medjid, people of all nations, Jews among the rest, have been invited to settle in Palestine, paying nothing for the land for five years, and, at the end of that time, receiving a complete title upon the payment of a small amount. "It looks," says the London Times, "as if the restoration of the Jewish nationality in Palestine were now emerging from the realm of prophecy into that of actual history, and that the Jew is to have for himself what Greece and Italy have won—a country." An American resident of Palestine for years, writes: "The man may now be living who will see Jerusalem divide with Constantinople the discussions that pertain to the settlement of the Eastern question. It involves the fall of Turkey, the extinction of Mohammedanism, the restoration of Jewish nationality, and the triumph of Christianity." It is not for nothing that Russia already has a splendid colony just outside of the walls of Jerusalem, over 200,000 Greek Christians in Syria, and that her gold adorns the lamps of the Holy Sepulchre and the cave of the sacred nativity.

The modern scoff of a portion of the Hebrews to whom Moses is no better than Mohammed, that a return to their own land is a dream dissolved by the potent virtue of American real estate, is nothing. Six million Jews, in both hemispheres, await their destiny. The rumor of their return—a rumor which has always made itself heard in every great crisis of the world's history, and which rests on immovable foundations, is renewed again not only in the streets of Stamboul, but in the Ghetto at Rome. The tradition, kept alive for centuries, amid all persecution, that the fall of the Tiara and the waning of the Crescent will strike the hour of Israel's uprising, or resurrection of her nationality, burns brighter with every token of the decay of Turco-Moslem power. Charlemagne and Haroun-al-Raschid knew the value of the Hebrews, as do also later monarchs and Cabinets. Bismarck and Gortschakoff have them at their side. They know all languages, are familiar with all Governments, and are skilled in all literature and science. They have fought by the thousands in the armies of every Nation that oppressed them. Thirty-three of the bravest officers that fell at Waterloo, and sixty-eight at Gravelotte, were Jews. There are 3,000,000 of them in Russia, Germany, Austria, Spain, France, England, Holland, Portugal, and the United States. Turkey has 900,000, Arabia, 200,000, Africa 600,000, Persia, China, India, and the Sea Islands, 1,000,000 more.

The hour that tolls the knell when the Western Powers agree to lay the Ottoman Empire in Europe in its grave, will be significant for the world. And when the standard of Judah, by permission, is raised upon the walls of Jerusalem, the seas will whiten with sails, and steamers and locomotives will lead a march of the scattered Hebrews from all nations to the Holy Land, such as crusaders never saw. What Julian the Apostate could not do, with a million homeless Jews at his side, the Czar will accomplish when Russia shall find her moment again to declare war against Turkey, and enter upon the final solution of the Eastern question. The arts of European diplomacy may baffle and postpone the event, but the event itself is certain, Turkish bonds held by British subjects, and England's East India possessions, to the contrary, notwithstanding.

The Jews, themselves, have money enough for any contingency. They know how to use it better than any other people. And if any one doubts their disposition to use it in their own interest, or in the interest of the land of their fathers, the following credit given to his friend Tancred, prospecting in the Holy Land, in 1865, upon Adam Besso, his correspondent at Jarusalem, will dispel the delusion:

"My Good Adam:—Let Tancred have as much gold as would make the right-hand lion on the first step of Solomon's throne, and if he wants more, let him have as much as would form the lion on the left, and so on through every stair up to the throne. For all which, will be responsible to you the child of Israel, who among the Gentiles, is called "Sidonia." And if any one thinks that England may never fall in with Russian policy as to the Ottoman Empire, now that Turkish bonds are a bad investment, the holes that "London Punch" has just made with its last strokes, may let in some daylight as to the change of sentiment already begun.

"Ye Christian slaves, for freedom stoutly fight!
'Gainst Turks and tyrants, Heaven defend the right!
Time was when Moslem's faith high credit bore,
But Britons now believe in Turks no more!
Their due per centage since Turks ceased to pay,
We've lost our interest in the Sultan's sway."

TEN MILLION JEWS.

A Race Whose Future is Apparently Not to be Despaired of.

The Jewish population in the Russian empire is acknowledged to exceed 2,000,000. Next to that is Austria, with 1,200,000. These figures are rather too low than too high, because in the Polish provinces of both empires are many cities of considerable size—as, for instance, Brody, Wilna, and Tarnapol—where the population is almost exclusively Jewish; Hungary, Moravia, and Bohemia, in the Austrian empire, are thickly populated with Jews. Prussia, including the duchy of Posen, contains 223,000; all other German States, small and great, 200,000; France, 87,000; Holland, 75,000; Belgium, 13,000; England has 45,000. Italy, exclusive of that part which was formerly included in the Austrian empire, 32,000; half of this number live in Rome. The Turkish empire in Europe, 400,000; the Ionian Islands, 6,000; Denmark, exclusive of the German provinces and the Swedish kingdoms, 9,000; Switzerland, 4,000.

Besides these, there are large numbers of Jews living secretly in countries where they are forbidden to reside, or where they can only remain under very severe restrictions. There are, for instance, in the Austrian empire, the provinces of Tyrol, Salzburg, Upper Austria, Karnthen, Krain and Styer, where till recently the Jews were forbidden to settle permanently, several congregations and even synagogues, as the people have no objections against their living among them, and "the golden thumb" shuts the eyes of the government officers. The same may be said of several other countries and cities of Europe. For instance, in Saxonia proper, or in the Kingdom, no Jews were admitted, except a very limited number into the capital, Dresden. In Spain and Portugal, none will doubt that there are still thousands of Jews who publicly go to church and make annual or semi-annual confessions, but who are secretly the most devoted Jews. These considerations justify an addition of 37,000 to the above number, which makes it a total of 5,000,000 in Europe.

In the United States of America there are fully 250,000, there being nearly 80,000 in New York alone. In the Canadas, Central and South America, and the West Indies, there are about 50,000. As to their numbers in Asia and Africa, we can only estimate from the reports of travellers and others. From these sources, and taking into consideration the rapid increase of the Jews after their return from Babylonia, and from their extensive settlement in Asia and Africa, and especially in the large islands on those continents, it is reasonable to put down their numbers as equal to those in Europe and America, thus bringing their present number to over ten millions. In this estimate we do not take into account any of the descendants of the lost tribes. Whether they are to be sought among the Afghans in Asia, or the American Indians, or the Chinese, is a point we will not discuss here.

With ten million Jews living in the world, with Jews at the helm of state in England, France, Germany and Turkey, with Jews in position of power and influence in Italy, Belgium, and even Rusia, with Jewish bankers holding the purse strings of the foremost nations, with Jewish artists, novelists and journalists in the most prominent places in the old and new world, there seems to be no reason to despair of the future of the race.

Zach. Chandler's Joke.

Ruthford B. is possessed of a nice sense of humor, and through it oils the ugly way of life before him. But there is told one joke perpetrated by his old friend, Zach. Chandler, at which Ruthford did not laugh. He did not smile even.

Zach. was telling, in his hearty, lubberly way, to a circle in the White House, of which the President was one, of the delightful sensations and experiences he had felt and known since his liberation from office. Among other incidents, he told how he had encountered a sturdy old Democratic neighbor of his in Detroit. This old Democrat has fought and opposed Chandler in all things so bitterly that for years they had not spoken. On this occasion, however, they met, and the Democratic old gentleman, rushing up, seized Zach.'s hand in both of his, and cried out heartily:

"Chandler, I am glad to welcome you home. I am, indeed; and I am glad to see that all the papers speak well of you. They say you are honest, Chandler, and we know that you would not steal a dollar—but, Chandler, you would steal the Presidency."

Zach. himself laughed boisterously at this, but when he ceased, he observed that no one else seemed to see the point or enjoy the fun. On the contrary, there was a dead, awkward silence. Zach. looked disgusted, as one always does when his joke is snubbed, and then he said, with a snort:

"Well, by——, I did."—Donn Piatt in the Cincinnati Commercial.

There is a man out in Pennsylvania who is always idle, yet too busy to make himself a boot-jack, and who goes every night from the house to the barn, removes the grind-stone from its socket, pulls off his boots by placing them in the socket, replaces the stone, and walks back to the house in his stocking feet. This he has done for three or four years.

THE NEW CRUSADE.

BY A. CLEVELAND COXE.

[In the days of the voice of the seventh angel, when he shall begin to sound, the mystery of God should be finished, as He hath declared to His servants, the prophets.—Rev., x., 7.]

I.

Trump of the Lord—I hear it blow!
Forward the Cross; the world shall know
Jehovah's arm's against the foe.
Down shall the cursed Crescent go!
To arms—to arms!
God wills it so.

II.

God help the Russ! God bless the Czar!
Shame on the swords that trade can mar!
Shame on the laggards, faint and far,
That rise not to the holy war.
To arms—to arms!
The Cross our Star.

III.

How long, O, Lord!—for Thou art just;
Vengeance is Thine—in Thee we trust.
Wake, arm of God, and dash to dust,
Those hordes of rapine and of lust.
To arms—to arms!
Wake, swords that rust.

IV.

Forward the Cross. Break, clouds of ire!
Break with the thunder and the fire!
To new crusades let faith inspire;
Down with the Crescent to the mire!
To arms—to arms,
To vengeance dire!

V.

Forward the Cross. That night recall,
Of ravished maids and wives withal,
With blood that stained Sophia's wall,
When Christians saw the Cross down fall.
To arms—to arms!
Ye nations all!

VI.

To high Stamboul that Cross restore!
Glitter its glories as of yore.
Down with the Turk. From Europe's shore
Drive back the Paynim, drunk with gore.
To arms—to arms,
To arms once more!

VII.

Forward the Cross. Uplift that sign!
Joy cometh with its morning shine;
Blossoms the rose, and teems the vine;
The olive is its fruit benign.
To arms—to arms!
Come, Peace divine!

THE MUSCOVITE DREAM.

Russia's Celestial Ambition.

Your correspondent had an interview recently with a prominent Russian diplomat, whose name, for certain cogent reasons, I am not at liberty to disclose. It will be seen that the Russian official makes some startling assertions:

Upon asking whether Russia's intentions were really as disinterested as she had announced in her several circular notes addressed to the Powers of Europe, I was told that Russia intended to redeem her pledge as far as the aggrandizement of territory went, but that should she prove victorious, there was no reason to doubt that she would insist upon the independence of the different tributary States—namely, Bulgaria, Herzegovina, Roumania, Servia and Bosnia, and she could guarantee these provinces their independence, no matter against what Power. In other words, she would form a defensive and offensive alliance with these liberated territories.

Upon my asking whether Constantinople, in the event of Russia gaining decisive victories, would be occupied by Russia, I was informed that long before an army could be brought in front of the walls of Constantinople, peace would be made. The terms of peace, beside those spoken of above, would perhaps include the surrender, on the part of Turkey, of a portion of her fleet, and above all, the consummation of a treaty placing the city of Constantinople under joint control of all the foreign Powers. Up to this time a cosmopolitan city has been frequently talked of, and several theories been brought forward for its government, but it has never been practically tried. On Constantinople, then, if my informant is correctly advised, the first attempt will be made. The city will probably be garrisoned by troops of a neutral Power, while its virtual government will be invested in a legislative and executive body of men composed of different nationalities, and, perhaps, a tax or tribute will be paid to the Ottoman Empire. The plan in itself is feasible, and one which has often been spoken of without having been seriously advocated. Should the attempt to make Constantinople a compolitan city, and, consequently, a free port, succeed, the advantages accruing to all nations would be immense.

England would be the greatest gainer by it; hence there is very little danger that she will oppose the scheme. England need never fear, continued my informant, that Russia will ever attempt to jeopardize her trade in India nor ever try to deprive her of one inch of her Indian Territory. It would be, in the first place, absolutely impossible to send a force of men to defeat the English troops, aided, as they would be, by the natives. Hannibal may have crossed the Alps, but certainly no Russian General with his army will ever cross the Himalaya Mountains. And even could this difficult undertaking be accomplished and India conquered, the force which would have to be employed to keep that country in subjugation would be so enormous that it would more than counteract the benefits derived from its acquisition, especially as the Muscovite Government is not favorably looked upon by the Mohammedan population.

No, Russia has no intention of advancing into India. Her ambition is to become the master and possessor of a part of the Celestial Empire. Toward this end all her inroads into Asia are directed. China, with all its resources as yet untouched, with peaceful but industrious population, with its mineral resources, with its highly appreciated manufactures, all these offer far more temptations to Russia than the almost exhausted India. And how easy of access to Russia! With Turkistan as her vassail or tributary State, she can transport her troops to whatever part of the frontier of the Chinese Empire may be most advantageous, and no power can prevent her from helping herself to as much territory as she desires. With Constantinople a free or national port, and China intersected by railroads, Russia may control a vast amount of commerce.

It is true that there is a large population of Mohammedans in China; that the country is so thickly populated that it can put into the field an almost unlimited army, but it must be taken into consideration that the Chinese are not a warlike people; that they are very poorly armed, and have no leaders or generals. All of these facts were demonstrated in 1860, in the War of Formosa, and still later in the Corean Campaign. Nor would it be to the interest of England to oppose Russian advance into China, for naturally a great amount of trade would find its way to her Indian seaports, and though Russia may be a more dangerous neighbor than China, still she would certainly prove herself a more profitable one.

In my opinion, therefore, Russia, in making war upon Turkey, has a two-fold object. First, by her advance into Asia, to gain the right of way and passage to China, and second, by her operations in Europe, to obtain the freedom of the Panslavonic States, and make Constantinople a free and cosmopolitan port. She thus redeems her word in not aggrandizing herself, but at the same time paves the way toward securing immense benefit. For in China everything is found that is needed in Europe, and her teas, wool, rice and cotton, not to speak of her minerals, can be exported in such large quantities and in such an easy manner by railroads that it will revolutionize the commerce of the world.

I do not think this war will be of very long duration. Turkey has already recognized her own weakness, and as soon as Russia has concentrated sufficient troops on the Danube to be sure of success in an advance, I have no doubt that after one or two victories peace will be made on the basis which I have already mentioned. Turkey has been too dilatory in attacking Russia on the northern side of the Danube before a sufficient force could have been collected. It is now too late, and the final result may be safely anticipated.—Correspondence N. Y. Herald.

THE SECOND DISTRICT.

Reminiscences of Men and Events Connected With Its History.

SENECA, KAS, May 26.

Ed. Champion:—The allusion of the Troy Chief to a communication to the Champion, relating to the political influence that the Second Judicial District of the State has had upon the State and Nation, and reference therein made to many of its hitherto prominent public men, was very timely, because of noticing omissions of those who had borne well their part, and were equally subjects of consideration with those who were thus named.

The article was written purely from memory, and it is a matter of satisfaction that it has been the means of "bringing to mind" those things of "the early days."

Indulging in some reminiscence, I may say that it was my privilege to meet with Edward Russell on the 15th of May, 1858, at Iowa Point, a meeting having been held there on the afternoon of that day, in front of the store of Beeler and Williams, a firm consisting of William D. Beeler, then and afterwards prominent in the politics of Doniphan County, and Christopher M. Williams, a "Buckeye boy," brother of the Hon. R. M. Williams, now State Senator. They were then Free State merchants of large prominence, their trade extending to the Big Blue.

Having heard, in later years, Mr. R. in the Kansas Legislature, and listening to the silvery tones of his voice at the Republican State Convention of 1872, as in matchless dignity and persuasive eloquence, he presented the name of Thomas A. Osborn for the Chief Executive of the State, I think he there, on that May day as he had come up from Elwood—then a place of importance—the West St. Joseph—to speak at the pro-slavery town of Iowa Point, he attracted me more than at any later time, as he made an expose of the "Trojan horse," attempted to be concealed within the Lecompton Constitution, and modestly referred to himself as a native Alabamian, who, understanding from all the breadth of an expansive nature the inherent enormities of the "peculiar institution," stood forth with unfaltering boldness to proclaim his belief in adhesion to the rights of human nature.

The associates of Hon. A. Larzelere in the Territorial Legislature of 1859, embracing some as able men as ever sat in a Legislative body in Kansas, attest to his skill, judgment, wisdom and prudence as a presiding officer, and whose tact as a parliamentarian was displayed at the Judicial District Convention at Hiawatha last August. Senator Ingalls and the gifted Albert D. Richardson, were connected with that Legislature in a clerical capacity.

Never did a man publicly appear to much better advantage than did Mr. Richardson, in September, 1866, at the Republican State Convention at Topeka, when with the apostacy of the accidental President, Andrew Johnson; the going out of the life of Senator Lane, a few weeks previous, "under a cloud;" the hesitancy of the great party of freedom to adopt a resolution recommending the striking out of the word "white" from section 1, article 5, of the Constitution of the State; as the quiet, unobtrusive, but distinguished and honored journalist, reminded his hearers that he and they, as there might be retrospected, the thought that had been breathed, the purpose that had been developed, the works that had been accomplished by the vanguard of the army of freedom, on the blood-stained liberty-baptised soil of Kansas, that it was the hour for retrogression; but the company was then pressing and earnest to "go forward" and make all necessary conquests, from which should come final victory for the rights of all classes and conditions of men. Mr. Richardson's unfortunate and untimely "taking-off" brought many a pang to the heart of his old confreres, and the wide spread feeling was that he merited a better fate.

Noticing a way work in the course of human progress, the occasion is furnished for presenting Col. F. M. Keith, then of White Cloud, who, at the said convention, "bearded the lion in his den," opposed a resolution that had been submitted by the Committee on Resolutions, and with an unflinching spirit and determination, recited the stanza—

"Whether on the gallows high,
Or in the battle's van,
The noblest place for man to die,
Is where he dies for man."

and said, substantially, that he and his boys had shouldered muskets "to put down the rebellion," that the shackles had fallen from the limbs of the black man, and he proposed, that his influence should go in the direction of making him an American citizen.

Meeting Gen. Lane at the house of Orville Root, of Padonia, Brown County, who was also a member of the Leavenworth Constitutional Convention, in December, 1858, he expressed the belief that had he been in the Territory when Lawrence was sacked, the occurrence would not have happened. His belief was that Gen. Pomeroy and Gov. Robinson failed to do what would have been done, had he been in their places. Whatever should have been, it cannot be denied that he possessed a wonderful hold on the average man, and had certain born qualities for leadership.

Earl Marble has indeed cultivated the muses, and is destined to be a bard of no mean capacity; while Dr. R. J. Gatling, whom I met in the early time of Doniphan County, has most certainly won great celebrity as an inventor.

Our Second Judicial District, in its history, has embraced also the Counties of Marshall, Washington, Republic and Cloud, (formerly Shirley), but with its present territory, it has been the theatre upon which deeds of daring, bravery and true heroism have been achieved, that the world may be safely challenged to present any doings that are of greater relative importance and significance than those in which men and women on this soil have participated, and nobly borne their part.

It may be added, if we do not need completer histories of the local events that have transpired during the last quarter of a century, and if it may not show of wisdom to make at least yearly collections to them, through the coming time.

Butchery in the Name of God.

I remember during the Franco-German war a poem by John Brougham, published in the American journals, an impressive satire on the annexation of heaven in the cause of murder which kings make so freely. The Emperor William was always at it during his triumphal march in France. If he cut the throat of a spy or shot a Frenchman, it was always "by the grace of God." His brother, the Czar, has learned the lesson well, but he will have to imitate the German Emperor in supporting God's will with plenty of troops before he sweeps over Turky as the Germans devoured the roadways of France. The recent tremendous increase of military force on the German frontiers and in Alsace and Lorraine, look as if King William did not place too much trust in God, even now. That Europe at this moment is armed to the teeth, and that a careless word or act might deluge the fairest cities of the world in blood and carnage, does not say much for the practical good that Christianity has done for us. This is not the fault of the beautiful and humane principles of Christianity, but what a perversion of the Savior's teaching is this mutual and bloody butchery in the name of God!—N. Y. Times.

It is a funny circumstance, and illustrates the changes as time twirls, that 12 years ago this spring, Key surrendered in North Carolina, and actually hired a mule and rented ground and raised a crop that summer to get money to take his family to Chattanooga. He did not return to East Tennessee until fall, after he had realized from his corn crop. What confederate money he had was, of course, utterly worthless. And, after he had sold his crop, there was still not money enough to take his family around by rail, (which was several hundred miles), so he rigged up a wagon, in conjunction with another family, and in this primitive style the present Postmaster-General journeyed over the mountains to East Tennessee.—Tennessee Letter.

No heart but her own can ever know the agony that rends a Washington lady correspondent when she is trying to explain what it is about a Senator's wife who has red hair, one eye, freckles, and a wart on her nose, so irresistibly beautiful and universally admired.—Burlington Hawk-eye.

The Religions of the World.

New York Sun.]

"Will you be kind enough to let us know through the Sun which church has the largest membership in the world? Are there more Catholics than non-Catholics of all kinds? Several boys here are more than anxious for you to settle a question that we are in dispute about."—B. F. H.

The Buddhist religion is the one most extensively accepted in the world, having, in round numbers, 340,000,000 adherents. There are not more Roman Catholics in the world than people of other religious classes. The total number of Roman Catholics is about 200,000,000, against 80,000,000 of the Greek Church. 1,000,000 Protestants, and 6,500,000 of other Oriental Churches than the Greek. Of the 1,400,000,000 people in the world, about 1,000,000,000 are not Christians, but, with the exception of six million Jews, are what are called heathens. It will be observed from this that there is still a great field left for the spread of Christianity.

The California Election.

The California election is only another Republican rebuke to the soft-shell President. The Republicans stayed at home and the Democrats carried the State by a small majority—gaining the Legislature and insuring the election of a Democrat to the Senate instead of sargent. Let Mr. Hayes hold the reins a little longer and every State in the Union will be Democratic. He has gathered around him and appointed to office all over the country, men that are sore-heads and Democrats, and who have only the ruin of the Republican party at stake.

Next goes Ohio and Pennsylvania.

R. Clay Crawford as Osman Pasha.

The excitement for the past week has been over the discovery that R. Clay Crawford, an East Tennessean is the dashing young Turkish General Osman Pasha.

Crawford is well known in East Tennessee. He was dismissed from the Federal army and was afterwards sentenced to the penitentiary for robery. He made his escape and went to Mexico and was the leader of a band of thieves. He went from Mexico to Egypt and joined the Khedive's army and was a few months ago transferred to the Sultans army and is now the hero of Plevna. He is a bold daring bad man and is not afraid of the devil himself. He was raised in Hawkins county Tennessee.

Ten Per Cent.

The repeal of the conventional interest law did not work such wonders at last. Men are not seen rushing around town with cart loads of money to lend at 8 per cent. like some people said. The fact is money is more plentiful and no easier to get than it was before. And the fact is again the conventional interest law had no more effect in producing the scarcity of money and the hard times, than the war in Turkey had in making the Radical members of the Electoral Commission honest men.—Pulaski Citizen.

Senator Ingalls, of Kansas, who is generally disgusted with the conservative doings of the administration, grew somewhat sarcastic, the other day, at Leavenworth, when he said: "When a repentant rebel is caged as a Cabinet Minister and made chief attraction of a peripatetic menagerie, called on at every railroad station and compelled to speak his little declamation like a naughty pupil by his master, telling the multitude that he has been very wicked, but means to do better, and hopes in time to be a good Yankee, the spectacle is edifying and instructive."

The next triennial session of the General Convention of the Episcopal Church will be held at Boston, beginning Oct. 3, and continuing about three weeks. Between 350 and 400 delegates will be present, and the House of Bishops will hold their meetings in the chapel of Trinity Church, and the House of Clerical and Lay Deputies in Emanuel Church the opening and closing services will be held in Trinity Church. Among the important topic to come up for consideration are the proposal to change the name "Protestant Episcopal Church" to something else, and methods for simplifying and facilitating missionary work.

JUDGE BRADLEY.

Justice Bradley, of the Supreme Court, writes a letter to the Newark Advertiser, in answer to the charges of the New York Sun, noticed in these columns. He pronounces the story about changing his views and about the pressure brought to bear on him by Republican politicians wholly false. Not a single visitor called at his house the evening before the decision, and during the whole sitting of the commission he had no private discussion whatever on the subjects at issue with any Republican. As to the much talked of opinion he says:

The allegation that I read an opinion to Judges Clifford and Field is entirely untrue. I read no opinion to either of them, and have no recollection of express ing any. If I did, it could only have been suggestively, or in a hypothetical manner, and not intended as a committal of my final judgment or action. The question was one of grave importance, and to me of much difficulty and embarrassment. I earnestly endeavored to come to a right decision, free from all political or other extraneous considerations. In my private examination of the principal question (about going behind the returns) I wrote and rewrote the arguments and considerations on both sides as they occurred to me, sometimes being inclined to one view of the subject and sometimes to the other. But, finally, I threw aside these incubations, and, as you have rightly stated, wrote out the short opinion on which I read in Florida case during the sitting of the Commission. This opinion expressed the honest conclusion to which I had arrived, and which, after a full consideration of the whole subject seemed to me the only satisfactory solution of the question, and I may add that the more I have reflected on it since the more satisfied have I become that it was right. At all events, it was the result of my own reflections and consideration, without any suggestions from any quarter except the arguments adduced by counsel on the public discussion, and by members of the Commission in its private consultations.

Coal Creek Mines

A correspondent writing from Coal Creek to the Cincinnati Commercial in reference to the convict labor question says:

"The miners themselves say but little, but the citizens of the upper class express themselves freely, and talk of organizing and sweeping away the evil by force. There are not less than a regiment of ex-soldiers in Anderson county alone, and if trouble is precipitated it will be only ephemeral, for the convicts would be swooped down upon and released in a twinkling, and if the guards possess common sense they would offer no resistance. The fact that more guards than prisoners were brought up is in itself an insult to the citizens of Anderson county, but even were General Cheatham himself in command of the escort of thieves he would find himself more heavily overmatched than at Newsburg, South Carolina, in the spring of 1865, when he and General Logan had their rough meeting.

INDIAN AFFAIRS.

Five Men Die from Thirst on the Staked Plains.

A letter from Lieutenant Cooper, at Fort Concho, Texas, who was with the party of soldiers who become lost recently in the Staked Plains, in the north western region and who nearly perish from thirst, recounts all the horses gave out and the men fought to drink their blood. This only intensified thirst and the soldiers suffered symptoms of blind staggers, from which the horses died. The loss on the trip was four men and one citizen died from thirst, twenty-three horses and four mules perished.

The reported fight with the Indians and the massacre of soldiers in the Staked Plains, was a canard.

Arranging a Government for the Mormon Church.

A Salt Lake special of Sept. 7, says: A meeting of Apostles was held, and David H. Wells and John W. Young councilors to Brigham, were present to take steps for the future management of the Mormon Church. It was arranged that a quorum of Apostles meet in order to the President, assume control of the Church, Wells and John W. Young acquiescing. The meeting was amicable and arrangements are satisfactory to all present, and doubtless will be so to the Mormons, generally. John Taylor, first of the Apostles, is now virtually the head of the Mormon Church. A committee was appointed to manage the financial affairs until October the 6th, when the semi-annual church conference will be held and a trustee in trust elected.

OSMAN PASHA.

Not Bazaine but an Ex-Federal Colonel.

Louisville, September 4.—This morning's Courier Journal publishes the following: We have received the following brief but exceedingly explicit and pointed communication from a source which we have every reason to credit.

To the Editor of the Courier-Journal, Mount Washington, Kentucky, September 2d, 1877: "I see by a cable telegram in the Courier Journal that Osman Pasha, of the Turkish army, is believed to be General Bazaine, late a Marshal of the French army. This is a mistake. I happen to know very well who Osman Pasha is, as I have corresponded with him for several years and have received letters from him since he has been given command of a division of the Turkish army. Osman Pasha is an American, and a native of Hawkins county, Tennessee. His name is R. Clay Crawford. He was a Colonel of a regiment of artillery during the late war between the States. He afterwards entered the service of the Liberal Government of Mexico, and was made a General of a division. He created considerable stir by the capture of Bagdad, Mexico, passing his forces over the Rio Grande from the Texas shore. He finally quarrelled with Juarez, the Mexican President, and returned to the United States with a large fortune. He resided for several years at a beautiful country seat on the Delaware, near Philadelphia. His restless disposition caused him to seek excitement, and he entered the service of the Khedive of Egypt, was soon after transferred to the service of the Sultan and commanded the Turkish army at Plevna.

THE WAR IN THE EAST.

REPORTED CAPTURE OF PLEVNA.

London, Sept. 10.—The Russian army threatening Plevna is about one hundred thousand strong, with 250 guns. Up to Friday night only artillery had been used, and a correspondent reports Plevna as far from being taken as ever.

A special from Vienna to the Times says: "The Russians, who seem to have thought little of any danger which might threaten them from Rustchuk and Rasgrad are, it appears, beginning to take a different view. We hear, from Bucharest, that all reinforcements passing through towards Guirgevo to cross over the bridge at Cyrgos. The first detachment of the Guards Corps and a division of the Wilna Army Corps have taken that direction.

A Times Ostrog special says that the future movements of the Montenegrin army are uncertain, no definite plan of campain having been decided upon. Alluding to the last two the Albanian tribes are waiting for the capture of Nicsics to rise. It is probable movements in that direction may influence the plan of campaign.

The Times Vienna special says the reports in Belgrade that Germany is urging Servia to participate in the war are discredited here.

Manchester, Sept. 10.—The Examiner publishes the following dispatch announcing the capture of Plevna by the Russians; Sistova. Sunday night, September 9.—This morning an attack on all sides of Plevna was commenced, and was continued throughout the day. At 8 o'clock in the evening the town of Plevna was in the hands of the Russians, and the Turks were in full retreat in great disorder. The losses are enormous. Details have not been received.

The Daily News has the following dispatch from Vienna: The 6,000 Turks who were driven from Lovatz are said to be cut off from Osman Pasha's camp by the Russian cavalry. A Russian detachment is marching in great haste toward Sopia, which is wholly unprotected. This movement will stop the Turkish reinforcements, while the Roumanians block the road to Widdin.

The Times Bucharest correspondent telegraph the following: The Czar witnessed the operations on Friday before Plevna. A regiment of chasseurs of the Imperial Guard has already left Bucharest for the scene of action.

The Times Ostrok correspondent shows that the surrender of Nicsics was necessitated by the Montenegrins having stormed the positions commanding the citadel, the ammunition of the garrison also failing as evidenced by their feeble reply to the bombardment. The garrison which was originally 40 strong lost 20 during the siege in killed and prisoners.

The Post's Berlin correspondent states that Gen. Kaufman, of Khivan fame, has gone to the Danube to reorganize the Russian commissariat.

ANOTHER RUSSIAN DEFEAT.

Manchester, Sept. 10.—A special to the Guardian from Shumla, dated September 8th, says there was serious fighting on Thursday. The right of the Asagrad army under Nebjib Pasha was engaged all day. The losses are many on both sides. The Russians retreated beyond the upper Lom. The Rasgrad army has passed the Lom and now occupies Ablava. In consequence Popkoi and the whole region between Karasan and Osman Bazar was hurriedly evacuated by the Russians on Friday. They took the direction Biela. The field of battle now lies between Biela and Ablava. There have been heavy rains.

RUSSIANS RETREATING.

London, Sept. 10.—The Daily News' correspondent with the Army of the Czarwitch, describing the armistice to bury the dead, says: "Russian and Turk fraternized heartily whenever they met during the armistice. They shook hands, changed bread, bartered trinkets for tobacco, and for the first time in the war came together like civilized people. In the evening after the termination of the armistice the Russians evacuated Ablava, finding it useless to attempt to hold out longer with nine battalions against sixty. Late this evening the whole division reached Banitzka, where they bivouacked, together with a large number of the Thirty fifth division, retreating from Gazona and Polomarka." The correspondent on Saturday noon, says: "We broke up camp at Banitzka at sunrise this morning, and marched direct to Biela, in hopes of being able to reach Guiergevo by Biela, the Rutschuk road and Pyrgos Ferry. I rode along the line of fore-posts down the valley of Bonitzka Lom to Panzovatza. I found the town deserted except by a few Cossacks, who reported that the Turks had taken the Damogla part of the road and occupied Pyrgos, breaking up the ferry communication. Turning back to Biela, to make the trip by way of Simnitza, I found confirmation of this unwelcome tidings, and also the fact the Czarowitch, who had at Kaprivatze, on the Barretza Lom, wither he had retired from Rapuce when it became impossible to hold Palomanka and Gambrova, was expected at Biela this afternoon, Saturday. The Army of the Czarowitch will hold the line of the Vanitza, near Biela, with the 13th corps. As far as I can learn the 11th corps still holds out its position east of Tirnova. The 12th corps has retreated across the Russia and the Rutschuk road holding Terstenik and Metchka. The camp at Terstenik has been fortified within the past few days, and is situated on a hill overlooking the Danube."

REPORTED CAPITULATION OF NICSICS.

A Reuter telegram from Vienna says a dispatch received there from Centinje asserts that Nicsics has been capitulated.

The Religious of the World.

New York Sun:

"Will you be kind enough to let us know through the Sun which church has the largest membership in the world? Are there more Catholics than non-Catholics of all kinds? Several boys here are more than anxious for you to settle a question that we are in dispute about."—H. F. H.

The Buddhist religion is the one most extensively accepted in the world, having, in round numbers, 340,000,000 adherents. There are not more Roman Catholics in the world than people of other religious classes. The total number of Roman Catholics is about 200,000,000, against 83,000,000 of the Greek Church, 1,000,000 Protestants, and 6,530,000 of other Oriental Churches than the Greek. Of the 1,469,000,000 people in the world, about 1,000,000,000 are not Christians, but, with the exception of 80,000,000 Jews, are what are called heathens. It will be observed from this that there is still a great field left for the spread of Christianity.

Affairs in France Becoming Alarming.

The New York Tribune says: Private letters from Paris report that the situation there is growing as exciting and full of suspense as the third act of a melodrama. Jacques and his confreres are said to congregate about the wine-shops of St. Antoine, and indulge in fierce talk, while Madame Defarge, back of the counter with a flower in her hair, knits hard and scowls with dark er meaning than in the days of Jones the lockmaker. It is reported in these council chambers that the Prince Imperial is to marry the Marshal's daughter as soon as he is seated on the throne, as the price of McMahon's treachery to the Republic. Madame McMahon is also believed to hold all the strings which move the larger puppets, and hence that plump, well-preserved old lady, who drives comfortably about with a poodle in her arms, is doomed by the people to a worse fall that Marie Antoinette, if Jacques should ever get into power again. Meantime, the Marshal has crowded every alley-way with soldiers, the police force are doubled within the last three weeks, and all go about armed to the teeth. As half the soldiers in Paris two months ago had wives and sweethearts in the quarter of St. Antoine, city-born men have been ordered to the provinces and the forces now guarding the metropolis are all from the country. They are a lean, hungry, spiritless set of men, but will probably prove more effective tools should the Marshal find that the result of the elections calls for a coup d'etat on his part. Persons are even to be found who prophesy that this coup d' etat is certain and will be successful, and that the exposition will be opened next summer by the Empress and her son, instead of the Marshal and his comfortable wife. Baseless, as most of these rumors undoubtedly are, they give evidence of a feverish, excited condition of the public, mind, which must continue until the October elections restore confidence—or destroy it.

FRANCE.

Burial of Ex-President Thiers.

Paris, Sept. 8, 3 p. m.—The two line cleared Place St. George and streets adjoining the church. The cortege left the place at noon in the following order: Bearers of orders and decorations worn by deceased masters of ceremonies, families of deceased Senators, ex-Deputies, members of the French Academy of Moral and Historical Sciences, other classes of institutes, and Council Generals of the Seine. Deputations from various counsils-general and municipal counsils, and deputations from Anzin and other deputations were invited by the friends of the deceased. The open hearse was drawn by 8 horses, on which the coffin rested, and was covered with palm branches, wreathes of flowers immortelles and tricolored bows and rosettes. The whole route was lined with an immense number of people notwithstanding the rain. All shops are closed and display on their shutters a placard bearing the words: "National mourning." Perfect tranquility prevails every where. The rain ceased at 1 o'clock.

Madame Theirs was accompanied by Mademoiselle Dosne at the funeral service in the church of Notre Dame DeLorette. M. Gambetta was cheered as he left the church after the ceremony. The deputation from Belfort was the only one which carried a banner. At 2 o'clock the cortege arrived at the Boulevards, preceded by a squad of mounted gens darmes. The crowd everywhere respectfully uncoved as the coffin passed. Some shouts of vive la Republique," were raised at the top of the boulevard Montmartre.

DUCKTOWN AFFAIRS.

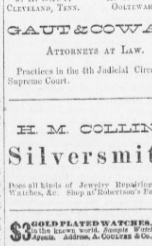
A Ducktown correspondent of the Chronicle speaking of convict labor says:



The legislation is nearly all the States, especially the Southern States, in which the Democrats hold a balance of power, has of late years been such as to favor the rich man, or capitalist, and oppress the poor or laboring class. Are not all the States in which convict labor used in competition with honest labor controlled by Democrats? Ere long, if the poor but honest laborers submit, he will be brought into a worse condition than that of abject slavery. Because, as a guard against loss, slave holders were compelled to furnish slaves food to sustain life; but, not so with the laboring class when driven from their employment by the competition of convict labor. They are forced to leave home—perhaps the land of their birth—in search of charity, because our Legislature, rather than protect the class of citizens that conduces to the wealth of the State by their industry, has seen proper to barter the welfare of a large majority of its citizens to Colonel, Shook & Co., thereby giving them a chance to accumulate a fortune by penitentiary convict labor.

To whom does the State of Tennessee belong? Is it to a few individuals? It seems to be governed in the interest of the latter. Economy is a poor excuse. The honest people of the States are willing to pay taxes to help support the penitentiary rather than bring about such a state of affairs as will wreck the hopes of the industrial class. Could not convict labor be used in making and keeping up our public roads, which, as the law now stands, and always has in the Southern States, is an imposition to the poor man, the truth of which every thinker can at once comprehend. Let them turn out in full force and elect men to office who will legislate for the benefit of our great and once proud State, and in behalf of her good citizens. Such a revolution must be brought about, or there will necessarily be found a remedy of a more potent and summary character when convicts with their striped suits are brought into mines and other public works to fill the places occupied by honest men, dependent upon their employment for sustenance for themselves and families, notwithstanding it may be urged by friends of O'Conner & Co., of favored fame or by such journals as the New York World, Knoxville Tribune and other like tone.

Samuel Cox (1824 - 1889) Diputado americano y diplomático, miembro de la Cámara de Representantes el 31 de julio de 1882 dijo en su libro Hisitory of the Jews in Russia and Polland from the Earliest Times Until the Present Day:

"La cuestión judeo-hebrea ha sido resumida en pocas palabras: 'La exterminación de dos millones y medio de personas porque son – Judíos!'

294 THE JEWS IN RUSSIA AND POLAND

pondence in reference to the proscription of Jews by the Russian Government."[1]

The pogroms of 1881, and the indignation they aroused among the American people induced the United States Government to adopt a more energetic form of protest. In his dispatch to the United States Minister at St. Petersburg, dated April 15, 1882, the new Secretary of State, Frederic T. Frelinghuysen, takes account of the prevailing sentiment in the country in these words: "The prejudice of race and creed having in our day given way to the claims of our common humanity, the people of the United States have heard with great regret the stories of the sufferings of the Jews in Russia." He therefore notifies the Minister "that the feeling of friendship which the United States entertains for Russia prompts this Government to express the hope that the Imperial Government will find means to cause the persecution of these unfortunate beings to cease."[2]

A more emphatic note of protest was sounded in the House of Representatives by Samuel S. Cox, of New York, who, in his lengthy speech delivered on July 31, 1882, scathingly denounced the repressive methods practised by the Russian Government against the Jews, and, more particularly, the outrages which had been perpetrated upon them during the preceding year.[3] He makes the former directly responsible for the latter. In his opinion the pogroms were not merely a spontaneous and sudden outburst of the Russian populace against the Jews, but rather the slow result of the disabilities and discriminations which are imposed upon the Jews by the Russian Government and are bound to degrade them in the eyes of their fellow-citizens:

[1 Compare Congressional Record, vol. 13, part 7, Appendix, p. 651. The same request for information was repeated by the House of Representatives on January 30, 1882 (loc. cit., vol. 13, p. 738; see also p. 645). In reply to the latter resolution President Arthur submitted, under date of May 22, 1882, all the diplomatic papers on the subject which were printed as Executive Document No. 192. These papers were reprinted on October 1, 1890, as part of Executive Document No. 470, under President Harrison.]

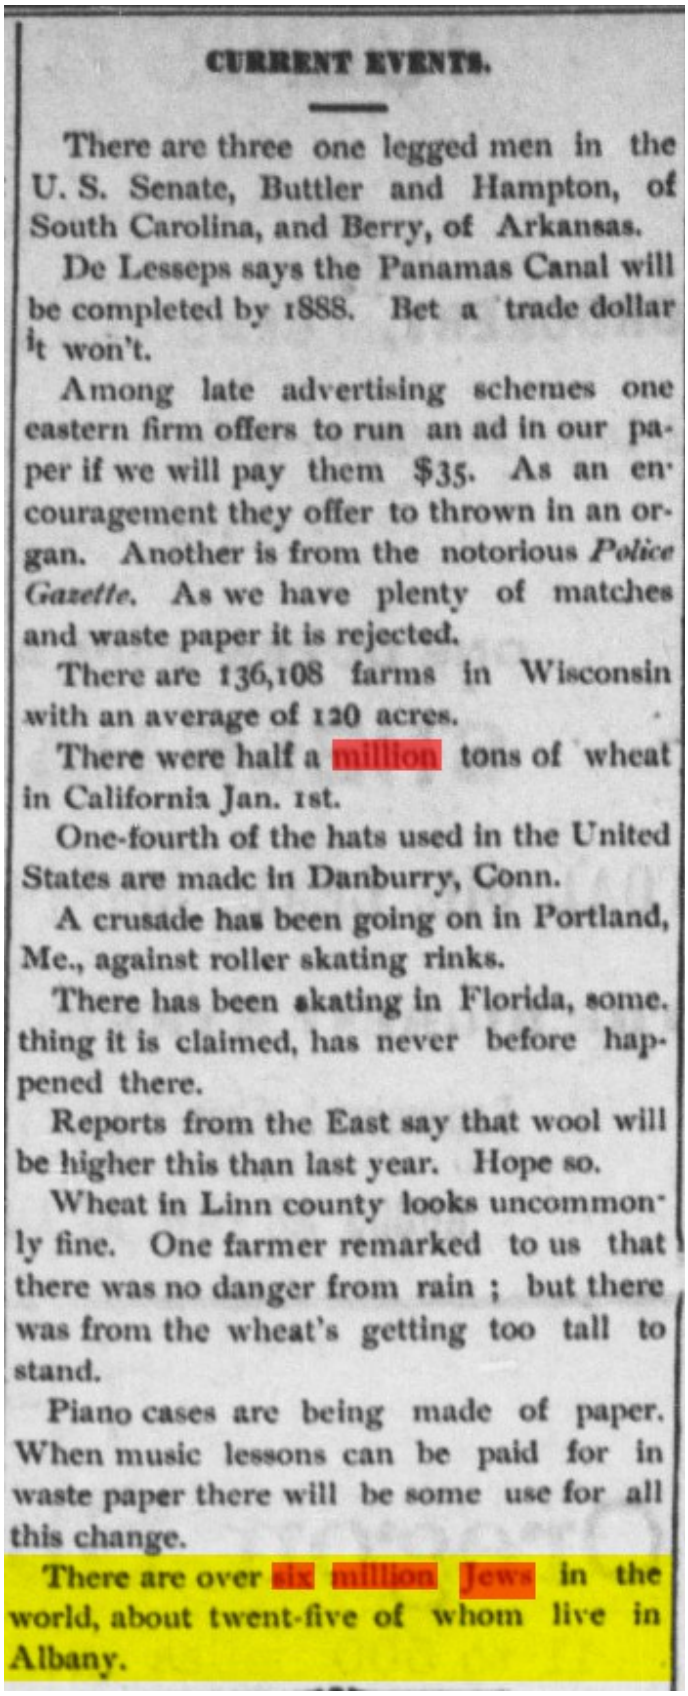
Is it said that the Russian peasantry, and not the Government, are responsible, I answer: If the peasantry of Russia are too ignorant or debased to understand the nature of this cruel persecution, they have warrant for their conduct in the customs and laws of Russia to which I have referred. These discriminate against the Jews. They have reference to their isolation, their separation from Russian protection, their expulsion from certain parts of the Empire, and their religion. When a peasant observes such forceful movements and authoritative discriminations in a Government against a race, it arouses his ignorance, and inflames his fanatical zealotry. Adding this to the jealousy of the Jews as middlemen and business-men, and you may account for, but not justify, these horrors. The Hebraic-Russian question has been summed up in a few words: "Extermination of two and one-half millions of mankind because they are—Jews!"[1]

After giving an elaborate account of the horrors which had taken place in Russia during 1881, he wound up his speech with the following eloquent appeal:



This people is one of the survivors, with Egypt, China and India, of the infancy of mankind. It is at the mercy of the cruel despot of the North. With a lineage unrivalled for purity, a religious sentiment and ethics drawn out of the glory and greatness of Mount Sinai . . . . with an eternal influence from its law-givers, prophets, and psalmists never vouchsafed to any language, race or creed, it outlives the philosophies and myths of Greece and the grandeur and power of Rome. It is this race, broken-hearted and scattered, to which the Czar of all the Russias adds the enormities of his rule upon the victims of the ignorance

OFFICIAL COUNTY and CITY PAPER.

The Formal Acceptance.

Last week the DEMOCRAT announced the formal acceptance by the management of the Oregon Pacific R. R., as it is familiarly known to us, of the proposition of the people of Albany for the extension of the road through this city. The first of the week the Committee on the $40,000 subscription received a formal acceptance from Col. Hogg on behalf of the road, of which the following is a copy:

NEW YORK, Jan. 19th, 1886.

Messrs. A. Hackleman, Geo. Simpson, J. A. Crawford and Committee on behalf of the citizens of Albany, Oregon:

GENTLEMEN:—I am in receipt of yours accompanying a subscription list of contributions agreed to be paid to the Willamette Valley and Coast Railroad Company on the completion of its line of road from Corvallis, Benton county, to Albany, Linn county, Oregon.

On behalf of the Willamette Valley and Coast Railroad Company, I accept the same on the terms named in said subscription. Instructions have been given to make thorough examination of the routes to Albany, so as to determine the most desirable; when that is decided work will be entered upon at the earliest practicable day.

Permit me to suggest that deeds necessary to fully convey any of the properties named in the subscription should be at once executed and deposited as agreed in said subscription. I am, gentlemen,

Yours Truly,
T. E. HOGG,
President W. V. & C. R. R.

As we have heretofore stated, the route of the road through Albany is only a matter of speculation. Engineer Eckelson has looked over the ground during the high water; but has not given the matter away, and probably will not until a formal survey is made. The road is coming and we have every reason to believe will reach Albany before the next harvest.

More Grandmothers.

Our friend, M. C. Calloway, says that while he may not be able to beat the story of the child at Shedd, (of which we gave an account some time ago that had something like 500 pounds of grandmother,) yet he can tell of a child that has more grandmothers in number. The child is Albert Bryan's. Its grandmothers are Mrs. Ed. Bryan, (Albert's mother,) of this city, Mrs. Reeser, of Walla Walla, mother of Mrs. Ed. Bryan, Mrs. Witzel, of Tangent, mother of Mrs. Albert Bryan, Mrs. Hurlburt, mother of Mrs. Witzel, and Mrs. Elizabeth Bryan, mother of Albert Bryan's father. We think without partiality in the case that these grandmothers get away with the Shedd grandmothers, and are each entitled to a chromo, which they can have by calling at this office.

The Catholic School.

In our last issue we mentioned the proposed Catholic school building to be constructed in this city during the coming Summer. Our figures, through misinformation, in reference to the cost of the structure, were somewhat too large. The building when completed will cost about $10,000. If the wings of the building are not built at present the present cost will be about half that. Mr. Gross, of the Depot Hotel, has shown us a drawing of the proposed building. It will be a handsome two story building with a large basement. There will be five school rooms, two music rooms, a large dormitory, cooking rooms etc. Six sisters will have charge of the school, which will go by the name of "The Convent of the Lady of Perpetual Help." Catholic schools are among the most thorough and best conducted and are always well patronized.

Hamilton Creek School.

The above school under the charge of Prof. J. B. Wirt closed a very successful term on last Friday, at which time appropriate exercises were had. This was the first term taught in the new school house, a fine double boxed building, 24 by 30 feet, planed inside and outside, and well supplied with good blackboards. During the term just closed Prof. Wirt's first class in spelling particularly did good work, completing the speller in the three months. Following are the names of the members of the class: Florence Burrell, Emma Slavens, Alice Todd, E A Davis, Frank Jennings, William Slavens, Fred Kleinhammer, Walter Reynolds, Samuel T Powell, John Burrell, Arthur Burrell, Sheridan Bellinger and William Todd.

A Hoax.

Friday night several shots were heard fired in the Third ward. The next morning a sensational story was started about how a citizen of that ward had been fired on by another citizen and hit in one of his heels. It was told in such a sober, matter of fact way that many believed it, one of the parties mentioned being known to be on the "shoot." Fortunately it was a hoax, a semi-tragedy being spoiled. In these "modern times" it is about as safe not to believe as to believe the current accounts of the day.

Small Burglaries.

On Thursday night of last week a rubber coat, some pie, cake, etc., were stolen from the residence of Mr. L. Senders, in this city. On the same evening a pane of glass was lifted from a window in Huffman & Noel's saloon, an entrance made, and a revolver, two nickel plated faucets, $3.50 and a few other things were taken. As a number of suspicious looking tramps had been loafing around the city during the day it is easy to hint at the thieves.

That Ghost Story.

The ghost story circulated on the street in connection with the county jail is looked upon the way ghost stories generally are. Strange noises have been heard. The only question is as to who was the guilty party. It is claimed that one of the tramp prisoners, Stewart and Fenton, is a ventriloquist. As Fenton seemed to be the most frightened he may have been the one.

The Mongolian's New Year.

Chinese New Years is being "whooped up" this week. "Whooped up" is a high sounding word and means a good deal. Sleepless nights, hideous, unfathomable, discordant, matchless, noises, is as near the correct definition as we can ascertain. The Celestial's New Year will not be celebrated in Tacoma, Halsey and Medford. The reason of this is that there are no Chinamen there. If there were only one poor opium jointed, cayote mouthed, greasy queued celestial in those places the sound of the broken metaled band would be heard. This office acknowledges the receipt of a supply of nuts that set ones teeth on end to eat. We could not help receiving them. It is a newspapers business to receive. It is a noticeable fact in the life of a newspaper that with Celestials the money all goes one way. We dare any of our exchanges to give an instance where a Chinaman paid for anything in solid cash. They are sometimes free for policy's sake with handkerchiefs and nuts but that is about the extent of their generosity. We wish the Chinamen of Albany a quiet New Years.

"A Duel in the Snow."

The above entitled drama will be presented at the Albany Opera House for the benefit of the Albany Brass Band on Friday evening of next week February 12th.

Following will be the cast of characters:

Sir Chas Audry..........R. A. Hohman
Captain Dartford..........W. Monteith
Thos. Titmouse..........Chas. Mueller
Monctor, Audry's friend..........Al Ewert
Eustach, Dartford's friend..........Al Ketchum
Lady Andry..........Miss Courser
Emily Lonsdale..........Miss Minnie Monteith
Gimp..........Miss Emma Schubert

The entertainment will close with a laughable farce entitled "A Kiss in the Dark," in which R. A. Holman will take the part of Selem Pettibone; Al Ewert, Frank Fathom; Miss Courser, Mrs. Pettibone; Miss Emma Schubert, Mary; Miss Minnie Montetith, Unknown. Prices of admission will be 75 and 50 cents. Reserved seats at E. W. Langdon's.

The Sanderson Bridge.

Last August in giving an account of a trip to the foot hills a DEMOCRAT man spoke of a conversation with several workmen on the Sanderson bridge, across the Santiam and said: "They freely expressed the opinion that without a breakwater just south of the bridge the approach would again be undermined and swept away and expressed in most emphatic language their surprise at the bank being ordered excavated as it only gave the water an additional opportunity to work against the land and under the peer." Their surmises are proving partially true. We are informed the approach is being undermined by the present high water in the manner above anticipated. Messrs. Kelley, of Sweet Home and Lee Morris, who were in the city Wednesday, on the other hand, tell us that they were at the bridge Tuesday, and do not believe there is any danger. Mr. Morris thinks the approach needs protecting though. The greatest danger was from brush wood lodging on the middle peer.

Forger Captured.

Several months ago the DEMOCRAT gave an account of how a man calling himself Whitney in Portland had certain certificates of deposit printed in Portland and then at Butte, Montana, Ogden, and other places tried to get money on certain bank paper. As a sequel to the above the same man was a short time ago arrested in Chicago, under the name of Hale. It now transpires that he was a partner of one of the most famous forgers, of this century, and has himself had a checkered career, having served nearly ten years for previous forgeries. On his last expedition he, with his gang, it is reported, collected about fifty thousand dollars, presenting forged paper to banks all over the United States, many times being successful. Although he obtained no money from Oregon we are glad to know that he has at last been brought to justice.

Where He Is.

We have several times lately been asked about what had become of Levi Buckner, alias Frank Taylor, who was recently indebted to Judge Boise's clemency for his liberty after pleading guilty of bigamy. Until now we have been unable to report. On Tuesday he was in the city and obtained a license for the marriage of himself and Francis Miller, and presume by this time the ceremony has been performed which makes them legal husband and wife, his former wife recently having obtained a divorce. We say legal under the supposition that the story of a third wife was untrue, as it probably was.

A Wet Experience.

A few days ago while on the Calipooia a few miles above this city, at the log drive, Mr Levi West had a narrow escape from drowning. He was on a horse on the bank of the river, when the earth gave way sending him and his horse into the water, Mr. West managed to get out at once, but the horse remained in sometime before reaching the bank.

Applicable Remarks.

In addition to the particulars given in our last issue of the gentleman on a recent trip of the "Yaquina" getting suddenly religious during a big storm, it is now reported that in order to make matters complete a collection was taken up. This so completely cooled him that all fright was taken away from him.

By indiscriminate trusting one could easily work up a big trade in even elephants. The incident is told us of a woman who recently bought a can of lard at a butcher shop and had it charged to Mr. Neverlet. Going past a grocery store a few moments later the butcher saw the woman trying to trade the lard off for some groceries. On another occasion at another butcher shop she bought some meat and had it charged to Mr. S. but did'nt know his first name. The above shows how easily it is to get taken in, and the necessity of storekeepers feeling the bumps on the heads of customers.

The man with money has to pay more for his goods because the man without money is in the habit of forgetting to liquidate. This is not right.

Half an hour a day devoted to reading good books will make an average head a library of information in a few years. Let Albany young people ponder.

High water affords an excellent topic for conversation during dull times. For unemployed men there is no finer sight than to watch the muddy, agitated waters of the Willamette, flowing, firmly but monotonously past.

A smoking machine that would save smokers the effort of puffing would be a grand and paying invention.

Entertainment at Lebanon.

The Lebanon amaturs will play the drama "Above the Clouds," Wednesday eve., Feb. 10th, for the benefit of the First Presbyterian Church. Following is the cast of characters.

Phil Ringold..........E E Montague.
Amos Gaylord..........B F Hardman.
Alford Thorpe..........Archie Hammer.
Howard Gaylord..........Charles Hackleman.
Titus Turtle..........Frank Ballard.
Nat Naylor..........Charles Harris.
Curtis Chipman..........Allie Nickerson.
Hester Thorne..........Hela Gilbert.
Lucretia Gerrish..........Lizzie Hackleman.
Grace Ingalls..........Frank Gilbert.
Susy Gaylord..........Mary Montague.

Dropped Dead.

Last Tuesday evening a fire caught in Rader's butcher shop at Corvallis. Mr. W. M. Pitman, who lived opposite, started to give the alarm and put on the water for the fire department. He had reached Sorbin's Corner, where he was speaking to some one when he suddenly dropped to the ground and expired immediately. Heart disease was the cause. Mr. Pitman was in the furniture business, and was a man highly respected. The fire was extinguished without the aid of the department.

Get Ready to Go.

Don't fail to remember that the art exhibition and entertainments of the ladies of the U. P. Church take place at the Opera House on February 23rd and 24th. One of the principal features will be a broom drill by sixteen girls of the U. P. S. S. A lunch will be spread each evening. The whole will be unique and probably one of the most interesting entertainments ever given in Albany.

Dry Goods, Notions, Etc.

My stock of staple dry goods, notions, dress goods, etc., is now quite good for the season. I will be adding every week new goods in new and desirable shades in dress goods as well as in novelties in dress goods and notions. Parties wanting cannot do better in this city than I can do for them in style and price. I buy either from manufacturers or importers direct. I keep no bankrupt stock, but sell you new, fresh goods and warrant them.

SAMUEL E. YOUNG.

Death of Elmer French.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. F. M. French received a telegram from Spring Valley, Minn., announcing the death of his brother, Elmer E. French. Elmer came to this city about two years ago. He was taken with consumption and returned to Spring Valley a few months ago, only to grow worse. He was about twenty-four years of age, was a member of Linn Engine Company No. 2, of this city. During the time he was in Albany he made friends with all with whom he came in contact, and was universally respected for his exemplary habits and manly bearing. There are many in Albany who will lament his death.

Tangent Ditto.

Last week the DEMOCRAT spoke of the loose manner in which some of Albany's young people conduct themselves. Since then we have been requested to note the fact that Tangent is also worthy of mention in this respect, perhaps in stronger language, two or three cases there in the last two or three months terminating in a manner to speak for themselves. These things hurt any community; and it is the DEMOCRAT's place as a public journal, laboring for the good of the communities where it circulates, as well as to disseminate the news of the day, to warn old and young who are in the wrong track to turn over a new leaf, for they are being watched.

Second.

Last Tuesday County Treasurer Farwell sent to the State Treasurer the last of Linn County's share of the State taxes, receiving a receipt Wednesdey, with the statement that Linn was the second county to pay its taxes in full. This speaks highly for the County, Sheriff Charlton and Mr. Farwell. Recently in one day $3,000 were taken in by the Sheriff, and $500 on the next day. Linn county may always be depended on to be in the front.

If a paper were to present its snow poetry in this valley only when the ground is covered with the slushy stuff the people here would rarely have an opportunity to be afflicted with it at all. The man who does not repair his house during a rain because he cannot, nor during good weather because it does not need it, will never get it repaired. Our contemporary on Second street should have its hands too full to be troubled about our being a few days behind on presenting snow poetry.

A MAN ABOUT TOWN.

The Man About Town met a gentleman a few days ago with a letter addressed to him as Hon. As he has never filled an elective office the title looked very suspicious, so much so that he offered to wager that the writer was a candidate for Governor. The idea was a very suggestive one. When a man wants office no title is too high flown for his friends. The readers of this column are advised to look out for the beguiling snares of the day. This is intended to be humorous latently.

O

Last Friday the M. A. T. observing an immense congregation in front of Gradwohl's hastened to make one of it and ascertain the trouble. An innocent looking crockery hogshead proved to be the center of attraction. A weighty discussion was going on as to its oat holding capacity. Ellis Knox insisted that twenty bushels were about the figures. Sylvester Dawson thought that was seven or eight bushels too low. Adam Settlemier said it would not fall less than thirty-five, and others vacillated between the two extremes, the M. A. T. airing his bucolic knowledge by announcing thirty as the correct number. In this manner the opinions of several hundred were obtained. The M. A. T. brushed the dust off an old arithmetic, got the hogshead and figured it out about thirty. Mr. Settlemier finally bought the structure and in time will give it an actual test.

O

The value of daily mails is appreciated when a blockade causes a delay of only a week. There are many Oregonians, though, who can remember when they rejoiced if they received Eastern letters once a month. The steam horse has almost annihilated time, at least abridged it in the matter of communication.

O

The M. A. T. is not in favor of this boycotting system, and believes it does more harm than good. He is in favor of proper organization of any body of men for the protection of their own interests. Particularly is there need of temperate action against the encroachments of the Celestial; but extreme measures are apt to be backacting. If the laboring men of Oregon would get rid of the Celestial they should be ready to do all the work the Celestial has done and just naturally freeze him out. But they are not. For instance this office has to have its press turned about two hours twice a week. Though the editors of the DEMOCRAT have often tried they have never found white men who could be relied on to do the work, or would do it.

Un artículo de "The New York Times" afirma que en el mundo hay 6 millones de judíos y 2/3 partes de estos viven en Rusia.

HOW MANY JEWS ARE THERE?

An estimate accepted at the opening of a Jewish Young Men's Club in Glasgow lately, says the Pall Mall Gazette, as the lowest that could be entertained, stated the number of the ubiquitous race at 6,000,000. It is distressing to hear that, with the exception of half a million, they are all in a state of political bondage. But the Young Men's Club just opened in Glasgow means to strive to cure that evil. "Did it not occur to them," asked a fervently-patriotic speaker of his more fortunate countrymen, "that, having obtained their own emancipation, a great deal fell upon their shoulders; that the Jews of the British Empire, and of France and America, if they were men with anything like pluck in their souls, would never rest content till they fought the battle for the great mass of their race who were still writhing under persecution. That was quite sufficient reason for the formation of Jewish associations, and he trusted that they, the young men of Glasgow, would not forget that in Russia alone there were 4,000,000 of their race whose every step was dogged by that curse, that abuse of Christianity, religious hatred and persecution."

Un artículo de "The New York Times" afirma que hay 6 millones de judíos viviendo en Rusia.

This territory was supposed in 1879 to contain about 25,500,000 inhabitants, of whom 3,000,000 were Jews. I say "supposed" because Russian statistics are wildly inaccurate, and are confessedly made up from tax lists, village registers, estimate of neighbors, and everything except actual counting. No better means exist now upon which to base a speculation as to the entire number of Jews in Russia. The number is placed all the way from 4,000,000 to 10,000,000. Probably the estimate of Paul Dimidoff, whose pamphlet published in Berlin last year is of great value on the whole Russo-Jewish question, of a total of 6,000,000 is most nearly correct. The Jewish rate of increase is almost as abnormally large as that of the French Cana-below the proportion which had been expected, enough Jews could be taken from the exempt class to make good the deficiency.

Let us pause at this to note a peculiarly characteristic Russian trick. These conscription lists were (and are) compiled upon the basis of the village or district registers. The way in which these are kept in itself suggests a whole chapter on Russian administration. It is enough here to point out that at its birth every male child is put on the registers by the doctor, but if he dies his name can only be taken off by the certificate of the village priest or pope. This affords one of the means of livelihood which the pope watches most closely and employs most profitably. Unless the dead urchin's of horrors, the rate, it will be difficult to tell with either completeness or adequate force.

THE JEWISH QUESTION IN RUSSIA.

[TRANSLATED FOR THE 'ARGUS' FROM THE 'FRANKFURTER ZEITUNG.']

The situation of the Jews in Russia has become so serious, in consequence of the Government measures taken against them, that it inevitably occupies public attention throughout the civilised world. It is a remarkable coincidence that the wholesale exodus of Jews from Russia takes place on the eve of the 400th anniversary of their expulsion from Spain. It is true the Russian Jews are not compelled to emigrate by their Government, but the present régime in St. Petersburg has deliberately undertaken the task to make the further sojourn in Russia so impossible to its Jewish subjects that the despairing Jews themselves adopt this alternative. They themselves thus free the Government of Alexander III. from the shame of having decreed the forcible expulsion of the Jews, and, it is hoped, from the hatred and contempt of the civilised world, which such a measure must bring upon them. Deprived of nearly every opportunity to work or trade; with every career closed to Jewish intelligence; when lawyers are refused permission to practise, in spite of their diplomas, and the exercise of their profession is even forbidden to medical practitioners of the Jewish faith; when all State appointments are refused, and practically every career is hermetically closed against them—what is there left to the unhappy children of Israel but to turn their backs upon a country which treats them with such unprecedented, refined, and systematic cruelty. One must have seen their present unfortunate condition to believe in its possibility? It seems as if the Russian Government knew of no more exalted or vital task then to get rid as soon as possible of its six millions of Jewish subjects, and yet there is no doubt that the country would have small reason to rejoice if the Government succeeded in realising this pia desideria. On the Western North Carolina railway on August 22, at 2 a.m., at Baston's Bridge (near Statesville), the west-bound passenger train, loaded with people, plunged into a creek, owing to the spreading of the rails. The descent is at least 65ft, and the whole train of cars was reduced to splinters in the fall. The Pullman sleeper leaped over all the others and struck the ground with terrific force, and was crushed like an egg-shell. Twenty passengers were killed outright, nine seriously injured, and twenty badly bruised. The night was dismal, and to increase the horror of the situation the water in the creek had risen. It was only by the most heroic efforts of those who lent assistance that the injured were not drowned. The passengers were taken from the wreck mangled in all sorts of ways. Only two or three bodies were intact. The engineer and fireman were cut into small pieces. Every person in the sleeper was killed.

Berlin is to have an elevated railroad built on the model of those in operation in New York, with the advantage of the motor power being electricity.

Edward Clark, James Heath, and Thomas Hays, seamen on the American four-masted ship Roderick Dhu, were arraigned before the United States Commissioner, Mr Hitchcock, in New York, on August 27, charged with mutiny while on the voyage from Havre, on July 28 last. The three men mutinied and made an assault on Captain H. B. Williams and his son, the mate. They armed themselves with knives, and threatened to kill the captain unless the ship was put back to Havre. They were overpowered and brought to New York in irons. The accused men claim they were triced up by the captain.

Sedan Day was celebrated in Berlin on September 2 with school fêtes, services in churches, parades of veterans, and banquets to the various garrisons. A large Imperial crown (commemorating the victory) wrought in copper was seen for the first time surmounting the dome of the Reichstag building.

Favorable forecasts are made of the sugar beet crop, especially in Germany, Hungary, and Moravia. Austria's yield will be in excess of that of 1890, and there will be a great increase in the yield of France.

Two negroes at Raleigh, N.C., sentenced to receive thirty-nine lashes, asked that spectators be admitted to see the flogging at 25c a head. This was agreed to by the authorities, and the blacks received the "gate money"—enough to pay all costs.

In future no British officer will be allowed to serve in the Chinese Navy. This is on account of the Chinese authorities refusing to furnish an explanation for an insult to a British officer.

During the performance of 'Lakme' at the Opera Comique, Paris, on September 7, the electric lights in the theatre were suddenly extinguished. The cause was found to be that the stage carpenter had become entangled in the belts of the dynamo. He was torn in shreds.

The banquet given on September 10 by M. De Freycinet to the French generals who took part in the army manœuvres and to the military attachés who watched them was a brilliant affair. In the course of a speech, M. De Freycinet said:—"Nobody now doubts that we are strong or that we shall prove to be wise. We know how to maintain that calmness and dignity in days of misfortune which have paved the way to recuperation."

The execution of Louis Bulling, a wife murderer, took place at Kansas City on September 4, and was attended by circumstances of the most horrible description. Just before the time for his death the doomed man shot himself in a vain effort to commit suicide, and died on the gallows shrieking for mercy and cursing his executioners. Up to a few days previous he was cheerful in expectation of the Governor's clemency; but when he heard that his appeal had been denied he fainted, and then began to indulge in large doses of opium. The sheriff extended the time for the execution one hour at the criminal's piteous request, and also gave him a pint of brandy, but neither the opium nor the brandy had much effect. Then he shot and wounded himself with a pistol, given him, it is said, by his spiritual adviser, the Rev. Mr Lavike. As Bulling sat on the scaffold he presented a revolting spectacle. The blood poured from his shoes, which were filled with it by the wounds he had made, and formed dark pools on the floor of the scaffold, dripping thence to the ground below. He cursed and swore at the deputies, cried and screamed for mercy, and shrieked in terror. Finally he was told to get up and stand on the drop. He refused, and four deputies had to hold him while the rope was placed. The black cap was then drawn over his head, and Bulling, screaming and blaspheming, shot through the opening. His neck was broken by the fall, and he died instantly. Immediately after the execution Mr Lavike was arrested for handing Bulling the pistol.

During the month of October, 1891, no fewer than 874 estates belonging to different members of the nobility will be sold at auction in Odessa at the instance of the State Bank, which holds mortgages against them. These estates are situated in thirty-nine governments of Russia in Europe. Nothing can better indicate the desperate straits in which the landed nobility of Russia is rapidly drifting, in spite of the Banque de La Noblesse established and fostered by the present Ministerial regime, than these foreclosure sales, which will scarcely net nearly cover the enormous advances made by the State Bank, because not only the Hebrews but all foreigners or foreign syndicates are unable to acquire landed property in Russia.

A collision took place on September 11 off Cape Colonna, the most southern point of Attica, Greece, between the Italian steamship Taormina, of the Messageries Company, and the Greek steamship Thessalia. The Taormina sank in a few minutes after the accident, drowning her captain, several tured and broken, and the uniforms of many of the men were torn to pieces, while many of the lasses fainted and had to be removed on stretchers. The crowd finally broke into the barracks and wrecked everything they could lay hands on. Later in the day the police drove the roughs out of the place and managed to restore order.

Mrs Theresa Fair, the divorced wife of James G. Fair, one of the "Californian Bonanza princes," so-called, died in San Francisco on Sunday, September 13, of fatty degeneration of the heart. She leaves a fortune of 5,000,000dol.

Official telegrams of September 14 report that 1,500 persons have been killed in the destruction of the town of Consuegra (Spain) by the overflow of the river Amargillo. The number of people who perished by the floods in the province of Toledo is now placed at 2,300, and the number of lives lost in other localities at 2,000.

Crawford and Sherca, two eight-year-old boys in Liverpool, confessed that, wanting the clothes of a playmate, they pushed him into the water and drowned him, and then pawned his clothes.

Prince George of Wales will, on the expiry of his leave, be appointed to the Anson, the flagship of the Channel squadron. He will not pass the winter either in India or Ireland.

The Prince and Princess of Wales and the Duke of Clarence were present at the wedding of Earl Dudley to Miss Rachel Gurney on September 14, the event attracting the entire attention of society. The famous Dudley diamonds, as they have been reset, consisting of six tiaras and parures, were displayed.

The Prince of Wales is about to visit Sir Frederick Johnston at Dumfries and Lord Lonsdale at Lowther Castle. Both the latter are noted sportsmen, fond of shooting by day and baccarat by night. In view of this fact, the watchful suspicions of the religious classes of the country are keenly fixed on the Prince.

Lord Esmé Stewart Gordon, brother of the Marquis of Huntly, and heir to the marquisate, was declared a bankrupt in London on September 11. He has unsecured debts to the amount of £31,302, and his assets are placed at about £8,000.

The Queen's health is reported to be not good, and her physicians regulate her diet more strictly than ever. The visitors find a notable difference in the Queen's aspect as regards age. At the earnest solicitation of the Emperor, the Queen will visit Germany next year, and during the visit she will stay at least ten days in Taunus with the Empress, whose magnificent chateau will be finished very shortly.

The Emperor is fully confirmed in his determination to have passed, at all hazards, at the next session of the Reichstag, a Bill to diminish and punish drunkenness. The Radical members, however, will oppose it to the uttermost, on the ground that it is an unconstitutional interference with personal liberty.

Immediately after the Copenhagen visits are concluded, the Czarina and Czarewitch, escorted by an imposing Russian squadron, will proceed in the Imperial yacht to Cherbourg. The French are preparing to receive their august visitors in a style that has not been seen in France since the days of Napoleon.

A League has been formed in France for the suppression of all forms of impure literature, photographs, etc., the traffic in which has, of late, increased to an alarming extent. The headquarters of the League are in Paris, and there are branches in all the large cities. M. Constans, Minister of the Interior, is the prime mover.

Mr A. P. Stockwell, of Springfield (Mass.), is a passenger for Melbourne by the Mariposa. He is sent there by the Y.M.C.A. to take charge of the physical work of the Association in that city.

Peter Sells, one of the proprietors, and Charles Stow, the general Press agent of one of the largest circuses that ever left the Pacific Coast for the colonies, are also passengers on the same steamship. Their show will follow in the October steamer from San Francisco.

Maurice Curtis, known in the profession as Samuel of Posen, a play in which he made a fortune, has been arrested for murder, which prevents his intended Australian tour. A policeman had arrested him for drunkenness, and later this policeman was found with a bullet through his brain, while Curtis was caught subsequently with the "nippers" still on his wrist.

The announcement that the Prince of Wales will revisit Tranby Croft this autumn has provoked loud outcries from the religious Press. The 'Methodist Times' of 4th September asks if the Prince has not a single friend in touch with the British people, and warns him that his conduct excites deep emotion among the middle and working classes, on whom the stability of the throne rests.

Since Turkey out-generalled England in a diplomatic way in granting to Russia the right to navigate the Dardanelles, the American papers have been filled with all sorts of war rumors. Ingenious stories have been invented and published broadcast, with a view to affect the grain and stock markets of the world, and to paralyzing the bourses of Europe.

The condition of the peasants in Russia is reported as being desperate. By next spring the entire Russian peasantry will probably be bankrupt. Reports from Warsaw show that the peasants of Central Russia are emigrating wholesale. Five hundred men have already abandoned their families and gone abroad.

The newspapers are beginning to publish the cures wrought by the "holy coat" of Treves, such as restoring of sight to the blind, and the curing of cripples. An abbess had her withered arm restored. Each case is reported to be sustained by medical testimony, but details will not be published till the exhibition of the relic is finished.

The proceedings of the Labor Congress held in Newcastle, England, up to September 12, disclosed that among the new trade unions and the newer members of the old organisations there is a preponderance of feeling that shows they are deeply imbued with Socialistic and kindred doctrines.

The Congressional party of Chili were finally successful over the would-be dictators, Balmaceda and his partisans, in a decisive battle, fought on August 28, at Vina Del Mar Beach and Quintero, in the vicinity of Valparaiso. The Congressional party had the advantage of a superior general in Canto, who out-manœuvred and outfought Balmaceda's forces at every point. When the tide of war turned against Balmaceda his troops deserted and joined Canto's forces, making the Congressional army's victory complete. The victors have used their victory with great moderation, and the result has proved that the Congressional war party were most acceptable to the country.

THE JEWISH QUESTION IN RUSSIA.

The situation of the Jews in Russia has become so serious, in consequence of the Government measures taken against them, that it inevitably occupies public attention throughout the civilised world. It is a remarkable coincidence that the wholesale exodus of Jews from Russia takes place on the eve of the 400th anniversary of their expulsion from Spain. It is true the Russian Jews are not compelled to emigrate by their Government, but the present régime in St. Petersburg has deliberately undertaken the task to make the further sojourn in Russia so impossible to its Jewish subjects that the despairing Jews themselves adopt this alternative. They themselves thus free the Government of Alexander III. from the shame of having decreed the forcible expulsion of the Jews, and, it is hoped, from the hatred and contempt of the civilised world, which such a measure must bring upon them. Deprived of nearly every opportunity to work or trade; with every career closed to Jewish intelligence; when lawyers are refused permission to practise, in spite of their diplomas, and the exercise of their profession is even forbidden to medical practitioners of the Jewish faith; when all State appointments are refused, and practically every career is hermetically closed against them—what is there left to the unhappy children of Israel but to turn their backs upon a country which treats them with such unprecedented, refined, and systematic cruelty. One must have seen their present unfortunate condition to believe in its possibility? It seems as if the Russian Government knew of no more exalted or vital task than to get rid as soon as possible of its six millions of Jewish subjects, and yet there is no doubt that the country would have small reason to rejoice if the Government succeeded in realising this pia desideria. For with the removal of its Jewish subjects Russia would lose a factor the importance of which in the economical, social, industrial, and commercial life of the giant empire has not been rated at its proper value. The Russian dough will scarcely rise when deprived of the Hebrew leaven. The Russian Jews are the moving element which is wanted most by the indolent and lazy slave, whose blood flows sluggishly through his veins; without which he will and must degenerate. The great manufacturers of Moscow are well aware of this fact, and have, therefore, utilised the recent presence of the Emperor in the holy city to hand him a petition, in which they assert that the removal of the Jews from their city would do infinite harm to trade and manufactures, and would act disastrously in the immediate future; that the exodus of the Jewish agents and merchants would make it impossible for them to dispose of their goods; that their works would have to be shut down, bankruptcies would multiply enormously, and a serious crisis become inevitable; that, through Jewish agents, 200 million roubles' worth of their manufactures are disseminated throughout the empire, and that the inevitable reduction in their sales would bring about their ruin. The Emperor replied to the deputation that the matter required much deliberation; that "perhaps" an alteration or reduction of the repressive measures might be possible; but that he could not consent to their withdrawal. A high official was then deputed to make inquiries whether the expulsion of Jews from Moscow would really result in such a serious crisis, and this notoriously fanatical and Jew-baiting Tchinovnik came to the following characteristic conclusion:—Though it is a matter of rejoicing, in the interest of the nation and of the orthodox religion, that Government has decided to remove from the holy city the enemies of the orthodox church and of all Christendom (the Jews), yet, on the other hand, it cannot be denied that the Jews are of great importance to its trade and industries, and that most of the measures taken against them are likely to result in great damage to the material interests of the country.

This report, however, has made no impression on the Pro-consul of Russia, M. Pobedonoscew, who is the originator of the anti-semitic movement; the Chief Procurator of the holy synod, who practically rules Russia through his unbounded influence over his former pupil, the Czar, is not to be moved out of his course by such considerations. What does it matter if a few merchants and manufacturers are ruined so long as national and religious interests are safeguarded? For M. Pobedonoscew's object in life is to convert the whole of the 6,000,000 Jews in Russia; he is a sincere fanatic, who wants to bring the Jews face to face with this alternative: either under the fold of the orthodox church or emigrate. Hence, the cruel pressure which is unsparingly applied. Through want and destitution, disabilities and persecutions, the Jews are to be converted to Christianity. The alternative is baptism or emigration, and the most barbarous means are employed to hasten the choice. M. Pobedonoscew, however, does not require conversion to Christianity, but to the orthodox Greek church exclusively; that church alone can confer human and civic rights; if the Jewish Pariah wants to become a Christian Brahmin, he must become orthodox. The Protestant and Lutheran churches, to which the oppressed Jews incline much more than to idolatrous, picture-adoring orthodoxy, cannot confer such rights on them. Moreover, the orthodox priests are ordered to baptise without delay any Jewish applicants, but Protestant ministers are forbidden to do so unless he has been instructed in their faith for eight months. Even then the proselyte must pass a public examination, the programme of which is so all-embracing, and the tests of which are so excessively severe, that to pass is almost an impossibility. As a matter of fact the vast majority of the proselytes fail, and the entrance of Jews into the Protestant churches is thus effectively barred. The ministers themselves advise the Jews not to try, and tell them that the requirements are too severe.

use any means to accomplish this object—the improvement of the Slavonic race. He knows that his policy has many opponents, who, however much they may sympathise with his object, disapprove of the means which he employs for its accomplishment, because these means contradict the most elementary ideas of humanity. The almighty Pro-consul is, therefore, careful not to bring his projects before the Ministerial Council or the Council of the Empire, where these draconic laws would be sure to be rejected, but obtains their sanction directly from the Emperor, a course which, even in despotic Russia, is considered illegal. But M. Pobedonoscew cares little about legality. La legalité nous tue! He abolishes existing laws, or causes them to be abolished by his creatures, and then procures the sanction of the Emperor, and by this course has caused an irritation which is rapidly spreading, and which in the near future may lead to deplorable acts of lawlessness, and even massacre.

The Russian people is, on the whole, very tolerant, knows no prejudices or race or religion, and is indifferent to such differences. Race hatred and religious persecution have been artificially inoculated into the Russian people from above; but as soon as they see that a certain nationality or creed is exposed to persistent persecution at the hands of the supreme Government—that its members are deprived of the most primitive human and of the most elementary civic rights—they jump at the conclusion that this treatment must be deserved. This is the reason why the Jews at present have become the objects of general hatred and contumely. Government, almost expressly, has declared them to be outside the law, and consequently towns and villages in which Jewish competition threatens the trade interests of the orthodox petition Government to 'expel them from their boundary. The fanatical and political orthodoxy of the Pro-consul is supported by the egotistical trade interest of certain classes of the population, and as the six million Jews appear to intensify the battle for existence to the seventy million of Slavs, the cry arises: "Away with the Jews! Away with Jewish competition." Ote-toi que je m'y mette! Thus it comes that while Moscow petitions the Emperor to leave the Jews unmolested, other towns pray for their expulsion, in order that orthodox traders may be relieved of their competition.

A DREADFUL RUSSIAN STATE PRISON.

Some fifty miles from St. Petersburg, upon the Lake of Ladoga, there is a small granite island entirely occupied by a fortress. It is Schlusselburg, the dreadful prison of State, worse than the French Bastile, worse than the fortress of St. Peter and St. Paul with its Troubetskoi and Alexeevsky ravelins and its underground cells. The most resolute of the revolutionists, men and women, who have taken part in actual conspiracies, whom it is not considered safe to keep in the fortress of Peter and Paul, are sent there. The absence of any inhabitants except those employed in the service renders it possible to isolate the prisoners to a degree unattainable anywhere else. No one is allowed to land upon the island; sentinels have orders to shoot anyone who approaches. If the near relatives of a prisoner inquire concerning him at the Police Department in St. Petersburg they are sometimes told "alive" or "dead"; sometimes no answer is given. The soldiers and guards are themselves prisoners, who mingle only with each other, and are carefully watched on the rare occasions when they are allowed to make a visit to the mainland. It was possible to establish secret communications with even the most jealously-guarded ravelins of the St. Petersburg fortress. But the fortress of Schlusselburg remained dumb, like the grave it is. Though some of the best known men of the revolution party, in whom the greatest interest was felt among the whole body of revolutionists, were kept there, we rarely could even tell whether they were alive or dead. A few months ago, however, our friends in Russia received some news from this place of endless misery. It is very brief, only such as can be conveyed upon a bit of paper smuggled with the greatest danger through some friendly hand. It merely tells which of the prisoners are dead and which are still alive, but even this summary is eloquent enough. We learn from it that out of the fifty-two prisoners sent there in the course of the last eight years, twenty, or about 40 per cent., are already dead. Several of those who survive should be added to the list of the dead. They are insane, and have lost what is as precious, if not more precious, to a man than life.—'Free Russia.'

RUSSIANISING THE POLES

A 'Times' correspondent gives the details of a revolting case of child-flogging which occurred in Warsaw lately. The little daughter of General Pusanoff was playing with a ball when it struck a boy named Winter, two years of age, who threw it back with some violence. For this he was beaten by the servant in charge of the little girl, and instead of taking the punishment quietly his back at the servant and called her names, which showed that he was a Pole and taught to look with contempt upon the Russians. The police were then called in, the boy was arrested, the matter was solemnly laid by written report before General Gourko, the Governor-General of the province, and the latter ordered the little boy to be flogged with twenty-five lashes. The child had no father, and so the police sought out his tutor or guardian, and told him if he did not carry out the sentence they would close his business house, a café and confectionery shop. The man, threatened with the loss of his livelihood, reluctantly consented. At the seventh stroke the child fainted, and the prison doctor, who was present, said the boy was of such a highly nervous disposition that he

THE BAFFLED BURGLAR.

It is 3 o'clock a.m.

"George!"

No answer.

"George!"

A slight groan.

"George!" This time she spoke a little louder and at the same time pinched her husband's ear.

"What's up? Can't you let a fellow sleep?"

"There are burglars in the house!"

"O, go to sleep. Don't bother me. You have told me that a hundred times before, and you know we never found one."

"Yes, but this time I'm sure of it; I heard them smash a pane and you can hear the stairs creak. . . ."

Sure you could hear them creak. George heard it with a start. He jumped out of bed, put on his dressing-gown, and looked through the keyhole. He looked right into the bulls-eye of a burglar's lantern.

To jump to his dressing table and take a pistol from one of the drawers was the work of an instant, then, the deadly weapon in hand, he posted himself behind the door. After a moment the handle was carefully turned from without, noiseless, almost imperceptible. Then the door was gradually pushed open.

"Hands up, scoundrel," cried George, while he placed himself suddenly in front of the burglar.

The latter grew ghastly pale, but did as he was bidden.

"Come in now," said George, "and mind, if you put your hands down I'll shoot you."

"George, think, I'm in the room. Don't let him come in," said his wife.

"Never mind about that. Come in, I say. And if you don't do exactly as I tell you, you're a goner."

"Think of the carpet, George, it has just been cleaned."

"We can have it cleaned again."

The burglar grew paler still. He seemed to make a movement towards his pocket, but George put the pistol right between his eyes. The burglar could feel the cold circle on his forehead.

"Be generous, boss," he muttered, at last, "I'm a first beginner, and was driven to this by poverty."

"Quiet, I say!" Then to his wife: "Now, Emily, you come here and empty his pockets."

"George, what are you thinking of? Remember, I am in night dress!"

"Well, I'll tell the villain to shut his eyes until you've put on your gown." Then to the villain: "Shut your eyes!" And to his wife again: "Be sharp!"

During the next few minutes George held his pistol with a firm hand on the burglar's forehead, while his wife made a hasty toilet. At last she was ready.

"Now, you brigand, two steps forward. Be good enough to remember what we agreed upon. If you move I shoot."

"Yes, boss," he said, meekly.

Then George's wife extracted from his pocket two revolvers, one sand bag, and a quantity of chloroform, sufficient to kill all the inhabitants of the town. There also was a whisky bottle half emptied and two bunches of keys. "Well, that ain't a bad outfit for a beginner," George said. "Now, what am I going to do with you? try to wake up the policeman, I suppose, and have you arrested."

"Have mercy on a poor burglar, boss; I won't do it again!"

"No, you won't do it again. I'll look after that. I'll have you imprisoned for life at least."

"Don't be hard on me, boss," begged the villain again. "I'll swear I'll give up the business. I'll give you my word for it, I'm going to work again if you'll let me go. I meant no harm to you."

"No, I suppose not; the tools of trade which my wife extracted from your pocket prove that. Well, I'll treat you better than you deserve, and let you off cheaply."

"I'm much obliged, boss."

"But don't be obliged as yet. You must have some punishment, and I'm going to administer it myself." Then he told his wife to lock the burglar's utensils away in the drawer. After that he told his wife that she could go to sleep again if she liked.

When his instructions were carried out he said to the burglar: "Now you take that baby!"

"George, what are you thinking of?" screamed his horrified spouse. "Are you insane all at once?"

"My mental faculties are all right, darling," he replied. Then to the burglar: "Take that baby, I say, and be careful with him."

George's first-born had been screaming for the last five minutes. When the burglar took him on his arm he screamed still more.

"Now," said George, with a satisfied look at his watch, "you walk up and down the room with that youngster while I cover you with this good gun here. Mind you don't hurt him; it would cost you your life." With these words he seated himself on his bed.

Then the villain began to walk up and down with the screaming baby in his arms. Slowly the hours dragged by—four o'clock, half-past four, five, half-past five, and so on—and not for one single minute did the revolver point to anything except the burglar's skull. But in the same degree, as time went on, George seemed to become more and more satisfied with himself. His features betrayed this, and brightened every minute. The cocks crowed, and the sun sent its first rays into the bedchamber. The milkman's and the baker's cries told that a new day had been born. At last it was seven o'clock.

Then George got up, though he was sleepy and yawning from his long wake. He told the burglar to put the baby down in his cradle. The man looked pale and haggard, as if he had gone through all the horrors that night. His back was hurt, his step staggering, his looks languid and lifeless.

"Now," said George, "I think I'll let you go. Your punishment has been hard enough, I think. I know what it means to walk the floor with that little demon for a couple of hours."

MACHINE GUNS AND CAVALRY.

Magazine and machine guns would seem to sound the knell of possible employment of cavalry in battle. No matter how dislocated are the infantry ridden at, so long as they are not quite demoralised; however rash the cavalry leader; however favorable to sudden, unexpected onslaught is the ground, the quick-firing arms of the future must apparently stall off the most enterprising horseman. Probably if the writer were arguing the point with a German, the famous experiences of Von Bredow might be adduced in bar of this contention. In the combat of Tobitschau in 1866 Von Bredow led his cuirassier regiment straight at three Austrian batteries in action, captured the eighteen guns and everybody and everything belonging to them, with the loss to himself of but ten men and eight horses. It is true, says the honest official account, that the ground favored the charge, and that the shells fired by the usually skilled Austrian gunners flew high. But during the last 100 yards grape was substituted for shell, and Bredow deserved all the credit he got. Still stronger against my argument was Bredow's memorable work at Mars la Tours, when at the head of six squadrons he charged across 1,000 yards of open plain, rode over and through two separate lines of French infantry, carried a line of cannon numbering nine batteries, rode 1,000yds further into the very heart of the French army, and came back with a loss of half his strength. The Todtenritt, as the Germans call it, was a wonderful exploit—a second Balaclava charge, and a bloodier one; and there was this distinction, that it had a purpose, and that that purpose was achieved, for the charge in effect wrecked France. It arrested the French advance which would else have swept Alvensleben aside; and to its timely effect is traceable the sequence of events that ended in the capitulation of Metz. The fact that although from the beginning of his charge until he struck the front of the first French infantry line, Von Bredow took the rifle fire of a whole French division, yet did not lose above fifty men, has been a notable weapon in the hands of those who argue that good cavalry can charge home on unshaken infantry. But never more will French infantry shoot from the hip as Lafont's conscripts at Mars la Tours shot in the vague direction of Bredow's squadrons. French cavalry never got within yards of German infantry even in loose order; and the magazine or repeating rifle held reasonably straight will stop the most thrusting cavalry that ever heard the "charge" sound.—Archibald Forbes in the 'Nineteenth Century.'

KIPLING IN AMERICA.

Of the young men of America Mr Kipling writes:—"They rejoice in the days of their youth. They gamble, race with yachts, enjoy prize-fights and cock-fights—the one openly, the other in secret; they establish luxurious clubs; they break themselves over horse flesh and other things; and they are instant in quarrel. At twenty they are experienced in the business, embark in vast enterprises, take partners as experienced as themselves, and go to pieces with as much splendor as their neighbors. Incidentally I may mention that nine American youths out of ten are heavily handicapped by the abnormal weakness of their heads. Phlegmatic and spiritual, however, they manage to get flushed, affable, and drunk on astonishingly small quantities of liquor. The American nation gets drunk by easy stages. A man takes a nip here and a nip there in the morning, until by luncheon time, while not really drunk, he is in a condition that no really business man ought to be in until after dinner. I don't object to almost continuous beer drinking as we see it in America. A man will die of dropsy rather than drunkenness if he drinks too much beer. But the American habit of taking mixed drinks at all hours of the day is a very bad one. In your climate a man can keep it up for a long time, till he suddenly drops off."

Mr Kipling then spoke in a most disrespectful way of Chautauqua, and dubbed it a sort of lawn tennis academy of arts and sciences. "I remember that during a short visit there I nearly got into trouble by remarking to a friend that the women's voices gave me the impression that they should be shut up and fed on oil for a year. I had a good opportunity to study the average American woman out of doors, and I found myself wondering whether it was true, as the East taught me, that women have no souls. The motions of their minds were like unto the jumpings of grasshoppers in a hat-box. They managed to invest everything they touched or talked about with a distressed air of unreality—these persons with ideas, whose names were in the newspapers. I do not think much, as you say in America, of Chautauqua. People do not get an education that way. They must dig for it, and sit up nights for it, and when they have got it they must call it by another name, or the struggle is of no avail."

Among the letters which Mr Kipling wrote to India on his American impressions after a four months' visit, was one devoted to Chicago alone. The first few lines are sufficient to give a general idea of his impressions. Here they are:—"I have struck a city—a real city—and they call it Chicago. Having seen it, I urgently desire never to see it again. It is inhabited by savages. Its water is the water of the sewers and its air is dirt. Also, it says that it is the boss town of America. I do not believe that it has anything to do with this country. I spent ten hours in that huge wilderness, wandering through miles of these terrible streets and jostling some few hundred thousand of these terrible people, who talked through their noses."

He did not take kindly to the criticisms on England in American journals, and says in one of his letters:—"Were the expressions of dislike genuine and prompted, let us say, by the unquenched hate of a hundred years, they would be laudable enough,

An improved apparatus for providing a railway carriage in hot weather with a cool and pleasant breeze has just been brought out by Mr George Payne, of the locomotive department, Indian Midland Railway. It is fitted under the body of a carriage, is self-revolving, and so arranged that it will catch air from all directions, and will keep working fifteen minutes after the train has been stopped.

A pretty little story comes along from Brighton in connection with a recent bal masqué. A youth of ingenuous countenance and ingenuous modesty was flirting the best he knew how with a tall lady in a pink domino, when, to his great astonishment and the no small amusement of a few sitters in the immediate vicinity of the pair, the voice from behind the mask said: "Why, Bobby, wherever did you learn such awful things?" The pink domino happened to be his mother!

At Sheffield recently a steeplejack named Gilbert met with a shocking death. He was engaged in repairing the steeple of St. Matthew's Church, Carver street, and had reached the summit, where a platform was erected. Pausing in his work he remained stationary for a few minutes while a photograph was taken. Then he climbed to the extreme top of the steeple, and, holding on by the weathercock, proceeded with his work. Suddenly the weathercock gave way, and he fell from an immense height into the street. He was, of course, so terribly injured that death was immediate. The accident was witnessed by crowds of people who were watching, fascinated by the man's dangerous position.

The only dissenters that the Orthodox Church has ever tolerated with any degree of good will have been the actual pagans from the frozen North and the Mohammedans. Neither of these can be charged with the crime of attempting to pervert others from the Orthodox faith. To speak plainly, the vaunted toleration of the Russian Government has always been of a peculiar character. No dissenting body has suffered more than the Uniats, and yet they differ from their Orthodox brethren only in acknowledging the supremacy of the Pope of Rome. M. Leroy-Beaulieu tells us that "everything was put in operation against them—fines, imprisonment, flogging, confiscation of their property, exile, and torture." We are a Protestant people, and the martyrdom of the Uniat Church appealed but slightly to British sympathies. It is otherwise with the martyrdom of the Reforming bodies.

About the same time (1877) as the Uniat persecution, the persecution of the Stundists began, and has continued, increasing in cruelty, to the present day. The Stundists are, roughly speaking, 250,000 of peasants; the Jews are 5,000,000 or 6,000,000. Mr. Thompson tells the pitiful tale of Jew-baiting with sympathy and moderation. Here the Russian Government have ap-

A MISSIONARY SERMON

BISHOP WELLS PREACHED AT ST. PAUL'S CHURCH LAST NIGHT.

He Predicts Great Prosperity for the Pacific Coast in Consequence of the Policy of Expansion—State of Washington Has Many Facilities but There is Great Need of Christian Work.

Bishop Wells of Spokane, Wash., addressed a large audience at St. Paul's Episcopal church last night on the subject of "Home Missions." His remarks were directed to emphasizing the necessity of Christian work among the peoples of the Pacific coast. He said that he had been more and more astonished in reading the acts of the apostles to find how disconnected and fragmentary their work is bound up in our political power at the present time. The policy which our government entered upon and the trend of affairs in the East points favorably to an enormous activity on the Pacific coast. This makes the coast, to a great degree the center of our political empire. The war between China and Japan affected trade on the Pacific coast, and especially that in the state of Washington, in an unexpectedly peculiar and striking manner. The Chinese learned that bread made from flour gave much more sustenance and the soldiers could go much longer without food by partaking of it than they could of bread made from rice. This knowledge was spread broadcast throughout China, with the result that new mills have been erected in Washington, great contracts made with the government of China and firms. Washington is a splendid wheat producing state and these mills are running night and day to endeavor to supply the very urgent demand which this great empire, with its millions of peoples, is making. They are also learning to use our manufactures and as Washington is 3,000 miles nearer to China than is the eastern part of the United States the inhabitants of the empire are bound to use the products which can be obtained close at home. Washington is also rich in metal deposits, gold, silver, copper and has the greatest water power in the country outside of Niagara Falls. There are all the facilities for supplying every demand, and the manufacturers are already taking steps to come in contact with the people of our recently acquired Philippine Islands. They are also preparing for an immense trade with frozen Siberia, and are now sending fruits, vegetables, etc., so that this country can receive hides, etc., in return. Is it not necessary to our Christian nurture in view of the great increase in population? It is all important that the principles of Christianity be well established, so that new comers may be impressed thereby. Imagine a country without Christ. Think of the difficulties attendant upon such a condition of affairs. How sad it would be for a city so new to our new acquisitions to grow up without Christ! Shall we allow our western coast to grow up in this way Here in the east one is brought in touch with the religious traditions of his forefathers, but when a man goes west he forgets all this and begins life anew, both materially and intellectually. He in consequence needs the church of our fathers and the influence of his childhood to bring him to God. Many of the inhabitants of Washington were formerly residents of this part of the country, who went directly there and settled. Others stopped by the way long enough to take on western customs and learn western manners. There are eastern towns and western towns made up of the above named divisions. The inhabitants of the eastern towns still have the religious traditions of their fathers, while it is necessary to train the others in the way which they should go. There is great need of Christian work. The little effort in the past has done great good, and much more good can be accomplished if the needed assistance is given.

A special programme of music was rendered.

LANGUAGE OF THE HAWAIIANS.

It is Pleasing to the Ear, But Lacks Force and Expression.

Polynesia, which comprises a number of distinct archipelagoes upon which are dependent several smaller groups, is inhabited by a brown-skinned people, with dark or black, smooth, curly hair, who are shown by their mythology, traditions, customs, and language to belong to one and the same race, to which ethnologists and philologists of recent years have applied the distinctive name of Mahori. A line drawn from New Zealand through Samoa northeast to Hawaii, all inclusive, very nearly defines their western limits. They are in exclusive possession of the whole of the water area to the right of this line as far as to Easter Island, and left of it they are nowhere now found in an unmixed state, except in the Ellice and Union groups, and at a few scattered points in the New Hebrides, and in the southeast and perhaps northeast coast of New Guinea. They are thus shut off by the intervening Papuans from the Indian archipelago, of which, in ancient times, they appear to have been the autochthones, and whence they emigrated eastward at a very early period and arrived first at Savaii, the largest island of the Samoan archipelago. Their furthur migrations from archipelago to archipelago can be traced with some certainty through the uniform traditions of the various groups. In these traditions Savaii is constantly referred to under names that, in form, well illustrate the permutation of letters in the closely connected Mahori languages: Savaiki, the original Mahori form of the word; Savaii, the Samoan form; Hawaii, the Tahitian; Hawaiki, the Marquesan, and Hawaii, the Sandwich form, which became the name of the chief island of that group. It is not implied that each people came directly from Savaiki, but only that the several migrations took place at times when the name of the primeval home was still fresh in the memory of all, or at least survived in some mythological form.

The language of the Hahoris belongs to a primitive unmixed form of speech, to one degree removed from the lowest, stage (typified in Chinese), and occupying a cort of intermediate position between it and the true agglutinating tongues typified by the Finno-Tartaric family.

The peculiarities of this great linguistic family are a limited phonetic system; a great predominance of vowels over consonants; almost total absence of inflection; wonderful homogeneity; imperfect differentiation of the various parts of speech; and the curius practice of "tabooing" words, such as those forming parts of a chief's name, either during his lifetime or after death.

The Hawaiian language of the Sandwich Islands (which were originally peopled from Tahiti, soon after its settlement by the Samoans) has become much changed and enfeebled in its phonetics. Manley Hopkins, former Hawaiian consul-general, says of it that it "is so soft as rather to be compared to the warbling of birds than to the speech of suffering mortals."

Every syllable, and consequently every word, ends in a vowel, and by two consonants never come together without the interposition of a vowel. No Hawaiian can pronounce correctly a word that ends in a consonant; his voice glides irresistibly into a vowel sound. Thus, in pronouncing Boston or London he will say Bostona and Londona. Hence, as syllables often begin and always end with a vowel, it is obvious that there must be a perpetual concurrence of sounds which renders the pronunciation of words difficult to strangers, although each sound is extremely simple in itself. The ratio of vowel to consonant sounds is nearly twice as great as in Italian.

In reducing the language to writing, the American missionaries employed twelve letters, namely, five vowels, a, e, i, o and u, having the invariable sound that they possess in Spanish; and seven consonants, h, k, l, m, p and w. These suffice to represent all the sounds in the language; but, in order to give proper expression to names of persons, places and things of other countries with which the Hawaiians need to become acquainted, and especially to scripture names, the following nine consonants were added to the alphabet: b, d, f, g, r, s, t, v and z. In the pronunciation of words the full accent usually falls upon the penult, and there is a secondary accent upon the syllable preceding the ante-penult.

As in all other languages of the same family, there is a deficiency in general terms and in words to express abstract ideas. At the same time, the language abounds in nice distinctions and possesses a copious vocabulary. It has no substantive nor any verbs to express existence, possession or duty. There are no variations in nouns for case, number or person; but the moods and tenses of verbs are pretty clearly distinguished by simple prefixes and suffixes.

Upon the whole, says Sir George Simpson, the Hawaiian language may

SLIPPERS.

Until very recently Christmas slippers for gentlemen were embroidered by the ladies for their husbands and lovers, and often times the bachelor minister received several pairs from the maidens of his parish, and among the many there would be one pair large enough for his misjudged feet. He could not change the Number 6 for a Number 9, and so most of them became an ornament only. With the husband and lover it was different. It was the one pair made by loving hands, and they must wear them. (They did for a time.) But now ladies select their slippers from the large stock of The New Haven Shoe Company, and after Christmas the Number 6 can be exchanged for Number 9 and the Number 7 for Number 10, and then comfort reign supreme.

Against the scheme of this overcrowding and constant multiplication of the inhabitants of Russian Jewry is the prohibition of emigration and survival of the fittest of its inhabitants. The continued misery, the absence of hope, the constant struggle for bare subsistence by the ruling authority, have modified the original characteristics of the majority of the Russian Jews. They are not permitted to be gardeners, to hold land, to live in the country, or to take part in agriculture, and are debarred thereby from the healthy means of life open to the rest of their fellow-subjects. The consequence is that in order to provide bread for his family—the Jew marries early as a matter of course—many of the children are driven to resort to dishonesty in order to escape starvat on.

Probably the five and three-quarters millions or six million Jews under the rule of the czar form the unhappiest community on the face of the earth. Intellectually endowed far beyond the average European, they (except a small fraction of them) are deprived of the means of education, and their spirits are depressed by the compulsory restrictions arbitrarily imposed upon them. What wonder, therefore, that a considerable number of the Russian Jews are driven by the errors of the Russian government to exploit vice, since they are not permitted to develop industry? If many Russian Jews live by pandering to the weakness and passion of others, the reason is neither that they have a double dose of original sin nor that parasitism is an indelible characteristic of the race, but that the poor Jew is compelled by the government of Russia to make a choice between starving and wrong-doing.

The vast majority of Russian officials and citizens believe that the Jews are merely parasites—that they cannot live except as middlemen, money-lenders and exploiters of vice. The French have recently come to the same conclusion. It is based on fact? Wherever material is ready for the personal energy are obtainable there is the nimble brain, the deft finger and the sensitive organization of the Jew to seek them. In other countries medicine, music, law, surgery, politics, journalism and art are being rapidly captured by the Jewish race. In Russia, except to a very few careers in those professions are closed against the Jew. Russia is honest in this matter. The ministers held that it is better to lose a limb or an eye than to enter whole into destruction, the sin does not affect to love the Jew. She believes him to be to-day what he was in the time of Moses—the devout worshipper of the golden calf. To keep the Jew from contact with the main body of the Russian people is accordingly, an integral part of Russian policy. He is not allowed to settle in Rhetsa, and, unless a drastic change is made in the administration and control of Jewish subjects of the czar, all the material for a bloody tragedy are to be found within the Russian pale.

As the Russian empire comprises one-seventh of the land surface of the globe and covers an area of nearly nine million square miles, the exclusion of the Jews from the higher ranks of the Russian civil and military services, notwithstanding their admitted intellectual superiority, is the most extravagant compliment ever paid by a great governing race to downcast wanderers on the face of the earth—without a common country or a common language or a common policy. With the tremendous task confronting the czar's ministers in the Russification of Asia from the Caspian Sea to Port Arthur, and with the absence of a middle class such as that which is the strength of Britain, whence is Russia to draw her administrative materiel if she continue to exclude from her service the ablest of her subjects? In an undeveloped country such as Russia the presence of one Jew in eight hundred of the population that exists all ready seem to constitute a formidable danger to the state. Russians, however, think otherwise; and the only alternative available is to give the Jews a larger area of settlement, contiguous to the Russian pale or in Armenia, when that country finally comes under the scepter of the Great White Czar.

Notwithstanding that the state of the Jew in Russia is serious, he is not much happier in Austria or in Hungary, although the power that he exercises and the conditions of his life are wholly different. Education is open to the Austrian Jew. The proportion of Jews in the whole population is much in excess of what might be expected from their actual number in the country. Jews form five per cent. of the population; but 18.3 of the students at the university are Jews. In the Communal schools of Vienna among 42,624 pupils 5,499 were Jews. Still the Jews are not bandicraftsmen; they prefer working with the head. Of the 6,574 students in the technical schools of Vienna only 110 are Jews. The Jews of Austria and Hungary are powerful and represented in every walk of life that leads to influence and fortune. The great business houses and the banks and the railways that are not owned by the state belong to or are controlled by them. The press with the exception of the Clerk organs, is almost exclusively in the hands of the Jews.

"Have you any Christians on your staff?" Mr. I. Zangwill asked the editor of the great Pesth newspaper, the "Pesther Lloyd."

"I think we have one," was the editor's reply.

The mastery of the press in Austria is symptomatic of the Jewish capture of newspapers all over Europe. Every shade of thought speaks through the pen of the Hebrew. Even the anti-Semitic papers are, many of them, written by Jews.

The control of finance and the stupendous success which follow their devotion to the trade in money have brought to the Jews great fortune and much hatred. As in the thirteenth century, the peasantry, goaded to madness, rose against those whom they deemed to be their persecutors.

Look at this picture:

It is evening in winter. The tearing wind from the north howls and moans, driving the snow before it in dust that finds its way into every nook. A hovel stands by the roadway, its rickety door secured by a padlock. The few sticks of furniture, even the miserable bed upon which its emaciated occupant lay, had been seized by the Jew to whom she is in debt, and the door is closed against her. The rags that scarcely cover her are all the worldly goods that she possesses. Food she has none. Old, lonely and ill, she has no strength to drag herself to the village. She stands down in the snow to die. In the morning her frozen body is found with a smile on its worn face.

Such is Jewish land hatch. It is a fact. The sequel is equally striking. The peasants, furious at the cruelty, surprised at the usury-lender's house the next night. Having caught him and bound him, they skinned him alive. The pleasure-loving and indolent Austrians the Israelite reaps a rich harvest. The Austrian revenges himself with hatred ad abias. He perceives that he is outdistanced; but he refuses to see that the real cause is his own idleness and Jewish industry.

In France the feeling against the Jews has been so frequently described in the newspapers that there is no occasion to dwell upon the facts which gave rise to it. The multiplication of their numbers, or, as it may be called the "aloofness of Israel," are rapidly bringing the Jewish question to the front. Jewish champions compare themselves with the Huguenots; but the large majority of the Jews, whether in England or elsewhere, have no title to be included in the same category as that of a race whose absorption by the land of its adoption is a matter of two generations. The difference between the Jewish element in national life and in every other solid constituent lies in the fact that whereas all other races intermarry, worship and eat with us, the strict Jew will do none of these things. He remains aloof. He preserves his tribal customs. He is intensely proud of his origin, and not seldom, secretly or openly, contemptuous toward the people of his adoption.

The synagogues and the Jewish congregations in Poland, Lithuania and Galicia, in case of need, exercise a stronger influence in the west over good and humane western Jews than any of the social or religious forces by which they are surrounded. As long as their diet is different, as long as Sunday is a week day, as long as their origin is Oriental, as long as they decline to intermarry, so long is it impossible to regard the Jews as English, French, Spanish, German, Italian or Russian. There exist, no doubt, a few of the upper classes who are absorbed, and by intermarriage and education have become Anglicised as the Huguenots are Anglicised. Of these I do not speak; I refer to that far larger proportion of the Jewish immigrants whose colonies are to be found throughout Europe. A great change is at hand. After the centuries of more or less toleration, the signs are not wanting that the Jewish question is now ripe for entrance into a new stage. As in other matters, it is for Russia to take the lead. She is compelled to do so; and her part will consist in the provision of territory by which the redundant population of her own Jewish pale may find a home, and perhaps a state. The only spot available seems to be in the depopulated valleys and plains of Armenia. It will be strange if prophecy is fulfilled in this way. Personally, I believe it to be not only likely, but inevitable.—Arnold White in Chambers' Journal.

Traces of the Auto da Fes of the Inquisition Found Everywhere.

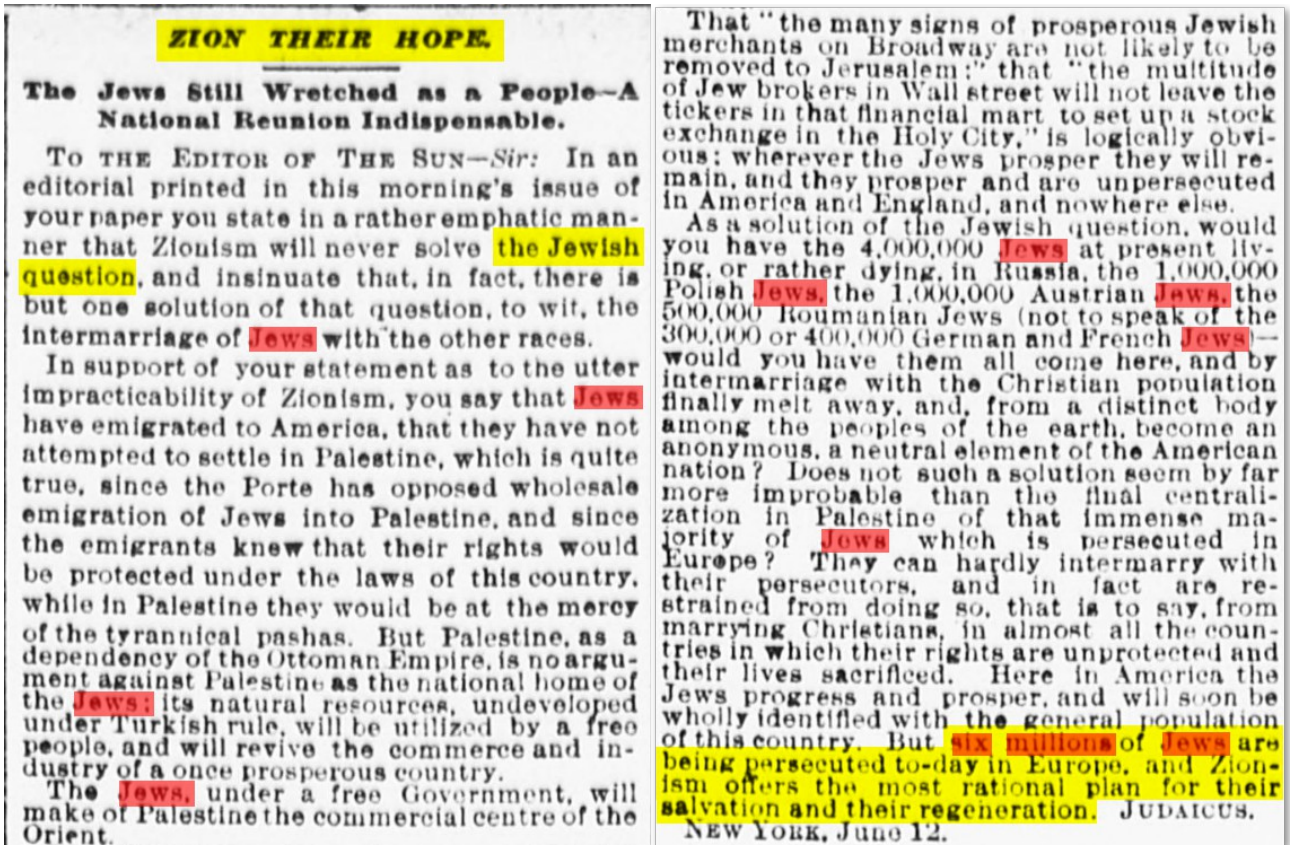
Catholic and Protestant Views of the Passion Week Processions—A Collection of Relics.



SEVILLE, April 12.—All Spaniards venerate the name of Isabel la Catolica, nor is the impressionable De Amicis the only foreigner who has trembled and wept before the enshrined memorials, jewel box, mirror, missal, and crown of her royal womanhood. She is a precious figure in poor Spain's sunset revery—a saint beneath a conquering standard, a silken lady in a soldier's tent. Yet this peerless, Queen, merciful, magnanimous, devout, "the shield of the innocent," caring supremely for the glory of God and the good of her country, gave consent, albeit reluctant, to the establishment of the Inquisition, Christianity's chief scandal and Spain's most fatal blight. So ironic were the stars of Isabel.

Wherever one moves in Spain the sickening breath of the auto da fé lingers in the air. In such a square, we read, was once a mighty holocaust of Jews; beneath our feet, we are told, is a mass of human bones and cinders. This sunshiny Seville,

ZION THEIR HOPE.

The Jews Still Wretched as a People—A National Reunion Indispensable.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE SUN—Sir: In an editorial printed in this morning's issue of your paper you state in a rather emphatic manner that Zionism will never solve the Jewish question, and insinuate that, in fact, there is but one solution of that question, to wit, the intermarriage of Jews with the other races.

In support of your statement as to the utter impracticability of Zionism, you say that Jews have emigrated to America, that they have not attempted to settle in Palestine, which is quite true, since the Porte has opposed wholesale emigration of Jews into Palestine, and since the emigrants knew that their rights would be protected under the laws of this country, while in Palestine they would be at the mercy of the tyrannical pashas. But Palestine, as a dependency of the Ottoman Empire, is no argument against Palestine as the national home of the Jews; its natural resources, undeveloped under Turkish rule, will be utilized by a free people, and will revive the commerce and industry of a once prosperous country.

The Jews, under a free Government, will make of Palestine the commercial centre of the Orient.

That "the many signs of prosperous Jewish merchants on Broadway are not likely to be removed to Jerusalem;" that "the multitude of Jew brokers in Wall street will not leave the tickers in that financial mart to set up a stock exchange in the Holy City," is logically obvious; wherever the Jews prosper they will remain, and they prosper and are unpersecuted in America and England, and nowhere else.

As a solution of the Jewish question, would you have the 4,000,000 Jews at present living, or rather dying, in Russia, the 1,000,000 Polish Jews, the 1,000,000 Austrian Jews, the 500,000 Roumanian Jews (not to speak of the 300,000 or 400,000 German and French Jews)—would you have them all come here, and by intermarriage with the Christian population finally melt away, and, from a distinct body among the peoples of the earth, become an anonymous, a neutral element of the American nation? Does not such a solution seem by far more improbable than the final centralization in Palestine of that immense majority of Jews which is persecuted in Europe? They can hardly intermarry with their persecutors, and in fact are restrained from doing so, that is to say, from marrying Christians, in almost all the countries in which their rights are unprotected and their lives sacrificed. Here in America the Jews progress and prosper, and will soon be wholly identified with the general population of this country. But six millions of Jews are being persecuted to-day in Europe, and Zionism offers the most rational plan for their salvation and their regeneration. JUDAICUS.

South of Manila.

The tradition in the Philippines, as in the Antilles, seems to have been that the rainy season is a bar to military operations by white troops, and this tradition Gen. OTIS is rapidly destroying. While MACARTHUR'S division rests for the present in its advanced positions north of Manila, LAWTON'S, in the region of Laguna de Bay, shows great activity. Its operations of a few days ago around Morong were followed on Saturday and Sunday by sweeping the country south of the Pasig River and between Manila Bay and Laguna de Bay. The insurgents were driven back, with a loss estimated by Gen. OTIS at 400, to Paranaque and to Las Piñas, about due east of Cavite.

In these operations the heat was overpowering, but our troops pressed unflinchingly through jungles and swamps until their work was done. The boldness with which the enemy has drawn in upon the lines around Manila may perhaps be ascribed in part to the belief that our troops would undertake no aggressive operations until the end of the rainy season. They are likely to learn that it is not safe to count on this protection. Some of our most famous and successful campaigns against the American Indians have been those undertaken in the dead of winter, when they relied on the cold and the snows to shield them.

West Point and Annapolis.

The graduation of the year's classes at the Military and Naval Academies and the examinations for entrance have called attention to the need of maintaining a larger number of cadets at both institutions. The recent reorganization of the line of the navy added about a hundred officers, while the enlisted force of the regular army as at present constituted is more than twice as large as it was before the war with Spain. The addition of two regiments to the artillery and the increase of the infantry by giving it the three-battalion organization may be regarded as permanent changes requiring more officers than were needed before these changes were made.

The May examinations at Annapolis supplied an unusually small class, and it seems clear that, with the increase in the number and aggregate tonnage of our ships in commission, more officers are desirable, and the Naval Academy will be relied upon to supply them. With the great additions to the Academy buildings now going on, which will amount practically to the reconstruction of the whole establishment, there will be quarters and other facilities for over 500 cadets, or nearly double as many as are now allowed by law.

In the army the need of officers is emphasized by the recent graduation of a class at West Point ahead of the regular time, on account of the immediate demands of the service. But with our possessions in the Antilles, the Philippines, the Ladrones and Hawaii requiring garrisons beyond what was necessary a year ago, and with the number of new forts and new and costly guns on the home coasts, it is clear that we must always maintain a larger army than that of the early part of 1898.

It may be urged that the proper number of cadets cannot be ascertained until the legislation for the reorganization of the army is completed. There are, no doubt, advantages in making these two changes parts of one system; but, on the other hand, since it takes four years to prepare a cadet for commission, any increase in the number of the regular army would require the commissioning of civilian appointees to supply immediate needs, unless there should already be an extra number of cadets preparing at West Point. Some excellent material for officers has been developed in the volunteer regiments during our wars with Spain and AGUINALDO, but a permanent supply from the Military Academy must be provided for.

In West Point and Annapolis the country has two splendid schools, which have been of benefit beyond computation to the army and navy. We are now at a point where we should educate still more officers for both services.

A Request from a Woman Denied.

Miss FANNY L. ABBOT of Cambridge in Massachusetts asks us to publish the text of an "anti-imperialist" petition to the President prepared for the signatures of women specifically. "We, the women of the United States," it starts out, but to the credit of American women it misrepresents totally their spirit, for it is simply a feminine device to help along the grotesque, impertinent, and treacherous gang at Boston which styles itself the "Anti-Imperialist League."

The petition Miss ABBOT sends is not worth printing in THE SUN, for it is unworthy of the attention of any intelligent man or woman. It protests "against the war of conquest into which our country has been plunged in the Philippine Islands;" but there is no such war. Our soldiers there are simply resisting rebellion against the authority of the United States, provoked and conducted by a man who has arrogated dictatorship to himself and does not represent the sentiment of the great mass of the natives.

The petition goes on in an attempt to justify itself by quoting from our Declaration of Independence the phrases that "all men are created free and equal and that they are endowed with certain inalienable rights," and that Governments derive their "just powers from the consent of the governed." That generalization, already worked to death, has been used as this petition uses it for the purpose of excusing every rebellion against the authority of the State, as, for instance, the attempt at secession in 1861. At the time the Declaration of Independence was put forth, moreover, there was in the American colonies no equality of rights recognized as inherent in nature or inalienable by the law, and there was no intention on the part of the revolutionists to grant any. People without the requisite property qualification were shut out from voting and thereby made distinctly unequal. Slavery existed and was protected by law, and it continued to exist for nearly a century afterward, and was only abolished incidentally to the civil war and purely as a war measure.

The reference in the petition to the Declaration of Independence, accordingly, is without pertinence, and it comes with the less reason from women, for they are still debarred from joining in the "consent of the governed." They have no say on the subject, are not consulted, but are compelled to submit to government without their consent at the dictation of men. "Those eternal truths," of which Miss ABBOT'S petition speaks, therefore, have no application to her. She must submit to be governed whether she consents or dissents. The Declaration of Independence does not recognize her existence among those from whose consent the "just powers" of government are derived. It ignores her altogether as a factor of the problem and treats her simply as a creature to be governed in the way men think best. We do not deny the expediency of this rule of masculine government, but as it shuts out women from the "inalienable rights," it would seem to be reasonable for Miss ABBOT and her "anti-imperialist" sisters to leave to the men "anti-imperialists" the attempt to justify treason by the generalization of the Declaration of Independence.

It is the obvious duty of the United States to provide the Philippine Islands with a good and secure government, for they are now under our authority and we are responsible for them to civilization. Exactly what form that government will take must be determined by time and experience; that it will eventually be in strict accordance with American political principles is as inevitable as that meantime and afterward it will conduce to the liberty and welfare of the inhabitants to an infinitely greater degree than has done any other which they have ever had. But before a just and orderly government for the Philippines can be established it is manifestly necessary that armed resistance by an unrepresentative band of the natives shall be subdued. First of all, there must be peace and order, and the sole purpose of our military operations is to compel such tranquillity by putting down the lawless effort of this band to obtain despotic control of territory belonging to the United States.

The men and women "anti-imperialists" are practically assisting this barbarously rebellious band in wounding and killing American soldiers, their own countrymen, who are heroically obeying the orders of their Government in a campaign as great in natural difficulties as it is distinguished in the high moral qualities displayed and military ability demonstrated. The enterprise of Miss ABBOT and her men assistants is treasonable, infamous. We should as soon think of assisting miscreants to poison the wells from which our soldiers in the Philippines drink as of giving any aid or countenance to this Boston plot to subject them to their Filipino enemies. Alas, that an American woman should have been deluded into abetting such treachery!

Canadian Comments on the Joint High Commission.

The prospects of the Joint High Commission are discussed with candor and liberality in the Canadian Magazine by Mr. JOHN CHARLTON, one of the Commissioners and also a leading Liberal member of the Dominion Parliament. To him, also, has been attributed an article of similar tenor published in the North American Review. No reader of these papers can doubt that, if views equally reasonable and conciliatory were held by the Canadian community at large, an agreement upon some of the subjects in dispute between the United States and Canada would be speedily reached. Whether reciprocity in trade relations will ever be ratified by the United States is a different question.

By the equitable tone of his article, Mr. CHARLTON has given offence to some of his countrymen. The Canadian Tories, who are vexed at the relatively cordial relations now existing between the United States and Great Britain, and who gladly would see them interrupted, denounce him with much bitterness for his approval of those relations, and insist that he ought to resign his place on the commission, for the reason that the good will expressed by him for the American republic is, as they assert, inconsistent with loyalty to his native land. Mr. CHARLTON expressed regret that the provincial legislature of Ontario should have laid an embargo on the export of rough lumber to the United States, and had suggested a doubt as to its legal competence to impose such a prohibition. He also pointed out that the Joint High Commission had been embarrassed by the passage of an Alien Labor law, the result and obvious purpose of which was to exclude American citizens from British Columbia. It is for these criticisms on provincial legislation passed by Canadian Jingoes, who desire the failure of the attempt to settle long-standing controversies between the United States and Canada, that Mr. CHARLTON is stigmatized by the Toronto World as a traitor. He ought, according to that newspaper, to be "cashiered from the commission and called before the bar of the Ottawa House of Commons." It will be some time, we imagine, before the Toronto World's opinion is adopted by the Government of which Sir WILFRID LAURIER is the head, or by the majority of the Canadian people, who, above all other things, desire that improvement of trade relations with the United States which is Mr. CHARLTON'S primary aim.

No Canadian has ever presented a more plausible argument for such an improvement than was put forward by him and his fellow Commissioners in Washington. The use which they made of recent statistics reflected not a little credit on their forensic skill. They succeeded in proving that, even under the existing tariffs, which are sometimes spoken of as if they were mutually prohibitory, not only does a large trade exist between the United States and Canada, but it is far more profitable to the former than to the latter country. Thus, in 1898, the total imports into Canada from the United States amounted to $86,587,000, whereas the exports from Canada to the United States were only $35,464,000. Moreover, the average rate of duty imposed by the Canadian tariff on the total imports from the United States was 12.05 per cent., while the average American duty levied on the total imports from Canada was for the same year 21.78 per cent. That is to say, less than 6,000,000 Canadians bought last year twice as much from 75,000,000 Americans as the latter did from the former, and taxed it only half as much. Of free imports into Canada 72.5 per cent. came from the United States, only 17.7 from Great Britain, and 9.8 from all other countries. Canada gives the United States a free list of over $40,000,000 worth of goods, and gets, in return, a free list of only $14,000,000.

Let us see, now, how the case stood with regard to farm products on the one hand and manufactured articles on the other. In 1898 the United States took from Canada only $5,326,000 worth of farm products, and sold to her $15,000,000 worth of the same. In the same year Canada imported from the United States $35,000,000 worth of American manufactures, or $6,000,000 more than the value of the manufactures imported from Great Britain. This, notwithstanding the lower rate of duty accorded to English goods under the so-called Jubilee tariff. Finally, the importance of the Canadian market to the United States is summed up as follows: Our total exports in 1898 to Mexico, Central America, the West Indies and the whole of South America, which countries have an aggregate population of 54,000,000, amounted to $86,786,000, while less than six million Canadians took $86,537,000 of United States goods. These figures are taken from the article in the North American Review, which is ascribed, rightly or wrongly, to Mr. CHARLTON, but most of them were used by him and his fellow Commissioners during the late attempt to arrive at improved tariff relations in Washington.

There is no doubt that the trade between the United States and Canada might be greatly enlarged by a reduction of the duties levied by us on the farm, forest and mine products of the Dominion, and by a corresponding concession to American manufactures. But Mr. CHARLTON is justified in expressing apprehensions that, even if such a reciprocal arrangement could be brought about by the commission, it would fail to be sanctioned by the needed two-thirds majority of the American Senate. There is a widespread and deep-seated feeling on this side of the border that, so long as we keep up the tariff bars, the arousing of an irresistible movement on the part of the Canadians for annexation to the United States is only a question of time. Lord ELGIN believed and said that only by the reciprocity treaty which he effected was the success of such a movement averted more than forty years ago. Far-sighted Canadians are as certain now as they were then that they have nothing to hope for from Great Britain. They have tried the experiment of admitting British manufactures at rates lower than those imposed upon similar goods from other countries. They have secured absolutely nothing in return. They have no chance, as they now must recognize, of persuading even the present imperialistic Government of Great Britain to admit Canadian food stuffs to the markets of the United Kingdom upon terms more favorable than those imposed upon like staples from the United States.

The one suggested alternative for the market to be gained through admission to our Union has thus been proved to be a dream.

The Struggle for Asia Minor.

Recent news from Constantinople conveys the impression that the question of the Near East that has vexed Europe for the best part of the century is again coming to the front. Since the Armenian massacres of 1895 and 1896 the elements of disorder then let loose in Turkey have remained unchecked, and reports arriving daily at Constantinople are said to show that the social, economic, and administrative condition of the whole of Asia Minor is worse than ever. No hope appears to be entertained that any change for the better can come under Turkish rule, and the direct inference is that foreign intervention in some form is necessary, and must come soon at that, if the country is to be saved from the worst consequences of the anarchy now prevailing.

The Sultan himself is fully alive to the dangers of the situation, but he is powerless to control it, and awaits with the liveliest apprehension the result of the return of the Armenian refugees from the Russian Trans-Caucasus to their homes, from which they fled during the time of terror. As a precaution he has ordered preparations for the enlistment of the whole arm-bearing population of the empire, something undertaken only in view of a great national emergency.

Another event has created the liveliest sensation in political circles in Constantinople. This is the agreement reached between the Deutsche Bank of Berlin and the Anglo-French Imperial Ottoman Bank, now more French than English, to join their forces for the prolongation of the Anatolian railways to the Persian Gulf and in other directions. In order to prepare the way for the enterprise, a special commission of inquiry, at the head of which is the German Consul-General at Constantinople, is about to traverse the country to study the economic conditions of the Tigris and Euphrates valleys.

The Russian Government found that the route selected from Sivas to Baghdad ran too near to the boundaries of what is described in a German paper as the Russian sphere of interest, but offered no objection to an alternative line further west and south. As a line from Konieh across the Taurus Mountains to Biredjik, on the Euphrates, presents many and formidable obstacles, it is thought probable that a middle line will be adopted. The Sultan, however, would prefer for military reasons the more northerly of the three routes and would like a branch to Erzinghian, the headquarters of the Fourth Army Corps, west of Erzeroum. It is for this reason that the Russian Government objects to the construction of the northern line, disturbing, as it would be, to the existing military conditions on both sides of the frontier in Asia to the prejudice of Russia.

But Russian interests are not the only ones involved in the proposed extension of the Anatolian railways. The English Smyrna-Aidin Railway Company is in danger of being squeezed out by the Franco-German combination, which aims at bringing all the Anatolian railways into one system. Taking advantage of the financial embarrassments of the English line, the German Anatolian Company made it certain proposals favorable to the debenture and bond holders. They, however, were rejected, because the control of the line would have passed out of the hands of the English company. The Franco-German syndicate will now, it is reported, try to bring the English company to terms by establishing a rate-cutting campaign on the rival lines under their control. In the meantime an application for a concession to build a railway from the Syrian coast to Baghdad has been made from London, but Constantinople palace circles predict that it will not be granted, the German influence being used against it.

So the struggle for supremacy in Asia Minor goes on, to be settled whenever the misrule of the Turk provides the opportunity.

The Dinner at Quantico.

The Hon. ARTHUR PUE GORMAN has sent out his corps of billposters, and, doubtless, believes himself to be the favorite candidate of the Maryland anti-Bryan Democrats on the first ballot. He is mistaken, as reports of the Turtle, or, in local speech, Turkle dinner at Quantico last week show. The "Gazetteer" is not very communicative about Quantico, only telling us that Quantico contains "a lumber yard and three churches." Our esteemed Maryland contemporary, the Salisbury Courier, is more satisfactory, and lets us know that Quantico, situated at the head of Quantico Creek, "has always been a favorite rendezvous for politicians and political meetings, and is a kind of dépôt for all the good things in the eating way in which the west side of Wicomico abounds." Among these good things are the wild duck, muskrat, oyster, diamondback terrapin, white perch, quail and rabbit. Finally, continues our geographer, "Quantico is noted for its mild and equable climate, its picturesque scenery, and its large production of mud turtles."

On account of the turtles the scenery is made more picturesque every year by a Democratic dinner known as the Turkle Dinner. "It is an unwritten rule," says our contemporary, "that he who wants a Democratic nomination must be at the Turkle Dinner either in person or by proxy."

Last Wednesday one hundred Democrats went to the Quantico Turkle Dinner. Hungry Neck, Barren Creek, Tyaskin, Quantico sent forth their favorite sons. Col. BILL MAJORS was out for turkle, and so were Constable WALLER and Sheriff DASHIELL and the TOADVINES. The Chicago platform was discussed, and so was the dinner, which consisted of boiled turkle, fried turkle, fricasseed turkle, pot-pied turkle and every other form of turkle known to men or gods. Ice cream followed the turkle just as the anti-Trust issue is added to the Chicago platform.

At last the destined Maryland candidate, bar BRYAN, was produced. It was and is Capt. BUNKER SMITH of Tyaskin, who ate 365 turkle eggs.

A man who can eat 365 turkle eggs can swallow the Chicago platform a good deal more easily than the Hon. ARTHUR PUE GORMAN can.

It is gratifying to observe that our Consular service, as a whole, shows a high degree of intelligence and zeal in the collection of accurate statistical data. The way our Consuls occasionally distance foreign compilers of trade figures is worth remarking. One of the British annuals, for instance, in its edition for 1899, says of the trade of Liberia: "No statistics are available, but the exports and imports combined probably do not exceed £500,000." The latest issue of "Commercial Relations," however, has tables prepared by our Minister to Liberia, giving, at least approximately, the nature, quantity and value of the imports from four leading countries for the fiscal year 1896-97, and the nature, quantity, value and destination of the exports.

"It may be that the Democratic party is to be 'born again,'" writes Mayor SAM JONES of Toledo; "is to be inspired with a moral purpose to lead the people out of the distress of present social conditions." The Hon. SAM JONES will be convinced that the Democratic party has been born again and inspired with a moral purpose if it will nominate him for Governor of Ohio.

As we believed, the report that Gen. ADONIRAM JUDSON WARNER called silver a secondary issue was an invention of the plutocrats. He has "never said to anybody that silver is a secondary issue" and he never will. The Money Devil has been foiled, as usual.

The Thessalonians Praised in the Scriptures; the Bereans Not.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE SUN—Sir: One of the famous Protestant controversial texts formerly so often quoted, but now seldom or never by scholars, is the following (Acts, xvii., 11): "These were more noble than those at Thessalonica, in that they received the word, &c." In reply to letters in THE SUN attacking my statements I will give the following explanation, which I hope will be satisfactory and final:

St. Paul made converts of both Gentiles and Jews at Thessalonica; then going on to Berea he made other converts there; at which place he converted the greater number we do not know, but the majority of his converts at Thessalonica were Gentiles, the majority of those at Berea were Jews; the Jews of this place were of a nobler or higher class than those at Thessalonica. The Jewish converts at Berea were worthy of praise for listening to Paul with readiness of mind and for searching the Scriptures to verify his statements; the Jews of Thessalonica who did the same thing were equally worthy of praise, so were the Gentiles of both places who listened to him; but St. Luke praises none of them, nor passes any comment whatever on their conduct. He is writing as a historian, merely stating facts. He characterizes the Jews at Berea by the Greek word "Eugenesteroi" (literally of nobler birth or descent); they had a higher social standing or were more cultured than those at Thessalonica, and a larger percentage of them perhaps listened with readiness of mind to Paul, and that's all.

Luke does not suggest any connection between their higher social standing or culture and their readiness to hear Paul; he does not say or insinuate that they were more noble because they listened readily to Paul, or that they listened with readiness to him because they were more noble. This hitching together of these two facts and making one dependent on the other was the work of the makers of the Authorized Protestant version, who completely altered the meaning of Luke's words by the interpolation of the words "in that" into the text. The words "in that" are not in the Greek, they are not in the English version attributed to Wiclif, A. D. 1380; they are not in the Protestant version of Tyndale, 1534; Cranmer, 1539, or the Genevan, 1557. Tyndale and Cranmer misunderstood and mistranslated this text in another way, but the insertion of "in that" into it is the work of the makers of the Authorized version.

Neither the Thessalonians nor the Bereans are praised in the Acts of the Apostles, but St. Paul praises the Thessalonians in the two Epistles that he sent to them. "Ye are ensamples," he says, "to all that believe in Macedonia and Achaia, for from you hath sounded forth the word of the Lord * * * in every place your faith to Godward is gone forth" (1. Thess., i. 7, 8). St. Paul calls them his "glory and joy" (1. Thess., ii., 20). Though not so aristocratic as the Jews of Berea, they seem nearer and dearer to his heart. To the Bereans he never wrote anything, nor does he ever mention them in any of his letters. Their abnormal prominence is due solely to the mistranslation in the Protestant version and to its use in controversy.

Mr. Faught of Philadelphia in last Sunday's SUN tries to justify the insertion of "in that" into the Protestant text by the two words, "hoitines" and "To kata." He says: "First, oitines, impossible of being rendered 'who,' since it is an indefinite relative pronoun, &c." He is mistaken. It is rendered "who" in many places in the Protestant version. It is nowhere else rendered "in that."

The following are a few examples from the Acts:

VII.—"Who" have received the law.

VIII., 15.—"Who" when they were come down.

X., 41.—"Who" did eat and drink.

XI., 20.—"Who" when they were come.

XIII., 31.—"Who" are his witnesses.

XIII., 43.—"Who" speaking to them.

XVII., 10.—"Who" coming thither.

Many other examples may be found in a concordance.

This same word in xvii., 11, should be translated in the same way, and so it is translated in our Catholic version. There is no doubt that this text and many others will be corrected in the next Protestant revision or version, but it is a pity that it was not done long ago. The other word, "To kata," has nothing to do with the clause; it belongs to the word "hemeran," which follows, and is correctly translated with it, in all versions, "daily."

ZION THEIR HOPE.

The Jews Still Wretched as a People—A National Reunion Indispensable.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE SUN—Sir: In an editorial printed in this morning's issue of your paper you state in a rather emphatic manner that Zionism will never solve the Jewish question, and insinuate that, in fact, there is but one solution of that question, to wit, the intermarriage of Jews with the other races.

In support of your statement as to the utter impracticability of Zionism, you say that Jews have emigrated to America, that they have not attempted to settle in Palestine, which is quite true, since the Porte has opposed wholesale emigration of Jews into Palestine, and since the emigrants knew that their rights would be protected under the laws of this country, while in Palestine they would be at the mercy of the tyrannical pashas. But Palestine, as a dependency of the Ottoman Empire, is no argument against Palestine as the national home of the Jews; its natural resources, undeveloped under Turkish rule, will be utilized by a free people, and will revive the commerce and industry of a once prosperous country.

The Jews, under a free Government, will make of Palestine the commercial centre of the Orient.

That "the many signs of prosperous Jewish merchants on Broadway are not likely to be removed to Jerusalem;" that "the multitude of Jew brokers in Wall street will not leave the tickers in that financial mart to set up a stock exchange in the Holy City," is logically obvious; wherever the Jews prosper they will remain, and they prosper and are unpersecuted in America and England, and nowhere else.

As a solution of the Jewish question, would you have the 4,000,000 Jews at present living, or rather dying, in Russia, the 1,000,000 Polish Jews, the 1,000,000 Austrian Jews, the 500,000 Roumanian Jews (not to speak of the 300,000 or 400,000 German and French Jews)—would you have them all come here, and by intermarriage with the Christian population finally melt away, and, from a distinct body among the peoples of the earth, become an anonymous, a neutral element of the American nation? Does not such a solution seem by far more improbable than the final centralization in Palestine of that immense majority of Jews which is persecuted in Europe? They can hardly intermarry with their persecutors, and in fact are restrained from doing so, that is to say, from marrying Christians, in almost all the countries in which their rights are unprotected and their lives sacrificed. Here in America the Jews progress and prosper, and will soon be wholly identified with the general population of this country. But six millions of Jews are being persecuted to-day in Europe, and Zionism offers the most rational plan for their salvation and their regeneration. JUDAICUS.

DIPLOMATIC CURIOSITIES.

Remarks by Statesmen That Are Hard to Reconcile with Events.

Early in 1895, more than a year before Marchand was sent to seize the Upper Nile for France, a report of France's intentions was widely published. The subject came up on March 25 in the House of Commons, and Sir E. Grey, for the Foreign Office, while scouting the idea that France had any intention to attempt to seize the Upper Nile, concluded his remarks with this note of warning:

> The French Government knows perfectly well that such an act would be of an unfriendly character and that it would be regarded as such by Great Britain.

Six days later, on April 1, Lord Kimberley called on Baron de Courcel in Paris and asked him, in behalf of the British Government, if the expedition of Col. Liotard, which we now know coöperated with Marchand in the advance to the Nile, had entered the basin of the Nile. The Baron replied that nothing had been heard from Liotard, and he could not see, for his part, how the French Government could give any assurances with regard to matters of which it knew little or nothing.

Four days later, on April 5, M. Hanotaux declared in the French Senate that if Frenchmen wished to pursue investigations on the Upper Nile he had no doubt they would consider it their right and privilege to do so. "No one," he said, "can pretend that he has any right to interfere with men who are undertaking to explore a new country."

We know now that at this very time the plans for the Marchand expedition were maturing in Paris, and a few months later it started on the journey that had no pause till Fashoda was reached.

On Sept. 29, last year, M. Delcassé, French Minister of Foreign Affairs, wrote to the French Ambassador in London:

> In fact, Capt. Marchand is an officer of the naval infantry who was charged with the duty of enlisting native troops to replace those whose terms of service had expired, and also to coöperate with M. Liotard, the Government Commissioner, in the occupation and defence of the regions which the French Congo Convention assigned to France.

A day earlier, on Sept. 10, Marchand wrote to Gen. Sir H. H. Kitchener:

> I think I should inform you that, by the order of my Government, I have occupied the Bahr el Ghazal as far as Meshra er Rek and to the confluence with the Bahr el Djebel, also the country of the Shilluks on the left bank of the White Nile as far as Fashoda.

M. Delcassé said to Sir Edmund J. Monson, the British Ambassador to France, last fall: "There is no Marchand mission." The medal presented to Major Marchand by the French Government upon his arrival in Paris bears the inscription: "The Marchand Mission; from the Atlantic to the Red Sea; 1896 to 1899."

How to Learn to Read the Greek Testament.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE SUN—Sir: Permit me to supplement your answer to the question of "Ignorant" as to the possibility of his acquiring "by self culture a knowledge of Greek so as to be able to read the New Testament in the original," by suggesting that, as a first step, he procure a little book published at a small price by Bagster & Sons, entitled, "A Practical Guide to the Greek Testament, Designed for Those Who Have No Knowledge of the Greek Language, but Who Desire to Read the New Testament in the Original." I can personally confirm the statement made in the preface of this book that, "after the careful study of this little work, it is confidently anticipated that the learner will, with the aid of a lexicon, be enabled to read with ease the whole of the Greek Testament." ### No Birds.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE SUN—Sir: Yesterday I took an excursion into that lovely region of Westchester county lying between Unionport, Bay Chester and the Sound, visiting Pelham Park on my way.

During a three hours' ramble through lane, meadow and woodland on that "perfect day in June" I saw not a sign, heard not a sound of bird life, save for a brace of crows flapping their raucous flight over a marsh. There was not even an English sparrow to be met with. Not a whistle, chirp or cheep from grove, bush or field.

They say that Italian pot-hunters are responsible for this, and that they snare and net the very sparrows. Whatever be the cause, in one of the most beautiful and secluded of our suburban retreats the wild bird is no more. J. C. R.

Judge Norton Not of the Supreme Court.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE SUN—Sir: In my letter published in THE SUN of June 9, but written on May 29, the day following Mr. Carol Norton's lecture to a meeting of Christian Scientists in the Metropolitan Opera House, County Judge Norton of Allegany was erroneously spoken of as "Mr. Justice Norton," and it was said to be regrettable that a member of the Supreme Court, who might have to pass upon the rights and liabilities of Christian Scientists as such, should preside at one of their meetings. Judge Norton is not a member of that court.

The Howl of "Algerism."

From the Nineteenth Century Magazine.

Like most men who have seen the Yankees at war, real war—I am heartily ashamed of the wretched outcries and childish complaints which disgraced our history last year. That hideous chorus of execration of the Secretary of War, conducted by hysterical women, meddlesome preachers, fanatical reformers and trumpery politicians, and spread broadcast through the vicious machinery of yellow journalism, will long remain a memory of sorrow and of shame. No army in any age or country was ever half so tenderly cared for. Every veteran of the civil war of thirty-eight years ago knows this to be true. The nation may well blush for the abhorrent episode.

A Bridge Wanted from Mr. Carnegie.

From the Richmond County Democrat.

Have you heard of the expenditure, or of the proposed expenditure, of any Carnegie cash on Staten Island? We have not. Now, Andrew Carnegie could spend some part of his ample fortune in making Staten Islanders more readily in touch with the people of the other boroughs by building a bridge from the borough of Richmond to the borough of Manhattan. Mr. Carnegie thinks that "to die rich is to die disgraced." Well, he will not die disgraced if he builds that bridge.

New York Deficient as to Its Flower Market.

From the Florists' Exchange.

Our first city, which leads the world in almost every other industry, and which is only second to London in the florist's, it being constantly held up as a byword and reproach, not altogether unjustly, when it comes to the matter of a flower market.

HAVANA'S GRIM FORTS.

The Cabanas and the Morro and Their Reminders of Spanish Rule.

HAVANA, June 3.—"We'll go to Morro to-morrow," said my friend, the Professor, one sunny afternoon.

"All right," I replied. "I'm your man." And to Morro we went.

Armed with passes from headquarters, early on the following morning we presented ourselves at the boat landing, near the foot of O'Reilly street, and embarked in one of those tidy little blue-painted yawls which almost monopolize the profitable passenger traffic of Havana harbor, in utter defiance of modern transportation methods, and the solitary steam ferry to Regla across the bay. A Spanish revival of Coleridge's Ancient Mariner set the scrap of dirty canvas which did duty for a sail, and a brisk breeze carried us swiftly to the foot of the incline, which zigzags its way up the steep and rocky hillside to the rambling fortress of Cabañas. In something less than a half hour the Professor, an experienced traveller who resented imposition, had settled with the boatman, and we had started up the ascent.

Arrived at the top, we halted a moment until our papers were examined and pronounced O. K. by a perspiring sentry wearing a sleeveless blue shirt wide open at the throat, whose ardent patriotism was rapidly melting away in the intense heat. Then we turned to the right down a cool passage between high masonry walls for about twenty yards; turned again and walked a long half circle to the left, and emerged into a cobble-paved and wonderfully irregular inclosure, with a postern gate at one end, where the fierce light and heat reflected from the walls and pavements almost blinded us. According to report this was formerly the execution ground of the castle. At one end is a wide marking on the walls at about the height of a man's breast from the ground, and extending laterally for fifty feet or more. It is said to have been caused by the volleys of bullets fired at condemned prisoners in the all too common executions of pre-American days.

Leaving this spot, we passed through the gateway into a long and gloomy archway from which we came into an open, paved space. Then, descending a steep flight of stone steps, we turned to the right down another covered passageway, climbed some steps, turned to the left and went straight forward, then turned to the right twice and came back again, ascended more steps, and then went down an incline to the right and along another covered way; went to the right, to the left, to the right again, climbed more steps, and finally found ourselves gazing over the walls of the battlements on the harbor side, surveying the sail-dotted water below and the yellow city beyond. Then my companion wiped his heated brow and hazarded the opinion that Cabañas had been modelled, and badly modelled at that, on the plan of the Maze at Hampton Court, in which, following the example of Jerome K. Jerome, he had once lost himself.

Placed at random along this wall and pointing in all directions were a number of old bronze cannon. They were roughly carved with the royal arms of Spain and a legend ending with "Ferdinand VI." These innocuous old barkers frowned upon the city even as they did in days two centuries ago; but the significance of their frowning had forever departed in the light of modern science, and their obsoleteness was complete. Ammunition for this old-time ordnance was lying about in huge and rusty piles, over which gray lizards as large as kittens scampered away at our approach. Just in front of the main barracks some Cuban laborers were cleaning out a system of huge vaults. Sunk in the masonry and solid rock, these formerly served as reservoirs in which to store the rain water that, falling on innumerable roofs, ran in devious ways. The one cheerful spot we saw in the whole fort was a snow-white cottage, evidently the officers' quarters, pleasantly overlooking the harbor and surrounded by gardens, whose brilliant flower plots were bordered by rows of rusty round shot. With this single exception, the whole place looked lonely and forlorn.

Next we started to find our way to a white road which ran in plain sight from under the walls to the Morro, a quarter of a mile distant. After half an hour of wandering over sun-baked roofs and through damp passages and echoing courtyards, we came to a part of the stone wilderness inhabited by a company of infantry. Half the men were asleep in their quarters. The other half, in an improvised open-air carpenter shop, were making curios for the great American public, stopping occasionally to allow a Lieutenant of Volunteers to group them for photographs intended for the same open-handed market. Being ashamed to confess our inability to thread the intricacies of the place, we halted only to fill out a grouping at the desire of the Lieutenant, and then resumed our search. An hour later, when we again came to the same point, we had hopelessly lost our bearings and our way, and pathetically solicited the assistance of a guide. One stopped putting the finishing touches to a "battle-dented" Collins machete, and brought us safely forth halfway on the road to Morro. He had but just left us when we came to where the road divided, one going upward to the right, the other down and to the left.

"Which way?" asked my friend.

"Since reading 'A Gentleman of France,'" I replied, "I have always on such occasions as this taken the right-hand turning," and this we did. Had M. de Marsac made the mistake he would undoubtedly have sprung across the dry moat to which my choice presently brought us, and, clinging to the chains of the drawbridge, which was securely drawn up on the further side, would have battered an entrance through the solid rock with his trusty sword. But we lacked both sword and inclination; so we returned, and skirting the ditch, came presently to the castle seaward side, where we were well repaid for our mishap. Here the moat ended on a rocky foreshore, and the Morro's old gray walls rose eighty feet sheer from the blue waters plashing and murmuring far below in deep, sandy pools and over jagged masses of volcanic rock. Behind a newly erected earthwork to the right of the moat were two monster Krupp guns, and in the distance similar constructions could be seen dotting the foreshore, each with its group of magazines, barracks, &c.

After a time we retraced our steps to the lower road, and at the main entrance to the castle found a sentry asleep in the shade of his sentry box. We debated the advisability of disturbing his slumbers. I held that we should let well enough alone and go our way, but my right-minded companion settled the matter by gently shaking the man into wakefulness. For reward, the soldier had no sooner opened his eyes than he demanded our passes, and then—

"You'll have ter go back," said he, "to Cabañas an' have these things countersigned by an officer."

I felt bitterly disappointed, and thought sadly of our lost opportunity. The professor was angry.

"What?" he demanded. "Must we go back over that road to beg of some incompetent the performance of his duty?"

"That ain't the worst of it," replied the sentry. "Ye'll have to wait an hour or so to do that, because the officers are all at dinner."

Before he had time to reply the measured step of the relief was heard approaching, and in a few moments it came into sight around a bend in the road. A most welcome commissioned officer marched by the side of the party, and presently the prospective "incompetent" had most obligingly signed the papers and we were allowed to enter the castle.

Nothing could possibly be more dismal and uninteresting than its interior. It was solitary save for the presence of a few weather observers, who lined up for a snapshot by the Professor, and its defenses were represented by a harmless lot of stubby smoothbores. We visited the tiny chapel, bare now of ornament and covered with dust and dirt, in a vault whose wonderful acoustic properties must certainly have been a boon to the sinful souls who confessed therein, as one recital of any penance was sure to be clearly echoed about sixteen times. In another room quantities of shot and shell of various types were stored. I was looking over a heap of percussion fuses in one corner of this place when the Professor called me, and I went over to where he stood scanning a roughly scrawled sign pasted on one shell of a large pile which were already fitted with fuses and in front of which was a large open box. I read the sign: "Hands off! To touch me means sudden death," and glanced idly at the contents of the box, on the edge of which the Professor rested a hand holding a lighted cigar with the red ash protecting on the inside. It was half full of loose black powder! I instantly realized that should one red-hot flake fall from that cigar end, the cigar and its owner, and its owner's companion, would be rendered unfit for further smoking. So I stepped gingerly back and called the Professor. When he had safely walked a couple of steps, bringing his precious cigar with him, I grabbed him by the arm and ran him outside and told him where he was at.

"Why," he began, "the idiots! To leave such dangerous stuff lying exposed where ——"

"Where any other idiot may come along and ignite it," I finished for him, and he was silent.

Then we engaged in a vain search for a passage, which is said to run under the harbor, from the castle to the Governor-General's palace in the city. We found only one likely looking entrance, and it was closed with an iron-barred gate. By this time the sun had set, and the place looked dark and gloomy with the approach of night. We made our way outside, and down to the landing place and were safely ferried across to the Punta, where we stepped ashore as the first cool night breezes rustled over the darkening bay.

THE ABBEY OF GETHSEMANE.

Life's Routine with the Silent Monks of the Trappist Order.

LOUISVILLE, June 9.—The fiftieth anniversary of the Trappist Abbey of Gethsemane has just been celebrated. Fifty-one years ago two monks from the Abbey of Melleray, in France, came to Kentucky to secure property for a monastery. A tract of 1,000 acres was purchased from the Sisters of Loretto, in Nelson county, and the monastery was established by a company of forty-eight monks in a few log huts. In 1849 Father Eutropius, who founded the colony, had it raised to an abbey and was made an abbot. By dint of unceasing exertion he built up the abbey to its present proportions. In 1899 he resigned and Father Benedict took his place. No woman's feet have ever trodden its precincts.

An avenue of splendid English elms leads from the entrance to the porter's lodge. Beyond is the courtyard, beautified by smooth walks and flower beds and having in the centre a statue of the Virgin, her heel upon the head of a serpent. On the surrounding trellis is carved "Dulcis Virgo Maria Salve." Rough, unpainted and forbidding, the monastery walls rise three stories in height, bare of ornament save for a statue of St. Joseph, the patron saint. "S. Joseph Patrone Noster Dilectissime Ora Pro Nobis" is the inscription which surrounds it. Once inside, the visitor finds himself in the refectory, a long, low room. Bare rafters and long, narrow tables, set with wooden beakers, coarse china and the plainest of cutlery, are features of the room. Next comes the chapter room with a raised platform at one end. On it are three seats for the abbot and the prior and the sub-prior on his right and left. At the other end are confessionals where morning and night the monks seek absolution. On the benches which line the walls the monks take their places at the beginning of the day while the invitator reads from the rules of St. Benedict. Penance is assigned to each who confesses a fault; one of the most grievous faults is the sin of speaking. Pictures of saints and martyrs adorn the wall of this room and it is here that the orders of the day are posted.

A cheerless place is the dormitory, containing a double row of stalls, in each of which is a bunk with little bedding. Across the hall is the monks' library. On its shelves the collections of half a century rest. Not the least interesting of the manuscripts is one containing a complete history of the Trappist order.

A high wall surrounds the last resting place of the monks who pass out of this world. All the graves are alike. A black cross stands at the head of each mound. As one grave is dug the outline of the next is made, a constant reminder of the end that is to come.

After passing through the cloisters the chapel is reached. The altar has a bas-relief of Da Vinci's "Last Supper" and figures of the two Marys kneeling at the foot of the cross. Religious symbols in wood are inlaid in the chancel floor. Stalls for the religious and for the lay brothers are placed near. Over these is a gallery for the strangers who may visit the abbey. Here it is that the daily devotions are begun at 2 o'clock each morning. The ringing of a bell at that hour breaks the stillness, and the white figures gather for matins. The silence is again broken, this time by the abbot. "Deus in meum adjutorium intende," he chants.

"Deus adjuvendum me festina," comes the reply from all the assembled brothers.

At 5:30 o'clock Prime is celebrated by the entire community, closing with the Angelus. Private devotions are held at 6:30 and after breakfast, which is eaten at 7. After the confessions in the chapel, lasting until 11 o'clock, the monks work in the field or the garden until 11:30. At noon the Angelus calls them to prayer. At 1:30 o'clock the visit to the blessed sacrament is made and at 2 o'clock dinner is served. Fish, flesh, fowl, butter and eggs are forbidden, and during Lent even milk is interdicted. But wine, beer or cider, the most famous in all Kentucky, may be drunk. Vespers at 5 and the celebrated "Salve Regina" at 6 close the day. The "Salve Regina" is led by a blind monk, once a celebrated foreign musician.

Such without variance is the life the Gethsemane Trappists have led for fifty years. During all this time only three abbots have been there, Father Eutropius, Father Benedict and Father Obrecht.

The life at the abbey has several times formed the basis of romances, the most prominent of which is James Lane Allen's "White Cowl."

NAVAL BATTLE ON A RIVER.

How the Federal and Confederate Fleets Met Before Memphis in 1862.

From the Memphis Scimitar.

Just thirty-seven years ago yesterday this city heard the boom of cannon and the shriek of shell and many Memphians saw that which was never seen before nor since, a naval battle right at the foot of our bluff.

It was on the 6th day of June, in the year 1862, that a Confederate fleet of seven shell-like steamboats under Commodore Montgomery engaged in battle the Federal fleet of sixteen mortar boats, four rams and four armorclads under Commodore Davis. The fight was a vicious one and the Confederate fleet was almost entirely demolished.

The Federal fleet was composed of the armorclads Benton, Louisville, Carondelet and Cairo, the rams Queen of the West, Monarch, Lancaster and Switzerland, ten mortar boats and a number of tugs and transports. Commodore Davis was in command and Commodore Ellett had charge of the rams.

The Confederate fleet was composed of the steamers Gen. Beauregard, Gen. Sterling Price, Gen. Bragg, Gen. Thompson, Gen. Lovell, Sumter and Little Rebel. Bales of cotton piled on the decks of the steamers furnished protection to the gunners. The entire fleet could muster only fourteen guns, while the Federals had eighty-four.

On the evening of June 5 the Federal fleet was sighted above Memphis. It tied up at Hopefield for the night. On the morning of the 6th Commodore Montgomery signalled to the shells under his command to move up the river and engage the enemy, and with stout hearts the crews and officers stood ready for the fray, while the populace watched them from the bluffs.

The Federals, noting the approach of the enemy, steamed down the river to meet them, and soon the battle was on, beginning at the bend just above the city.

Owing to the narrowness of the river at the point where the battle took place most of the fighting was done by ramming. The first boat to be sunk was the Confederate steamer Gen. Lovell, which was leading the battle line. The Federal ram Queen of the West bore down on her with great force, crushing through and sinking her. The Confederate steamer Beauregard rammed at the Queen of the West but missed her and crashed into the Confederate Gen. Price and sunk her. The battle lasted until the Confederates' boats had all been sunk or disabled.

The facts of the matter are simply these: After the naval battle, a skiff in charge of Lieut. Ellett came to the city under a flag of truce. Ellett had a Union flag tightly wrapped around a staff, and consulting with the Mayor, he went to the Post Office accompanied by some policemen and hoisted the flag. When he came out on the roof of the building to hoist the flag, a Northern born man, but a Southern sympathizer, George H. Crook by name, fired a pistol shot at him. After the flag was run up, a number of Memphians started up to the roof to tear it down, but the policemen who had accompanied Ellett stood on the trap door which opened on the roof, and those who would have torn down the flag were thwarted. This is the story of the greatest naval battle ever fought on Western waters. Nowadays things would be different should a battle occur on the river.

Depressing Effect of the Dismal Swamp.

From the Norfolk, Va., Dispatch.

Norfolk is near the Dismal Swamp. Anybody can perceive that from the prolonged and sullen sadness which has settled on several citizens of this community. The preternatural and eternal gloom which affects their lives and adds the pessimism of the hopeless to their views of State and national affairs shows how near the Dismal Swamp is, and what a pervading influence of depression its vicinity entails. Nothing can be done about it. The Dismal Swamp cannot be drained. The frequent propositions to use its water and to clear it of timber have not succeeded. They have not matured even into franchises which could be watered and sold. The canal may succeed. Commerce may drive away much of the gloomy silence and dissipate the heavy air, but till commerce takes effect the Dismal Swamp must remain, and we must bear with those who are lugubrious or lachrymose because of it. They will die. They may die sooner indeed because they are so sad, because everything is so bad that the Dismal Swamp is really a cheerful place compared with their impressions of what the world will be when they die and everything goes to pot.

Telegraphy by Steel Rail.

From the Paris, Ky., News.

The windstorm last Thursday afternoon blew a large tree across the L. and N. track two miles north of Paris and blocked the track for about an hour. The tree also broke down the telegraph wires for two hundred yards. Chief Train Despatcher H. H. Hancock went out on a freight to the scene to see about the accident and took the Paris end of the wire and sent a message to the Paris office by merely tapping on the steel rails with the broken wire. The message came very faintly, but it was correctly taken by Despatcher Bower, who was on duty. This is the first message of the kind that has ever come under the notice of A. C. Adair, who has been telegraphing for twenty years, and Despatcher Hancock, who has been a despatcher for fifteen years.

Al líder Sionista 'americano', el rabino Stephen S. Wise, se fue de la lengua respecto a la agenda sionista detrás de la patraña del Holocausto: promover la simpatía pública hacia el Sionismo (y la toma de Palestina).

"Hay 6.000.000 de argumentos vivientes, sangrantes, sufriendo a favor del sionismo."

"ZIONISTS" MASS MEETING: Rabbi WIse's Address." New York Times. June 11, 1900:

RABBI WISE'S ADDRESS.

Rabbi Wise said, in part:

"The day will never come when I will care less for Zion, when there will be any one who will strive more for the glorious ideals of Zionism.

"Two great conventions of Jews are being held to-night. In Chicago there is a conference of charities called together by men who minister to the wants of the poor. They have assembled to see that too much charity is not given to the unworthy. Their purpose is right. But ours is the greater charity. We have assembled not to see that the Jew does not get too much, but that every Jew shall get the right to live.

"There are 6,000,000 living, bleeding, suffering arguments in favor of Zionism. They come not to beg, but ask for that which is higher than all material things. They seek to have satisfied the unquenchable thirst after the ideal. They ask to become once again the messengers of right, justice, and humanity.

"Your Christian friends will honor you if you have enough self-respect to care for your own people. Say that you are not a Jew, and you will be hated as a Jew, nevertheless. But say that you are an American Jew, and strive for the best principles of the race, you will be respected and the Zionist name honored.

"Of Israel and Zion one thing is true. They can conquer. God is our leader, and with the General of the heavenly hosts to lead who will say that we go not to victory?

"In the old Greek games, the man who won the race was not he who went fastest, but the one who bore a lighted torch to the end of the course.

"We Zionists have entered a race, the torch of liberty, charity, and justice in our hands.

"The race will be won, not because we are fastest but because that lamp is a light unto the world. It will never be extinguished.

"Come, brothers, the lamp is in your hands; run the race and may God give you the victory forever."

Other speakers were Dr. M. Mintz, Dr. Robert L. Halperin of Chicago, and the Rev. Dr. B. Drachman.

The Zion hymn by the Rev. Dr. H. Pereira Mendes, was sung at the conclusion of the speaking. The band of the Hebrew Sheltering Guardian Society Orphan Asylum, under direction of I. L. Fauerbach, played a number of selections.

ity."

Max Goldberg thanked the ladies for their great interest in Zionism. He said: "Palestine, when it becomes the national home of the Jews, will develop the natural resources that have not been touched under Turkish rule. The commerce and industry of a once prosperous country will be revived and utilized by a free people. The Jews, under a free government, will make Palestine the commercial centre of the Orient. We, who live in this great America, would like to see the Zionist movement prevail, so that the Jews in other countries less favored than we will have an opportunity to prosper. Wherever our people prosper they will remain, and they prosper and are unpersecuted in America and England, and nowhere else. Here in America we progress and prosper and will soon be wholly identified with the general population of this country But six million of Jews are being persecuted to-day in Europe, and Zionism offers the most rational plan for their salvation and their regeneration. It is well that Reading supporters of Zionism are displaying so much zeal in the movement that means so much to our people in other lands."

MISS KATIE GITTELSON, TREASURER.

Rev. S. Kaufman, of Northumberland was present and addressed the assembly on Zionism and the quickest means for its establishment.

The Daughters of Zion will secure a library and study questions of the day. A large membership has been enrolled and others have made application.

Con entrada propia sobre "anti-semitismo", la décima edición de la Enciclopedia Británica contiene referencias a los "Seis millones de Judíos" de Rumanía y Rusia siendo "sistemáticamente degradados".

Entry for 'Antisemitism'

While the main activity of anti-Semitism has manifested itself in Germany, Russia, Rumania, Austria-Hungary and France, its vibratory influences have been felt in other countries when conditions favourable to its extension have presented themselves. Great Britain, &c. In England more than one attempt to acclimatize the doctrines of Marr and Treitschke has been made. The circumstance that at the time of the rise of German anti-Semitism a premier of Hebrew race, Lord Beaconsfield, was in power first suggested the Jewish bogey to English political extremists. The Eastern crisis of 1876–1878, which was regarded by the Liberal party as primarily a struggle between Christianity, as represented by Russia, and a degrading Semitism, as represented by Turkey, accentuated the anti-Jewish feeling, owing to the anti-Russian attitude adopted by the government. Violent expression to the ancient prejudices against the Jews was given by Sir J. G. Tollemache Sinclair (A Defence of Russia, 1877). Mr T. P. O'Connor, in a life of Lord Beaconsfield (1878), pictured him as the instrument of the Jewish people, "moulding the whole policy of Christendom to Jewish aims." Professor Goldwin Smith, in several articles in the Baron de Hirsch founded a colossal scheme for transplanting persecuted Jews to new countries under new conditions of life, and endowed it with no less a sum than £9,000,000 (see HIRSCH, MAURICE DE).

Though anti-Semitism has been unmasked and discredited, it is to be feared that its history is not yet at an end. While there remain in Russia and Rumania over six millions of Jews who are being systematically degraded, and who periodically overflow the western frontier, there must continue to be a Jewish question in Europe; and while there are weak governments, and ignorant and superstitious elements in the enfranchized classes of the countries affected, that question will seek to play a part in politics.

LITERATURE.—No impartial history of modern anti-Semitism has yet been written. The most comprehensive works on the subject, Israel among the Nations, by A. Leroy-Beaulieu (1893), and L'Anti-sémitisme, son histoire et ses causes, by Bernard Lazare (1894), are collections of studies rather than histories. M. Lazare's work will be found most useful by the student on account of its detached standpoint and its valuable bibliographical notes. A good list of works relating to Jewish ethnography will be found at the end of M. Isidor Loeb's valuable article, "Juifs," in the Dictionnaire universel de géographie (1884). To these should be added, Adolf

PLEA FOR ZIONISM.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

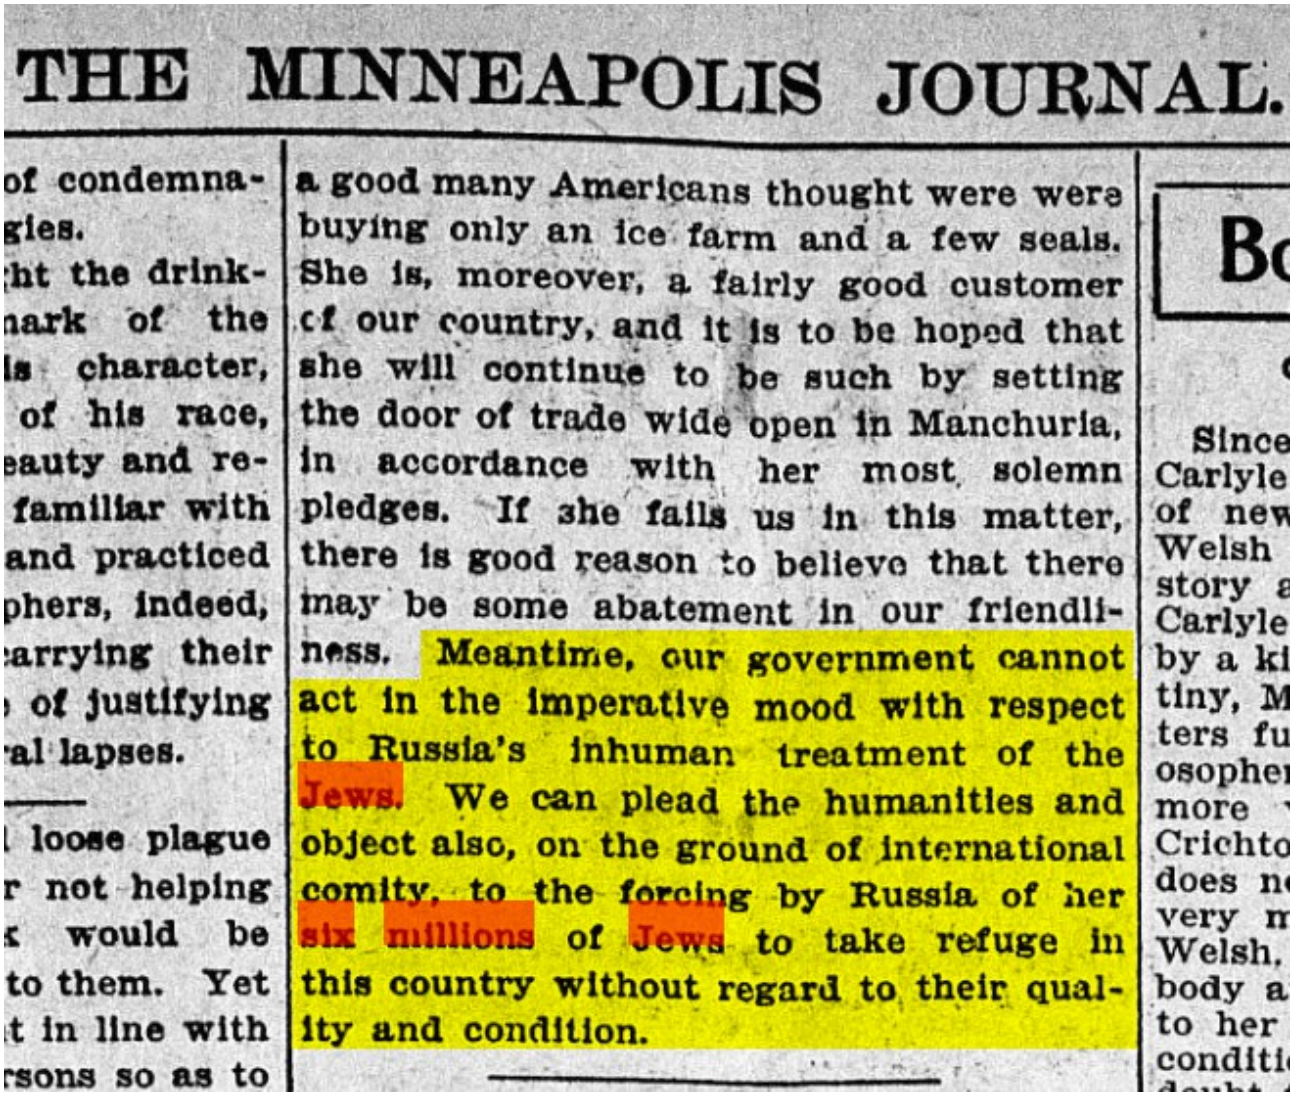
After reading in your valued paper the sermon of the Rev. Dr. Silverman on "Zionism," I would ask of you to grant me permission to write a few words in answer.



First, he says "Zionism is based on a feigned, fictitious, or imaginary love of Zion. Why should I love Zion, which I know not and where I have never been. * * * I have every reason to love America more than Palestine."

In answer I would say: Does Dr. Silverman represent the 6,000,000 Jews in Russia, 300,000 in Roumania, and the 1,000,000 in Galicia? Do they enjoy the liberties that he does in America? Would America or England be willing to allow them to emigrate to their shores? Why should the Doctor exert himself in their behalf? So long as he himself enjoys all the liberties and privileges of our American free institutions but forgets that, every one will consider him as merely selfish. Shall we repudiate and withhold our hand from those who have found a less happy termination to our common misfortune? If we are no longer called upon to suffer for our principles, yet we have not ceased to maintain

The Week in Business.

These are times when the average business man, who ordinarily gives little attention to matters concerning stock speculation, finds his interest involuntarily drawn that way. For three months a decline has been on in stocks that will go down in Wall street history as making one of the great bear markets. The indicator, over this ninety-day period, has been steadily pointing downward, and the continued sagging trend is marked at intervals by sudden turns of sharp decline caused by enforced liquidation. This week brought another severe break, of more general interest here than any preceding, for the reason that in the forefront of the decline were several issues ordinarily known as Minneapolis stocks.

To-day, prices of the best stocks are 25 to 45 points down from high figures of earlier months. A calculation of the sort often made, would show a shrinkage of hundreds of millions in stock values, such figures serving little real purpose as anti-prosperity arguments, since the losses represent very largely the scaling down of inflated values. Prices are now on levels where in many cases stocks are legitimately worth the market quotations or even more, which does not necessarily mean that low points have been reached.

When a speculative market runs one way for a long time, it gains great momentum and is very hard to stack. On the present decline a powerful and well organized bear clique has developed, with manipulative tactics as daring and aggressive as any ever seen. The slightest change of an unfavorable nature in monetary conditions or industrial affairs is the signal for a fresh attack, while such an occurrence as the collapse of the Canadian speculative pool and the failure of a Toronto banking house means a raid all along the line. Excessive rains over the west, with retardation of cereal growth and the accompanying suggestion of the probability of a smaller grain tonnage in the fall is the latest incentive for selling stocks, so far ahead does the professional speculator discount the future, and if the Mississippi should burst its banks around St. Louis as is not improbable, a fresh drive in stocks may be expected next week, on the ground of additional crop damage and injury to railroad property.

New developments in the labor field were principally unfavorable, the feature being the controversy growing around the Philadelphia textile trades, involving twelve mills and almost 60,000 men.

In all reports of a favorable nature respecting general trade the past week continues to make the best relative showing, and the minor features that collectively are serious enough to be a handicap elsewhere, are almost entirely missing here. The only disappointing feature is the building industry, where the figures, altho well up and carrying very favorably with other centers, show a total of new construction under way less than had been generally expected. The same causes that operated to check new work the country over have been felt in some degree here. This means delay and nothing more, as there is demand here for more buildings to accommodate growing business and population which must be met sooner or later. The city's retail trade meanwhile is very large for the season, and the jobbers report a good business with collections still very easy and few failures or bad debts.

While the grain movement remains light the northwestern railroads can make no high records, even tho the volume of traffic in other commodities is heavy. The central traffic lines meanwhile are carrying a general tonnage larger than ever before in their history, and are doing it so expeditiously that delays are unusual, even while the rails are holding more cars than at the time last fall when congestion and freight blockades were the complaints.

Iron has been on the downward trend again, nor is it to be expected that recovery will occur very soon. The coal trade has rarely been busier, and the mining companies are filling large orders at prices which will soon reimburse them for the losses resulting from the great coal strike. From the first of June the northwest begins to turn her attention more towards itself. At the same time the business world outside begins to watch the northwest more closely for indications respecting the spring wheat. On Wednesday next the government will give out the first monthly report as to spring wheat and the condition will be shown to be very high. Then will follow the period of watching the development thru all the favorable and unfavorable changes until maturity. There never was a year when the spring wheat crop went into the ground, or came above the ground in better condition, and the early reports of insufficient moisture for seeding or for germination that are often heard, are lacking this year. The ground has abundant moisture to carry the plant thru the first early stage.

The Commercial West present an extremely interesting statement of the substantial reductions in freight rates on the Great Northern within the last twenty years. Doubtless the company deserves much credit for these reductions, but the Minnesota railway laws and the railway and warehouse commission have had something to do with them. Possibly, too, it is not exactly accurate to say that the stockholders of the road have not benefited by its increased earnings. It is true that the dividend rate has not been increased, but there is a chance for an argument that the stock has been watered. Nevertheless we are disposed to give Mr. Hill unstinted credit for his general advocacy and realisation of low freight rates. There is no question that the policy of establishing a fixed dividend rate, and giving the public the benefit of increasing earnings beyond that point in better service and reductions, is the ideal policy of such a quasi-public organization as a railway company.

The University's Troubles.

The University of Minnesota is wrestling now with the problem that every institution of learning has to wrestle with part of the time; that is, what to do with members of the faculty grown too old or believed to be otherwise incapacitated for the most effective work, after many years of honorable and useful service. It is a delicate task for the regents or trustees of an institution of learning to determine just when a professor's age begins to militate against good work, and when for some other reason he is no longer so useful to the institution as another might be in his place. And after a decision has been reached, it is a still more delicate task to alter the unfortunate professor's standing in accordance with it.

So far as the disposition of aged members of the faculty is concerned, much of the pain of an embarrassing situation to both the professor and the managing body would be avoided by a hard and fast age retirement rule, such as prevails in the army and navy. In such cases there is no room for painful and unseemly disputes as to whether a certain man is infirm or not; for, having reached a certain age, he is retired without examination as to his probable usefulness. So long as there is not a rule of that kind, there is bound to be much heart-burning following a removal or retirement and much fault-finding, with the responsible board, whether it be right or wrong. As for cases of removal where the advanced age of the professor is not the cause, the best way to handle them would seem to be one of stiffer candor, if not with the public, at least with the professor. Successive reductions of salaries as a professor grows older or becomes more objectionable, as viewed by the managing body, is not encouraging to the younger men, and is well calculated to prevent further usefulness in the unhappy victim. It is to be regretted that the University of Minnesota has not a retired list. It is, perhaps, too much to expect that the legislature would appropriate money for salaries of retired professors, but if it should it would soon get the money's worth in the peace and elimination of friction that would follow.

The trouble in the agricultural department, which has resulted in a demand on the part of the regents for the resignation of four members of the faculty, is of an entirely different nature from the considerations involved in what was said above. A regrettable difference seems to have arisen between Dean Liggett and Principal Tucker, and from the conflicting statements made by the two sides of the controversy, it is difficult to arrive at a conclusion as to whether the regents have done wisely or not. Certainly all friends of the splendid agricultural department of the university will hope that they have pursued a just course, for if they have not the trouble will not be snuffed out by a mere demand for the resignations of Principal Tucker, Mrs. Meredith and Mr. and Mrs. Mahood. Scarcely anything can be of more detriment to an educational institution than a wrangle among the faculty.

Mr. Ambrose Tighe deplores the inability of the Minnesota legislature to get together with itself and pass needed legislation. What Minnesota legislatures need is a good boss, not of the selfish machine politician type, but a natural leader.

Overdone Hero-Worship.

The writers of biographies are for the most part eulogists. Many of these gentlemen are authorized by the families and close friends of the subject to write the biography. A hero-worshiper is hardly fit to write an unbiased biography of the person worshiped. There is apt to be the portrayal of a faultless being. Aaron Burr has had such biographers. So have Washington, Napoleon, Frederick the Great, Mary Stuart, Ferdinand and Isabel, Julius Cæsar, and many others who might be named. Boswell takes care to portray Dr. Johnson by reporting his sayings in prose and out of prose, in his outbursts of temper and in his quieter, social moments. We probably have Johnson's measure.

Sometimes a hero-worshiping biographer overdoes the business to the disadvantage of the hero. There is an instance of this in Plato's worship of Socrates. In the dialog entitled The Banquet, Plato, who usually portrays Socrates as a very temperate and abstemious man, represents him as attending a banquet of the characteristic Greek kind and outdrinking the whole company, among whom were such bibulous and convivial fellows as the tragic poet, Agathon and Aristophanes, the popular writer of comedies, who had more than once made his playhit off Socrates as in his "cloud-cuckooland." Alcibiades had said that no one had ever seen Socrates drunk. On this occasion the drinking began at an early hour in the evening, when Socrates began to argue with Agathon and Aristophanes that a tragic poet or a comedy writer ought to be skilled in the production of both tragedy and comedy. The argument went steadily on, and the drinking went steadily on also, until the banquet hall was full of sleeping philosophers. At last Aristophanes, Agathon and Socrates remained, drinking wine vigorously out of a big goblet, sitting at a table. Then Aristophanes fell under the table in a drunken sleep, and Agathon soon followed, leaving Socrates master of the situation. Having talked and drank the whole crowd under the table. The great philosopher then drained the goblet, got up, went to the Lyceum, took a bath and went to work for the day. Plato intended to present his hero in a most favorable light, as he thought, able to drink strong liquor all night and yet not permitting himself to be overcome by it. It was, in fact, only evidence that Socrates had a pretty hard head and could out-drink and floor every literary fellow in Athens without injury to himself. The discourses of Socrates would seem to set the seal of condemnation upon such midnight orgies.

Plato, however, who thought the drinking ability of his hero a mark of the strength and dignity of his character, shared the inconsistencies of his race, who, with intense love of beauty and refinement of taste, were yet familiar with the vices of human nature, and practiced them. Some modern biographers, indeed, are also chargeable with carrying their hero-worship to the extreme of justifying their inconsistencies and moral lapses.

If the Macedonians should loose plague bacilli to punish Europe for not helping them to liberty, the Turk would be an angel of mercy compared to them. Yet such a course would be right in line with their policy of abducting persons so as to swell the revolutionary treasury with the price of their ransom.

An Interesting Commercial Experiment.

Business men and the public generally will watch with much interest the experiment in co-operative ownership which the Dayton Dry Goods company of Minneapolis is now making. William Donaldson & Company, the Plymouth Building House, The Journal and other local corporations offer stock to their employes, but the Dayton company is also planning to have its patrons participate in the profits they are the essential means of making. The company is offering 2,000 shares of 6 per cent preferred stock, $100 the share, and is endeavoring to reach as many people as possible by endeavoring especially to place subscriptions for one, two, three, five and ten shares.

Of course, this is not complete co-operation, but it is an important step towards it. In a complete co-operative business there is no capital represented which does not belong wholly to the workers and patrons of the institution, thus giving them complete control of the business. In the Dayton experiment the common stock with its control of the business remains chiefly in the hands of the capitalists who organized the company and partly in the hands of those employes who shall see fit to take advantage of the company's offer of stock. The public, or the patrons, are offered only preferred stock, which may be paid off after seven years. This stock is not to participate in all of the profits, but is to be limited, as is to be guaranteed 6 per cent dividends. While it may not receive so much in dividend distributions as the common stock, it is, on the other hand, insured against the possible failure of the common to get anything.

Kansas City proclaims that it needs no help for itself but that the neighboring cities do. This is fine independence, justice to more sorely injured cities and good advertising.

The Russian Jewbaiting.

The explanation by the Russian director of police, called to the Christian Herald of New York, Thursday, relating to the Kishinef massacre, comes from an official source, but it conveys no additional information.

Lopoukhine admits the fiendish race antagonism existing among the Russian peasants toward the Jews, and he might have admitted at the same time that the anti-Semitism of the educated classes is extremely bitter. He represents this hatred to be so intense that the government dare not give the Jews new rights of citizenship, for the reason that such liberality would result in an insurrection of those amiable peasants. It would not do to offend the peasants by treating the Jews with any degree of fairness, for they are the most steadfast friends of the czar. The director plainly intimates that there is not any hope of betterment for the unfortunate Jews, and there is little doubt that it is the intention of the benign Russian government to force them out of Russia. The director freely admits that the police at Kishinef made no "efficacious intervention" and were worthless as a law-enforcing force, while the "Christian" inhabitants did their bloody work, or looked on with eager satisfaction at the atrocities perpetrated upon the Jews. The Russian government disapproves, the director says; but there is no good reason for disapproval do when it is afraid to protect the Jews and give them rights as citizens? The director, in his report, reminds us of the lynching of negroes in this country, and he might have recalled the Wyoming massacre, in which Chinamen were the victims. Perhaps during the case is that we have no systematic national negro-baiting, and Americans do not massacre them en bloc, as Jews are massacred in Russia. It is but fair to deal with us, but the defense of negro-baiting comes only from such men as Tillman of South Carolina.

The Russian official press expresses surprise at the demonstrations in this country against the Russian anti-Semitism. It is claimed that Russia should have different treatment for her long friendship toward the United States, and the public meetings like that held at Washington last evening, to protest against the atrocities and call upon our government to use it good offices to get Russia to relieve the Jews of the deadly intolerance which blights their lives, are regarded as hostile acts.

The president, upon his resumption of business at Washington, will take into consideration the somewhat touchy problem. It is knotty, because the Russian government is afraid to give the Jews any relief thru any increase of their rights and privileges, lest a domestic insurrection follow. Moreover, it is not desirable for our government to antagonize Russia on a question of domestic philanthropy and humane treatment of a class, when as to Indians, negroes and Chinese, the white robe of our officious philanthropy will be found badly spotted in places.

The Russian contention that we are indebted to Russia for her friendship is based chiefly upon the fact that every government in Europe was friendly to the Southern Confederacy and sympathetic with it during the struggle for the union, except Russia, and the courtesy and friendliness on her part the country has always acknowledged. Russia, however, at one time laid claim to the Pacific coast, by reason of her possession of Alaska, and her colony in California. She abandoned her claim only when the Monroe doctrine warned all Europe against colonizing either in the north or the south continent of the hemisphere. Russia, of course, did us a very good turn when she let us have Alaska for $7,200,000, altho, at the time, a good many Americans thought were very buying only an ice farm and a few seals. She is, moreover, a fairly good customer of our country, and it is to be hoped that it will continue to be such by setting the door of trade wide open in Manchuria, in accordance with her most solemn pledges. If she fails us in this matter there is good reason to believe that there may be some abatement in our friendliness. Meantime, our government cannot act in the unfriendly mood with respect to Russia's inhuman treatment of the Jews. We can plead the humanities and object also, on the ground of international comity, to the fleecing by Russia of her six millions of Jews to take refuge in this country without regard to their quality and condition.

The Russians pour burning coals on our heads by admitting that the Russian peasant, when enraged against the Jews, is even worse than our negro lynchers.

The destructive floods in upper portions of the Mississippi valley this year are likely to be the agency of bringing the national government to undertake the needful work of curbing the old river. Uncle Sam can do it, and the people of the southern valley states have long wanted him to put his great strength and unlimited resources to the accomplishment of the task. Now that the floods of this year have affected directly no less than ten states and indirectly the whole country, it begins to be plain that the problem of regulating the stage of water in the Mississippi is a truly national one.

In view of the possible success of the movement for preferential tariffs within the British empire, it is all the more incumbent upon American railway and transportation companies not to discriminate against American flour. Fair treatment of this great commodity by the railroads will enable American millers to face with equanimity considerable adverse tariff legislation in England and elsewhere.

Nesmith Ankeny, son of Senator Levi Ankeny of Washington, has resigned a fat job as manager of his father's banana farm, because the "old man" did not invite him to a banquet to President Roosevelt. Young Mr. Ankeny will not do. The man who gives up one good thing because he can't have another, too, will hardly win in this grasping world.

Governor Cummins is trying to get all the consolation he can out of the Ohio platform. Well, there is some consolation for him in the fact that the state of the great "standpatter" didn't dare to resolve to stand pat forever.

Members of the board of regents of the university doubtless feel just now as if it would take pretty large salaries to compensate them adequately for the trouble they have to face for nothing.

The Minneola branch of the National Reciprocity league seems to have "got busy." If other states will follow its example somebody in Washington will likewise begin to do things.

A TECHNICALITY

Kansas City Journal.

It is noted by the Philadelphia Post that, as a result of the populist movement in the state, a man by the name of Kirby was elected to congress. The Post is generous enough to conceal the fact that this man was elected from Kansas and that his name was not Kirby, but Simpson.

At every one Khows, the long suit of the populists was "féenance," and that every pop had most violent ideas about money, hating Kirby's first time a bill came up for discussion which had to do with the finances of a new series of paper money and the retirement and maceration of the series then in use.

Kirby was furious about this, notes the Post. "Here we see the government directed from Lombard street, in London, withdrawing billions of money from circulation, and emasculating, if not destroying it," he shouted, in a speech one day. "Never in the history of the United States has such an outrage been perpetrated. With our children crying for money, these creatures of the Wall street octopus are withdrawing billions from circulation; billions, gentlemen, I say billions—"

"Don't you mean millions?" asked Representative Cushman.

"There you go," yelled Kirby, shaking his fist at him in fury. "There you are just like all the rest of them; you are trying to win this fight on technicalities."

COME BACK TO PLAGUE

Since Dr. Crichton Browne and Alexander Carlyle have claimed that in their volumes of letters and memorials of Jane Welsh Carlyle, the husband of the latter's story about the unhappiness of Thomas Carlyle and his wife, Jane Welsh Carlyle, by a kind of post mortem study and scrutiny of the latter's intimate letters, have been full of reproaches against her philosopher husband, will perhaps be assailed more violently than ever. Sir James Crichton Browne's investigation, however, does not seem to have bettered the case very much, for he discovered that Jane Welsh Carlyle in childhood had a delicate body and mind, increasing in impairment to her mature years. This hereditable condition was hereditary and there is no doubt in Sir James' mind that Mr. Carlyle's querulous letters indicate a tendency which dominated the greater part of her married life and the fact that Carlyle himself was a hopeless dyspeptic suggests that the married life of the pair could not possibly have been one of ideal bliss. Froude has been terribly blamed for publishing those letters of Mrs. Carlyle, but he honestly and conscientously believed that it was his duty to show Jane Welsh Carlyle as she really was and not deceive anyone as to her character. Carlyle himself has generally been dealt with that way.

NEW BOOKS

THE JEWISH ENCYCLOPEDIA. A Descriptive Record of the History, Religion, Literature and Customs of the Jewish People, from the Earliest Times to the Present Day. Vol. IV., "Cassel to Syrkus." New York: Funk & Wagnalls.

The fourth volume of this splendid work is of the same valuable quality as its predecessors, which have been noticed in these columns. The Jewish Encyclopedia is a fine specimen of encyclopedia-making, and it is needless to say it is devised and carried out by distinguished Jewish scholars in this country. Dr. Isaac Dayan, Dr. Richard Gottheil, Ph. D., Emil Hirsch, Ph. D., L. L. D., Herman Rosenthan and Isidore Singer, Ph. D., who are assisted by several hundred eminent contributers in the United States and Europe. The work when completed will be a monument to Jewish scholarship and will prove a lasting permanent value as a book of reference. For those in an encyclopedia in existence devoted, like this, exclusively to the Jewish race.

Among the interesting features of this fourth volume are the papers under the head Crusades, which treats of the Jews under Turkish rule, the article Crusades, which describes the attitude of the Crusaders toward the Jews; an account of the Cossack massacres of the Jews back of 1648; a paper on the Jewish chronology, for "Christianity in Its Relation to Judaism," "Coats of Arms of the Jews," the 312 commandments of the law of Moses; on demonology, devotional literature; on the Jewish race in its relations to the Hellenic and the Roman peoples; on divorce, the drama. In the last paper there is a fine description of the play from the attack made upon his character by English, German, French and other dramatists; Shylock is not viewed as Shylock, intelligible, in Austria; a Pinkus, Shylock's opposite, Harry, in Denmark; Dan Chatterton, in Hamburg, Baruch, a good angel. Every dramatist has his own idea of a Jew and character and represented him accordingly, but the Jew remains basic in "Trilby" an exaggerated type and finds favor with Israel Zangwill for going to the extreme in his "Children of the Ghetto," that he exposed the Ghetto-dwellers to the light of day with fidelity, at times "abnormally unpleasant."

One of the most interesting papers in this volume is that in the Dreyfus case, written by a well known Jewish publicist, whose name for obvious reasons is withheld. It is written by one evidently a close student of the trial. This infamous condemnation of an innocent man and his subsequent pardon, withdrawal, arising from him the false charge of treason. The force of the evil series of facts being shown by the record of two trials and is not partizan, while evidently sympathetic with Captain Dreyfus. At the close he says: "The case has rendered one service to the French Republic by bringing into full light the danger of an alliance between anti-Semitism, militarism, monarchism, clericalism—different terms which express the accordance of forms of intolerance and counter-revolution. It has, besides, been a lesson to the whole world of the danger of setting religious prejudices to interfere with the secred prerogative of justice." Dreyfus being a Jew, because the objective of the cruel attack of all the intolerant elements in the humble of the Israelites upon which Captain Dreyfus was falsely convicted accompanies the article, which is a masterly statement of the celebrated case.

There are 230 illustrations in the volume, many of them full-page and colored.

HEADQUARTERS OF POLICE.

Mrs. Anna K. Greene Rohlfs,
#105 Norwood Avenue,
Buffalo, N. Y.

Dear Madam:

If I had known the solution of the mystery concerning the Grey-Vere affair, that would not have deterred me from making a careful perusal of that interesting work "The Filigree Ball".

No apology is necessary for the use you make of the Washington Police; on the other hand, I must convey to you congratulations upon the masterly manner in which you handle your subjects of the force. You give evidence of familiarity with police workings, which could only be realized from intimate acquaintance and hard study.

The ambitions, subtleties and intelligence of the subordinates are aptly portrayed, as well as in the earnest disposition to avoid connection with the case on the part of the several characters who are parties to the unfortunate situations.

The whole matter is interestingly presented, and the design of the reader delves into it the greater the attraction.

All Washington should find in your production so much that is out of the ordinary, and at the same time so much of local interest as to create a ready demand for your book.

With best wishes, permit me to be,

Very truly,

ZANGWILL HERE TO AID JEWISH COLONY SCHEME

Author Talks of England's Offer of Land in South Africa.

ENOUGH JEWS IN AMERICA

Immigration Must Stop or Anti-Semitic Feeling Will Result, He Says— Arrives on the Teutonic.

Israel Zangwill, the author and playwright, arrived in New York on the White Star liner Teutonic last night. Mr. Zangwill's mission is to arouse interest in the proposed scheme to colonize the Jews on the land that the British Government has offered to set aside for them in British East Africa.

"My purpose in coming to the United States at this time," said Mr. Zangwill, "is not to advocate but to interest the leading Jewish citizens of New York in the proposed East African colonization of the Jews. Of course, the matter is as yet only a proposition, and a commission is now in Africa examining the tract of 400 square miles of territory that the British Government has offered to set aside.

"Something of the kind is necessary, for America now has all the Jews it wishes, as is proved by the fact that in London we are receiving letters regularly telling us not to send any more over. The Jews for 1,900 years have been without a government, and in consequence have lost the power of self-government, of organization, and of regulating their affairs. Palestine is closed to them, and the result is that a half-way colony will have to be established somewhere where this work can be carried on.

"The problem does not relate to the American Jews, but to the 6,000,000 in Russia. The Russian Government has consented to allow the Jews to leave, which is a concession, although not much of a one. In Russia there are still occasional outbreaks and the anti-Semitic feeling grows.

Federal Interference Again?

Meat is to the American workingman, whether he labors in the shop or in the office, a necessity of life. It is not a less important thing for his health and comfort than anthracite coal. He works hard, with body and with brain, and the fare on which workingmen in some countries support life would be insufficient in nutriment and strength-producing elements to sustain him.

Thus the butchers' strike may cause more popular discontent and give rise to more complaints than did the coal miners' strike of 1902. Scarcity of foodstuffs invariably leads to violence more widespread and more destructive than does a shortage of any other article of human consumption. In the bakers' strike in Rome recently the Government found it necessary to bake and distribute bread to preserve the peace.

There is no constitutional or legal authority for the Government at Washington to butcher and distribute beeves and pigs and lambs. But there was no legal or constitutional authority for the Government at Washington to interfere in the coal strike.

The Governor and the Grade Crossing.

No substantial progress can be made toward the abolition of railroad grade crossings in this State so long as the Governor insists that the Commonwealth shall not share in the expense. That is practically the stand Mr. ODELL has taken, although the law specifically and unequivocally provides that the State shall bear one-fourth of the burden of the cost of such improvements. In the mean time the killing and maiming of people at these crossings goes on with an appalling total loss of life and limb each year.

The Governor's course in the matter of the most extensive and most important grade crossing improvement now under consideration by the Railroad Commission is illustrative of his attitude on the whole question. The city of Schenectady, with over 50,000 inhabitants, is traversed by two railroads, the New York Central and the Delaware and Hudson. There are in the heart of the town at least eight of the most dangerous grade crossings still in existence in this State. The railroads are eager to abolish them and the city is eager to abolish them, both being willing to pay their share of the cost; but the work has been halted for two years by Governor ODELL, who invariably vetoes or cuts down to an inadequate sum all appropriations from which the State's share of the expense might be paid. Thus, in 1903 he cut the appropriation for this work from $250,000 to $75,000. This year he made another sweeping reduction in the sum voted for all similar improvements by the Legislature.

This cheeseparing is doubtless one of the evils that necessarily follow in the train of the Odell indirect taxation policy, designed primarily for the purpose of compelling the cities to pay the major portion of the expenses of the government of the State. Having committed himself to this policy, it is necessary for him to use the knife without ruth, even though it sometimes reaches a vital spot, when the annual appropriation bill comes before him for review.

Southern Democrats at St. Louis.

Mr. THOMAS F. RYAN has called attention, in a striking way, to the conservative and decisive attitude of the South at St. Louis. For the first time since the civil war the Southern delegates to a Democratic national convention exercised an influence commensurate with the preponderant part which their States are called upon to play in the election of a President. Their leaders evinced tact, judgment, foresight. But for them Judge PARKER could not have been nominated, and but for them his straightforward, self-respecting message would have been received in a resentful spirit.

At the Charleston convention in 1860 the Southern Democrats failed to evince the caution, sobriety and self-control with which for many years they had shaped the course of their party. By permitting a headstrong, fire eating and short sighted element to assume control they condemned their section to catastrophe and destroyed the institution of which they were the champions. The cool and long headed leaders who in 1848, in 1852 and in 1856 had striven to allay sectional jealousies and animosities by putting forward a Northern man for the office of Chief Magistrate were dead or discredited. So it came to pass that a large majority of the Southern delegates to Charleston entered into fratricidal strife with their Northern brethren, and made the irreparable blunder of naming in JOHN C. BRECKENRIDGE a candidate of their own.

From the close of the civil war up to the first nomination of GROVER CLEVELAND it was made painfully evident that the Southern delegates to the Democratic national conventions had not learned wisdom from misfortune. If any man could have beaten Gen. GRANT at the ballot box in 1868, it would have been SALMON P. CHASE, and there is little doubt that the Chief Justice would have been the nominee had not the Southern delegates allowed themselves to be stampeded for HORATIO SEYMOUR by CLEMENT L. VALLANDIGHAM. Perceiving too late the error which they committed at that time, Southern Democrats went four years later to the opposite extreme, and, by sanctioning the candidacy of HORACE GREELEY, neutralized the effect of the Liberal-Republican revolt against the first Grant Administration, making defeat inevitable.

It is now known that ROSCOE CONKLING and other fair minded Republicans, including, no doubt, GRANT himself, would have refused to countenance any attempt to resist by force the inauguration of SAMUEL J. TILDEN on March 4, 1877, and that in all likelihood the Democrats would have reaped the fruit of their victory at the ballot box had Southern Democrats firmly refused to permit the House of Representatives to assent to the appointment of the Electoral Commission. It is certain that in 1880, but for the blindness of Southern Democrats to the one vital question of the hour, a great public wrong would have been righted, and the mere name of SAMUEL J. TILDEN, however infirm and irresolute might have become the victim of the political crime of 1876, would have swept like a whirlwind his native State of New York. In 1884, and in the two following Presidential years, the pilots of the Southern Democracy gave proofs of returning sanity and prescience. It was no fault of their section that CLEVELAND failed in 1888 to carry the Empire Commonwealth. At Chicago, on the other hand, in 1896, and again at Kansas City in 1900, the Southern Democrats showed themselves incapable of detecting the drift of public opinion in the pivotal States, and doomed their party to disaster.

The best traditions of Southern leadership were personified at St. Louis in Senator DANIEL of Virginia, ex-Senator DAVIS of West Virginia, Senator BAILEY of Texas, Representative WILLIAMS of Mississippi, Senator CARMACK of Tennessee, and, we should in justice add, Senator TILLMAN of South Carolina. But for those men the nomination of Chief Judge PARKER on the first ballot, perhaps on any, would have been impossible, and but for them the Democratic convention, spellbound by BRYAN's deadly influence, would have met Judge PARKER's manly message with an indignant rebuff and proceeded to put forward another standard bearer. They it was who held the convention to the duty of honoring an honest man, and who made it patent to the world that the Nebraskan's reign was over.

A Hot Campaign Ahead.

Some of our contemporaries are rejoicing that Judge PARKER's manly telegram has put fire into the Democratic canvass and made extremely doubtful the issue of an election which would have been a "foregone conclusion" if the St. Louis platform had not been thus supplemented by the candidate. Except for such a bold declaration by Judge PARKER, they had said, before his sending of the telegram, the campaign would be a "walkover."

Unquestionably they are justified in believing that Judge PARKER put new life into the campaign by that straightforward utterance. He inspired the Democracy with high hopes and gave them the stimulus they needed at the beginning of a national campaign on which they would enter after two successive defeats. This effect of that declaration is manifest both in the pivotal States of New York, New Jersey and Connecticut and throughout the Union. The Democracy are now genuinely hopeful of success—hopeful to an extent which may even be called confidence. At any rate, the only "foregone conclusion" of this campaign is that it will be fought desperately all along the line on both sides.

Every Presidential campaign, however, is fought desperately. "Walkovers" are talked about, but they never happen. Since the civil war, or rather since the election of 1864 and including it, there have been ten Presidential elections, all except three of which were carried by the Republicans, and in one of these three, the election of TILDEN in 1876, they cast aside the popular decision and seated their own man. Yet every one of those elections was stoutly contested. None of them was a "foregone conclusion," a "walkover."

In 1864, LINCOLN, running for reelection, was despondent about his prospects, so great was the popular enthusiasm over MCCLELLAN. The only campaign of the number which seemed to be doomed from the start, in the view of very many Democrats themselves, was that of HORACE GREELEY against GRANT in 1872; yet GREELEY polled about 125,000 more votes than HORATIO SEYMOUR, a Democratic hero, had polled four years before.

After that Greeley campaign every one of the five campaigns from 1876 up to the Bryanite revolution in 1896 was contested sharply from beginning to end. Between 1880 and 1900 these were the aggregates of the votes cast by the Republican and the Democratic parties together:

| 1880, GARFIELD and HANCOCK | 8,891,008 |
| 1884, CLEVELAND and BLAINE | 9,759,431 |
| 1888, HARRISON and CLEVELAND | 10,978,449 |
| 1892, CLEVELAND and HARRISON | 10,633,026 |
| 1896, MCKINLEY and BRYAN | 13,607,704 |

The diminution of the poll in 1892, as given above, is explained by the circumstance that the Populists polled the great number of 1,041,028 votes, and these added to the aggregate in the table for that election bring it up to 11,774,058. The increase from 1892 to 1896 was the greatest, both actually and proportionately, in the history of Presidential elections, as the campaign of 1896 was the hottest. Even in the campaign of 1860, whose issues brought about directly the civil war, the poll for all the candidates, LINCOLN, DOUGLAS, BRECKENRIDGE and BELL, was less than a seventh of the population of the Union in 1860, while the poll in 1896 was equal to one-fifth of the population at that time. The slight falling off in 1900 is explained by a diminution of 144,792 in the number of votes for BRYAN in his second canvass, but those for MCKINLEY increased by 103,144.

The sum and substance of all this is that during the last quarter of a century, and especially the last ten years, the interest in a Presidential election has been increasing. A larger part of the citizens go to the polls. Campaigns are more strenuous, the organization of parties has reached a higher degree of perfection and the whole machinery of campaigning has been greatly enlarged and strengthened. Not for a century has there ever been an election which was a "walkover," never one which was not of doubtful issue in the minds of the political managers of both parties—even that of 1896, when BRYAN polled over six and a half millions of votes, or about 800,000 more than CLEVELAND in 1892.

The present campaign would have lost much in enthusiasm, in the East more particularly, if the Democratic platform at St. Louis had not been supplemented by the gold declaration of Judge PARKER; yet even without it the result would not have been a "foregone conclusion." Both parties would have watched anxiously the election returns. With that declaration, interest is intensified throughout the Union and in both parties, so that the election is likely to show a poll of votes of unexampled magnitude.

It will be a bitterly fought campaign. The greater confidence which has been stimulated among Democrats will excite the Republicans to the more strenuous efforts, and at every stage of its progress between now and November there will be anxiety among the leaders in both camps. That is well. It will stir up the people to the exercise of the highest privilege of their citizenship.

One Rule for All at Oyster Bay.

It is easy to understand the anger that inflames the breasts of Mr. M. T. BURKE and Mr. HENRY HERSKOVITZ of Carbondale, Pa., this morning. These two gentlemen journeyed on Tuesday to Oyster Bay, the unofficial, private and personal residence of the President of the United States. They had not been invited to that charming place, but they believed that, once there, they would be able to gain admittance to the presence of the Chief Magistrate and lay before him certain grievances of labor. It was the refusal of the President, delivered through his secretary, to receive Mr. BURKE and Mr. HERSKOVITZ that produced the heat with which they now burn.

To be sure, Mr. BURKE and Mr. HERSKOVITZ were treated exactly the same as any other unexpected visitors at Sagamore Hill would be treated and in accordance with the sensible and necessary rules which have been promulgated to insure the President the peace and privacy for which he deserted Washington and went to his family home. Were uninvited guests welcomed at Sagamore Hill little is the rest its distinguished owner would enjoy.

Ordinary citizens, appreciating the necessities of the situation, approve and gladly obey the rules regulating the reception of guests at Oyster Bay. Why should not Mr. BURKE and Mr. HERSKOVITZ acquiesce? Neither of them is honored with so intimate a personal acquaintance with the President as to warrant the violation of the rule which provides that only those having appointments, or permission from Mr. CORTELYOU, shall be received by the President.

The Gold Standard.

It is a fact understood, of course, by students of finance, but a truth that has never been thoroughly and deeply appreciated by people as a whole, that the underlying principle of all the greenback, free silver, bimetallic and similar financial heresies that have swept over this country in the last thirty years has been what is known as the quantitative theory of money.

This theory—which at one time in the world's financial history was generally accepted as correct—is, in substance, that the value or purchasing power of money in any country is determined by the quantity of money in the country. If there is more money in the country at one time than at another the value of money declines; and, what is saying the same thing, the prices of commodities and products measured in terms of money rise, since, obviously, inasmuch as the purchasing power of money is lessened, more money is required to buy a given quantity of any commodity than before. Similarly, when for any reason the quantity of money in the country declines, either relatively or absolutely, the purchasing power of money rises. Less money than before is required to buy a given quantity of anything and grievous injustice is done to debtors who are forced to pay off their indebtedness in money that is worth more and requires more of their toil and labor to accumulate than was the case when the debt was contracted. Hence the demand on such occasions, from those holding to the quantitative theory of money, that the country must have "more money," this taking the form of an insistent plea that the Government should increase the circulating medium by some form of inflation.

The root of erroneous ideas of this sort as thus traced is very plainly visible when the matter is once considered with calmness and deliberation, yet thousands of sound money men, Democrats and Republicans alike, have never been able to see whence the trouble comes. In the hotly worded arguments of the old BRYAN campaigns these men proved easy victims of the free silver advocates. Once admitted that the quantity of money in the country is the sole, or the chief controlling factor in the rise and fall of values, and all that the most ardent Bryanite ever asserted follows as a matter of course. Mr. ROOT, in his very eloquent and powerful speech at the Chicago convention, trod on very dangerous ground in his eulogium of the increase in the per capita circulation of money in the country in recent Republican Administrations, and laid himself open to the keen retort of Mr. JOHN SHARP WILLIAMS at the Democratic national gathering that this was a curious boast for those who had lately denied so strenuously that the quantity of money had anything to do with the value of money or the price of other things.

The Hill-Williams gold plank was this:

"The discoveries of gold within the past few years and the great increase in the production thereof, adding two thousand million dollars to the world's supply, of which seven hundred million falls to the share of the United States, have contributed to the maintenance of a money standard of value no longer open to question, removing that issue from the field of political contention."

Obviously, this declaration amounted to an affirmation of the quantitative theory of money, and the vital principle of the free silver ideas. It enabled Mr. HILL to say with perfect truth that it was a platform upon which any free silver man could stand, yet it allowed Mr. BRYAN to assert with equal truth that it was, nevertheless, utterly meaningless, in that if the increase in the production of the world's gold supply was the beneficial factor that had been at work a diminution in this production would again cause trouble and reopen the entire question.

In other words, to say that the money standard was "no longer open to question" and was "removed from the field of political contention" was to maintain an absurd proposition, as long as all this was based on the assumption that the yield of the world's gold mines would continue at the same relative rate as in the last four or five years.

The Fortunes of the War.

According to the most trustworthy accounts of the situation of Gen. KOUROPATKIN's army south of Liaoyang it would appear to have become exceedingly critical. A general retreat northward, leaving open to the Japanese all that part of the country, including Yingkow and Newchwang, may be reported at any moment.

Haicheng, which is twenty miles from Tashichao and thirty-five from Newchwang, is partly encircled on the east, north and west by hills that could be made the basis of a strong defence; but in view of the danger to KOUROPATKIN's communications by an advance of Gen. KUROKI's force over the Fengwangcheng and Liaoyang road to the latter place, it is doubtful if Haicheng has not already been rendered untenable.

It is true that in this direction the Russian troops confronting the Japanese are under Gen. VON HELLER, who has thus far proved himself one of the most capable of the subordinate commanders; but the deficiencies of the Russian artillery and an apparent lack of élan among the rank and file, due probably to the successive defeats and continued retreating, render the whole situation insecure. A retirement, therefore, beyond the Taitse River toward Mukden seems inevitable.

In regard to the Russian losses in the field, it would appear that they are going through the same experience that the British had in South Africa. The number of officers who are killed and wounded compared to men in the ranks is so great that it has been found necessary to divest them of the purely ornamental parts of their uniform and assimilate them as much as possible to the rank and file.

The general losses, however, do not vary much from those in the later wars since arms of precision and long range artillery came into use. Taking the aggregate of these losses reported so far from the Russian side, they are not large for the amount of fighting that has occurred. It is probable that the losses in the operations about Port Arthur will exceed all others to date.

GOLDEN RULE JONES—SUCKER ROD SAM JONES—Mayor SAMUEL M. JONES of Toledo, Ohio, was a source of constant and unending interest to the country of his adoption. His remarkable political successes in the face of the unusual and apparently insurmountable obstacles in his home city indicate that he provided the kind of municipal government the majority wanted. Perhaps another community would have tired of a Mayor who kicked men's hats off in hotel corridors, paraded the streets with a brass band and did the other ridiculous things that JONES did. Like many other anti-monopoly howlers, he was a monopolist himself, and a very comfortable thing he found it to be. It does not appear that he did any particular harm, and he did some good, if in no other way than as an instructive public character. He had a good time and helped others to have a good time. He was hearty and kindly and charitable, a very real friend to the unfortunate with his goods and his sympathy. He could afford to build a reputation for crankiness on a foundation like this. Will he have a successor?

Now is the vegetarians' opportunity. Meat is soaring, when it already had become almost a luxury. Soon, if the butchers' strike continues, CROESUS himself will feast on oats and corn. The world will cease from war, Peace will find a spot whereon to alight, and the man who sells "nut meat" will prosper in his bank account. Men's appetites for strong waters will diminish, disappear. The butchers may be opening the door for the millennium.

That a respectable rooster, the father of several families and bearing the honored name of CHAUNCEY DEPEW, has been haled, through his legal representative, before a Washington, D. C., police magistrate and subjected to a penalty naturally suggests unpleasant reflections. The charge, too, "disorderly conduct," is all but incredible, and the specification that the disorderly conduct consisted in untimely and irrelevant observations made in a harsh and resonant voice at 2:30 o'clock in the morning is on its face preposterous. By no possibility could a CHAUNCEY DEPEW, whether with or without plumage, make an untimely or a harsh observation. Furthermore, remarks from such a source at 2:30 o'clock in the morning, or at any other hour, can never under any circumstances be out of order, let alone "disorderly."

Surely there must be error in the press reports of the decision handed down by the learned Washington jurist in this important case.

"It's hard," he mused, "that I should have to chew instead of smoke—just at the time the candidates give their friends perfectos, too."

Hereupon for the first time he felt the full weight of his punishment.

THE GREAT JEWISH PROBLEM.

Probable Influence of Dr. Theodor Herzl's Death on Its Solution.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE SUN—Sir: The fact that you devoted during the hottest days of convention week in different numbers of your paper substantial articles to the demise of the Zionistic leader indicates of itself that you appreciated the importance of the tragic event to its full extent. Not being a Zionist myself I naturally left the precedence to Dr. Herzl's political partisans in the double expression of admiration for their dead chief and grief over their irreparable loss. But now that the Shibeah—i. e., the first week of deep mourning—has passed, I may be allowed to discuss the probable consequences of Herzl's death with regard to the solution of the problem of the Wandering Jew, which seems to cling to the Jewish Commonwealth wherever it establishes its fragmentary dominions.

The Zionistic movement suffered great personal losses during the past eighteen months. Dr. Gustave Gottheil, late rabbi of Temple Emanu-El—he who made the Zionistic movement in America fashionable and was, to the last moments of his life, the rallying point of the party in this country—began the dance of death. Col. Albert Goldsmith of the British Army followed. Prof. Richard Gottheil, president of the Federation of American Zionists, had to leave for Europe on account of ill health, giving up the presidential chair. Israel Zangwill, for personal reasons, lost a great part of his influence upon his party—and this loss was, above all, the party's loss. And now passes away forever the founder and undisguised "boss" of the party, at a critical moment when that party is face to face with the tacit official abandonment—for the near future at least—of every hope to acquire Palestine; with the probable definite giving up of the East African scheme, and, last but not least, a poorly overplastered rupture in the ranks of the Zionists in Russia and the United States, both countries being for obvious reasons of paramount importance for the final success of the movement.

But who knows? Max Nordau, the faithful friend and colleague of Theodor Herzl, speaker and ex officio vice-president of the Zionistic Congress, may clasp hands across the Atlantic with Cyrus L. Sulzberger, late candidate for the Presidency of the Borough of Manhattan, and recently appointed vice-president of the Federation of American Zionists, thus removing the centre of the movement from the unsympathetic capitals of anti-Semitic Austria and haughty Prussia to Paris, the seat both of the most important and most Jewish branch of the house of Rothschild and of the Jewish Colonization Association (capital, $45,000,000), and to New York, the greatest Jewish community of the world, representing in its Jewish population of about 700,000 a faithful kaleidoscopic picture of the contemporary household of Israel.

While the so-called Jewish communal workers consider the Jewish problem almost exclusively from a philanthropic and the rabbis from a merely theological point of view, it was the merit of my two celebrated countrymen and colleagues, Herzl and Nordau, to place the problem on a politico-economical and national platform.

Six millions of Jews are struggling in eastern Europe and the Orient with political slavery, social degradation, slow starvation and untold other miseries and—the Central Conference of American Rabbis, at its sixteenth annual meeting at Louisville, Ky., in the last week of June, discussed seriously the necessity of excluding Christians from the organs and choirs of the synagogues (Archbishop Farley will laugh in his sleeves at this information), and the question of the urgent need of a new, more orthodox arrangement of the Scriptural readings in the Union Prayer-book! Had not the octogenarian rabbi emeritus of Chicago, Dr. Bernhard Felsenthal, one of the most ardent Zionists of this country, taken the trouble to appear before his younger colleagues, the Conference would have gone on record for the establishment of a Jewish synod, in accordance with the recommendation of the presidential message of Dr. Joseph Krauskopf, of Philadelphia. But what are the 75,000 well-to-do Jewish families of the United States—to speak only of our country—doing to help their poor brethren crossing the Jordan of liberty which their own parents and they themselves were happy enough to cross during the past half century? Almost nothing. They throw, in most cases unwillingly, a few dollars to the collectors of the United Hebrew Charities and other philanthropic and congregational institutions, and then wrap themselves up entirely in their trades and pleasures. It is more than probable that out of the 75,000 above mentioned Jewish families 70,000 did not know of, or at least took no special notice of, the death of Dr. Herzl—the news having been crowded out from the greater part of the political papers through convention events, and our Jewish bourgeois being too indifferent to subscribe for a specifically Jewish periodical.

I am the last to advocate the going back of the modern Jew to the Ghetto of old, either in the physical or in its spiritual sense. May the free and prosperous Israelites in western Europe, America, Australia and South Africa enjoy their liberty and wealth; may they educate their children, in spite of the protests of sincere but ill advised reactionaries, in the public schools, and may they identify themselves unreservedly with the political, economical and intellectual interests of their respective fatherlands. But for heaven's, humanity's and their own sakes, may they not forget the brethren left behind!

Dr. Herzl's death should be made the starting point for the gradual transformation of national Zionism into international greater Zionism, aiming at nothing less than the final and definite emancipation of the entire Jewish people wherever on God's blessed earth they may gather. Liberal minded and generous men and women are ready to receive the Jewish pilgrim fathers of the twentieth century. Who dreamed, 250 years ago, that the descendants of the brave refugees from religious intolerance would possess a country stretching from the Atlantic to the Pacific and numbering 80,000,000 human beings, living in prosperity and freedom?

It is up to the Jews of the Western Hemisphere to be the economical and intellectual quartermasters of their oppressed brethren. They must have the courage and wisdom to work out a broad platform, whose three principal planks should be: Unconditional attachment to the native or adopted fatherland; scrupulous honesty in every commercial dealing; liberal religious education. In one word: We must give up our mongrel platform, "Orient and Occident," deciding firmly either for one or for the other.

The first phase of Zionism, which ended with Dr. Herzl's death, looked to the East. Will the greater Zionists of the future have the necessary pluck to turn their backs, once for all, on the Orient, turning their faces toward the West? On the answer to this question partly depends the future welfare of Israel.

Senator Daniel.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE SUN—Sir: It strikes one plain citizen as he reads the encomiums of Judge Parker for the performance of a rightly conceived duty that some share of praise should be devoted to Senator Daniel of Virginia for the part he played in that "feast of reason and flow of soul" last week.

His reported collapse now indicates the heroism of his endeavor.

A Southern friend of mine has for a long time preached the admirable qualities of this representative son of Virginia, so when I learned of his doings in St. Louis I was pleased but not surprised.

A Simple Thing.

Simplicity,
I sing to thee!
I sing to thee,
Simplicity!
Pray pardon me,
Simplicity,
If thus I sing of thee.

What is it curbs iniquity,
Corruption, graft, rascality,
Till not a vestige doth remain,
The 'scutcheon of our land to stain?
Simplicity, Simplicity!

What is it treads unswervingly
The path to civic decency;
That falters never in the fight,
But does a thing because it's right?
Simplicity, Simplicity!

What is it guards the Treasury
With measures of economy;
That regulates expenditures,
And honesty in all secures?
Simplicity, Simplicity!

And what should be our policy,
In short, at home and over sea?
The answer comes from one T. J.,
And this is what we hear him say:
Simplicity, Simplicity!

Simplicity,
I sing of thee!
I sing of thee,
Simplicity!
Pray pardon me,
Simplicity,
For singing simply thus of thee.

"THE UNITED NATIONS."

A World Congress to Abolish War and Settle International Quarrels Advocated.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE SUN—Sir: Mr. Hayne Davis of this city contributes to the current number of the Independent an extremely interesting article advocating the establishment of a "world's congress" as the next step necessary after The Hague court in the direction of universal peace. War is murder. Tolstoy points out that it is social and national suicide. In the final analysis it can never be other than one of these two abominations. All right minded men agree that the abolition of warfare would be a consummation devoutly to be wished. They disagree widely as to the possibility of ever bringing that about and concerning the feasibility of any method suggested for its attainment. Mr. Davis points out the insufficiency of The Hague court for preserving worldwide peace, and finds in its inadequacy strong reasons for the creation of a world's parliament to supplement that court.

"With such a congress to declare the principles of law for the conduct of international affairs, and with The Hague court to apply the law to disputes as they arise, the political organism thus formed would become, for the nations," he says, "what the United States is for the American States." Proceeding to draw analogies from the history of trial by battle in England and from the first confederation of the American colonies, he finds the present an auspicious time for the establishment of a union of nations.

A scheme is outlined for an international congress constituted in some respects as was the Federal Congress under the Articles of Confederation, having representation based on volume of international trade rather than on population, because "only international commerce and such things as grow out of it will fall under the jurisdiction of the union of nations."

The scheme is practicable. It is desirable. Every year sees the nations of the world brought into closer relationship with one another. Discovery and application of the laws of nature have made clearer and more insistent the brotherhood of man, at the same time that they have liberated him from limitations of time and space. Yet as long as each nation independently makes its own laws for international trade, as long as the nations stand as a mutual menace, national preparation for war will be necessary.

Probably no person now in the world will live to see the day when war shall be no more; but when the nations take counsel together concerning the laws of war, the collection of money claims against a nation, the rules of ocean navigation, international postal and cable communication, international standards of weights and measures, gold and silver exchange, and all such concerns of world-wide interest, then the imminence of war will be infinitely less than it is to-day, and the dawn of universal peace will begin to brighten the dim horizon of the future.

Mr. Davis asks: "Will the Government of the United States obtain the glory of initiating this great movement?" I hope it will.

Thaddeus Stevens's Proposed Constitutional Amendment.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE SUN—Sir: Mr. Thomas's proposed amendment recalls the fact that Thaddeus Stevens as chairman of the Committee on Reconstruction proposed an amendment embodying substantially the same principle. Stevens advocated the apportionment of representatives among the States according to the number of their respective legal voters, to be ascertained by the national census.

It is interesting to note that both suggestions would place the most democratic of governments in the situation of abandoning the most democratic basis of political administration, leaving to Europe the principle that population determines representation.

On the other hand, the United States is the only important constitutional State that does not control the conditions under which its national legislature is chosen. In Great Britain, Germany, France and Italy national laws determine the selection of the popular chambers of the central legislature.

Remedies for the San José Scale.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE SUN—Sir: Your article to-day on the San José scale is of such widespread interest that I desire to give a remedy which I have used with absolute success on apple, pear and peach trees, and currant, quince, lilac and Japanese quince also:

Unslacked lime, 14 pounds.
Powdered sulphur, 7 pounds.
Common salt, 6 pounds.
Water, 21 gallons.

Dissolve the lime and sulphur together in three gallons of hot water. Then add the remaining eighteen gallons of water, and last the salt.

The very large circulation of THE SUN among intelligent people will no doubt insure a widespread knowledge of a remedy that is both simple and positive.

E. HURTZIG.

MORRISTOWN, N. J., July 12.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE SUN—Sir: Your editorial in this morning's SUN attracted my attention; and I would like to add my little say in reference to the San José scale. This pest has now a very strong hold on all the fruit-growing sections of the country; and while some of the growers are doing all in their power to put a stop to the ravages of it, there are others who will not and do not do anything at all to stop it.

This spring, when the writer was spraying his trees, his next door neighbor came over and he could not be convinced that that scale on the trees were not plant lice. He said that he had no time to spray his orchard, and as his is right over the fence from ours, you can readily see how small a chance we have to save our trees. His trees are covered with the scale, and it will be only a few years before all of them will die. After a tree has a certain amount of scale on it it cannot be treated successfully, as the scale sucks the vitality from it very rapidly.

Without going into any of the forms of treating, &c., I want to say that the only remedy is through legislation compelling all owners of fruit trees affected to spray, and where the tree is covered with scale, to cut it down and burn it up. Two years ago we had no scale on our place, but since then it has come in, and now all our fruit trees are affected, as well as some of the foliage trees and shrubs. The only way that we can ever get rid of it will be through concerted action. In my estimation, it is as dangerous as the boll weevil in the South.

Two Adjectives.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE SUN—Sir: In your editorial of July 12, entitled "Bryan's Maleficent Influence," which terminates with the statements that Judge Parker is nobody's puppet, that he is owned by nobody and nothing but his conscience, that he has proved himself qualified to be a leader of men, that he is an able exponent of Henry Clay's "Rather be right than be President," you have, it seems, drawn your conclusions from the body of the article preceding; and I readily grant your claim for Parker.

But has not Mr. Bryan proved himself the same noble exponent of these principles? When has he been even tardy in speaking his beliefs and when has he not spoken to the point? Has he not stood by his principles in the presence of defeat? Has he not been honest, conscientious, fearless; and has he not given every young American an example of that God-given maxim, "Nothing is so to be desired as loyalty?"

Are you fair when you speak of Mr. Bryan's influence as maleficent? Do you believe that he acts with premeditated malice? Are not most of us, even as broad and high-minded men as the editor of America's grandest newspaper, sometimes made narrow in our judgments of men whose views are opposed to ours?

Let us be just even if it hurts us.

RAY LITTLEFIELD.

NEWARK, N. J., July 13.

For the benefit of our Newark correspondent we quote the Standard Dictionary's definition of two adjectives somewhat similar in typographical appearance but widely different in meaning:

maleficent. Causing or doing evil or mischief; mischievous; opposed to beneficent.

malicious. Harboring malice, ill will or enmity; having a deliberate intention to injure others; intending or determined on evil; spiteful; resulting from or prompted by malice.

An influence that is decidedly maleficent may not be at all malicious. An intention that is purely malicious may not be maleficent, because it may fail to accomplish that which malice desires.

SERGEANT PUT BACK.

With an Opinion by the Court on Some Headquarters Trials.

The Appellate Division ordered yesterday that Charles L. Schauwecker be reinstated as sergeant in the Police Department. He was removed by Commissioner Greene. Schauwecker was in charge of the school of instruction, and Deputy Commissioner Piper accused him with allowing a collection to be made among the pupils for the purpose of presenting him with a gift. Deputy Commissioner Davis tried him and he refused to answer certain questions. Then Davis charged him with insubordination and Piper tried him for that, finding him guilty. Then Piper had him tried again before Davis on the original charges. He was found guilty and dismissed.

Judge O'Brien denounces the proceedings before Piper and Davis, when they bandied the sergeant from one to the other on charges, each alternately taking the rôle of accuser, witness and Judge, as a procedure that "does not tend to promote the spirit of fairness and impartiality that should characterize a court room." Judge O'Brien also finds that there was no evidence to support the charges, either of misconduct or insubordination.

OLD TAVERNS OF NEW YORK.

Modern Improvement Crowds Out the Ancient Landmarks.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE SUN—Sir: The inexorable law which fixes land values in New York thoroughfares and makes unprofitable the maintenance of very small structures upon them will necessarily do away with the few remaining inns or taverns built when the present uptown streets were country roads.

These inns and taverns—small frame buildings—were numerous in Broadway, the Bowery and Eighth avenue. Several remain in Fifth avenue, though the chief one, on the present site of the Fifth Avenue Hotel, long since disappeared. Another, very recently demolished, was the Old Landmark, as it was called, on the northeast corner of Eighth avenue and Fourteenth street, one of the historical survivals of Greenwich village.

When travelling in old New York was by chaises, carryalls, stage coaches, wagons or on horseback the need for taverns to refresh master and horse was obviously urgent. Along the Bowery leading out of town there were a dozen taverns, among which a few survive—the Halfway House, the One Mile House and the old Bull's Head. The Old Landmark on Eighth avenue a hundred years ago was the stopping place for riders and drivers. It was the Gabe Case's of that period.

Greenwich village was at that period a fashionable out of town suburb. People "out for a drive" would leave the more thickly populated lower parts of the town, south of Canal street, and, taking the high road which led to the present Eighth avenue, would stop at the old wooden building not far from Fort Gansevoort and directly opposite the Elysian Fields in New Jersey, the most popular place of recreation for New Yorkers on a holiday before the establishment of Central Park. In recent years the Old Landmark had been a saloon, the stable having been long since abandoned and coaching parties visiting it no more. Along the line of Hudson street there are still to be seen occasional reminders of these coaching days in the wooden horse troughs along the curb line. In its later and declining days the Old Landmark ceased to be an inn, and a new, up to date building is to be erected on its site.

Exacting Tribute of Russian Soldiers.

From Harper's Weekly.

I was gradually falling asleep when suppressed sobs struck my ear. The beastly drunk sergeant-major was the disturber of the quiet in the barracks. He approached some of the sleeping young soldiers, woke them rudely and asked them:

"Who is our present Secretary (Minister) of War? What is his name, surname, full title?"

Woe to those who did not answer promptly and correctly. They received a sound lashing with the buckled end of a heavy soldier's belt.

"What does this mean? asked I of my friend Ivan Ivanoff. "Is that allowed in our squad?"

"Allowed! Of course it is contrary to all laws and regulations. But our sergeant-major is a personal favorite of the chief of our regiment, and may do what he pleases with impunity. It is like this: The recruits punished by the sergeant-major are poor devils who failed to pay the customary tribute when entering the squad. The sergeant-major is a brutal and greedy fellow, half-crazed with drink. He feels dry and wants to get some money."

"How high is the tribute paid by the recruits to the sergeant-major?"

"Not less than three rubles, at any rate. Yes, bitter is the life of a young soldier," concluded my friend, meditatively.

Helped Get Washington's Dinner.

From the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Frank Mitchell is one of the oldest residents of the United States. He came to Akron, Ohio, forty years ago from Alabama, where he lived on the estate of Nathaniel Pride.

Mr. Mitchell claims to be 108 years of age. Those who know him best say that he looked nearly as old when he came to Akron as he does to-day.

When Mr. Mitchell was just a lad upon the old plantation he well remembers the trip of George Washington through the South, and how his master expected that the General would pay a visit to his plantation when he came that way.

A big dinner was to be spread, and in the preparation of this dinner Frank Mitchell assisted. One of the toothsome morsels consisted of chicken pie, upon which the lad looked with very wistful eye.

But George Washington passed over another route, and the visit to the plantation was not made. Mitchell therefore had the pleasure of eating a piece of the chicken pie which had been prepared for the great General.

The Beast in Which Once Was a Soul.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE SUN—Sir: It is a curious coincidence that the mysterious creature whose identity your correspondent thought so difficult to solve in the verses printed in this morning's SUN should have appeared off Sandy Hook as if in answer to the riddle, and, after taking composedly a good bump from the Japanese ship Shimosa, have reappeared at a distance from the stern, saluted "Adsum!" and quickly vanished from view.

The New Navy.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE SUN—Sir: THE SUN is usually so correct in its statements of history that I cannot let pass an error of a few days ago when it stated that the new navy was founded under a Democratic Administration. No naval histories will bear out this statement, for the simple reason that it is entirely at variance with the facts. I have before me extracts from four naval histories, and will select for THE SUN's benefit the following passages from "The New American Navy," by the Hon. John D. Long, recently Secretary of the Navy:

The birth of the new navy occurred in the Administration of President Arthur. "I cannot too strongly urge upon you my conviction," he said in his first annual message, "that every consideration of national safety, economy and honor imperatively demands a thorough rehabilitation of the navy." Secretary of the Navy Hunt re-enforced this utterance by stating in his annual report that it was a "source of mortification to our officers and fellow countrymen generally that our vessels of war should stand in such mean contrast alongside of those of other and inferior Powers," and he asserted that the matter required the "prompt and earnest attention of Congress." (Vol. I; p. 18.)

Before making any suggestions for the reconstruction of the navy, Secretary Hunt had previously, with the approval of President Garfield, appointed the Naval Advisory Board, which was directed to prepare a practical and plain statement of the pressing need of appropriate vessels in the service at the present time. ### Lincoln and Theodore Parker.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE SUN—Sir: In your article of to-day on Alexander Hamilton you say: "to use the words of Lincoln, a government of the people by the people and for the people."

John White Chadwick in his "Life of Theodore Parker" shows that these are a "variant" of words used by Parker at different times. He says:

In "Thoughts on America" and "The Slave Power in America" it is "Government of all the people, by all the people, for all the people." It was Miss Stevenson's opinion that its final form with Parker was exactly Lincoln's—and so repeated frequently in sermon, speech and prayer.

Lincoln's law partner, Herndon, who knew Parker well and had much correspondence with him, came on to Boston after the Douglas-Lincoln debate and saw Parker and other anti-slavery men, with an eye to Lincoln's political prospects. Going back to Springfield, he took some of Parker's new sermons and addresses. "One of these," he says, "was a lecture on 'The Effect of Slavery on the American People,' which was delivered in the Music Hall, Boston, and which I gave to Lincoln, who read it and returned it. He liked especially the following expression, which he marked with a pencil, and which he in substance afterward used in his Gettysburg address: 'Democracy is direct self-government, over all the people, by all the people, for all the people.'"

The address referred to was delivered July 4, 1858, and was Parker's last great anti-slavery address.

END OF ZIONISM, MAYBE.

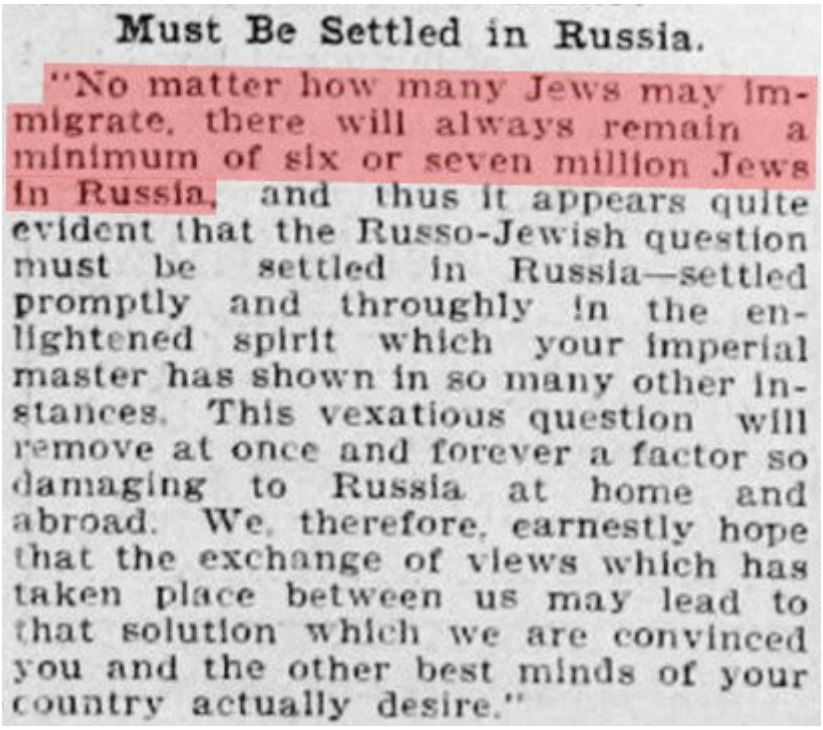
Jewish Preacher's View of Uprising in Russia.

The Rev. Dr. M. H. Harris spoke in the Temple Israel, Fifth Avenue and One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street, yesterday morning at the regular services on the "Russian Situation." He prefaced his remarks by reference to the Testaments and to history to show that the people had gradually received a larger sphere of freedom from nations and Governments for the exercise of their powers and duties.



He declared that a free and a happy Russia, with its 6,000,000 Jews, would possibly mean the end of Zionism, since the abolition of the autocracy would practically eliminate the causes that brougnt Zionism into existence.

Russia, he said, seemed to prefer its own bloody experience in learning the power of the people to profiting by the experience and the history of other nations.

Jacob H. Schiff y sus amigos dijeron en 1905 que:

Must Be Settled in Russia.

"No matter how many Jews may immigrate, there will always remain a minimum of six or seven million Jews in Russia, and thus it appears quite evident that the Russo-Jewish question must be settled in Russia—settled promptly and throughly in the enlightened spirit which your imperial master has shown in so many other instances. This vexatious question will remove at once and forever a factor so damaging to Russia at home and abroad. We, therefore, earnestly hope that the exchange of views which has taken place between us may lead to that solution which we are convinced you and the other best minds of your country actually desire."

Point Out That Those Driven to Seek Refuge Here Make Good Citizens.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—What is announced to be the full text of a letter concerning Russia's treatment of the Jews submitted to Sergius Witte, the Russian peace envoy, by a committee of Hebrew bankers and merchants, is published today by the American. The communication is signed by Jacob H. Schiff, Jacob Seligman, Adolph Lewisohn and others. It covers thoroughly the arguments and contentions of the committee made before M. Witte by the delegation recently for the amelioration of the conditions under which people of the Hebrew race now live in the land of Emperor Nicholas. Civil and political liberty for the Jews, on an equality with all other Russian subjects, is the keynote of the communication.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 31.—Constantine Petrovitch Pobiedonostzeff, Chief Procurator of the Holy Synod, has resigned.

Constantine Petrovitch Pobiedonostzeff, now in his seventy-eighth year, has been a prominent factor in the internal life of the Russian Empire for the last fifty years, and is the most hated man in Russia to-day.

Chief Procurator of the Holy Synod Most Hated Man in Russia.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 31.—Constantine Petrovitch Pobiedonostzeff, Chief Procurator of the Holy Synod, has resigned.

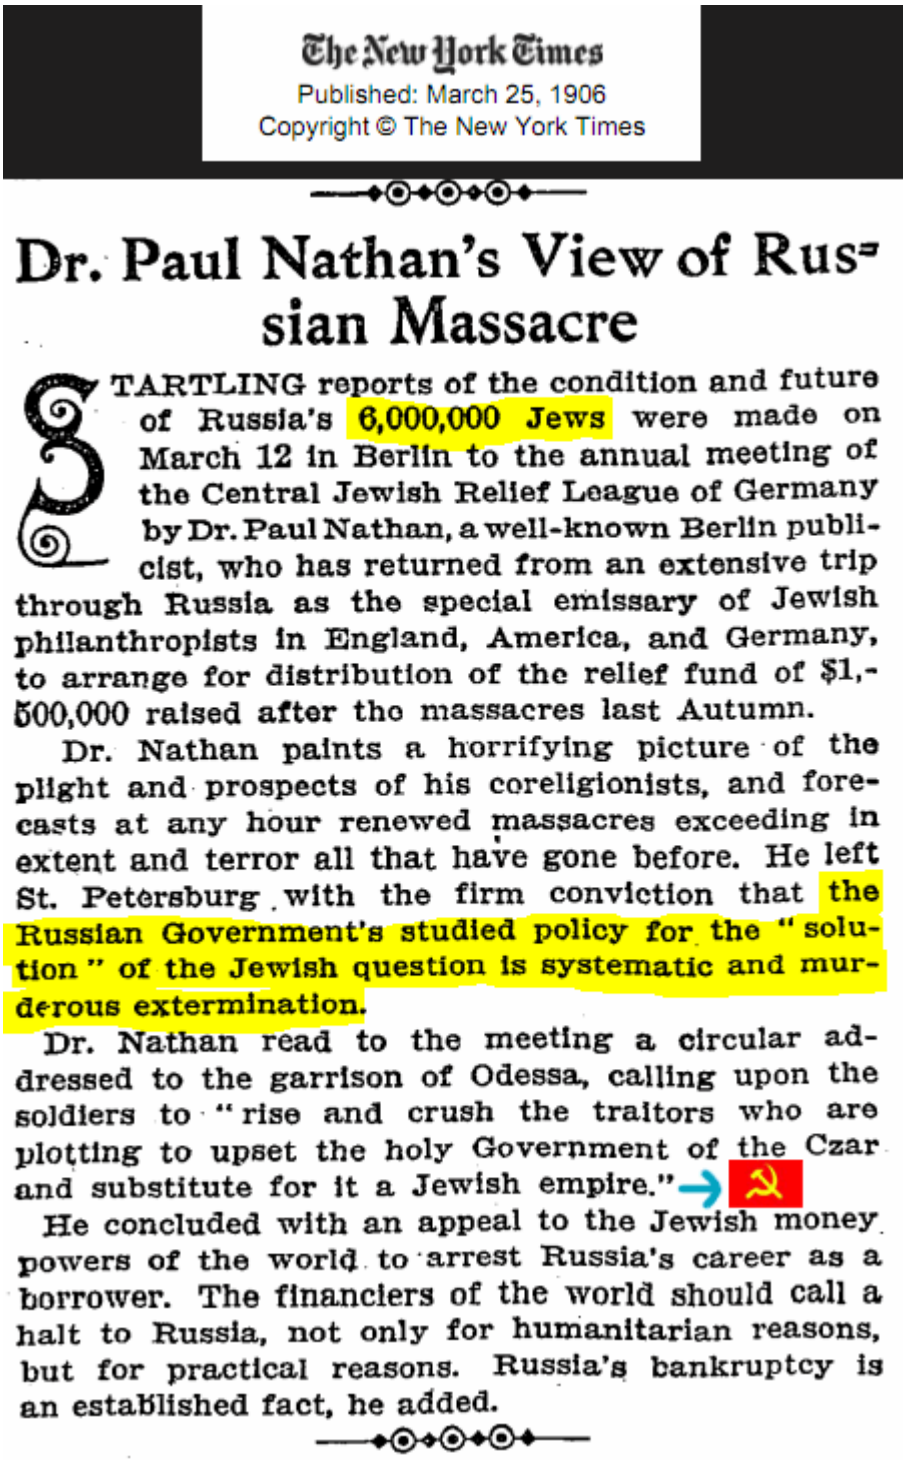
Constantine Petrovitch Pobiedonostzeff, now in his seventy-eighth year, has been a prominent factor in the internal life of the Russian Empire for the last fifty years, and is the most hated man in Russia to-day.

Since his appointment as Procurator General of the Holy Synod, in 1880, he has persecuted the Jews, Lutherans, Catholics, and other dissenting sects with an unswerving fanatical zeal. From 1890 to 1902 he caused 6,000,000 Jewish families to be expelled from Russia and sent thousands of Poles to Siberia. His watchword was "Russia for the Orthodox Russians." Cossacks were ordered to surround the Catholic churches in Poland and shoot down the congregations as they came out.

Numerous attempts have been made upon the lift of Pobiedonostzeff. He professed to be a victim of calumny, and said that he had been dishonestly denounced to the people. The last attempt was at the Tsarskoe-Selo Station, on July 20, when a student drew a revolver, but did not have time to fire it. A desperate attempt to kill the Procurator General was made in March, 1901, when a Russian official from the Baltic Provinces got into his library and fired five shots at him point blank, none, however, taking effect.



Pobiedonostzeff had the power to make new laws, and also to veto them. He fought steadily against the people, and was one of the most powerful factors in restraining the Emperor from giving them liberty. The Czar and the nobles feared him. He was against education for the masses because they could not use it in their calling, against the Parliament because it represented the personal vanity of the representatives, and against freedom of the press because he considered that it was already the most powerful and despotic thing ever conjured up by the brain of mankind. His religious persecutions earned for him the title of "The Modern Torquemada."

Dr. Paul Nathan's View of Russian Massacre

STARTLING reports of the condition and future of Russia's 6,000,000 Jews were made on March 12 in Berlin to the annual meeting of the Central Jewish Relief League of Germany by Dr. Paul Nathan, a well-known Berlin publicist, who has returned from an extensive trip through Russia as the special emissary of Jewish philanthropists in England, America, and Germany, to arrange for distribution of the relief fund of $1,500,000 raised after the massacres last Autumn.

Dr. Nathan paints a horrifying picture of the plight and prospects of his coreligionists, and forecasts at any hour renewed massacres exceeding in extent and terror all that have gone before. He left St. Petersburg with the firm conviction that the Russian Government's studied policy for the "solution" of the Jewish question is systematic and murderous extermination.

Dr. Nathan read to the meeting a circular addressed to the garrison of Odessa, calling upon the soldiers to "rise and crush the traitors who are plotting to upset the holy Government of the Czar and substitute for it a Jewish empire."

He concluded with an appeal to the Jewish money powers of the world to arrest Russia's career as a borrower. The financiers of the world should call a halt to Russia, not only for humanitarian reasons, but for practical reasons. Russia's bankruptcy is an established fact, he added.

A tener en cuenta: 1906 fue el año tras la primera sublevación comunista fracasada en Rusia (liderada por judíos). Esta triste historieta no era más que una estratagema para distraer la atención pública sobre el hecho de que la agitación comunista que tuvo lugar en Rusia un año antes fue obra de sus camaradas Judíos que perpetraron atrocidades generalizadas contra de patriotas rusos anti-comunistas.

Lo siguiente es la parte sobre un discurso que hizo él en la National Geographic Society el 14 de diciembre de 1906, donde demuestra claramente que los judíos estaban detrás de la revolución de 1905 intentada en Rusia, que los judíos cometieron las matanzas, y los llamados "pogromos" eran venganzas de la policía por los crímenes cometidos por los judíos.

THE VENGEANCE OF THE JEWS

Perhaps these reforms are the cause of the present tranquillity, because the revolutionary leaders nearly all belong to the Jewish race and the most effective revolutionary agency is the Jewish Bund, which has its headquarters at Bialystok, where the massacre occurred last June. The government has suffered more from that race than from all of its other subjects combined. Whenever a desperate deed is committed it is always done by a Jew, and there is scarcely one loyal member of that race in the entire Empire. The great strike which paralyzed the Empire and compelled the Czar to grant a constitution and a parliament was ordered and managed by a Jew named Krustaleff, president of the workingmen's council, a young man only thirty years old. He was sent to the penitentiary for life, and had not been behind the bars more than three weeks when he organized and conducted a successful strike of the prison employees.

Maxim, who organized and conducted the revolution in the Baltic provinces, is a Jew of marvelous ability. Last fall he came over here lecturing and collecting money to carry on the revolutionary campaign, but for some reason has vanished and nobody seems to know what has become of him.

Gerschunin, the most resourceful leader of the terrorists, who was condemned to life imprisonment in the silver mines on the Mongolian frontier, has recently escaped in a water cask, and is supposed to be in San Francisco. He is a Polish Jew only twenty-seven years old. I might enumerate a hundred other revolutionary leaders and every one of them would be a Jew. Wherever you read of an assassination or of the explosion of a bomb you will notice in the newspapers all arrested and were promptly punished. On the 8th of November a few Jewish revolutionaries entered a treasury car near Ragow, in Poland, got $850,000, and disappeared.

Every deed of that kind is done by Jews, and the massacres that have shocked the universe, and occurred so frequently that the name "pogrom" was invented to describe them, were organized and managed by the exasperated police authorities in retaliation for crimes committed by the Jewish revolutionists.

MANY REFORMS ALREADY INSTITUTED BY PREMIER STOLYPIN

But Mr Stolypin has evidently arranged a truce. He has crushed out the conspirators in the police department who organized and directed the "pogroms" and has given the Jews more liberty and more justice than they ever enjoyed before. He has appointed a commission to prepare a law placing them upon the same footing as Protestants, Roman Catholics, and members of other religious faiths.

Mr Stolypin is an able, honest, and grave man, of broad horizon and liberal views and a high sense of justice. He has already done wonders. Every week some important reform is ordered, some tyrannical regulation revoked, some liberty conferred, some concession granted. He has emancipated the heretical sect of the Orthodox Greek Church known as the "Old Believers," who have been persecuted almost as cruelly as the Jews. They are now allowed to own property and build schools and publish books containing their doctrines; they are allowed to

El texto completo dice:

"VENGANZA DE LOS JUDÍOS

Probablemente estas reformas son la causa de la tranquilidad presente, porque los líderes revolucionarios casi todos pertenecen a la raza judía y la agencia revolucionaria más eficaz es la judía Bund, que tiene su oficina central en Bialystok, donde la matanza ocurrió en junio pasado. El gobierno ha sufrido más de aquella raza que de todos los demás sujetos combinados. Siempre que un hecho desesperado es cometido siempre ha sido realizado por un judío, y hay apenas un miembro leal de aquella raza en el Imperio entero. La gran huelga que paralizó el Imperio y obligó al Zar a conceder una constitución y un parlamento fue ordenado y manejado por un judío llamado Krustaleff, presidente del consejo de los obreros, un joven de sólo treinta años. Él fue enviado a la de por vida, y no había estado entre rejas más de tres semanas cuando él organizó y llevó a cabo una huelga exitosa de los empleados de la prisión.

Maxim, quien organizó y llevó a cabo la revolución en las provincias Balticas, es un judío de sorprendentes capacidades. El otoño pasado él vino aquí sermoneando y recogiendo el dinero para continuar la campaña revolucionaria, pero por alguna razón ha desaparecido y nadie parece saber que ha pasado con él.

Gerschunin, el líder más inventivo de los terroristas, que fue condenado a la cadena perpetua en las minas de plata frente a la frontera mongol, recientemente se ha escapado en un barril de agua, y se supone que está en San Francisco. Él es un judío polaco de sólo veintisiete años. Yo podría enumerar a otros cien líderes revolucionarios y cada uno de ellos sería un judío.

En cualquier parte donde usted lea de un asesinato o de la explosión de una bomba usted notará en los "envíos de periódico" que el hombre era un judío. El episodio más sensacional y dramático que ha ocurrido desde los motines fue el 27 de octubre, cuando, en el mismo centro de San Petersburgo, en la entrada de la catedral de Kazan, cuatro judíos robaron un carro del tesoro y se hicieron con 270,000 dólares. Ellos pasaron el paquete a una mujer, que al instante desapareció, y ningún rastro de ella alguna vez ha sido encontrado; pero ellos fueron detenidos todos y puntualmente fueron castigados. El 8 de noviembre unos pocos revolucionarios judíos entraron en un coche del tesoro cerca de Ragow, en Polonia, donde se hicieron con 850,000 dólares y desaparecieron.

Every deed of that kind is done by Jews, and the massacres that have shocked the universe, and occurred so frequently that the name 'pogrom' was invented to describe them, were organized and managed by the exasperated police authorities in retaliation for crimes committed by the Jewish revolutionists."

Cada acto de ese tipo es hecho por judíos, y las matanzas que han conmocionado el universo, y ocurrieron con tanta frecuencia que el nombre 'el pogromo' fue inventado para describirlos, fueron organizados y manejados por las exasperadas autoridades de policía en represalia por los crímenes cometidos por los revolucionarios judíos."

MAY EXTERMINATE JEWS IN RUSSIA

Bloody Anti-Jewish Campaign is so Well Organized That Few Jews and Very Little Jewish Property Will Suruive

London, June 20.—Leopold J. Greenburg, honorary secretary of the English Zionist Federation, received a telegram this morning from a member of the Russian douma, stating that the bloody anti-Jewish campaign in Russia is so well organized and so vigorously supported by the bureaucracy that few Jews and little Jewish property is likely to survive.

"Only the douma," continues the message, "offers the slightest hope of staying the movement Troops, wherevever fighting threatens to go against the mob, fire on the Jews Much property has been destroyed by means of dynamite, which is in the hands of the authorities alone. The Jews are entirely without protection. All other nationalities as such, merely stand aside. The douma will make desperate efforts to secure control of the administrative machinery of the government in order to stop the onslaught on the Jews and quell the bloodthirsty rioters."

The Jewish World has received the following from Dvinsk, also termed Duanaberg, province of Vitebsk, 110 miles southeast of Riga, dated June 18:

Washington, June 20.—From present indications the conferees on the railroad rate bill will not reach an agreement until some time next week, which in all probability will be the last week of the session. The purpose of withholding their report, it is said, is to avoid a repetition of the long debate in the senate which followed the recent report of the conferees. This debate resulted in sending the bill back to conference.

Bloody Anti-Jewish Campaign is so Well Organized That Few Jews and Very Little Jewish Property Will Survive

London, June 19.—Leopold J. Greenberg, honorary secretary of the English Zionist federation, received a telegram this morning from a member of the Russian duma stating that the bloody anti-Jewish campaign in Russia is so well organized and so vigorously supported by the forces that few Jews and little Jewish property is likely to survive.

"Only the device," continues the message, "allows the slightest hope of staying the massacre. Troops, whosoever fighting threatens to go against the mob, fire on the Jews. Much property has been destroyed by means of dynamite, which is in the hands of the authorities alone. The Jews are entirely without protection. All other nationalities as such, meet in small mobs. The duma will make desperate efforts to secure control of the administrative machinery of the government in order to stop the slaughter on the Jews and quell the bloodthirsty nations."

The Jewish World has received the following from Dvinsk, also termed Dunaburg, province of Vitebsk, 119 miles southwest of Riga, dated June 19:

"Fifty persons have been killed in the anti-Jewish outrages at Stanbisken, and fourteen Shalyahk. The state of quiet of the populace is extremely ominous."

Odessa, June 20.—General Kaulbars has received word from 31 of the best garrisons in Russia to the effect that the troops are mutinous and have refused to act as police in quelling street disturbances.

ATTEMPT ON LIFE OF GEN. TREPOFF

St. Petersburg, June 20.—A diplomatized report a revolutionist today of an attempt on the life of General Trepoff, commandant of the palace, by a well dressed woman masquerading as Princess Sachitch.

$12,000,000 FEDERAL MONEY FOR FRISCO

Washington, June 19.—A new agreement was reached today by the president, Secretary Shaw and the delegation of representative citizens of San Francisco by which substantially will be given San Francisco by the government.

It is proposed that the United States treasury deposit with the San Francisco banks $12,000,000 of government money with bonds of the city as security for the deposit, the money to remain in the banks until such time as the government may call for it. This is not to be before a number of years, so that the banks have practical assurance that they may retain the deposit for such a period as will be of value to the reconstruction of the city.

Under the law, the secretary of the treasury has authority to deposit government funds in this way.

He cannot, of course, bind his successor to leave the money on deposit, but he knows it may leave it there and it is backed by the government. It is proposed in California to organize a corporation with a capital of several millions of dollars, composed of prominent and influential men throughout the state of California and other states and to issue bonds to guarantee the government against loss through the banks.

With the assurance of the secretary of the treasury that he will leave the money with the banks for a period of time, it is expected that the banks will purchase the city bonds, to be used as security for the government deposits. Then obtaining government bonds now held for a similar purpose.

PASSAGE OF RATE BILL STILL IN DOUBT

Three Amendments are Giving Trouble and Arguments Have not Yet Been Reached on Several More

Washington, June 19.—From present information the sentiment on the railroad rate bill will not reach an agreement until some time next week, which in all probability will be the last week of the session. The purpose of withholding their report, it is said, is to avoid a repetition of the long debate in the senate which followed the recent report of the conference. The senate resolved in sending the bill back to conference.

Conversations continue here and with various members of the senate and house it is said that there are only three amendments that are giving trouble. These are the pipe line amendment which makes pipe lines common carriers, the commodity amendment, and that which legalizes that the interstate commerce commission shall be given five days notice before hearings are granted upon applications for injunctions setting aside orders of the commission.

There are a number of other amendments which have agreement but not been reached, but which would be acquired easily by the conferees. Among these are the sleeper car and tunnel branch line amendments. It is expected that the latter will not be applied to sleeping cars.

The antipass amendment is in dispute, but it is expected that an agreement concerning it can be reached by redefining the amendment so as to provide merely that passes shall not be issued to members of congress, officials of the legislative department, presidential electors and other classes over which the federal government admittedly has control.

San Francisco, June 19.—Judge Hunt this morning dismissed the suit against Ernest H. Dorgan, son of Col. E. A. Dorgan, the prominent banker, charged with the murder of an actress some time in the enjoyment of the evening of April 18.

SCHIFF REPLIES TO CRTICS.

Defends His Stand Against Zionism in a Letter to Prof. Schechter.

Jacob H. Schiff, whose anti-Zionistic utterances recently have caused much comment among the Jews of this city, has written a second letter to Prof. Solomon Schechter of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America in defense of his position. The letter, which is published in The American Hebrew, replies to certain criticisms made upon his first letter.

Mr. Schiff says he does not feel happy over the present controversy with Zionist friends of Prof. Schechter, who "have hurled their anathema" against him, and continues:

"When the Zionists, as they assumed to do at their recent meeting, speak for the Jewish race, they forget that a very large percentage of our co-religionists are not Zionists and that a considerable number even of orthodox Jews are thoroughly opposed to Zionism. The political doctrine brought forth and advocated by Zionism has nothing in common with the Jewish Messianic hope, which finds expression in the orthodox form of prayer and which we all can accept, for, like other parts of the beautiful ancient Hebrew Liturgy, this is solely a supplication for the hastening of the coming of the millennium.

"Nowhere is there anything in Jewish Holy Scriptures which justifies agitation to re-establish a Jewish nation and State by human endeavor, and I therefore do not hesitate to insist that Zionism in its political aspirations has neither warrant from the religious point of view.

"Neither as an American nor as a Jew have I any quarrel with Zionism in so far as it seeks to arouse a return to Jewish ideals. Never have I averred Zionism to be incompatible with patriotism. The Jew of whatever composite—be he native born or naturalized—will never fail to respond to the need of his country with his all, even with his life; but I reiterate, that political Zionism places a lien upon citizenship, the enforcement of which the Zionist if he is honest, must seek to accomplish by every legitimate means.

"Are Zionists indeed in earnest when they, as they continuously do, advance the proposition, that their Jewish State is to be merely a refuge—or, as they term it, a legally assured home—for the Russian, Roumanian and perhaps Moroccan Jew? Is the proposition, that the Jewish State shall embrace principally the persecuted Jew not a deep offense to the Russian and Roumanian Jew, if not to entire Jewry?

"I have held for years, and events have only strengthened this opinion, that the Russian-Jewish question, in its entirety, can only be solved in Russia, and to a limited extent only can it be helped through emigration, even on the largest practicable scale, for six million people cannot emigrate. The Zionistic agitation for the creation of a Jewish State in Palestine cannot solve this momentous problem in any practical manner.

"In our own country the agitation is apt to retard the perfect Americanization of thousands who, in recent years, have come among us, and whose success and happiness in this and coming generations, no less than the weal of the State, must, to a considerable extent, depend upon the readiness with which the new-comers shall be able in their civic condition—as separate from their faith—to become absorbed into the American people."

RUSSIAN JEWS.

A correspondent of Emanu-El, a paper edited by Rabbi Vorsanger of San Francisco, gives a pitiful picture of the condition of the Jews in Russia. He says that poverty, starvation and disease are the afflictions which now beset the six million Jews in that country and Roumania. The government does afford some modicum of relief to the starving Russian moujik and laborer; but for the Jew there is no charity, no mercy! The little assistance which used to come from America and England is diminishing daily. Part of the money sent by relatives who have emigrated is stolen in transmission, whilst those who could make sure that their doles would reach their destination are unemployed, and "sweated" when they work, and are no longer able to render any assistance. The revolutionary movement has destroyed the industries in the Pale. Thus, for instance, whilst the factories at Lodz are not working, or only working half time, the Russian factories at Moscow have been over busy. But in Moscow there are not any Jewish workers. What is to become of the mass of the Jewish population in Russia is beyond man's ken. It is useless to look for the causes when a calamity is staring in the face. It is useless to point out that early and imprudent marriages are one of the causes of the great poverty. A preacher of Malthusianism would probably be stoned if he dared to suggest it to the Jews of Russia. Russian regeneration would do something, but regeneration is not in sight, and meanwhile the mass of Russian Jews are starving, the price of the most necessary food having risen to enormously high prices. The price of the loaf of bread has gone up from three to seven kopeks!

And yet Rabbi Vorsanger has no word of encouragement for the Hebrews who believe in the ancient Seers and look for a rehabilitation of the nation in the land of their fathers, as the final solution of the problem. Is there any other? And who knows but that, when oppression becomes heaviest, the hour of liberation will strike?

SLANDERS ARE CIRCULATING.

As will be remembered, the local anti-"Mormon" contemporary some time ago forged a story to the effect that announcement had been made from the headquarters of the Church, that plural marriages were shortly to be restored as the practice of the Church.

The foundation for the story was said to be a letter read at a ward conference in Davis Stake. A lady had told the paper referred to that the letter contained something very sensational, and this hearsay testimony, this gossip, was made the foundation for an infamous charge displayed in flaming headlines.

The entire story, as was proved, was false. A letter containing instructions of interest to members and officers of certain organizations of the Church was read at the ward meeting in question. But it did not contain one word about plural marriages. This was proved, not only by authentic copies of the letter, but by the original letter itself.

But, although the story was refuted, it continues its round in the newspapers, and that was the purpose of its first publication. It was invented and given a sensational send-off for consumption abroad. Several papers had the item as a correspondence from this City, and now we gather from an article in the Washington Herald that a Salt Lake visitor in that city has given to the Washington paper the old, exploded tale as a veritable fact. He calls it a "semi-secret communication construed to mean a revival of polygamy," though, as for the semi-secrecy of it, it was given to the Tribune by Mr. D. Pelt, and as for the construction placed upon it, no one outside the Tribune office construed it to mean anything that all the world could not know.

Mr. V. S. Peet, of this City, happened to be in Washington at the time the canard appeared in the Herald, and he replied as follows:

"Editor The Washington Herald:

"The statement of Philip N. Nelson, of Salt Lake City, Utah, in the lobby column of your paper on Monday, that the head of the Mormon Church had sent out a semi-secret communication, construed to mean a revival of polygamy," is purely sensational, and not one grain of truth in it. Mr. Nelson or any one else can show any letter or communication from Joseph F. Smith, president of the Mormon Church, or his counselors, that the Mormon Church intends to re-establish polygamy in any degree, form, or manner. I will give $1,000 for such a letter, or communication or a copy of it. There are certain newspapers and individuals in Utah who, for gain, notoriety, or religious bigotry, make general statements like the above, but they are never able to produce a shadow of evidence to sustain them. The Mormon have no more idea of re-establishing polygamy in any form than the South has in re-establishing slavery. At its most prosperous period there was less than 4 per cent of Utah's population in polygamy, and today there is not one polygamist in a thousand of the population. There has not been one plural marriage performed, or even sanctioned by the Mormon Church since September, 1890. On September 12, 1905, I posted and published in Utah and throughout the country the following remarks, endorsed by some of the wealthiest non-Mormons in Utah:

"If reasonable proof can be made to show that—if even one plural marriage has been performed or sanctioned by the Mormon Church since that time, September, 1890, I will pay $1,000 for such information; or if it can be shown that Joseph F. Smith since he became president of the Mormon Church has dominated or interfered with in any way the political actions of any individual or party, I will give $1,000 for such information.

"The above rewards hold good today, and will so continue for some time to come. I am not a Mormon and never expect to be one, but I am interested in Utah, my home, and I am in the East now representing the business men of Utah, and when such unbending statements, like the one above by Mr. Nelson, I am bound to answer it, knowing that such attacks on Utah hinder immigration and capital from flowing into her borders.

"Washington, D. C., March 11, 1908."

We refer to this matter again, because the appearance at this late date of the story in a Washington paper shows how falsehoods originating in a newspaper office in this City, about the people here, are circulating from coast to coast. That they are doing harm to business here, is beyond reasonable dispute. Is it not high time for decent public opinion to assert itself, in the interest of the City by putting the proper brand upon a species of journalism that consists mainly in the dissemination of falsehoods?

It does not hurt the Church. Ever since the foundation of the organization it has been misrepresented and lied about. There is not a public man of any prominence, from the Prophet Joseph and the Patriarch, his brother, down to the leaders of the present day, who have not been the object of calumny. They have been painted as black as hatred could make them. But in spite of all, the Church has grown, and is still growing. The eternal truths which it has been its sublime mission to reveal to the world in this age have broken through prejudices and ignorance, as sunbeams through dense clouds, illuminating the minds of men and influencing the history of the world.

Slanders cannot stop the work of the Almighty, so if that is the purpose of it, it is wasted effort. It is certain, however, that such stories are injurious to the community, from a business point of view. If the energy spent in attack and defense were exercised in united efforts at building up the City and the State, greater advancement would be achieved.

BURBIDGE REMOVED.

The removal of Captain Burbidge from the position on the police force, which he has filled with ability for a number of years, is important; first because it dispels any illusion that may have been entertained as to the independence of the City authorities of the lash of what Mr. Pettigrew calls the "hierarchs" of the party. It is one more evidence of the incompetence of the officials and the unalterable intention of said "hierarchs" to run things in the interest of the party, and not of the City.

It is important, secondly, because the somewhat unusual mode of procedure must be construed as a reprimand to the Chief of Police, who is on record as having said that he appreciates the value of the deposed Captain, to the department. Next, we presume, the Chief will be notified to resign.

It was stated that Captain Burbidge was removed "for the good of the service." But that was not accepted as true by "American" councilmen who gave as a reason for their vote that they believed in giving "the spoils" to "the victors." When a man believes that a municipal election is a "battle" and that municipal offices are "loot," he does not have to remove an officer "for the good of the service." He does not need that subterfuge.

The logical sequence of last night's action is the removal of Chief Pitt and the re-instatement of ex-Chief Sheets—"for the good of the service."

RUSSIAN JEWS.

A correspondent of Emanu-El, a paper edited by Rabbi Voresanger of San Francisco, gives a pitiful picture of the condition of the Jews in Russia. He says that poverty, starvation and disease are the afflictions which now beset the [illegible] Jews in that country and Roumania. The government does afford some medicine of relief to the starving Russian moujik and laborer; but for the Jew there is no charity, no mercy! ## CHURCH AND SECTS.

A recent number of "Kerk en Secte," a publication published at Baarn, Holland, and edited by Dr. S. D. Van Veen, professor in church history and dogmatics at the Utrecht University, is on "Mormonism." It contains a concise and clear statement of the origin of the Church and its doctrines, written for that magazine by Elder J. W. Penrose, of the Council of the Twelve, and now presiding over the European mission. The article deals with the first vision of the Prophet Joseph, the Book of Mormon, the testimony of the witnesses, the spread of the Gospel, the first disciples, the apostasy and restoration, salvation for the dead, the last dispensation, celestial marriage, church government, auxiliary organizations, movements of the Church, Utah and the Nation, missions in the Netherlands, Church buildings, publications, etc., and the article closes with a translation of "The Address to the World," by the First Presidency as accepted in general conference on April 6, 1907. As can be seen from this synopsis, the article is very comprehensive, covering the entire ground of the subject. It is one that will be read with interest by all who understand the Dutch language, and we would suggest to our friends from the Netherlands that they might get a copy of the magazine and send it to their friends who inquire about the principles of the Gospel.

"Kerk en Secte" is published by the Holland-in-Drukkerij, Baarn, Holland. It consists of a series of brochures each containing a complete article on existing churches or sects, written from the standpoint of the respective churches themselves. This is a splendid idea. It insures the student of an impartial representation of the subject. It is too often the case that the history as well as the doctrines of unpopular sects are misrepresented, through ignorance or lack of an intelligent understanding of principles set forth, or through prejudices. The exponents of one faith very seldom represent another faith in its true light. They do not see it in their light, themselves, and they cannot correctly state what they know only by misapprehension. The plan of the publishers of the little magazine is the only one that deserves the appellation scientific. The publishers present articles on Catholicism, Protestantism, Mohammedism, Zionism, Communistic Sects, Christian Science, and many other subjects.

May the friends of temperance be as successful as St. Patrick in ridding this country of snakes.

The world at large is glad China and Japan have settled the Tatsu Maru case by diplomatic conferences rather than with the crunchings of the iron jaws of war.

Jere Knode Cooke has told why he deserted his wife for a pretty little girl and why he laid aside his clerical frock and donned the overalls of the painter and decorator. He is frank—as he is asking in return that the broad sentiment of the west accept him and his companion.

F. Aug. Heinze has asked Judge Hunt for an extension of time in which his fine is to be deposited with the United States court clerk. F. Aug. is also waiting for action on a bill to be introduced by Senator Carter. Before he gets through waiting his waiting list may be a big one.

Now that John Burbidge is out of the police department, the force is without a capable executive officer. The campaign of the Tribune to give full sway to the criminal element is being waged successfully, supported, as it is, by the marionettes in the council who do a "thumbs up or thumbs down" stunt whenever the "American hierarch," who ever he is, pulls a string.

What Coxey's army accomplished after its long march on to Washington will probably be the result obtained at Sacramento by a replica of the army on unemployed which has announced that it will storm the California capital to demand its rights. The natural trend in this green footstool gives to every man his "rights" if he seeks them in a rational manner.

To the President, be he of this political party or that, every citizen owes his full allegiance and the right to freedom of speech should not be construed to be a license to attack and slander the chief executive of this nation. With this belief firmly rooted, without comment on the ground upon which he stands, we add our rebuke to that all loyal citizens must heap upon Senator Tillman.

We are in receipt of a letter from a citizen who classes himself as "American" but who, nevertheless, endorses Gov. Cutler in the stand he has taken against the practice of neglecting to summon medical aid in cases of sickness of children. Our correspondent is rather severe in his condemnation of Christian Science, but he says he "heartily concurs with the Governor in his manly stand and it is quite refreshing to know that occasionally a politician has the courage of his convictions and is ready to express them. Though an anti-Mormon I take off my hat to him."

"Strike while the iron is hot" is very good advice to the men who walked out at the Rio Grande shops yesterday. Do they realize that when they walked out the iron got cold? Did they not realize that if they walked out others would walk in to heat the iron and fashion it with strong blows of the hammer? In these particularly troublous times a man is very fortunate to have employment and for a trivial cause should not give up that employment. Maybe the workman who went on strike is not the only one who will feel the pinch of hunger, but maybe there is a wife and a little family of children who have some claim on the workman's wage.

LESSONS FROM THE FIRE.

Chicago Record-Herald.

The investigation of the Collinwood school fire has resulted in a coroner's report which declares that the fire was caused by overheated pipes in a closet under a flight of stairs and that the great loss of life was due to the fact that the children were obliged to turn out because of a partition that projected in front of a stairway. In effect, then, the cause is explained by combined carelessness over an obvious case of faulty construction. There should have been such protection by fire-proof materials that the fire would have been absolutely impossible. This is not to contend for a theory as an unattainable ideal. The means of protection were at hand and ordinary prudence called for their use. The partition was another serious fault of construction, and it ought not to have been tolerated, for the public has had repeated and fruitful warnings of the danger from poor and confusing exits from buildings. If, moreover, there is little profit in censure, it would be a grievous wrong if this latest terrible lesson were neglected in any part of the country.

THE YANKEE TAR.

Los Angeles Times.

Now as to the criticism of our navy, in spite of whatever of acrimony, of careless statement, of partisanship, of deliberate misstatement of facts, of desire to exaggerate defects on one side, or to conceal them on the other, there may be in it all—the discussion will do good in the end. Here, at least, our ships may be, they can be better. Let us have the best. But whatever facts may come to light, we are ready to go on record with the guess that our navy is as good as any ship for ship. We are more ready to risk the opinion that in case of conflict our ships in a fair fight will take care of more than their equal number—in units, in guns, in men and in caliber of armament—of any ships possible to pick from any navy in the world. And all the world now knows that they can make time—fifty-nine days from Hampton Roads to Magdalena bay!

A SERMONET FOR WORKERS

(For the "News" by H. J. Hapgood.)

There is no limit to the salary the captain of industry is willing to pay when he sees the man he wants. One of the largest industrial combinations sent representatives 3,000 miles across the sea to offer a salary of $25,000 a year to a man who had the qualifications necessary to establish and take charge of its most important departments. This flattering offer was refused, although the company was willing to go even higher, and the place is still unfilled. One might go on indefinitely with instances like this.

So well qualified a judge as Elbert H. Gray, chairman of the board of directors of the United States Steel Corporation, which pays out in salaries and wages about $125,000,000 a year, sums up the matter when he says: "The real question is not the size of the salaries but whether the right men are drawing them. One man may be cheap at $10,000 a year, while another man in the same position might be dear at $1,000 a year."

The tendency of the business world just now is not to search for men who will take low salaries, but for men who deserve high salaries.

The difficulty does not lie in lack of ability any more than it does in the niggardliness of employers. It is true that the demands of business have increased enormously, and the man who was considered above the average twenty years ago, would not be up to present standards. Human ability, however, has kept pace with the advance in business methods, and the average salesman, executive, clerical or technical man of today is even more capable than one in the same line of work ten years ago.

What employers need today is not more ability. There is enough of that—in fact, as a well known business man recently remarked, perhaps there is too much! What is needed are men with the power and inclination to use the ability they have.

Employers want men who combine with their ambition, education and natural talents, honesty and the capacity for hard work. This sums up the requirements, and the scarcity of men who meet them explains the world-wide search that is now going on. There is no lack of ability, but there is lack of the integrity, the energy and the infinite capacity for taking pains, without which even great ability can accomplish little.

But with Herzl there was no fear and no favor.' Think of that! Russia has six millions of Jews, and till Herzl came Plehve did not know the Jew was not a crawling creature. Can we wonder that, as Herzl passed through Russia, passed fearlessly through that land wherein our practical men are forbidden to travel, our brethren waited by thousands at every station, as for the Messiah? Are we not entitled to believe that if the Jews of the world would stand upright like Herzl, and ask the world for justice, nay, for Palestine itself, the world would some day give us both?

Theodor Herzl. Help me to rebuild the Jewish State.' Since that day he has gone from miracle to miracle—from impossibility to impossibility. What a figure he might have made upon the stage of European politics, he who could create the politics of a State unborn! And how did the majority of the Jews receive him? They said Israel was too scattered and torn for any common action—and he gathered together a Congress from the four corners of the earth. They said that the Congress was all empty talk—and he established a Bank and a Trust. They said that the poor would lose their money—and the Trust paid a dividend. They said, 'You are making Zionism a sordid, material thing, a thing of money'—and 300,000 shareholders refused the divided. They said, 'But what is the use of the money? The Sultan will not treat with you.' And the Sultan made Herzl his guest of honor, and had the practical men been at Herzl's back the charter would have been ours. They said, 'Oh, but the Sultan wants money; no solid Power will consider you.' And lo! The greatest empire on earth offered him a soil for his ideas. They say, 'But your ideals are lacking in religious impulse'—and he gave to Jewry the greatest spiritual impulse since the Goluth began. He has saved and guided thousands of men and women who were drifting amid the mists and cross currents of modern Jewish life.

"And while the Jews were saying all this, what were the others saying? The Pope, the Catholic, said. 'My sympathies go with you.' The German Emperor, the Protestant, said, 'To me, as to you, it seems quite natural that the Jews should return to Palestine.' The Sultan, the Mussulman, said to his Ministers, 'So, I picture to myself, the Hebrew Prophet of Galilee must have looked.' Mr. Chamberlain, the Unitarian, on seeing a land flowing with milk and honey, said to himself, 'Here is a land for Dr. Herzl.' M. de Plehve, the Greek churchman, the man of iron—what did Plehve say? 'Till Dr. Herzl came to me,' said de Plehve to one of our Russian friends, 'I did not know there were Jews who did not crawl. I have hitherto had to do only with two classes of Jews—those who came to beg I should not do something against their community, and those who came to beg I should do something for themselves. But with Herzl there was no fear and no favor.' Think of that! Russia has six millions of Jews, and till Herzl came Plehve did not know the Jew was not a crawling creature. Can we wonder that, as Herzl passed through Russia, passed fearlessly through that land wherein our practical men are forbidden to travel, our brethren waited by thousands at every station, as for the Messiah? Are we not entitled to believe that if the Jews of the world would stand upright like Herzl, and ask the world for justice, nay, for Palestine itself, the world would some day give us both?

"All those terrible risks that Zionism brings on the Jew are the bogeys conjured up by cowards afraid of their own shadows. Zionism brings to the Jew only the world's respect. The Zionist peril forsooth! I will tell you what the Zionist peril is, and why Jews shrink from Zionism. Zionism is a terrible searchlight, searching out all that is false and feeble in Jews and Judaism. There are spiritual anti-Zionists, but the great majority of anti-Zionists are those who have neither God above nor a man's heart within. It may be that Dr. Herzl's death will effect more than even his life. Now—at last—O, bitter mockery! he will enter the synagogues, whose preachers have been gagged by purse-proud presidents, his name will be mentioned respectfully, if critically, to comfortable congregations. I call upon them, one and all, to make amends to the dead for their derision of the living, and to bury their anti-Zionism in Herzl's grave. We, too—we Zionists—have something to bury in Herzl's grave—all that venom of factions and foolish accusations which divided brother from brother and embittered our leader's last days. There are not two Zionisms; there is only Zionism, the Zionism that was laid down in Herzl's 'Judenstaat'—the Jewish national idea, associated, indeed, with Palestine by history and tradition and the hope of generations, but even greater than Palestine itself, since Palestine without Jewish rights would be the Goluth, the exile, in its most mocking form. Palestine without Jewish rights is already enjoyed by some 100,000 Jews, and what sort of a spectacle do they present?

New York Times: Seis millones de judíos en Rusia.

The inhuman laws of Russia continue, according to the report, to make the empire of the Czar the darkest spot on the Jewish horizon. During 1909 65,000 Russian Jews fled their country for America. This exodus of the oppressed was swelled by another 35,000 Jews from other countries.

The report gives graphic figures illustrating how the Russian laws are breeding Jewish paupers, although the Jewish population of roundly 6,000,000 constitutes only a little over 4 per cent. of the entire Russian population. Ninety-three per cent. of all the Jews in Russia are permitted to dwell only in twenty-five of the sixty Government districts, comprising altogether only one-sixth of the total area of the empire. The consequence of this overcrowding in the western and southern provinces, especially in Russian Poland, is that in such regions as Odessa and Warsaw the Jews constitute, respectively, 11 and 14 per cent. of the population, and wholesale poverty is an inevitable result.

MANY JEWS FLEE FROM RUSSIA

Report of German Central Relief Association Shows Inhuman Conditions.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, March 12.—Present-day Jewish conditions throughout Europe and the Orient are comprehensively reviewed in the annual report of the Central Jewish Relief Association of Germany, which operates in alliance with the prominent Jewish leaders and organizations of the United States.

The President of the association is James Simon, one of Berlin's merchant princes, who, like his co-religionist, General Manager Ballin of the Hamburg-American Line, enjoys the distinction of being an intimate friend of the Kaiser.

The inhuman laws of Russia continue, according to the report, to make the empire of the Czar the darkest spot on the Jewish horizon. During 1909 65,000 Russian Jews fled their country for America. This exodus of the oppressed was swelled by another 35,000 Jews from other countries.

The report gives graphic figures illustrating how the Russian laws are breeding Jewish paupers, although the Jewish population of roundly 6,000,000 constitutes only a little over 4 per cent. of the entire Russian population. Ninety-three per cent. of all the Jews in Russia are permitted to dwell only in twenty-five of the sixty Government districts, comprising altogether only one-sixth of the total area of the empire. The consequence of this overcrowding in the western and southern provinces, especially in Russian Poland, is that in such regions as Odessa and Warsaw the Jews constitute, respectively, 11 and 14 per cent. of the population, and wholesale poverty is an inevitable result.

At Easter time in 1909 60,000 Jews were reduced to dependence on public charity, while 15,000 families, numbering 75,000 persons, were in the same condition in Warsaw.

The German association's activities in Russia are mainly devoted to assisting emigration, but it also supports schools for children barred from the public schools.

In Galicia and Roumania the conditions are somewhat better than in Russia, but there, too, the Jews suffer under serious disabilities and outside assistance is constantly needed.

The association is carrying on important work throughout the Turkish Empire, especially in Palestine. At Haifa, near Jerusalem, the cornerstone will shortly be laid of a fine technical college endowed principally through the munificence of Jacob H. Schiff of New York. Numerous other educational projects are supported in the Orient with a special view to making the Turkish Jews valuable citizens of their own country and removing the causes for emigration. Special attention is devoted to the teaching of the Turkish national language in order that the generation of young Jews may grow up equipped to play their part in the rejuvenation of new Turkey.

Much is hoped from the inauguration of kindergartens and a training school for kindergarten teachers in Palestine.

WASHINGTON OFFICE

The Washington Office has been continued, and has, as heretofore, proved of great usefulness in keeping your Committee informed of affairs in Washington.

RUSSIA

The position of our co-religionists in Russia grows increasingly deplorable, and recent advices from that country indicate that there is little likelihood of any relief being afforded.

The situation is of the gravest. It may be doubted whether Jewry has ever confronted a greater crisis since the overthrow of the Jewish state by the Roman Empire. Not even the horrible persecutions of the times of the Crusades or the expulsion from Spain and Portugal affected so large a mass of our co-religionists. Russia has since 1890 adopted a deliberate plan to expel or exterminate six millions of its people for no other reason than that they refuse to become members of the Greek Church, but prefer to remain Jews. To carry out this purpose, it has used several methods. Wholesale assassinations (called pogroms), have been employed in order to arouse the religious fanaticism, the greed, and the savagery of the needy, the ignorant and the depraved among the Russian people. Horrible as these pogroms are, their effects are trivial compared with those which have followed other methods countenanced by that Government. The Jewish inhabitants of the congested Pale of Settlement are being harassed by restrictions on their ordinary activities, by practical denial to a serious extent of the right to educate their children, and by having thrust upon them by force, large numbers of their co-religionists who had settled in other places within the Empire and had there been usefully employed. By this insidious process, the Russian Government wickedly and artificially creates unnatural conditions that enable it to twist economic and social laws into the service of persecution, and it believes that by their operation the ultimate expulsion or destruction of the Jews of Russia is assured. From the point of view of that Government, this method has the further advantage that it avoids the cry of horror

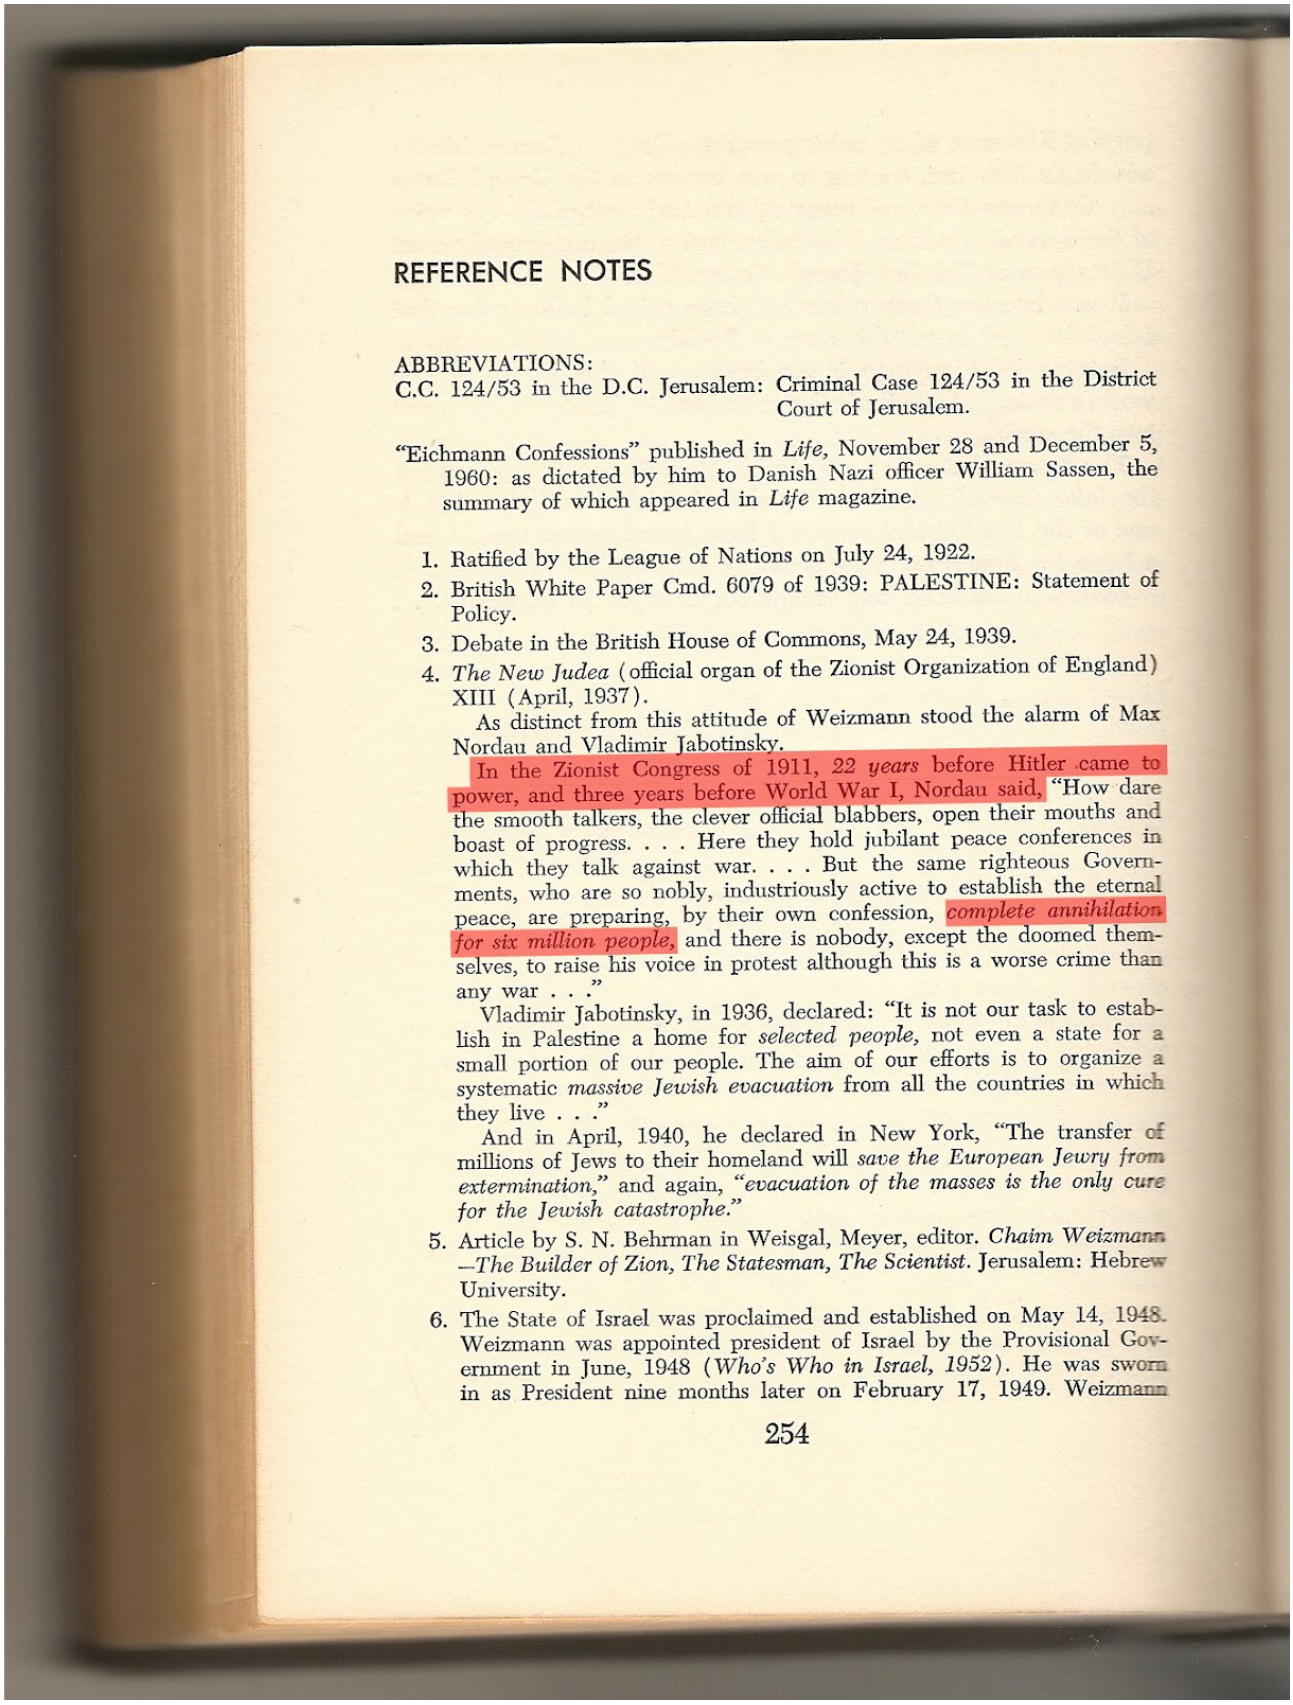
Worse Than Under Plehve, Magnes Says—Fears the News Is Suppressed.

Preaching yesterday in Temple Emanu-El, the Rev. Dr. J. L. Magnes took a pessimistic view of the condition of the Jews in Russia, intimating that the worst about it was not known here.



"The condition of Russia is worse to-day than at any time since the barbarous massacres and pogroms of 1905 and 1906," said Dr. Magnes. "The American public is unaware of this state of affairs, because the chief news agency supplying our press with information is, without much doubt, in the service of the Russian Government. Even though news was supplied the story of Jewish misery in Russia is such an oft repeated tale that hardly any attention is paid to it any more. But the condition of affairs is getting to be so fearful that it becomes necessary to raise our voice in protest and to appeal to the conscience of our fellow-citizens to take cognizance of the systematic, relentless, quiet grinding down of a people of more than 6,000,000 souls."

(((Max Nordau))), co-fundador de la Organización Sionista Mundial, junto con (((Theodore Herzl))), hizo una declaración sorprendente en el décimo Congreso Sionista en Basilea, Suiza. Afirmó que 6.000.000 Judios serían aniquilados. Esto fue veintidós años antes de que Hitler llegara al poder y tres años antes de que comenzara la Primera Guerra Mundial.

   In the Zionist Congress of 1911, 22 years before Hitler came to power, and three years before World War I, Nordau said, "How dare the smooth talkers, the clever official blabbers, open their mouths and boast of progress. . . . Here they hold jubilant peace conferences in which they talk against war. . . . But the same righteous Governments, who are so nobly, industriously active to establish the eternal peace, are preparing, by their own confession, complete annihilation for six million people, and there is nobody, except the doomed themselves, to raise his voice in protest although this is a worse crime than any war . . ."

   Vladimir Jabotinsky, in 1936, declared: "It is not our task to establish in Palestine a home for selected people, not even a state for a small portion of our people. The aim of our efforts is to organize a systematic massive Jewish evacuation from all the countries in which they live . . ."

   And in April, 1940, he declared in New York, "The transfer of millions of Jews to their homeland will save the European Jewry from extermination," and again, "evacuation of the masses is the only cure for the Jewish catastrophe."

PRINCE, PRIEST AND PEASANT WAGE WAR AGAINST SIX MILLION JEWS

WARSAW, June 3.—Within the Russian empire are 6,000,000 Jews, dependent for their lives on the fickle will of the bureaucrats. What is their condition to-day? The answer is to be found in recent debates in the duma; for it has been shown that although foreign opinion has done away with the bloody crimes of the pogroms—since Hebrew financiers control the financial markets of all the capitals and can hamper the floating of loans—the lot of the Israelites in Russia is worse to-day than ever.

Prince, priest and peasant have declared war against them. Duma members have lately declared that any police officer ought to be exiled to Siberia for allowing Jews to live within the pale—i. e., in the large districts of eastern and central Russia forbidden to Hebrews. The nobility, who recently met at their annual delegation, passed resolutions that they would not allow even baptized Jews to serve the state, either in a military or civil capacity, nor permit Jewish youths to enter the same schools as their own children. As to allowing them to be ennobled, the idea, the delegation declared, was so preposterous that nobody need think of it for a single moment.

The fact that representatives of twenty-five Russian provinces carried these resolutions with enthusiasm—only six desiring to modify some of the clauses and only five voting against them—demonstrates how anti-Semitism has grown of late years. Such is the feeling that there is little chance of the duma being able to remove the disabilities now imposed on the Jews. It is far more likely to invent fresh ones and establish them on the statute books.

Russian Jews are concentrated in the western and southern portion of the empire, for they are forbidden to live or trade in large cities like Moscow, St. Petersburg or Kazan, where Russian merchants fear their rivalry. In cities like Odessa and Warsaw the Jews therefore form more than one-third of the total population. There are over a million of them in Russian Poland alone, out of a total population of 7,000,000, while whole towns are peopled by Jews in southern Russia.

PRINCE, PRIEST AND PEASANT WAGE WAR AGAINST SIX MILLION JEWS

WARSAW, June 3.—Within the Russian empire are 6,000,000 Jews, dependent for their lives on the fickle will of the bureaucrats. What is their condition to-day? The answer is to be found in recent debates in the duma; for it has been shown that although foreign opinion has done away with the bloody crimes of the pogroms—since Hebrew financiers control the financial markets of all the capitals and can hamper the floating of loans—the lot of the Israelites in Russia is worse to-day than ever.

Prince, priest and peasant have declared war against them. Duma members have lately declared that any police officer ought to be exiled to Siberia for allowing Jews to live within the pale—i. e., in the large districts of eastern and central Russia forbidden to Hebrews. The nobility, who recently met at their annual delegation, passed resolutions that they would not allow even baptized Jews to serve the state, either in a military or civil capacity, nor permit Jewish youths to enter the same schools as their own children. As to allowing them to be ennobled, the idea, the delegation declared, was so preposterous that nobody need think of it for a single moment.

The fact that representatives of twenty-five Russian provinces carried these resolutions with enthusiasm—only six desiring to modify some of the clauses and only five voting against them—demonstrates how anti-Semitism has grown of late years. Such is the feeling that there is little chance of the duma being able to remove the disabilities now imposed on the Jews. It is far more likely to invent fresh ones and establish them on the statute books.

Russian Jews are concentrated in the western and southern portion of the empire, for they are forbidden to live or trade in large cities like Moscow, St. Petersburg or Kazan, where Russian merchants fear their rivalry. In cities like Odessa and Warsaw the Jews therefore form more than one-third of the total population. There are over a million of them in Russian Poland alone, out of a total population of 7,000,000, while whole towns are peopled by Jews in southern Russia.

Live in Ghettoes.

Their poverty is excessive and though they trade, most of them can do business only in a small way. They are the factors and middlemen of the towns they inhabit. Police regulations and ancient custom combine to coop them in certain quarters of the cities, where they live as in the ghettoes of the Middle Ages.

Come with me into a Russian ghetto. The Russian working man has a fixed idea that the Jews, however poor they seem, have great riches stored in secret. He clings to this illusion in spite of the proofs of poverty in the ghetto, a poverty exceeding anything the non-Jewish masses ever experience. But the first impression one gains of the Russian ghetto is not so much that of poverty as of the stifling atmosphere. In winter the frost suppresses the smell in the streets, only to cause it to be cooped up in double strength in the rooms, where six feet square means sleeping, living and working accommodation for many people, who feed principally on herrings and garlic.

At first sight the Jewish quarter of a Russian city disappoints the stranger. No Hebrew signs are to be seen, for the police, bent on suppressing all traces of Judaism even in its home, forbid the use of Yidish for advertisements. Yet, on closer inspection, the streets are very characteristic. To begin with, they are crowded with pedestrians bearing strongly marked Hebrew features. The men are dressed in long halat, or skirted coat, reaching nearly to the ankles, and the peaked cap, or yarmulka. Some of the younger women have their hair plaited, others wear the wigs prescribed for married women, whose heads are shaved.

Every degree of Hebrew beauty and ugliness are here. Stunted youths and beautiful girls; men with Christ-like faces and others with visages stamped with the imprint of worldly meanness, old women who might frighten children and old men whose venerable faces and long beards are suggestive of the patriarchs. Even in the passing cars and cabs Hebrews prevail.

In the side streets the houses are even dingier than in the main thoroughfares, and the shops so small that they find room enough for their ghetto trade in the cellars. Yiddish newspapers an books are displayed alongside food cooked according to Hebrew rites, and many-branched candlesticks, used even in the poorest houses, on the Sabbath eve. Men, caps on head, look out into the street. Ragged children play gravely in the gutter. All look old and wise; nobody laughs not even the children. There is a total absence of street humor, and though all are busy, nobody hurries. It is the languor, not of the city, but of the ghetto, that is upon them, showing itself in their gait as well as their pale, strained faces.

Hounded to Beggary.

The man coming from the baker's leading a little girl by the hand, is a beggar. Though his kind is ever increasing, his plea is never refused, for the Jews do not let their poor beg outside the ghetto, but provides for them within its bounds. In Odessa alone this spring over 60,000 Hebrews have applied for charitable relief, and Gen. Tolmatcheff, the anti-Semitic Prefect, has added to the suffering by hampering the work of the Jewish Relief committee. That gray-headed old man is a Jew of the old school. He bemoans the fact that his race is dying out, for his children mix with the world in a way that jars his orthodox mind. He has nothing in common with the new Jewry, which takes an interest in Russian politics, and even immigrates to America. He lives in the Talmudistic atmosphere which still provides certain parts of the ghetto and most of the smaller provincial settlements. He has no work, that is to say, he does not make boots or clothes, mend fur, or roll cigarettes. He is poorer than those. His wife supports him by the proceeds of a basket which holds cherries, oranges or nuts according to the season, and reposes, with the remains of the fruit, under the family bed at night. He will ponder for weeks over a passage in Talmud, or a sentence in the Mosaic law, and sits poring over the Scriptures till long after his family are asleep, and dawn is breaking through the grimmy window. Even ghetto life does not interest him, he lives with the law and the prophets. Moses is more real to him than the police officer who forbids him to live elsewhere, and King Solomon the Wise of far more importance than the czar of all the Russias, to whom he owes allegiance. Sometimes he has his moments of triumph, as when a rabbi comes to talk and the neighbors listen with reverence as this old Hebrew in ragged clothes discourses on the law.

In summer the ghetto thoroughfares are crowded from nightfall till the early hours of the morning. You wonder why these hard workers do not sleep, till you remember the rooms. At break of day the majority, who live by hawking and retailing, move toward the markets, through the same shabby streets, knocking against the same people as during the night.

Here is an incident I saw the other day in the ghetto. A large empty market cart driven by Jews pulled up at a corner. Two Russian soldiers who had been having a lift rose from its depths. Both were drunk, and they demanded that the Jews should drive to the right, though they had business to the left. The more sober soldier of the two tried to persuade his comrade to get out, but the cart was comfortable and the comrade failed to see the point. His opinion was that Jews were meant to drive Russians wherever they wanted to go, so he lay down again and the Jews, huddled together in the front of the cart, grew uneasy. At last the sober one pulled his mate by the legs till he got him out, when he drew his sword and the Jews only got clear by making off at a gallop and were glad to have escaped so easily for they would never have obtained redress for any wrong done to them.

Markets Run By Jews.

The markets of all Russian cities without the pale are run by the Jews. Their shrill cries rend the air as they walk up and down between the booths, calling upon the "pretty lady" and the "diamond lady" or the "sweet little dove" to buy. Everything you can want is to be had in Jewish markets for the barganing, which is carried on with eastern zest and amounts to a sport in which each side is ready to give and take in a contest of huckstering skill.

ll races which inhabit the mighty Russian empire mingle here. As if to sympolize the imperial might, there is the stolid Muscovite soldier with market basket and bicycle, buying the dinner for his officer and family. There the Circassian with his lissome figure and silver daggers; here the elegant Russian or Polish woman, who alarmed at her cook's bills, has come to price things for herself, and drive a bargain over some lace or ribbon for which she would pay three times as much in the Gentile shops. There the workingman's wife is buying a few cucumbers or potatoes and looking wistfully at dainties she cannot afford; here the peasant, dazed but economical, haggling over a pair of high boots for himself or a gaudy kerchief for his wife; cooks galore, male and female, exchanging the gossip of the hour, or chaffing a market woman about the quality of her asparagus, or the price of her strawberries. Muscovite, Tartar, Pole, Frank and Hebrew; they are here in this Jewish market, all talking at once, haggling, screaming, laughing and swearing. It is a very babel or conflicting sound.

There is something for everybody—things that can be bought in every European market, and local products that seem strange to the eyes of the visitor. Wigs for the Jewish bride are piled in one basket; veils and crowns for the Russian ones hang near by. Clothes, furniture, fish, fruit and meat are jumbled together in a weird medley that compels curiosity, but staggers classification. From these booths goes the food that feeds the whole city and the clothes that equip four-fifths of it. Here are garments made in the sweat shops, as well as the produce of the farms, whence the Jew brings all the farmer has to sell and runs his city errands. Merchants talk together in one language and bargain with their customers in another; owning ready kinship with a people whom a thousand years and a million persecutions have not changed; who hold the trade and commerce to the country in the hollow of their hands, and whom the Russians fear more than a hostile army.

Courtship in the Ghetto.

Marriage takes place early in the ghetto. Twelve years for a boy and thirteen for a girl is the usual age. When a suitable wife has been found the girl's parents arrange about the dowry, which is paid to the boy's parents as soon as the engagement is completed. If the engagement be broken off within a year the girl, like her Gentile sister, must return any presents she may have received, and the side which breaks off the union has to pay all betrothal expenses. This is the nearest approach to breach of promise regulations in Russia. But the Jews never take such matters into Russian courts; they settle all difficulties, domestic or otherwise, among themselves. During the year of betrothal the pair do not see each other. While they are engaged, the young man is supposed solely to frequent the society of his own sex. No little bachelor parties are planned for the ghetto beau. His parents are affectionate, but the family apron strings are short and he is kept in close haul.

The ghetto Jew clings to the good old custom of marrying his children in front of the synagogue. As this is impossible in a large town, a courtyard—courtyards are like baseball grounds in Russia—is chosen. According to custom, any learned man can tie the matrimonial knot.

The orthodox ghetto marriage happens in the evening, the bride, with a cloth over her eyes—not a diaphanous veil—is brought to the place by her parents, and the bridegroom is escorted by his people. The guests sing and dance while the young couple are made better acquainted—that is to say, the bride's eyes are uncovered and somebody asks her if the youth pleases her. When she says "Yes" her hair is shaved off close to her head, hops are thrown over her for prosperity, and the Rabbi ties the knot. Then the marriage feast is eaten at the bride's home. When the house is a very pious one the men and girls do not dance together. As a rule the young people live with the wife's parents until he is able to earn a living for himself.

The position of women in the Russian ghetto is somewhat paradoxical. When the husband is a very pious man his wife has to work for him and the children, when he is a factor, or a merchant, he works hard for her, and is only too proud and happy to indulge her in every way he can. So piety is not always a blessing to a wife in the ghetto. Though divorce is easier in the ghetto than in America it is far less frequent—which seems to point to a good measure of domestic happiness within the boundaries of the Hebrew settlements.

New York Times: Durante varios meses los 6 millones de judíos han estado viviendo temiendo nuevas masacres.

By Herman Bernstein.

FOR several months the six million Jews in the Russian Empire have been living under the shadow of fear of renewed massacres.

Ever since the Duma voted to have the Jewish question elaborated by a special commission with a view of abolishing the Pale of Settlement—that is, of opening all Russia to the Jews who are at present caged in certain provinces—the reactionary forces, the Black Hundred organizations, through their organs and at their meetings, and in their churches, have been inciting the Russian populace against the Jews. The old myth was revived for this purpose. The Jews of Russia are being accused of having murdered a Christian boy for ritual use.

The blood libel against the Jews, which cropped up from time to time in various countries for centuries, has long been established as a myth invented by anti-Semites. Even in Russia Alexander I., in 1817, and Nicholas I. issued ukases prohibiting the prosecution of so-called ritual murder cases "to make an end to the prejudice that the Jews use Christian blood for ritual purposes."

And yet from time to time these stories are circulated in Russia by reactionary priests and reactionary journalists, encouraged and even subsidized by the Russian Court party.

RITUAL MURDER LIBEL ENCOURAGED BY RUSSIAN COURT

FOR several months the six million Jews in the Russian Empire have been living under the shadow of four of renewed massacres.

Ever since the Duma voted to have the Jewish question elaborated by a special commission with a view of abolishing the Pale of Settlement—that is, of opening all Russia to the Jews who are at present caged in certain provinces—the reactionary forces, the Black Hundred organizations, through their organs and at their meetings, and in their churches, have been inciting the Russian populace against the Jews. The old myth was revived for this purpose. The Jews of Russia are being accused of having murdered a Christian boy for ritual use.

The blood libel against the Jews, which cropped up from time to time in various countries for centuries, has long been established as a myth invented by anti-Semites. Even in Russia Alexander I., in 1817, and Nicholas I. issued almost prohibiting the prosecution of so-called ritual murder cases "to make an end to the prejudice that the Jews use Christian blood for ritual purposes."

And yet from time to time these stories are circulated in Russia by reactionary priests and reactionary journalists, encouraged and even subsidized by the Russian Court party.

In the beginning of May of this year The Novoye Vremya, Russia's leading semi-official newspaper, the same journal whose editorials are so frequently quoted in European and American newspapers, published the following article by M. Menshikoff, one of the prominent editors of The Novoye Vremya. Menshikoff used to be a Liberal and a Toryman, but for the past ten years he has sold himself to Reaction, has attacked every progressive movement in Russia, and has developed a mania for slandering the Jewish people in the vilest manner.

"Just before the Jewish Passover," wrote Menshikoff, "the twelve-year-old boy Tuschinsky was lost. He was going to school, passed the Jewish settlement, but never returned. His body was found in a cave near the house of a Jew. From all the numerous symptoms the people of Kiev have come to the conclusion that the boy was a victim of the Khasidim.

"The Khasidim are a Jewish sect which sprung up in Poland in the eighteenth century and which still exists about one-half of the Jewish masses. In the well-known encyclopædia book by Lutostansky the following circumstances of ritual murders are described. They are, it is said, committed on the eve of Passover for the purposes of securing "Passover" blood. This is used for the preparation of matzos. It is also poured into wine and is used for numerous other purposes.

"Here, then," continues this vile slander, "is another of the advantages for spreading the Jews all over Russia. From the 'Pale' this religious custom of murdering Christian children for the preparation of their Passover will come over to us. When the Jews will attain equal rights, when their audacity will reach the highest point, there is no doubt that the 'ritual' murders of Christian children will grow more frequent.

"Evidently 'the holy Russian land of Kiev' has already entered in that sphere of blue which will set in after the Pale of Settlement has been abolished. Right under the shadow of the majestic Andrew Cathedral, on Podolya, the boy Andrey Tuschinsky, frightened to death, was slowly tortured by fervent 'Yiddish' and all Christendo, beginning with Apostle Andrew, who raised the cross over Kiev, could not help the unfortunate. The great empire to which the boy belonged could not help him, the so-called 'four-thousand-year-old' civilization of which the Jews are boasting could not help him. The bitter facts are crying unto heaven that law and the prophets are one and Jewish fanaticism guilty another matter. The Commandment of the Jews says 'Thou shalt not kill!' and their beatified mind says 'Kill!'"

The article winds up with an appeal to the people of Kiev to do their duty, saying that the death of the Christian boy is upon the conscience of all Russia.

One of the contributing editors of the newspaper where this article appeared is A. Stolypin, the brother of the present Premier of Russia.

The entire reactionary press, led by The Novoye Vremya, the Russkoye Znamya, (the Czar's personal organ) the Kolokol, and the Zemschina, caught up this allegation against the Jews, in connection with the Tuschinsky case, based on the book of Ippolit Lutostansky, whose other literary slanders of the Jews have been published in pamphlet form and who has been rewarded by various ranking officials in the Russian Government.

The curious coincidence of the whole affair is that while ritual murder accusations have long been established as a libel on the Jewish people, Lutostansky's description of how alleged ritual murders are committed has been minutely followed by those who murdered the boy for the purpose of arousing the entire Jewish people.

To those who know how the Black Hundred organizations, under the direction of Dr. Dubrovin, a personal friend of the Czar, murdered the members of the first Duma, Herzenstein and Yollos, such methods will not seem surprising.

Ippolit Lutostansky, now about 56 years old, wrote his work "On the Use of Blood by Jews for Ritual Purposes" some forty years ago. Several years later he came out with a statement to the effect that he had erred in his accusations against the Jews. He then represented the Jews and wanted a large sum of money for retracting his former statements. But the Jews declined to pay him for his views. So he commenced to publish a series of volumes called "The Talmud and the Jews," in which he falsified quotations from the Talmud and perverted the interpretation of Jewish customs and rituals. His books are full of the most vile and malicious attacks upon the Jews and Judaism.

The sixth volume of Lutostansky's "The Talmud and the Jews" appeared recently and by way of preface it contains a number of letters which show who are encouraging, supporting, and distributing his publications. Among the letters congratulating Lutostansky upon his work against the Jews are some by the Dowager Empress Maria Feodorovna, Grand Duke Michael Alexandrovitch, Grand Duke Alexander Mikhailovitch, Gen. D. Obrutchev, Trepov, the Ministries of War and of Education.

Recently a letter from Lutostansky was published in the Russian press saying that the late Czar Alexander III. had thanked him for his works on ritual murder and presented him with a ring; that the Commander-in-Chief of the gendarmes had distributed his book to all his subordinates, and closed the Moscow synagogue, for the reply of Rabbi Minor to his accusations. The letter, not intended for publication, stated how he had published a book denying the ritual accusation, but having received no pecuniary support from the Jews, he was obliged to return to his anti-Semitic propaganda.

His sixth volume of "The Talmud" is devoted entirely to an attack upon the Jews, upon the progressive parties in Russia which side with the Jews, and upon the first Duma.

Lutostansky declares that the massacres of the Jews in Kishineff and Byalistok were started by the Jews themselves and that the Jewish people were playing to divide Russia among themselves.

Speaking of the Talmud and the Bible, Lutostansky says:

"Built upon falsehood and contempt for man, filled with insane and anarchistic tendencies; inimical to all liberal and revolutionary ideas, the [illegible] the Talmud is the offspring of the most contemptible of all reverential, which sour degraded minded by its stupidity and bloodshed; lasciness and cunning, cruelty, cowardice, and soulless formality, combined with a deep revolutionary spirit and extreme ignorance—such were the fundamental traits of the Pharisees. Not stopping before any inventions of their imagination, falsifying customs, inventing legends, devising the most absurd methods of interpreting the law according to their will, and for the purpose of attaining power, they have studied the essence of unprincipled Judaism—the Talmud. Thus they have doomed the Jewish mind forever to fruitlessness, and the Jewish soul to cruelty and egoism.

"We must ask the Jews all to go back to Palestine, but as they will not go of their free will, we must force them to do it, for their right place is in their former Kingdom of Palestine. Let them get their rights from the Sultan, not from Russia, where they are strangers."

And then, in the same volume, which is supposed to be a work on the Talmud, Lutostansky, unobstructed, encouraged, and paid by Russian Czars and Grand Dukes, submits the following solution of the Jewish question in Russia:

"The Russian people, realizing their position and having the ability to maintain it, availing themselves of their right to be the masters of Russia, could in the course of one day crush the danger of the Jews and force the Jews to bow to the will of the Autocratic Master of Russia, but the Russians have chosen another way of solving the Jewish question."

And the self-confessed charlatan declares himself an adherent of Zionism, saying that Russia would make any sacrifice to help the Jews settle in Palestine and form an autonomous State of their own.

"Therefore," he goes on, "the Russian people cannot their representatives in the Duma to see to it that all the Jews living in Russia shall at once be recognized as foreigners, without any rights and privileges allowed other foreigners. Such a measure, in connection with other restrictive measures, would surely hasten their removal to their own Kingdom."

He then enumerates a series of restrictions that should be introduced:

"The Jews should not be admitted to the army, the navy, neither as regulars nor as volunteers.

"The Jews should not be permitted to practice as military surgeons, as assistant surgeons, or as druggists.

"Military service should be substituted by a fine, and these fines should be paid by the entire Jewish population.

"The Pale of Settlement should be made narrower. All laws tending to widen the Pale of Settlement should be abolished. All privileges granted to Jews because of their education or because of their occupations should be withdrawn. No Jews should be permitted to live in seaports.

"Jewish children should not be permitted to attend schools attended by Christian children. Jews should also be prohibited from establishing schools of their own.

"Jews should be forbidden to teach in Government or private schools.

"Jews should not be permitted to hold any Government or civil office.

"Jews should not be permitted to get any concessions and should not be connected with any Government contracts.

"Jews should not be employed on any steamship or railway in Russia.

"Jews should not be permitted to vote, and under no circumstances should they be permitted to serve in the Duma or the Council of the Empire. Nor should they be allowed to participate in the elections.

"Jews should not be permitted to have druggists of their own, to be druggists, or to work as clerks in such stores.

"Jews in any way connected with revolutionists should be dealt with sternly, and their property should be confiscated.

"Jews should not be permitted to act as editors or publishers of periodical publications.

"Jews should not be permitted to have bookstores and printing shops.

"All foreign Jews, officers of other countries, should be forbidden to enter Russia."

He then continues his inflammatory outbursts against the Jews in terms that are unprintable, and all this in a volume supposed to be a study of the Talmud.

In another chapter the anti-Semitic slanderer attacks England because he believes the English people to be the lost tribes of Israel.

"The English people are pure-blooded Israelites," declares Lutostansky. "In ancient days they used to be red-haired, as we see the types described in the Old and New Testaments. The characteristics of the Israelites are well-known all over the world, and the same characteristics are peculiar to the English people. They do not differ to the slightest degree. The universal business greed of the English people, their greedy politics based on bankers and usury other traits make them unlike other European nations. There have been for some time suspicious kinship and similarity between the Anglo-Saxons and the Jews.

"The English people are the lost tribes of Israel. The line of Judah became the emblem of England and the harp of David is to this day the emblem of Ireland.

"But not only are the English Kings direct descendants of the Jewish Kings, they even sit on the throne of David, on which all Jewish Kings used to be crowned. The throne is made of the rock on which Jacob slept when he dreamed of the ladder and when God promised him a kingdom. That rock was brought by the prophet Jeremiah to Ireland, whence it was removed first to Scotland and then to London.

"North America is settled by the tribe of Manasseh.

"The English people in many ways resemble the Jews. Their type is the same, their manner of speech the same, and, above all, the fundamental trait of both nations is trading. Then, the great respect of the English people for the Bible betrays their kinship to the ancient Israelites.

"The English people," concludes the rabid anti-Semite, "accepting the unanimous indignation of the entire civilized world, have made themselves by their insolence and inclinations deformed monsters among the cultured and civilized nations of Europe. There is a saying: 'Every family has its black sheep.' But every deformity may be explained, and this is explained by the fact that the English people have descended from the Jews."

Lutostansky's works, written in impossible Russian, containing innumerable pornographic stories, perversions and vile slanders, malicious attacks, and incendiary appeals to the ignorant mob are distributed by the servants of the Russian autocracy in the army and the military academies, are sanctioned by the Ministry of Education and the War Department in Russia, and Czars and Grand Dukes, and Princes, and Princesses help the publication of these works.

Here are a few of the letters reproduced in the sixth volume of Lutostansky's "The Talmud and the Jews":

Having received the third, fourth, and fifth volumes of your works, "The Talmud and the Jews," I beg you to accept my sincere thanks.

I may add that, with regard to a financial subsidy, you will get a special communication. A. SCHWARTZ.

Lutostansky's works, together with other similar incendiary anti-Jewish pamphlets and circulars, have now been sent, freed throughout Russia, especially in the army, reviving the old fable about ritual murder and citing the Tuschinsky case. Lutostansky is the authority, though it has been established that only recently this priest, converted several times, approached a well-known Rabbi for a subsidy, as an alternative to the prohibition of further anti-Semite work. Lutostansky was also expelled from the Catholic Church years ago for various scandals.

The reactionary members of the Duma, led by Markov, a friend of Nicholas II., introduced an interpellation in the Duma regarding the Tuschinsky case, quoting Lutostansky, and assailing the Jews in the most disgusting terms, but the progressive members of the Duma proved how utterly ridiculous and false these accusations are, and the matter was dropped in the Duma.

The Kiev authorities are still investigating the Tuschinsky case. Several Jews have been arrested, but then far all have been released.

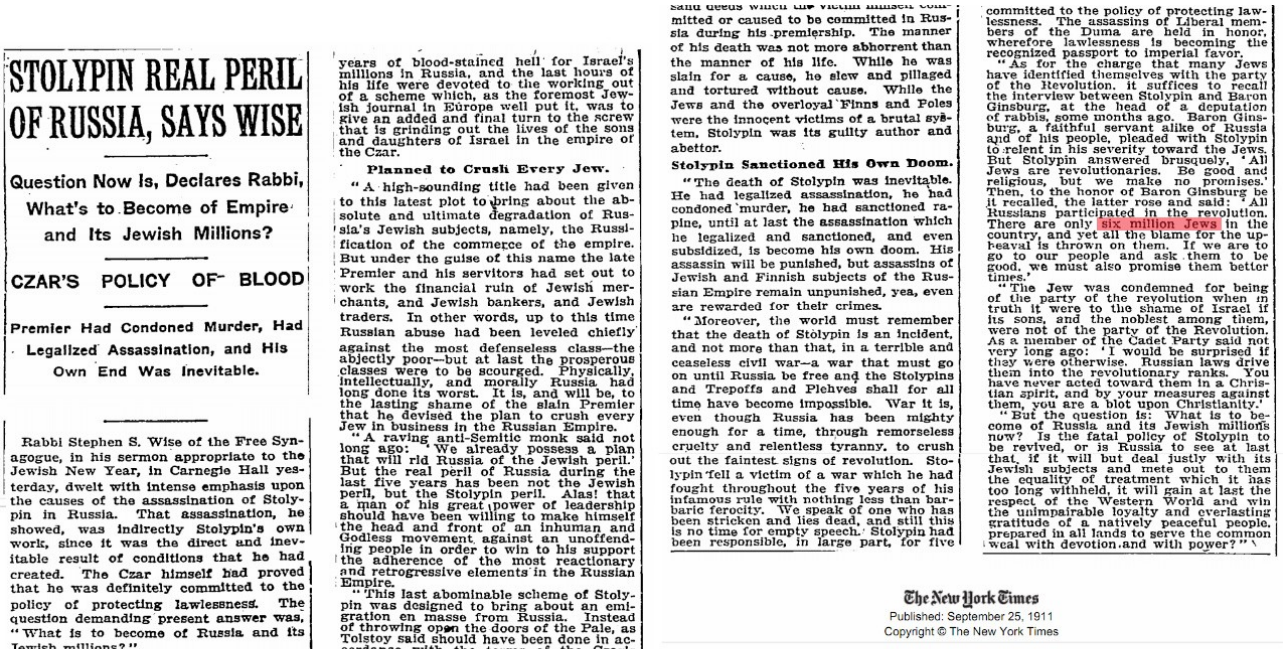
It turns out that the ritual murder accusation against the Jews was only an afterthought inspired by Deputy Markov.

The Tuschinsky boy was found murdered in Kiev, and it was known in the neighborhood that his stepfather had committed the crime for the purpose of collecting a considerable sum of money for which the boy had been insured. In fact, the Kievlianin, a reactionary newspaper, published the story. When Markov read it in St. Petersburg it occurred to him that the murder of the boy might be utilized as a campaign against the Jews. He immediately hurried to Kiev, and together with other leaders of the Black Hundred organizations established headquarters there, distributing anti-Jewish proclamations.

The Novoye Vremya, the semi-official organ of Russia, the Russkoye Znamya, the personal organ of the Czar, and the Kolokol, the organ of the Holy Synod, are continuing to inflame the populace.

Bishop Nikanor published an article denouncing the people who are exploiting the alleged ritual murder. His article, entitled "An Evil Legend," reads, in part, as follows:

"Papers of a certain tendency are exploiting the Kiev child murder for the most unworthy purposes. Everyone is possible that such inflammatory articles can appear in the columns of a paper that calls itself the organ of the clergy! If the conscience of the director of that journal does not cause them to refrain from the consciousness of this monstrously mendacious false, then the Church, of which this paper is the organ, must step in and prevent the brand of Cain being marked upon its own forehead. It is true that the whole of the respectable editorial press has always raised its voice against the fabulous ritual murder legend, but now the Church itself must denounce this fratricidal campaign."



But the reactionaries are continuing their work. The Real Russians, as they call themselves, recently met in council in Kiev to consider the situation created by the establishment of the guilt of the stepfather of Tuschinsky, and they resolved to resume the agitation against the Jews. Gen. Dragomirov, the notorious organizer of massacres in 1905, has moved over to Kiev, where he is in charge of the new anti-Jewish campaign. Members of the Black Hundred organizations are distributing pamphlets against the Jews in the villages about Kiev and arranging services in memory of "Saint" Tuschinsky.

Alexander Amfiteatrov, the famous Russian publicist, a Christian, addressed an impassioned appeal to the writers of Russia, denouncing the anti-Jewish agitation and winding up with the following words:

"Let us unite and destroy this great shame of the Russian people. It is time for us, in the Jewish question, not only to wash off the blood from our hands. It is high time to overpower the slaughter from which the spirit of blood clothes us. And above all, and first of all, we must rescue the Jews from that slaughter the degraded and ignorant Russian people who are demoralized by criminal incitement."

STOLYPIN REAL PERIL OF RUSSIA, SAYS WISE

Question Now Is, Declares Rabbi, What's to Become of Empire and Its Jewish Millions?

CZAR'S POLICY OF BLOOD

Premier Had Condoned Murder, Had Legalized Assassination, and His Own End Was Inevitable.

Rabbi Stephen S. Wise of the Free Synagogue, in his sermon appropriate to the Jewish New Year, in Carnegie Hall yesterday, dwelt with intense emphasis upon the causes of the assassination of Stolypin in Russia. That assassination, he showed, was indirectly Stolypin's own work, since it was the direct and inevitable result of conditions that he had created. The Czar himself had proved that he was definitely committed to the policy of protecting lawlessness. The question demanding present answer was, "What is to become of Russia and its Jewish millions?"

In the course of his sermon Rabbi Wise said:

"The assassination of Stolypin may be inexcusable, but it is not inexplicable. And explained it should be, if it can be, to a people whose Government is prompt to condole with Russia upon the passing of Stolypin and tardy to recognize the independence of the Republic of Portugal.

"The world is greatly stirred over the assassination of Stolypin. It is a fearful crime, and the world must needs deplore it, as reasoning men deplore every act of violence. But terrible as it is, it is not more terrible than any one of the thousand deeds which the victim himself committed or caused to be committed in Russia during his premiership. The manner years of blood-stained hell for Israel's millions in Russia, and the last hours of his life were devoted to the working out of a scheme which, as the foremost Jewish journal in Europe well put it, was to give an added and final turn to the screw that is grinding out the lives of the sons and daughters of Israel in the empire of the Czar.

Planned to Crush Every Jew.

"A high-sounding title had been given to this latest plot to bring about the absolute and ultimate degradation of Russia's Jewish subjects, namely, the Russification of the commerce of the empire. But under the guise of this name the late Premier and his servitors had set out to work the financial ruin of Jewish merchants, and Jewish bankers, and Jewish traders. In other words, up to this time Russian abuse had been leveled chiefly against the most defenseless class—the abjectly poor—but at last the prosperous classes were to be scourged. Physically, intellectually, and morally Russia had long done its worst. It is, and will be, to the lasting shame of the slain Premier that he devised the plan to crush every Jew in business in the Russian Empire.

"A raving anti-Semitic monk said not long ago: 'We already possess a plan that will rid Russia of the Jewish peril.' But the real peril of Russia during the last five years has been not the Jewish peril, but the Stolypin peril. Alas! that a man of his great power of leadership should have been willing to make himself the head and front of an inhuman and Godless movement against an unoffending people in order to win to his support the adherence of the most reactionary and retrogressive elements in the Russian Empire.

"This last abominable scheme of Stolypin was designed to bring about an emigration en masse from Russia. Instead of throwing open the doors of the Pale, as Tolstoy said should have been done in accordance with the terms of the Czar's manifesto, the gateway of Russia was to have been flung open and Stolypin was to have taken unto himself the task of driving Israel out. At the very beginning of this anti-Jewish campaign, which was to have been prosecuted with unparalleled vigor, Stolypin is felled by the blow of a wretched and probably half-crazed creature, who is himself a creation of the Stolypin régime.

The Czar's Heavier Responsibility.

Only one man has borne a still heavier responsibility for the crimes of Russia during the reign of Stolypin, and that is the Czar himself. His sanction of the campaign of the monk, Iliadore, proves that the Emperor of Russia is definitely committed to the policy of protecting lawlessness. The assassins of Liberal members of the Duma are held in honor, sand deeds which the victim himself committed or caused to be committed in Russia during his premiership. The manner of his death was not more abhorrent than the manner of his life. While he was slain for a cause, he slew and pillaged and tortured without cause. While the Jews and the overloyal Finns and Poles were the innocent victims of a brutal system, Stolypin was its guilty author and abettor.

Stolypin Sanctioned His Own Doom.

"The death of Stolypin was inevitable. He had legalized assassination, he had condoned murder, he had sanctioned rapine, until at last the assassination which he legalized and sanctioned, and even subsidized, is become his own doom. His assassin will be punished, but assassins of Jewish and Finnish subjects of the Russian Empire remain unpunished, yea, even are rewarded for their crimes.

"Moreover, the world must remember that the death of Stolypin is an incident, and not more than that, in a terrible and ceaseless civil war—a war that must go on until Russia be free and the Stolypins and Trepoffs and Plehves shall for all time have become impossible. War it is, even though Russia has been mighty enough for a time, through remorseless cruelty and relentless tyranny, to crush out the faintest signs of revolution. Stolypin fell a victim of a war which he had fought throughout the five years of his infamous rule with nothing less than barbaric ferocity. We speak of one who has been stricken and lies dead, and still this is no time for empty speech. Stolypin had been responsible, in large part, for five committed to the policy of protecting lawlessness. The assassins of Liberal members of the Duma are held in honor, wherefore lawlessness is becoming the recognized passport to imperial favor.

"As for the charge that many Jews have identified themselves with the party of the Revolution, it suffices to recall the interview between Stolypin and Baron Ginsburg, at the head of a deputation of rabbis, some months ago. Baron Ginsburg, a faithful servant alike of Russia and of his people, pleaded with Stolypin to relent in his severity toward the Jews. But Stolypin answered brusquely, 'All Jews are revolutionaries. Be good and religious, but we make no promises.' Then, to the honor of Baron Ginsburg be it recalled, the latter rose and said: 'All Russians participated in the revolution. There are only six million Jews in the country, and yet all the blame for the upheaval is thrown on them. If we are to go to our people and ask them to be good, we must also promise them better times.'

"The Jew was condemned for being of the party of the revolution when in truth it were to the shame of Israel if its sons, and the noblest among them, were not of the party of the Revolution. As a member of the Cadet Party said not very long ago: 'I would be surprised if they were otherwise. Russian laws drive them into the revolutionary ranks. You have never acted toward them in a Christian spirit, and by your measures against them, you are a blot upon Christianity.'

"But the question is: What is to become of Russia and its Jewish millions now? Is the fatal policy of Stolypin to be revived, or is Russia to see at last that, if it will but deal justly with its Jewish subjects and mete out to them the equality of treatment which it has too long withheld, it will gain at last the respect of the Western World and win the unimpairable loyalty and everlasting gratitude of a natively peaceful people, prepared in all lands to serve the common weal with devotion and with power?"

Whereas, We have listened to the presentation, by well-informed speakers, of the baleful effects of the lack of religious liberty in Russia, and, desiring to place on record an expression of sentiments which it awakens in our heart, we do hereby adopt the following preamble and resolutions as the sentiment of this meeting:

We, as representatives of divergent creeds, gratefully recognizing the fact that, in this favored land, the separation of Church and States gives to all religious bodies equality before the law, and withholds no right or preferment from any individual because of particular religious conviction or custom, learn with sorrow that:

1. The 6,000,000 Jews of Russia are singled out for systematic oppression and for persecution by due process of law.
2. They are confined within congested districts, at times ruinous to health.
3. Education is prohibited to all but a few, resulting necessarily in the increase of illiteracy.
4. They are restricted in occupations, reducing many to starvation.
5. Local governors devise petty persecutions of their own, which are zealously carried out by police acting brutally.
6. They are slanderously and libelously charged with "ritual" murder.
7. Their children are encouraged by the offer of pecuniary reward to abandon the faith of their parents.
8. At frequent intervals they are the victims of terrible pogroms, when many are massacred and their homes destroyed.
9. These unjust and barbaric conditions have been intensified this very year, local expulsions occurring weekly, in spite of

CONDITION OF JEWS IN RUSSIA WORST IN ITS HISTORY

The Russian Government, aside from the restrictive laws now in existence, has numerous other methods by which it intensifies the oppression of the Jews, and by which it is making the 6,000,000 Jews a people economically exhausted—a people without any rights at all.

Instances of lawlessness are too numerous to be related here. Recently the Governor of Nizhni-Novgorod summoned the local rabbi and told him that if any letters signed by Jews appeared in the liberal newspaper Retch, (the organ of the Constitutional Democrats,) criticising anything in that province, the Governor would banish fifty Jews for every correspondence. This is but one of the examples of lawlessness which is reigning in Russia to-day.

The Bucksters boast that corporation dollars will win the election.

There are six million Jews in Russia and the government is anxious to annihilate them by methods that provoke protests from the civilized world.

We would like to hear from Hon. Perry A. Randall on the Sunday saloon. Like our friend Buck and his blind tiger, brother Randall can tell a mighty interesting story of Sabbath day law and order.

But he is now associated with a bunch of disgruntled politicians who are seeking, not so much to elect Charles H. Buck, of "blind tiger" fame, but to defeat Honest Bill Hosey.

Not only did Charles McCulloch warmly commend Mr. Hosey in his communication to the Sentinel, but he also added his voice of protest to the attempt of the traction company to prevent Mr. Hosey from fulfilling his pledge to the people—erect a municipal light plant. In that regard the statement of Mr. McCulloch published in the Sentinel January 28, 1911, said:

CHURCH WINS IN LONG DRAWN OUT SUIT

WARSAW, Ind., Oct. 17.—With the refusal of the appellate court to grant an appeal to the supreme court of Indiana, the long legal battle between the heirs of the late Elijah Hays and the trustees of the Methodist church of Warsaw has been decided in favor of the church trustees. Many years ago Elijah Hays deeded all of his property to the Methodist church to be used for the benefit of the Nicholas Law Theological seminary at Mercedes, Argentina, in South America. The property was worth about $25,000, and by the terms of the deed Mr. Hays received an annuity of $1,000 and his wife $500 a year. Several years later Mr. Hays, who had accumulated nearly $20,000 by saving and investing his annuity, made a second deed to the church. After his death his heirs commenced suit to set aside the second deed, claiming that Mr. Hays was of unsound mind when he made the last deeds. The verdict being for the defendant, the case was appealed and the

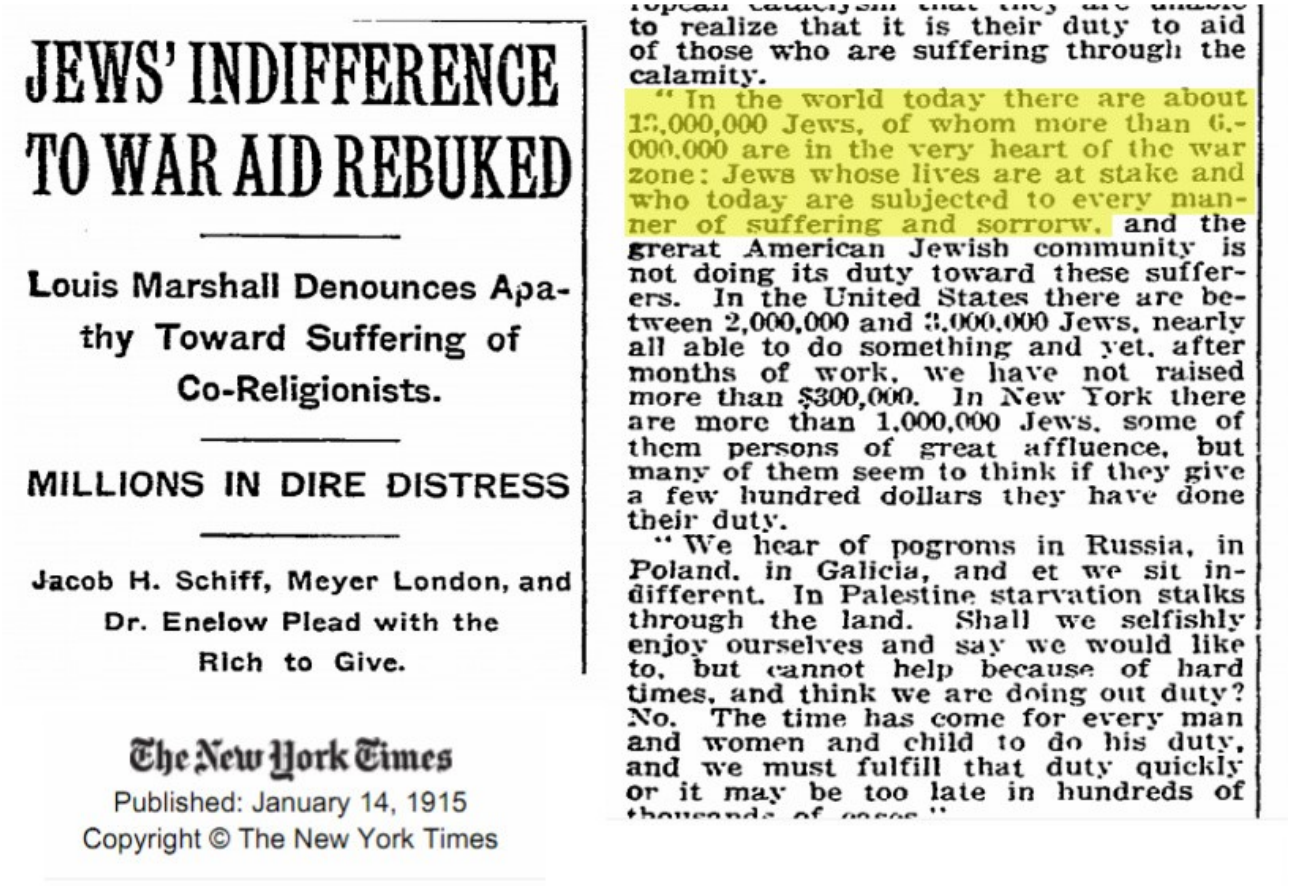
The American Jewish Relief Committee, called into being at a conference of more than 100 national Jewish organizations which was held at Temple Emanu-El on Oct. 25 to consider the plight of more than 6,000,000 Jews who live within the war zone, has elected Louis Marshall Chairman, Cyrus L. Sulzberger Secretary, and Felix M. Warburg Treasurer, and has issued the following appeal:



The American Jewish Relief Committee for Sufferers from the War appeals to you to aid, with the utmost generosity and self-sacrifice, the fund now being gathered to provide relief for the families of the Jewish people in various parts of Europe and Asia who have been deprived of their means of sustenance either through the killing or wounding of their bread winners, through the destruction of the towns in which they live, or through the resulting economic distress.

to realize that it is their duty to aid of those who are suffering through the calamity.

"In the world today there are about 13,000,000 Jews, of whom more than 6,000,000 are in the very heart of the war zone: Jews whose lives are at stake and who today are subjected to every manner of suffering and sorrorw, and the grerat American Jewish community is not doing its duty toward these sufferers. In the United States there are between 2,000,000 and 3,000,000 Jews, nearly all able to do something and yet, after months of work, we have not raised more than $300,000. In New York there are more than 1,000,000 Jews, some of them persons of great affluence, but many of them seem to think if they give a few hundred dollars they have done their duty.

TEN BATTLESHIPS IN ACTION

Admiralty Announces That Losses Are Not So Heavy When Size of Engagement Is Taken Into Consideration.

London, England.—The British admiralty announced that the British battleship Irresistible and the battleship Ocean have been sunk in the Dardanelles.

The admiralty also announced that the French battleship Bouvet was blown up by a mine in the Dardanelles and sunk and that virtually her entire crew of 600 was lost.

The admiralty statement adds that the battleships Queen and Implacable have been dispatched from England to replace the lost British ships. The Ocean struck a drifting mine and the admiralty believes the Irresistible probably met with like disaster.

It is announced the operations against the Dardanelles are continuing.

The admiralty statement says the British losses among the personnel of the ships were not heavy, considering the scale of the operations.

The British battle cruiser Inflexible had her forward control hit by a heavy shell and will need repairs.

The Ocean displaced 12,950 tons and carried a crew of 750. Her length is 400 feet and beam 74 feet. The maximum draught is 26½ feet and length over all 418 feet. She carried four 12-inch guns, 12 6-inch guns, 16 12-pounders and 4 3-pounders.

The Irresistible displaced 15,000 tons and her length was 411 feet with a 75-foot beam. Her maximum draught was 29 feet and length overall, 430 feet.

She carried four 12-inch guns, 12 6-inch, two 12-pounders, six 3-pounders and two Maxims.

INDEFINITE BLOCKADE O.K.

MAY OR MAY NOT APPLY ONLY TO CONTRABAND.

Naval Officers and Experts in International Law Say Allies Need Not Fix Limits.

Washington, D. C.—While the United States government does not know officially as yet whether Great Britain and her allies intend to maintain a legal blockade or propose to apply several rules of contraband and noncontraband in enforcing their embargo on commercial intercourse, American naval officers and officials versed in international law expressed the opinion that the indefinite limit prescribed—"European waters including the Mediterranean"—might be construed as a legal area of operations for a blockading fleet.

In the formulation of the policy of the United States relative to the treatment of neutral shipping by the allied fleets, naval officers of high rank have constantly been consulted, so that in none of the diplomatic communications sent abroad might there be anything said which could compromise the activities of the American fleet itself in possible future wars.

MAN AND WIFE HANG SELVES

Too Literal Interpretation of Certain Bible References Believed Responsible.

Reading, Pa.—"To make of their bodies "a living sacrifice to the Lord," literally following the Scriptures, two residents of Jianna, a village near here, killed themselves together at their home. They were Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Seivers, 42 and 45 years old.

Seivers was a prosperous farmer, and both were devoutly religious.

The only theory advanced as the cause of their act is that they were unbalanced mentally by a too literal interpretation of Biblical lessons. They were found hanging, their bodies still warm, by their two sons, Jacob, 16 years, and Edward, 12.

Deep pockets in the straw under their feet showed they had knelt to pray together before a crude altar before hanging themselves. Both had been attending revival services.

STORM SAVED BURNING SHIP

Waves, Breaking Over Abandoned Craft, Extinguished the Blazing Benzine.

A strange shipwreck story, unreported by cable from the Azores, arrived at New York from Horta, Fayal, by the Holland-America freighter Zaandyk, which was forced to put into this port by heavy weather that reduced her coal supply. Captain Barendsen says he learned from the skipper of the Norwegian tank steamship La Habra, which arrived at Horta on February 7, bound from Talara bay, Peru, by way of the Panama canal, for London, that her cargo of benzine caused an explosion aboard as she was nearing the Azores to replenish her bunkers.

La Habra was quickly ablaze from stem to stern. About half of the crew were on the forward part of the tank and the other half aft. Fearing that the falls and other boat gear would be burned, the tank's skipper ordered all hands to leave her in lifeboats and stand by. The engines had been stopped and La Habra drifted into the trough and, as she was deeply laden, the seas, which were very high, washed over her.

The chief officer and five men were in a boat towing astern when the hatches of the tank were blown off and flames, leaping 100 feet high, shot over her sides and stern. The boat's painter was burned off and the chief officer and his men, after hitting down the blast, being without oars or sail, and disappeared. The other boats were threatened with destruction by the burning benzine, which spread out all around La Habra, making her look like a fire ship in a lake of flame.

The skipper of the tank expected her to be destroyed utterly before his eyes. He was elated when a giant comber broke around her, dousing the fire and extinguishing it. Other seas helped in the work, and all hands except the chief officer and his men, who were blown down the hatches, worked back on their ship. The skipper of the tank's books and instruments of navigation had been destroyed.

London's Treasures Guarded.

Extensive precautions have been taken in London to guard art treasures against the menace of air raids. The custodians of art galleries and museums long ago removed to vaults or similar places the most precious of their portable exhibits. At the British museum a number of priceless manuscripts, books, and other objects have been stored away in safes. Some measure of risk must, however, be borne in a building which contains 40 miles of bookshelves and massive pieces of sculpture. Visitors to the National gallery find the major part of the building closed. At the Guildhall the most valuable pictures have been placed in the basement. The magnificent Gainsborough, "Fording the River," has been removed from the walls. In the corporation strong room in the basement is stored what is probably the finest collection of municipal records in the world. It includes the charter of William the Conqueror "to William, Bishop and Gosfegeh, Portreeve, and all the burgesses within London," securing to them their ancient liberties. Every reign since the Conqueror is represented in the charters.

Real Sanitation in Air Towel.

An "air towel" used in the large public lavatory in the District building at Washington, D. C., is the invention of J. M. Ward, superintendent of the District building. In appearance it resembles a rectangular box eleven inches by three, set in a sanitary base having twelve-inch legs, with an opening in the top of the case in which the wet hands are held while being dried. The device consists of a blower that forces air through an electric heating element to ducts and deflectors suitably placed for distributing the warmed air to all parts of the hands at the same time, and is operated by a foot lever or pedal, which in turn operates a quick-acting switch, thereby setting the blower in motion. By removing the foot the device is put out of operation. The hands come in contact with no part of the device, thus assuring a perfectly sanitary operation.

GOT GERMAN BOOTS

French Soldiers Made Requisitions on the Enemy.

Equipment of the Kaiser's Troops Is Highly Prized by the Men Who Are Fighting the Battles of France.

Near Battle Front in France, Feb. 4.—A corporal, quite a young chap—he could not have been more than nineteen—crawled up to the officer and asked: "Pardon, lieutenant; several of the men most respectfully ask whether they might not have another pair of shoes. Most of ours are in a very bad condition."

It seemed a strange request in this place, and the lieutenant exclaimed:

"Sapristi, Jansen, do the men think that I am carrying boots about in my knapsack? What, in heaven's name, do they mean?"

"Ah, lieutenant," quietly replied the corporal, "there are plenty of good boots over there," and he pointed over the trenches. Following the direction he indicated, we saw at a distance of about 200 to 300 feet in front of our trenches some fifty or sixty dead Germans.

The lieutenant shrugged his shoulders. "I can't give them permission to leave the trenches, you know," he told the corporal, "but if they want some more chances of 'risking their necks, well"—and at that he turned his back to the men. The corporal understood.

A few minutes later one man got up slowly, carefully, and peeped over the trench, first with one eye, then with both, then with his whole head. I followed every movement with breathless interest. Now he takes his rifle, pushes it ahead of him over the trench and on all fours crawls to the top, over and down on the other side. He slings his rifle over his shoulder and, still on all fours and on his stomach, advances.

The Belgian soldier at that moment recalled the East to me. It reminded me of a morning in Java some years ago when I had watched a tiger crawling on his belly stalking his prey—a young calf.

Before he had gone half way three of his comrades, inspired by his brave example, followed him, all in the same careful manner. Before long a dozen men were in front. They reached the Germans, most of whom were lying face downward. Quickly they were turned over on their backs and their boots unstrapped.

Then, instead of returning with their booty, they sat down among the dead, proceeded to take their own shoes off and tried those of the Germans on. We could see shoes flying around in the air and hear a laugh and a joke. It was the most absurd, yet, considering the conditions, the surroundings, the most dramatic scene imaginable.

I think that few dead Germans were left with any boots, and when the men returned to the trenches the spare ones were exchanged for a cigarette, a pipe of tobacco, a lump of bread, or even a button.

And the lieutenant looked at his own hard, wornout boots and sighed: "I wouldn't mind a bit to get a pair of those German boots myself. They are perfect." He called over one of his men and showed us. Between each layer of leather was a strip of rubber, and the seams were all covered with waterproof material as well. The leather was as soft as kid.

"It is wonderful how thoroughly German was prepared for war," the officer continued, "if one is to judge by the complete manner in which each soldier is fitted out. Every one has his own small tent, which he can use either alone or in connection with five others. Their pocket knives are a small outfit in themselves. They have a spoon, fork, knife, scissors, wire cutters and every possible utensil imaginable that may be useful in the field."

GOOD SUGGESTION FOR EMMY

Some May Insist, However, That It Is Possible She Didn't Need the Exercise.

Emmy brought in an armful of wood for the fire.

"My dear," said her husband, "you shouldn't do that."

She lifted the heavy case of berries to the table and sat down to look them over.

"I'd help you if I wasn't waiting for Bates to come over and look at the new filly."

The grocer's boy deposited a dollar's worth of sugar on the floor and Emmy took it up and put it in the sugar pail on the lower pantry shelf.

"You really shouldn't," said her husband.

Finally she lugged the iron preserve kettle to the sink for the last time and went out for another pail of water.

"I hate to see you lift so, Emmy. My, how many glasses have you got? It's my favorite jam. I'll get you a case of cherries tomorrow."

Emmy went on getting up a hearty supper.

"Seems as if you didn't eat much," commented her husband. "Don't you want to walk down with me tonight while I finish that lumber with Stetson? The exercise will do you good."—The Craftsman.

"Yes," said the teacher, "and you might add, Chelsea-Boston."

"Madam," said the little Boston boy, with much gravity, "I decline to make a frivolity of a serious subject."

PREPARE TO TRY IMPEACHMENT

SENATE ORGANIZES AS HIGH COURT, UNDER CHIEF JUSTICE MATTHEW KANE.

LAWMAKERS ARE WORKING HARD

Many Acts of Minor Importance Being Rushed Through the Two Houses and Sent to the Governor.

Oklahoma City.—For the third time in the history of Oklahoma the high court of impeachment has organized and taken the oath of official duty.

In response to a formal request delivered to him through Secretary Joe S. Morris, Chief Justice Matthew J. Kane appeared in the senate chamber and organized the senate into a court of impeachment for the purpose of hearing the articles of impeachment against Corporation Commissioner A. P. Watson and State Insurance Commissioner A. L. Welch.

Impeachment Has Begun

Tuesday, March 23 at 1:30 p. m. was the return date for the impeachment process issued in the Watson and Welch cases and this feature consumed much of the afternoon session of that day. No evidence was taken and the impeachment trials will not be started until the legislative work is out of the way and the house members have been released from duty. It is now contended that the senate pay will be restored to $6 per day, beginning on the date of the impeachment.

Pass Income Tax Law.

With a few amendments the senate took final action on the income tax law, which amends the statute now in force. The principal amendments were offered by Senator Russell, and provides that on the first $10,000 or any excess thereof there shall be levied a rate of 10 mills on the dollar; on the next $15,000 of such excess 15 mills on the dollar; on the next $25,000 of such excess 40 mills on the dollar, and on all such excess, in addition to the amounts mentioned, 50 mills on the dollar.

Assessors' Salaries Fixed.

The county assessor bill, which occasioned so much interest during the early part of the session and which has been in conference for the past three weeks, was passed finally by the house as amended and agreed upon in conference.

The bill fixes the salaries of county assessors the same as county clerks in all counties except those of 50,000 population or more. In those counties, which includes Oklahoma county, the assessor will be allowed a salary of $2,400. Under the present law the compensation of assessors is based on the amount of the assessed valuation of the county in which he is assessor.

One radical change which the original bill proposed, in the present law was changed in conference so as to be left optional with the county commissioners of the various counties. It was that provision which required the taxpayer to come to the assessor and list his property for taxation instead of the assessor going to the taxpayer as is now done. The original plan, it is said, is acceptable to the east side of the state, but was strenuously objected to by representatives of the west side. As the bill now stands either plan can be adopted by any county according to the desire of the county commissioners.

Cotton Oil Trust Hit

Breaking up of the so-called cotton seed oil trust, which it is asserted has robbed the farmers of Oklahoma of thousands of dollars annually by its alleged domination and control of hundreds of cotton gins, will be accomplished, it is believed, through the operation of a bill passed finally by the house of representatives.

The bill, if it becomes a law, will prohibit "any person, firm or corporation or association of persons, owning or operating or holding any interest in any cotton seed oil mill in this state to own at the same time, operate or hold any character of interest, which shall also include holding any in trust or otherwise, in any public cotton gin in this state."

It also declares cotton seed oil mills and cotton gins to be public utilities and as such, are declared to be under the supervision and control of the corporation commission the same as other public utilities. It is further provided that no person, firm or corporation shall be permitted to conduct or operate a cotton gin or cotton seed oil mill without first obtaining a permit from the corporation commission.

The house went on record as opposed to reducing the size of the legislature when it voted to kill the resolution by Representative E. O. McCance of Woodward, proposing submission of an amendment that would reduce the size of the legislature from 143 members to approximately 100 members. The resolution was vigorously opposed by Representative J. H. Reigner of Pushmataha county. He declared it to be the "most vicious legislation this side of hell," and if adopted, meant a return to the old fight of the special interests versus the people.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Houston B. Teehee of Tishomingo, former state senator and at present tribal attorney for the Cherokees, has been named as registrar of the treasury to succeed Gabe Parker.

Fish and Game Bill.

The fish and game bill has received its finishing touches from the engrossing department and is ready for the signature of the governor. As it finally passed both houses, 25 per cent of the fees collected will go to the support of the state game and fish department and the remainder is to be paid into the county road and highway fund. The open season is reduced to thirty days and runs from December 1 to December 31 of each year for a period of ten years. The federal law is made applicable to ducks, geese, brant, plover and other shore birds. The bag limit is ten per day or 100 during any one season. February, March and April are closed months for game fish and the limit catch for bass is fixed at ten per day. No bass under eight inches in length is to be taken from the water and the use of bass minnows for bait is prohibited.

House bill No. 549, to encourage cotton manufacturing establishments in the state by exempting them from taxation for a period of ten years from the date of construction was passed over the serious objection of Senator Carpenter.

Local Option On Sunday Movies.

The senate passed finally the bill by Carpenter which makes it optional with the people of any city or town in the state to close Sunday shows of any nature under the initiative. The bill makes the running of any dance hall, billiard or pool hall prohibitive on Sunday. Senators Davis and Burford opposed the passage of the bill, and declared for the clean moving picture show. They were willing to eliminate the vaudeville feature, but they believed that a well regulated moving picture show was not harmful.

Overcoming the almost solid opposition of the republicans and several insurgent democrats, administration forces in the house of representatives passed finally the measure embodying the plans and suggestions of Governor Williams for the construction of the state capitol.

The bill will now be transmitted to the senate, where it originated, for action on two amendments made to the bill while under consideration in committee of the whole of the house. These amendments reduce the salary of the supervising architect from $300 to $240 a month, and prohibit the commissioners from contracting with the architests for services other than those provided for in the session laws of 1913. When these amendments have been acted upon by the senate the measure will be ready for the signature of the governor.

After all contracts for the building have been let, the bill provides that the present salary of $3,000 a year for members of the commission shall terminate and they shall receive pay only for the time they are actually employed.

The Logan, Pugh and Thomas bill creating a state depository and providing for the collection therein of all funds belonging to the state was returned to the senate from the house with several amendments and the one relating to the handling of school land funds met such serious opposition from the authors of the bill that it was sent to conference.

A bill was introduced by Wilson of Dewey and Pritchard, a member of the lower house, both socialists. The bill contains but one short section and it is as unique and unusual as it is short. It provides: "That when any person is sentenced to death and is executed under the laws of the state of Oklahoma, there must be paid to the dependent or dependents of the person executed the total sum of $1,000; of this amount $500 is to be paid by the state and $500 by the county wherein the death sentence is pronounced."

That the federal government intends taking immediate action toward the construction of a $250,000 addition to the local postoffice building, is apparent from the request sent to Postmaster H. G. Eastman that he advertise for bids on soil tests from the site of the proposed new structure. The architectural department at Washington asks that the tests be made immediately, so that there will be no delay in preparing the plans. The present structure, built at a cost of $250,000, now represents, with its fixtures, and the entire federal site, an expenditure of $500,000.

County commissioners of Kay county plan to take advantage of the law passed by the legislature, giving commissioners the authority to purchase forms for concrete silos to be loaned to farmers who will build silos. The object of the legislature in passing the bill was to promote the use of the silo, and as it is a very popular thing among the cattle raisers and farmers of this county already, the commissioners will, as soon as possible, get the new forms to working.

Mrs. Della Padgham, wife of Fred Padgham of Guthrie, swallowed carbolic acid and died at once on the street near the drug store where she had purchased the acid. Her husband and ten children, the oldest 17, survive. Poor health is believed to have caused Mrs. Padgham to take the acid.

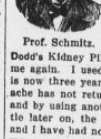
St. Patrick's day was set aside by the business men of Carmen as road working day, and business houses were closed and every able man in the city spent the day working the roads surrounding the city. About 65 men, divided into squads, worked on the roads coming into the city from all directions.

The Osage Tribal Council, in a body is attending the Osage oil lease hearing being held in Washington. Preston A. Shinn, former local attorney for the Osages, accompanied the council members to Washington. The hearing is for the purpose of determing whether the Foster oil and gas lease, covering the eastern portion of the Indian lands in Osage county, shall be renewed. The Osages are asking a large bonus and a royalty of one-sixth of the oil produced.

By the use of split-log drags, as the roads are drying, W. P. Meade, street commissioner of Blackwell, puts the streets of that city in a serviceable condition in a very short time. The Commercial Club also owns twenty of these drags and they are loaned out to farmers in the surrounding territory, to be used in improving the country roads. By this system the streets in town and the surounding roads are in a good condition now, despite the fact that they have been soaked with more than seven inches of moisture during the past four weeks.

SAGE TEA AND SULPHUR DARKENS YOUR GRAY HAIR

Look Years Younger! Try Grandma's Recipe of Sage and Sulphur and Nobody Will Know.



Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; also ends dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy." You will get a large bottle for about 50 cents. Everybody uses this old, famous recipe, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger. Adv.

Honest, now, did you ever see anybody take the advice you offered?—Memphis Commercial Appeal.

Fiction and Reality.

It is a simple truth to say that many things happen in fiction which would be quite impossible in fact, as any censor knows. It is in failing to distinguish between these two that many artists and most critics blunder and this error is in effect the same as that of the ambitious actor who, having once to play the part, for the first time, of an intoxicated ruffian in a certain melodrama, went to a neighboring tavern and intoxicated himself. He thought that this would storm the house, but on the contrary he was immediately fired by the management for a fool—and rightly.—F. H. Martin, in the Book Buyer.

Its Only Meaning.

Uncle Roger had been poly for some time, and had tried with alacrity every sort of patent medicine he could secure.

An old acquaintance hailed him with:

CHILDREN SHOWED IT
Effect of Their Warm Drink in the Morning.

"A year ago I was a wreck from coffee drinking and was on the point of giving up my position in the school room because of nervousness.

"I was telling a friend about it and she said, 'We drink nothing at meal time but Postum, and it is such a comfort to have something we can enjoy drinking with the children.'

"I was astonished that she would allow the children to drink any kind of coffee, but she said Postum was not coffee, but a most healthful drink for children as well as for older ones, and that the condition of both the children and adults showed that to be a fact.

"I was in despair and determined to give Postum a trial, following the directions carefully. It was a decided success and I was completely won by its rich delicious flavor.

"In a short time I noticed a decided improvement in my condition and kept growing better month after month, until now I am healthy, and do my work in the school room with ease and pleasure. I would not return to nerve-destroying coffee for any money."

Name given by Postum Co, Battle Creek, Mich. Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

Postum comes in two forms:

Regular Postum—must be well boiled. 15c and 25c packages.

Instant Postum—is a soluble powder. A teaspoonful dissolves quickly in a cup of hot water and, with cream and sugar, makes a delicious beverage instantly. 30c and 50c tins.

Both kinds are equally delicious and cost per cup about the same.

TURKS SINK THREE OF ALLIED FLEET

Two British and One French Warship Strike Floating Mines in Dardanelles.

HARD FIGHT IN THE NARROWS

Land Forts Rain Terrific Fire on Ten Battleships and Lighter Craft—Russian Squadron Near Bosphorus.

London, March 20.—The British battleships Irresistible and Ocean and the French battleship Bouvet were blown up by floating mines while engaged with the remainder of the allied fleet in attacking the forts in the Narrows of the Dardanelles Thursday.

Nearly all members of the crews of the two British ships were saved, having been transferred to other ships under a hot fire, but an internal explosion took place on board the Bouvet after she had fouled the mine and most of her crew was lost. The Bouvet sank within three minutes of the time that she hit the mine.

Set Mines Adrift.

The waters in which the ships were lost had been swept of mines, but the British admiralty asserts that the Turks and the Germans set floating containers of explosives adrift and these were carried down by the current to the allied ships gathered inside the entrance of the straits.

All the ships that were sunk were old ones, the Bouvet having been completed nearly twenty years ago and the Ocean and Irresistible in 1900. The sunken British ships are being replaced by the battleships Queen and Implacable, vessels of a similar type. They are said to have started some time ago for near Eastern waters in anticipation of just such losses as have now occurred.

Two Other Ships Damaged.

Two other ships engaged in the fighting, the British battle cruiser Inflexible and the French battleship Gaulois, were hit by shells and damaged. The British casualties, according to the British official report, were not heavy.

The damage done to the Turkish forts by the heavy bombardment has not yet been ascertained. It is stated that the operations against them are continuing.

Russians Approach Bosphorus.

"It is officially confirmed that a Russian squadron has approached the northern part of the Bosphorus," says Reuter's Petrograd correspondent. "The appearance of the squadron has caused a great panic in Constantinople."

CHEAPER EGGS PREDICTED

Spring Buying Will Be Restricted By Lack of Cold Storage Room, Produce Men Say.

Chicago, March 20.—A scarcity of cold storage room will result in making lower prices for eggs, butter and poultry this spring and higher prices next fall and winter, produce men here declare.

Cold storage warehouses have unusually large quantities of meats and apples for this time of year and this accounts for the scarcity of room. The stocks of hog products in Chicago warehouses at the beginning of this month were 34 per cent larger than a year ago, and owners of apples put in storage last fall have not been able to market them as extensively as they expected. The same conditions are said to exist in other cities.

The purchase of eggs, butter and poultry in April, May and June, when they are most plentiful, to hold for the fall and winter trade, when production is least, serves to hold spring prices up and winter prices down in ordinary years, but storage this year will be less than usual, produce men say, unless some of the cold storage room now in use is vacated soon.

GIVE UP HUNT FOR INDIANS

Denver, March 20.—The posse of federal deputies under United States Marshal Neteker at Bluff, Utah, which for more than a month has been attempting to arrest Tse-Ne-Gat, a Piute Indian wanted by the federal authorities on a charge of murder, has been ordered home, according to a dispatch from Bluff.

"Old Folk," father of Tse-Ne-Gat, and a large party of resident Indians have for several weeks been aiding the fugitive in resisting arrest. No reference is made in the dispatch to the activities or present whereabouts of General Scott, chief of staff of the army, who arrived in the Bluff district recently in attempt to pacify the recalcitrant Piutes.

DENIES FREEDOM TO THAW

Ordered Sent Back to Matteawan by Justice Page—Saved by Habeas Corpus Writ.

New York, March 17.—Another long legal battle over Harry Thaw was made certain yesterday when Justice Page in the supreme, following Thaw's acquittal Saturday of the charge of conspiring to escape from Matteawan, ordered Thaw returned to the hospital for the criminal insane under the original commitment from Justice Dowling.

Thaw had demanded that he be returned to New Hampshire, from which state he was extradited for trial on the conspiracy charge. Losing there, he won on another point, however, when his counsel, anticipating an adverse decision by Justice Page, obtained from Justice Dilpr of the supreme court a writ of habeas corpus, returnable Friday. Meantime Thaw must be kept in the Tombs.

It was a close call for Thaw, since plans had been considered by the state for returning him at once to his long time residence at Matteawan. Asylum attendants were in the courtroom ready to rush him there by motor car for the moment the motion for a return to New Hampshire was denied. But the writ of habeas corpus served half an hour before on Warden Hasley of the Tombs prevented this.

HE SAVED VALUABLE JEWELS

Catholic Priest Arrives in New York From City of Mexico With Priceless Gems.

New York, March 17.—A king's ransom in jewels, blazoned in the royal eagles of Spain at the time of Charles V, the most powerful monarch of the Sixteenth century, lies under guard at the customs house here awaiting appraisal.

The gems, set in gold on white and purple robes and mounted on two golden crowns, were brought into New York by a Catholic priest, clad in shabby clothes, who fled from the City of Mexico a month ago, made his way to Vera Cruz and sailed aboard the steamer Montevideo. The Montevideo reached New York March 6 with this priest and [illegible] other fugitive priests who had been banished from Mexico by General Obregon.

From the depths of a battered suitcase the gems and robes were tumbled out upon the dock for inspection by the customs authorities. They so dazzled the inspectors that they were hastily put back into the suitcase. Under guard they were taken to a safe deposit vault, where they were locked up and special watchmen detailed to guard them. Rough estimates placed their value as high as $500,000.

LIBERTY BELL IS IN DANGER

Half of the Famous Old Revolutionary Relic Hangs Only by a Slender Support.

Philadelphia, March 18.—"The Liberty Bell is suffering from an incurable organic disease. The crack which originally was confined to its side has run along its shoulder so that half the bell hangs only by a slim support. The crack has grown an inch and a quarter within the last eight years."

This is the substance of an assertion made at the Union League by Wilfred Jordan, curator of Independence Hall, who lectured under the auspices of the Numismatic and Antiquarian Society of Philadelphia.

"And despite a petition two and a half miles long from the school children of California," Mr. Jordan added, "the bell's physical disability should prevent our sending it to San Francisco."

FRYE SAILORS VOLUNTEERS

Newport News, Va., March 18.—Charles Frank and Robert Boggs, former members of the crew of the American sailing ship William P. Frye, and now alleged to be detained on the cruiser Prinz Eitel Friedrich for military service, yesterday made a sworn statement denying they were being held against their will.

The men yesterday appeared at the customs house in the uniform of the German navy and informed the deputy collector of customs, M. M. Vipond, they considered themselves subject to military duty under the German flag and were willing to perform that service.

Monkey Maimed a Boy.

Los Angeles, March 18.—Suits for $71,500 damages have been filed against E. W. Knowlton of Pasadena, owner of an educated chimpanzee. Mr. and Mrs. O. P. # PROTEST ON TAXES

U. S. Government Tells Villa He Has No Right to Hold Up Foreign Residents.

LIVING CONDITIONS IMPROVED

Rail Communication From City of Mexico to El Paso Soon to be Opened, It is Reported.

Washington, March 19.—A protest was sent by the United States today to General Villa against the collection from American and other foreigners of part of a special tax of 1,000,000 pesos levied at Monterey.

The British embassy had brought to the attention of the state department a report just received from Monterey saying that the British-owned light and power company there had been called upon to pay $35,000 as its share of the new tax.

Just how the general assessment was to be apportioned the state department was not informed, but the understanding was that General Villa had laid an omnibus tax on the city, leaving it to the authorities there to raise the money in whatever way they saw fit. The order was dated March 16, it was said, and fifteen days was the time given in which to raise the money.

The department has protested previously, notably in the case of the tax which General Obregon levied to collect in Mexico City recently, against any of the Mexican factions forcing contributions from foreigners. General Obregon heeded the protest and the tax was removed as far as foreigners were concerned.

Other advices to the department today said living conditions in Mexico City are improved, that rail communications to El Paso probably will be opened in four or five days, and that fighting between Carranza and Villa forces has begun near Tampico.

To Aid Foreigners.

Washington, March 18.—Secretary Daniels has authorized Commander Blakely of the cruiser Des Moines at Progreso, Mexico, to take aboard any Americans or other foreigners seeking safety. The collier Brutus was ordered to Progreso from Vera Cruz to afford asylum to refugees.

Consul Silliman, at Vera Cruz, has reported that General Carranza had agreed to co-operate in providing transportation for Americans and other foreigners wishing to leave Mexico City and to facilitate the transportation of Red Cross supplies to the Mexican capital.

Similar assurance of co-operation has been received from the authorities controlling Mexico City.

The schooner Susie B. Dantzler of Gulfport, Miss., detained at Campeche, has arrived at Vera Cruz and her owners advise that Captain Dethloff was not imprisoned, as had been feared. The opinion is expressed that no further difficulty would be experienced by shipping in and out of Progreso and that Mexican consuls will now be empowered to clear vessels for the Yucatan port.

Foreigners Ready to Leave.

Washington, March 17.—Conditions in the City of Mexico as well as Manzanillo continue to give officials concern.

Apparently the re-occupation of the capital by the Zapata forces has not brought the expected relief, or else Americans have tired of their isolation and the stagnation which their business has experienced, for a large number of them, with other foreigners, asked the State Department today, through the Brazilian minister, to obtain transportation for them to Vera Cruz.

Urgent representations were made to General Carranza concerning his troops at Manzanillo, whose activities have been causing Americans and foreigners much apprehension. The American consul was instructed to keep in close touch with the commander of the cruiser Cleveland should foreigners become further endangered.

Fire on U. S. Boat.

Galveston, Tex., March 17.—The tender of the United States battleship Delaware was fired upon by snipers at Vera Cruz March 16, according to reports brought here today by passengers on the Norwegian steamship City of Tampico. The tender went into the harbor for Captain Rogers of the Delaware and was fired upon while inbound and again while returning to the warship. No one was injured.

SHOOTS HIS ACTRESS SISTER

Russian Causes Panic Among Audience in Concession at the Panama-Pacific Exposition.

San Francisco, March 19.—An Algerian dancer, known as the "Princess Turkali," a member of a ballet in a Russian amusement concession at the Panama-Pacific Exposition, was shot and killed tonight by her brother, Isaac Lizraki. Lizraki then began firing indiscriminately at the entertainers, stage and into the audience, causing a panic.

The "zone" theater in which the shooting occurred, was crowded when Lizraki rushed in, branishing a pistol. He began firing at once and his sister fell forward with a bullet through the heart.

One of the men entertainers on the stage was shot in the arm.

The spectators made a rush for the doors. None of them was injured.

Lizraki had fired a half dozen shots before a group of soldiers from the Presidio Military Reservation seized and disarmed him. He was arrested and taken to the police station.

The reason for the shooting was not learned.

DIGGS AND CAMINETTI AGAIN

Federal Court of Appeals Confirms Conviction of the Two Men at San Francisco.

San Francisco, March 19.—The United States court of appeals here yesterday upheld the decision of the lower court in sentencing Maury Diggs and F. Drew Caminetti to imprisonment on McNeil's Island, following their convictions on white slavery charges.

Diggs must therefore serve two years and Caminetti eighteen months for their elopement with the two young women, which attracted nationwide attention. The arrest and trial of Caminetti followed their elopement with Marsha Warrington and Lola Norris, both of Sacramento. The four went from California to Nevada, where they were living when arrested. Both Diggs and Caminetti are married, the latter having two children.

Herrin, Ill., March 19.—Mrs. Jack Overton walked into a drug store here yesterday and after waiting until several other patrons had departed, pointed a revolver at the clerk and demanded morphine.

Clyde Cox, the clerk, quickly handed the woman a full bottle of the drug. With pistol still aimed at the clerk, Mrs. Overton backed out of the store. Later she was arrested and sent to a hospital for treatment.

ANOTHER BATTLE IMMINENT ON YSER

Allies and Germans Face Each Other Across Narrow Belgian River.

STOP ADVANCE IN CHAMPAGNE

But French Troops Continue to Hold Important Heights Against Counter Attacks—Fighting in Vosges Blackens.

London, March 19.—The next important battle on the western field, it is believed, will take place along the River Yser, held on one side by the recently reorganized Belgian army and on the other by the Germans.

As the floods have subsided, the Belgians, supported by the warships of the allies, already have pushed their line slightly forward, and this is almost certain to lead to counter-attacks by the Germans and a general engagement, as has been the case when similar movements were initiated elsewhere along the front. An artillery duel in the way of preparation has commenced.

There may be a slight delay while the Germans are awaiting for reinforcements from Germany, for they have been using most of their reserves to counter-attack the British troops at St. Eloi and Nueve Chapelle and the French around Arras, but then a big clash will soon come nobody doubts.

The contest for the spur of Notre Dame de Lorette is still in progress, and, according to Berlin, further attempts of the French to advance in Champagne, where they captured an important ridge north of Le Mesnil, have been repulsed.

The fighting in the Argonne forest and the Vosges has slackened somewhat, owing doubtless to the return of wintry weather conditions.

There is little news from the Eastern front, and beyond the fact that the Russians again have crossed the East Prussian line in the far Northeast, near Tilsit, and that they are continuing their offensive against Austrians in Bukowina, there is no change in the situation.

British Suffer Loss.

Evidence is accumulating of the heavy British losses in the recent fighting in Flanders. Lord Claud Hamilton, addressing a meeting in London last night, said the papers were not giving full lists of the losses. His own regiment, the Grenadier Guards, he declared, lost their colonel and sixteen officers killed and wounded, and of 1,100 men, the finest in the army, only three hundred survived.

The Cameronians also seemed to have been almost totally wiped out; their lists of killed and wounded were appalling.

Fighting for Positions.

London, March 18.—At present the armies of Belgium, Great Britain and France are fighting for the hills and other points along the long front which will be of the greatest advantage to the army holding them when the advance begins. According to the French communication, the Belgians continue to improve their positions in Flanders, and the French to the north of Arras and Soissons have added eminences to their gains which are of some importance.

The French and German official communications, however, are so contradictory that it is difficult to decide whether any changes are being made generally in the dispositions of the two armies.

The optimism which pervades the Western Allies is shared by the Russians. All the Petrograd correspondents of the London papers lead the public to believe big events are impending. It is apparent the Russians again and not the Austrians are on the move, particularly at Smolnik, on the River San, where it emerges from the Carpathians, while in Bukowina, according to unofficial dispatches from Bucharest, the Austrians have been defeated in a battle which has been raging along the entire front.

London, March 17.—With the increasing activity of the British, French and Belgian armies, the reappearance on the coast of Belgium of British and French warships and the withdrawal of a large part of the fleet in the west, the public is following with renewed interest the news of the operations.

The Belgians, who are being supported by the warships of the allies, have driven back the ground which they have won in the last few days, while the British have done likewise with a strip of territory which they took from the Germans near Nueve Chapelle and have recovered most, if not all, of the trenches which they lost in the region of St. Eloi.

MAGGIE'S EFFORT NOT GREAT

Had Earned Little of the Promised Remuneration for Helping Her Mother.

Now that the washing hung on the line, Mrs. Moran was leaning over the back fence and discussing with sympathetic Mrs. Regan the problem of bringing up a daughter. Privately, Mrs. Regan considered that Maggie Moran was born lazy, but Maggie's mother held that Maggie's case was not so simple.

"It ain't that Maggie's not willin', said Mrs. Moran. "Willin' she is, and active on her bicycle, and always ready to run an errand for you. But she ain't one that hears work callin' or sees it a-lookin' at her."

"It's easier to do a thing yerself than to be tellin' others," said Mrs. Regan, understandingly.

"And that's the truth," agreed Mrs. Moran. "But Maggie ain't to blame, although maybe she's a little too easy discouraged. I've seen her tryin' Last winter I says to her, 'Maggie,' I says, 'every time you find something to do to help mother round the house, I'll give ye a cent.' That started her hard at it, Mrs. Regan, and 'twas a full two weeks before she got discouraged and give it up."

"And how much did she make?" asked Mrs. Regan.

"Nine cents," said Mrs. Moran. "but I called it a dime."—Youth's Companion.

Leaves Fortune to Children of Neighbor, Provides They Care for His Puppy.

"I hereby bequeath my entire estate, consisting of money in banks and property, to the children of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Nichols of Riddle, with the understanding that they are to care for my dog puppy as long as it lives," was the essential part of a will filed by James Rice of Riddle in the probate court at Roseburg, Ore.

Mr. Rice had lived in southern Douglas county for many years, and was a great admirer of the Nichols children. Recently he decided that they should have his property and money following his death. The puppy, of which Mr. Rice speaks in his will, had been his constant companion for several months. It is understood that Mr. Rice was moderately wealthy. He was about sixty years of age and unmarried.

Fashionable Goods Not Wanted.

That Latin-Americans insist on having just the kind of article that suits their taste is illustrated by an incident in Guatemala. An old gentleman in the interior, a large ranch owner, had always been used to a certain kind of necktie, and asked a local house to buy a number of them for him. The house ordered several from an American concern, but the latter wrote back that that kind of necktie had been out of date for 20 years, and sent several of the latest design. These were refused, however, the old kind was obtained from Europe, and the American house lost what might have been an opening wedge to a good trade.

Big Jobs

—are gained largely by doing common tasks uncommonly well.

But—to do unusually good work of any kind, fitness of body and mind are required.

Food plays a big part in this matter—food that contains true nourishment. And true nourishment—be it remembered—must include certain important elements which unfortunately are often lacking in the ordinary dietary—especially in white bread. These elements are phosphorus, iron, lime, sulphur, etc., stored by Nature in her field grains, and absolutely necessary for building strong, vigorous bodies and active brains.

Grape-Nuts FOOD

—made of choice wheat and malted barley, affords all the nutriment of these grains, including these important mineral elements, in form for easy, quick digestion.

Grape-Nuts food is always fresh, crisp, sweet and ready to eat—with cream or milk.

be their God, and they shall be my people." (XXXI-33)? Wordsworth, a Christian writer, is a better theologian than Dr. Deans, for he finds God in stones and brooks and flowers of the field. God has always spoken to the hearts of men. What puzzles us is the interpretation modern Christians place upon the acts of Europeans who profess Christianity, and supposedly hear the voice of God, yet laud the continuance of the present war. If we judge religion by its fruit, instead of the "new covenant" being the message of the "prince of peace," it is rather emphasizing the verse in Matthew, "Think not that I am come to send peace on earth. I come not to send peace but a sword." (X-34).

May we suggest to the preachers of America that instead of proving how much better their book is than our own, they limit their efforts to making the lives of their parishioners square with the high ideals they profess.

"Lend a Hand" is the appropriate name of a journal which has just published its initial number. Edited by Mr. Charles I. Cooper, of the United Hebrew Relief Association, it is intended to give publicity to the work of our local philanthropies. The idea is a splendid one, and the paper deserves every encouragement. We trust that its appeals for various articles will be successful, and we are sure that its portrayal of recent cases will interest our people in the society's work.

STAND BACK

By Joseph D. Snitzer.

The most dreaded, the most feared has happened! The wanderer's staff has been forced once more into the hands of the much-suffered Russian Jews and as in the infamous days of Ferdinand and Isabella, they are turned loose in a cruel world with a long, perilous and aimless journey before them.

Four weeks ago I cautioned American Jews to exercise more tact and diplomacy in their utterances and to cease attacking one nation in favor of the other, for "the Old World Jews may come to harm our uncalled for propaganda." Woe unto us—this prediction has come true.

No less a personage than Chief Rabbi Ehrenpreis of Sweden, cables the following appeal:

"From trustworthy sources I learn that the entire Jewish population of the provinces of Kovno, Kurland and part of Suwalki, 200,000 persons all told, were expelled from their places of settlement.

100,000 of unfortunate brethren and sisters were expelled from those places some days ago. Together with these 200,000 new martyrs, 300,000 Jews are now wandering about homeless and starving.

As a thunderbolt from heaven came this last edict. The unfortunates did not even have enough time to bury their dead, to care for their wounded, to prepare the sick for the frightful and aimless journey.

All had to grab the wanderer's staff and go—mothers and daughters, grandfathers and grandchildren.

As soon as the hellish edict was proclaimed, the Jews protested with the only means available—tears and lamentations. This only influenced the bloodthirsty government to grant them a stay long enough to bury the dead and to take as much of their property as they could possibly carry, PROVIDED LIVING HOSTAGES ARE LEFT WITH THE GOVERNMENT AS A GUARANTEE THAT NONE OF THE JEWS REMAIN BEHIND.

This deadly insult was resented by the tortured and despairing Jews and rather than leave their brethren in the hands of the modern Titus, they resigned to fate all their property and leaving the dead to bury the dead, they have merely taken along the sick and wounded.

Many of thse died while enroute and the wanderers had to leave them in the open field. . . . Terrible and frightful is their ruin.

Over a million rubles must be secured at once for the support of these unfortunates.

American Jews, help! Help is imperative and urgent! The misfortune is too gigantic to postpone it for even another moment.

RABBI EHRENPREIS.

And while this tragedy is being enacted on the blood soaked soil of Poland, humane governments are looking idly on. Their leaders who waste so much breath preaching the "Peace on earth and good will towards men" fable, dare not check the assassin's murderous hand.

The finger of scorn is also pointed at England. It is intimated in certain spheres, that England who is in a position to materially lighten the burden of the Jews in Russia has done absolutely nothing in this respect. I will go a step further and say that she deliberately neglected to do something—and yet if we IMPARTIALLY dissect and analyze all the pros and cons in this matter, we must exonerate England from all possible blame and fix the responsibility elsewhere. The stand of almost the entire Jewish press, which from the very first day of the war declared itself emphatically pro-German and hostile to England, has much to do with it. The logic of those editors is hard to follow. We are all united of course, and all of us abhor the accursed land of the Czar, but to foist such feelings of avarice and enmity on England is a grievous mistake. Because one hates Russia, it is hardly reason enough to make France and England the target for most vicious attacks. Israel Zangwill has almost been declared by certain pro-German scribes as a Russian agent and assaults were showered upon him in such an incessant and prolific stream, that the great Jew had to withdraw from public life broken hearted. Every unfortunate incident has been magnified and every insignificant, yet unpleasant circumstance which form an uncontrollable element in every national crisis, has been frightfully exaggerated. British anti-German riots were pronounced by them as pogroms against Jews; because a few wealthy Jews of Germanic origin were compelled to resign from their public offices, they interpreted it as an undeniable sign of Jewish prosecution in England and the reorganization of the British cabinet and the thereof ensuing disposal of the few Jewish cabinet members, has been branded as an unheard of Anti-Semitic act.

I speak not thus to mitigate the merits of Germany and Austria as regards the Jewish nation, but I leave it to the staunchest friends of Germany to decide, whether England and France can be rightfully condemned. We leave it to them to show, where and when these two countries proved themselves less friendly to Jews than Germany. Do they forget that Zangwill had back of him the bona fide promise of the British government to emancipate the Russian Jew, when there were no such promises made by the other side? Do they know that the yellow press of Germany is even now carrying on a very disastrous crusade against Jews and Judaism, and that throughout the Fatherland the breach of relations between Germany and the United States is directly attributed to the unsavory policy of the "Jew" Durnberg? Do they realize that even the Prince of Battenberg, a relative of King George, had to resign from his offices, that even Kitchner is being arraigned by British newspapers and that along with the deposed Jewish cabinet members, even a man like Churchill went down?

NOT THAT WE REGARD ENGLAND AND FRANCE A PARADISE FOR JEWS, NOT THAT WE CONSIDER THEIR GOVERNMENTS IDEAL GOVERNMENTS, BUT CERTAINLY THEY ARE NOT INFERIOR TO THOSE OF GERMANY AND AUSTRIA AND INSPIRED AGITATION IN FAVOR OF ONE TO THE DETRIMENT OF THE OTHER RESULTS IN ENGLAND'S INDIFFERENCE TO THE PERSECUTIONS OF THE JEWS AND THEIR HEART RENDING CALAMITIES.

Is it for you, American Jews, to take sides? Is it for you to point out to England her salvation; to condemn her alliances, to revel at her misfortunes? Who are those orators, scribes and psuedo-thinkers who in spite of a proclaimed neutrality dare openly and publicly to further the interests of a belligerent; who go even so far as to criticize this government's war policy? Who are they who recalcitrate about the President's action and in words of blackest venom denounce his every move? Who has given these self-appointed spokesmen a right to speak for the Jewish nation and thus jeopardize the welfare of a people? WHO HAS AUTHORIZED THEM TO STOOL PIGEON UNADVISEDLY AT THE EXPENSE OF OUR UNFORTUNATE BRETHREN AND SISTERS IN RUSSIA?

"Truths would they teach or save a sinking land?
All their motives distrust, and few understand."

Vain illusionists, who have striven for a prismatic bubble on a receding wave. Why scorned you one government, aroused the wrath of another, when absolutely no reward awaits your pains? You deceived yourselves with a painted beauty and thus invoked the inevitable penatly. You have failed to study the past, you ignored the dictums of the present—behold then the future. A path of torture, strewn with corpses; a monstrous river of blood, wreckage and ruin; a graveyard where your nest and your home only yesterday were basking in the golden glory of a roseate sun. You have scorned England, because you hated Russia; you have sworn enmity undying and inextinguishable to the land of the Muscovites and meted it on the land of Beaconsfield and Montefiore; you have desecrated the cradle of liberty and equality—behold then the hair raising result.

As Jews you should sympathize with all those belligerents, who in needy moments consoled and assisted us, regardless of how they are lined up in the battlefield. Then you would have been truly neutral, then you would have shown a true American spirit. Remember, that after all that has been said or done, your sympathies are of little MILITARY VALUE to the warring nations, but while encouragement unconsciously promotes mutual appreciation, vicious attacks serve to antagonize and incite dangerous passions.

This is human nature and its laws are all-powerful and mighty. It listens not to baseless arguments or groundless presumptions—never will you be able to thwart its workings, to defy its sovereign power.

Un artículo publicado en el diario The Sun (New York) afirma que seis millones de judíos están pasando por tiempos difíciles.

M. Maklakoff, Minister of the Interior.

By HERMAN BERNSTEIN, Editor of "The Day."

SINCE the destruction of the Temple in Jerusalem the Jewish people have had no darker page in their history than that which the Russian Government is writing to-day. Six million Jews, one-half of the Jewish people throughout the world, are being persecuted, hounded, humiliated, tortured, starved. Thousands of them have been slaughtered. Hundreds of thousands of Jews, old men, women and children, are being driven mercilessly from town to town, —driven by the Government, attacked by the troops of their own country, plundered and outraged.

"Dear brethren, have mercy on the six million Jews in Russia and take our part! Ask the Russian Ministers why we are being tortured so mercilessly. Our children are slaughtered in the Russian army. We are contributing large sums of money too. But we are attacked from all sides. We have no rights. We are driven from the villages. Wherever they can find filth they cast it upon us.

"O Lord, make an end to our sufferings! We have no strength to endure them any longer. This letter is written with tears and blood. I wanted to write much more, but I am sure that such a letter would not reach you.

NEW ORDINANCE IN

Proposed Building Law Given Its First Reading Today.

Fire Chief Hanlon Spent Many Months Drawing It.

UP-TO-DATE IN ALL DETAILS

Features Tried in Other Cities in the Measure.

Suggestions of National Fire Underwriters Provided For.

Topeka's new building ordinance upon which Joseph Hanlon, chief of the fire department, and Joseph Waidelich, assistant chief, have spent many months in study, was introduced for first reading at a meeting of the city commission today. It covers 115 typewritten pages, and in the opinion of Chief Hanlon contains the best features of ordinances of a dozen different cities. He has read the building ordinances of more than fifty cities.

Topeka has not revised her building ordinances in more than thirty years. Naturally the new ordinance, when compared with the old one will be radically different, but Chief Hanlon insists there is nothing drastic in the new ordinance.

The ordinance describes in detail just what things must be done in constructing a building. It also says what must not be done. Hanlon has gone on the principle of "safety first," but has at the same time tried to avoid compelling unnecessary expense and inconvenience. The new ordinance is more nearly like that of Decatur, Ill., than of any other city. Suggestions of the national board of fire and underwriters have been included.

ZEPPELIN RAID.

church. An explosive bomb ripped through a six-story tenement in the center of the city, shattering the building from top to bottom and killing a dozen or more men, women and children as they slept.

Shattered Hospital Windows.

Several bombs, according to the eye witnesses, fell near three hospitals in a cluster, the central one of which was the Opthalmic hospital, full of wounded soldiers. All three buildings were rocked to their foundations and not a pane of glass was left intact. The patients had to be moved into the street where they lay for hours on their cots while the damage was repaired.

Pieced together from accounts given by Orduna's passengers, the story of the raid was as follows:

"The raid occurred between 10:45 and 11:15 o'clock on the night of September 8, a raid the previous night reached the eastern section of the city but not the heart. Persons asleep in the Metropole, the Victoria and other hotels in the center of the city were awakened by the incessant whirr of aeroplane engines as the British air fleet took wing to repel the invaders. Just as the Zeppelins appeared over the Strand, most of the theaters were pouring their crowds into the street.

"There, according to some passengers, a panic impended when the first word of the approaching aircraft was passed in whispers. The lights were turned off and men and women in evening clothes fought for taxicabs and other vechicles to take them home. There was no panic but a great wave of fear seemed to engulf this section of the darkened city before anti-aircraft guns began to pop away.

Searchlights Find Aircraft.

"Suddenly from every section of London the sky was swept by long white beams from scores of searchlights. The tops of these beams were not long in resting upon what they sought. When the Zeppelin was found a dozen or more searchlights focused their rays upon it stretching back to scattered points in the city like the long white ribs of a fancy fan.

"Two searchlights finally centered on a Zeppelin while the others continued to search the sky for more aircraft. Already the air was dotted with aeroplanes which could be seen frequently as they crossed the searchlight beam, circling upward. The roar of guns from the city was punctuated at intervals by the explosions of bombs which fell in Newgate street, not far from St. Paul's cathedral, in Holborn, in Cheapside, in Bloomfield, not far from the Liverpool street station, and near the water front of the Thames river in that section of the city in which St. Paul's is located.

Hot Fire from Defense Guns.

"The Zeppelin seemed to float lazily above us," said Miss A. S. Tatham, of Sydney, Australia, who was at the Victoria hotel near Charing Cross.

"It reminded me of nothing so much as a great, fat sausage." There was hardly a space of five seconds during the ten minutes or more that the searchlight beams rested on the raider, eye-witnesses said, that the sky was not lightened by flashes of exploding shells. As the noise of cannonading grew louder, those who had fled at first to cellars gained courage and came out into the streets. They were in almost every stage of undress and thousands of women, men and children walked the streets in groups gazing upward, dressed only in their night clothes. The bursting shells, lighting the sky like meteors, shattered into sudden fire all around the Zeppelin. The spits of flame seemed to be finding their target, meantime, the Zeppelin maneuvers over the Holborn section of London circling at least twice. These maneuvers ended when a shell burst almost directly under the aircraft bow.

Seemed to Drop Then Flew Away.

A swerve, a sudden dip and the searchlights lost the Zeppelin. They were on her a moment after and it was seen that she appeared to be going down by the head. For a few seconds she hovered as if uncertain what to do, then righted herself, pointed her nose slightly upward and ascended so rapidly that within a minute or two the searchlights could find her no more. There were no further bomb explosions thereafter. London went to bed that night with hot wrath but not in fear, these passengers said. The next day they went out to see what damage had been done. Having noticed that the sky in the vicinity of the St. Paul's cathedral had been tinted red as if by the glow of a great fire, they went in that direction first. They passed by recruiting stations, which had been empty the day before. On this morning there were long lines of men waiting otside eager to join the army. Back of the cathedral where there are many warehouses near the river front, they came upon the first visible effect of the raid.

Entire Block in Ashes.

An entire city block was in ashes with only the smudged shells of buildings left standing.

At the Opthalmic hospital, a small building whose exact location none of the passengers knew expect that it was within fifteen minutes' ride of the Metropole hotel and in the central section of the city, they found that considerable damage had been done by a bomb which had fallen about a block away. This building and two others converted into hospitals for wounded soldiers had felt the force of the explosion, as if it had been at their doors.

In Bloomfield, 2½ miles from Trafalgar Square, a row of dwellings had been damaged as if by artillery fire. The damage extended over an area of about three blocks. There was a cavity in the middle of the street 30 feet in diameter and about six feet deep.

No Public Buildings.

Not a government building nor a church nor an arsenal, a dock or a hospital had been reached by a bomb, the Orduna's passengers were informed.

The greatest material damage, they said, was the destruction by fire of the block of warehouses near St. Paul's cathedral. The chief result of the raid, however, was to swell the number of recruits by many thousands. Miss Ethel B. Davis of Bryn Mawr university, another passenger, said the populace in Trafalgar Square as the Zeppelin floated over them sang "Tipperary."

The steamship Rotterdam, which also arrived today brought scores of passengers who witnessed the air raid.

They, too, said that they had seen only one Zeppelin, but that it was a sight never to be forgotten. They told of a bus in Cheapside blown to pieces by one of the bombs virtually obliterating its sixteen occupants. How the American ambassador, Walter H. Page, and his family watched the Zeppelin from the steps of the embassy in Grosvenor square, was told by Frank C. Page, the ambassador's son. The airship was about 8,000 feet up, Mr. Page said, and looked like a silver cigar as it floated in the night sky outlined by the searchlights.

"We could see the smoke puffs from scores of anti-aircraft guns beneath the Zeppelin," said Mr. Page. "Instead of being alarmed you could hear from the watching people a cheer whenever one of the shots exploded near the Zeppelin."

BISHOP 20 YEARS

Services at Grace Cathedral for Frank R. Millspaugh.

Ceremony for Twentieth Anniversary Impressive.

Sunday morning at 11:00 o'clock a special communion service was held at Grace Cathedral in commemoration of the twentieth anniversary of Bishop Frank R. Millspaugh's elevation to the episcopate.

The sermon was preached by the Rt. Rev. Theodore Thurston, bishop of eastern Oklahoma, who presented to Bishop Millspaugh, the latter's first class of candidates for confirmation.

The other clergymen assisting in the service were the Very Rev. James P. De Bevers Kaye, dean of Grace Cathedral, the Venerable Creighton Spencer, archdeacon of the diocese, the Rev. John Bennett of Williamsburg, Kansas, and the Rev. George M. Geisel. There was a full vested choir.

The regular communion service was preceded by a prayer by Bishop Millspaugh, in which he gave thanks for past blessings and asked for wisdom and strength for the future; and by Bishop Thurston's sermon.

The text was from Proverbs, 23 chapter, 7th verse—"As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he."

Bishop Thurston said in substance: "It is not family, or money, or even success in getting to the top of the worldly ladder, that indicates a man's true worth. It is whether his thoughts are Godly, and whether the main effort of his life is for the weal of humanity. Also, that his wisdom and tact in using the broad powers delegated to him by the canons of the church—ability to win—not exact—obedience, indicates a successful bishop. And further, that no clergyman, priest or bishop, can successfully do the work intrusted to him unless the laity helps. A man will give money to most any cause, much more easily than he will give of his time, or sacrifice his comfort or conveniences. But it is after all the work that counts, much more than the money."

No direct reference was made in the sermon to Bishop Millspaugh, but it was left to the audience to judge the latter's career by the standards laid down in the discourse.

There are now but three active clergymen in the diocese who were in it at the time of Bishop Millspaugh's consecration. These are the Rev. John Bennett of Williamsburg, the Rev. Horace Carr of Parsons, and the Rev. J. H. Lee of Manhattan.

The diocese at the time of his consecration, included the whole of Kansas, but a few years later it was divided, and the western half of the state was made a missionary diocese with Salina as its cathedral city.

to this port. Apparently the spread of the flame was rapid for a short time afterward another brief message from the Tuscania relayed through the Cape Race wireless station said the Athinai had been abandoned.

Nothing was said regarding the fate of the passengers and crew, but marine officials were hopeful that all hands had been transferred safely to the Tuscania, as the weather was fair and sea conditions were favorable. The Tuscania is bound from Glasgow for New York, but it was thought possible she would bring the shipwrecked men to this port before proceeding to her destination.

Rescue Ship to New York.

New York, Sept. 20.—The Anchor line steamship Tuscania was believed to be on her way to New York today bringing the passengers and crew of the Greek steamer Athinai, which was on fire and abandoned at sea, according to wireless messages received from Captain McLean of the Tuscania.

The Athinai left New York last Thursday for Piraieus, Greece, carrying few passengers, a large general cargo and many bags of mail. The position of the burning vessel was given in Captain McLean's message as latitude 40.54 north and longitude 58.47 west, about two hundred miles nearly south of Sable Island and more than five hundred miles east of New York.

No positive word as to the safety of her passengers and crew had been received today as the only information concerning the fire was contained in the wireless dispatches received at the Cape Race station last night. Canadian government officials who received the message believe the Tuscania had taken off the passengers and crew from the burning vessel.

Many Sub-Freshies.

While no figures could be obtained this afternoon, it is expected that the enrollment at the high school will exceed that of any previous year. The influx of sub-freshmen passed the expectations of all the members of the high school faculty and for some time after enrollment of the newcomers commenced Principal A. J. Stout and his assistants were wrestling with the problem of placing an army of new students for whom no arrangements had been made.

The large enrollment of sub-freshmen was a surprise in view of the fact that two junior high schools started their careers this morning. The two new intermediate schools which were organized at Sumner and Quincy schools were opened with a view of relieving the congestion at the high school.

The enrollment of the two junior high schools is made up of the pupils who graduated from Quincy and Sumner schools last June, and includes children from the Harrison, Potwin and Sumner districts at Sumner and Grant and Quincy districts at Quincy. The regular first year high school subjects are being offered at the two intermediate schools.

MUST REPAIR LAW

Judge Neill Sees Defects in Mothers' Pension Act.

Chicagoan Urges Broader Scope of a Kansas Statute.

Judge Henry Neill of Chicago, father of the original mothers' pension law, sees defects in the provisions of the law enacted by the Kansas legislature. Operation of the law is hampered by restrictions and discriminations vested in the boards of county commissioners, Judge Neill told Governor Capper today in a discussion of the state's new reform measure.

For nearly an hour today Governor Capper discussed mothers' pension laws with the former judge of the Chicago juvenile court and advocate of public aid for mothers. Judge Neill stopped in Topeka today on his way to Chicago after a trip to the Pacific coast. His stop in Kansas was for the purpose of gaining information concerning the operation of mothers' pension law enacted by the 1915 legislature.

"Twenty-eight states now have mothers' pension laws," Judge Neill told the Kansas governor.

Law Needs Fixing.

"The Kansas law, however, is hardly as broad in its provision as I would like to see," said Judge Neill. "It gives to the county commissioners too much power for discrimination and would be more successful, I believe, if its provisions were broadened."

It is the theory of the Chicago man that greater results would be secured if the Kansas law were made mandatory rather than optional with local county boards. In one county, the commissioners recently declined to act under the law until an opinion had been secured from the attorney general to the effect that no board could legally sidestep the provisions of the act. It is to relieve the tendencies to dodge the operation of the law through an effort to reduce public expense that Judge Neill directs the attention of the state legislature.

The new law is the result of a legislative compromise and is not as broad as desired by its original advocates. It is generally believed that the 1917 legislature will be asked to broaden its scope and some of the provisions recommended by Judge Neill in his talk with Governor Capper may be incorporated in the proposed amendments.

En 1915, contribuyó a hacer una enorme propaganda junto a otros líderes Sionistas para el The Boston Sunday Globe, en el cual escribió:

The Ultimate Righting of Human Wrongs.

By Jacob de Haas.

THE world is never done with an idea, provided it is a real one. Thus every great war has provoked the hope or belief that the particular onslaught was somehow distinctly related to human destiny—that ultimate which is far beyond political geography. This war, which is the greatest of humanity's militant experiences, has provoked since its first onset many hopes and aspirations that what was wrong will be set right, that somehow the ages will round themselves out, and each nationality will, at the end, live in its own home, and contribute out of its ripened democratic faith that measure of mutual self-reliance which shall enable it to participate in the parliament of nations and the brotherhood of man.

The moment that thought—the world approaching destiny—grips you, then, willy nilly, you have to think of the Jews. They began this idea of the ultimate righting of human wrongs, and they have lived for 2000 years because they believe in the eternal tomorrow—some tomorrow. But the human blood-dripping tragedy is so vast that nine out of every 10 men who know, or permit themselves to think, about the mixture of human need and metaphysical speculation—the dual urge of so much of life—believe that the tomorrow of these hopes and dreams is no longer remote, indeterminate and indefinite—but the morrow of the day after the war.

How will the Jew, who has waited patiently for Armageddon, fare then? In all armies, soldier of autocracy, volunteer of democracy, what will be the reward of his courage and bravery? The world pity has rightly gone forth to war-harrowed Belgium and the harassed Belgians. But the Jews have suffered in that same year all that the Belgians have suffered, and have suffered some part of all that misery—the dragoon's law, the pillaged home — for eighteen hundred and forty-five years. How now, my masters? Will the end be merely widowed misery, casting ashes and dust on orphaned misery's head, or is the glamoured destiny on the other side of the blood-stained horizon?

Destiny to be achieved should be an evolution. What has been in process in Israel these 40 years—a process not of accident but of design—is related to the old conception of destiny—restoration to Palestine. The Jews, to the number of 44,000, have a foothold in the country, and, what is equally important, their rights to Zion are among the few things that all writers on every phase of the war—pro-Ally or pro-German—admit. Indeed the only point that all warring elements are agreed upon is that at the end of the holocaust the Jews and Palestine will be more closely related than at present.

Democracy everywhere hopes to be the eventual victor in this war, and so the general position of the Jews in every European land should be better than at present. But even democracy is "my doxy," and the minority position of the Jews in lands of otherwise homogeneous elements can never be at permanent ease. So, while we should hope and strive for freedom everywhere, the world will be putting its best foot forward towards destiny if it helps the Jew onward to that goal of which the Psalmist wrote paradoxically, now as the dream which is the Return; and then as the Return which is a dream.

"El proceso que ha estado ocurriendo en Israel estos 40 años – un proceso no accidental sino diseñado – está relacionado con el viejo concepto de destino – la restauración de Palestina [Israel como patria de los judíos]. Los judíos, en un número de 44,000 tienen afianzarse en el país, y, lo que es igualmente importante, sus derechos a Zion [Israel como patria judía] están entre las pocas cosas que todos los escritores en cada fase de la guerra -pro-Aliados o Pro-Alemanes- admiten. Ciertamente lo único en lo que todos los elementos en guerra están de acuerdo es que al final del holocausto los judíos y Palestina estarán más estrechamente relacionados que ahora."

Will Gain a Fairer Share of Political Equality.

By Louis D. Brandeis.

NOT until the war is over will it be safe to premise the gains—should there be any—and losses which will have come to the Jewish people. The losses will be distinct enough. So many tens of thousands of Jews killed and wounded; so many tens of thousands of Jewish homes devastated and pillaged beyond restoration; so many hundreds of Jewish villages on the Russo-German and Austrian frontiers with all their economic possibilities destroyed.

The food problem at the present moment is the problem of a ten million dollar relief fund for one year. The recapitalization of one or two million persons is ever a large problem and larger than philanthropy has ever attempted. The gains may, however, prove a fair counterbalance.

There is already in evidence the determination of Jews to deal with the problem. The agitation for the American Jewish Congress demonstrates that the Jewish democracy in America is seeking means to express itself—and to handle the problems that will arise. This agitation therefore denotes a growth in the self-reliance of the collective group of Jews. And this new-found self-reliance will unquestionably react upon the individual Jew throughout the dispersion.

On the other hand, after the splendid conduct of the Jews of all belligerent countries in the war, the charges of cowardice and military inefficiency, never true, but which have been periodically made against the Jews, should disappear forever. There are probably 600,000 Jews in the European Armies, and their conduct in the field has won them distinctions and medals in every one of the forces. Formerly such incidents were known only to the students of obscure military records. Now all the world reads and obtains a new impression of peoples and their qualities.

In this way the Jew gains. He has come out of a peculiar obscurity, into which endless persecution pushed him, to take more than his full share in the struggle. His reward should be better treatment, better regard individually, a fairer share of political equality in every country in which at present this is denied him. He should be granted fuller opportunity for the individual, as well as for the group, in Europe and in Palestine. These, being the obvious needs, are the first desires of Jews everywhere.

Most writers who have been in Europe since the war affect to believe that several of the Nations have changed their character since the outbreak. This is of course an error. The exigencies of the war have compelled the removal of the superficial attributes of the various nationalities. National character, too, is a weapon in this gigantic struggle, and the natural tendencies of peoples have therefore been uncovered.

That is why there is so much talk of the recognition of the smaller nationalities, such eager discussion of the possibilities of democracy, so keen a belief that the outcome of it all will be on the side of social justice.

These three terms describe the condition, attitude and ideal of the Jewish people. So in proportion as these are advanced by the war the Jews will gain, and as it is a peculiar quality of the Jews to react quickly on their environment, their gain will speedily be made to advantage social, intellectual and moral causes.

The Ultimate Righting of Human Wrongs.

Thus every great war has provoked the hope or belief that the particular onslaught was somehow distinctly related to human destiny—that ultimate which is far beyond political geography. ## Jews Will Gain From the Spread of Democracy.

By Rabbi Stephen S. Wise.

AT the outset of the war, foreseeing in some measure the crisis that was ahead of us, I felt that there had not been exhibited any really great statesmanship in the handling of Jewish affairs up to that time. Not even the lesser or more immediate needs of our people have been met with that wisdom and breadth of vision which are the indisputable marks of statesmanship.

Might it not be said that the difference between the merely political and wholly statesmanlike way of dealing with problems lies herein? The minor or political method is to try to meet needs as they arise. The wider and the wiser method of statesmanship is to anticipate needs. Statesmanship inheres in that provision which anticipates and provides for situations remote and intangible. Such statesmanship has in some degree been revealed in the conduct of the Provisional Zionist Committee, organized in the Summer of last year. Immediately after the beginning of the war. Long before the cries of the needy were heard, it was felt that needs would arise. It has been of the very essence of statesmanship on the part of the Provisional Committee, not merely to have anticipated the world-crisis which has actually arisen, but within the limitations of Zionist strength and weakness, to have made every possible provision for the tiding over of the days of difficulty and stress which are now upon us.

Much, if not all, that the Provisional Zionist Committee has been enabled to achieve has become possible through the accession to the forces of Israel of Louis D. Brandeis. Since the passing of Theodor Herzl there has been no such accession to the ranks of leadership in Israel as has come about through the circumstances of Louis D. Brandeis' willingness to step forth in a time of hesitation and bear the burden of leadership in the Zionist movement. For the Zionist movement in America has for a year been the world Zionist movement.

Judged by its effects upon the people of Israel, the movement is immeasurably beneficent. Not only has it given hope to the stricken and done much to unify the physically scattered as well as the spiritually divided hosts of Israel, but it has quickened within Israel the spirit of self-help and self-dependence. Its incidental effect upon the extra-Jewish world has been equally significant, winning from multitudes of non-Jews that reverence which always goes out to the self-revering.

From these achievements and from the wonderful stimulus created by the discussion of the question and organization of a democratic Jewish Congress, it seems safe to say that the destiny of the Jews after the war will be largely in the hands of the American Jew. By reason of this it is further safe to assume that the Jews will gain from whatever spread and advancement of democracy takes place. The interaction of ideas is already in evidence. The Jews, as individuals, are everywhere in the advance guard of those who believe that the war should end in the triumph of democracy in all lands. On the other hand, every democratic expression is favoring the policy of granting freedom and equality to the Jews in all lands and already has had a very marked tendency to recognize the especial claims of the Jews to specific recognition in Palestine.

Problem Far Too Great For Mere Philanthropy.

By Louis E. Kirstein.

THE world has been so sickened by the horrors of the European war that it is doubtful whether even the statesmen whose business it is to consider what is to follow after the war have given serious attention to the process of adjustment. Those who are thinking about such matters are probably thinking more of the commercial and financial problems that will confront the world when peace is restored than the human element in the debacle. We are all becoming hardened to what happens in the battle areas and the stories of evacuation of whole towns and cities make little or no impression now, but when the battle smoke is dissipated the Jews will be found in a condition that will appall humanity.

As a class the Russian, Polish and Galician Jews were materially and politically badly off prior to the war; in Russia, in particular, grinding persecution had a disastrous effect in the congested area of the pale of settlement. And as this pale of settlement is practically the equivalent of the Russo-German war zone the Jews in Russia are physically and materially in the same plight as the Belgians, with less succor in the present and less hope of restoration, whoever wins, in the future.

In normal times the Jews in Germany, France, Austria, England and Italy did their best to relieve the poverty that was a consequence of persecution, and while they are still doing what they can their share has had to be diminished in proportion to their own increasing wants—for they, too, are now victims of the war and may shortly have to appeal for aid.

This puts the burden squarely up to America as being the home of the only Jews who are in a position to help, and it has come home to the Jews here gradually, for committees are now being formed by which means the recent immigrants from war zones are coming to the aid of their unfortunate brethren abroad.

While, therefore, it is up to each individual to make what sacrifice he can at this time, it is equally clear that this sacrifice will not meet the conditions that will discover themselves when the war is over. Something far larger than anything that charity can do will have to be done. Evacuation of whole communities gives the inverse result that you notice when you throw a stone in a pool of water—the circles enlarge, and with each enlargement become less definite. In this case they become more definite as they are enlarged.

Probably a million Jews have been moved during the war—moved, first, from the immediate frontier towns and villages to the cities, then moved from the cities, with the old resident elements of those cities, into towns and villages more remote from the battle front.

These drives have been going on for a year, increasing poverty in every direction, accentuating misery in every form, and adding day by day to the total of unspeakable horrors. Meanwhile scores of the towns that people came from have been shelled and destroyed, so there arises a question whether, if they be given the opportunity to readjust themselves in their own homes, whether their homes exist at all, and if they do exist, the people will have to be capitalized in order to start life over again.

There is involved in this a huge political problem—will the Russian Government permit them to return? Or will it permit them to remain at their "last address"? And as this problem involves not only the hunted million, but about 6,000,000 or 7,000,000 more people, there is a tremendous ferment throughout the Jewish world as to the action the Powers will take, and should take, to bring about an adjustment and reorganization of life far and away above the ability of philanthropic effort.

The immediate gain in all this misery is not only that the Jews are raising money to help their people, but that the great mass of the Jews in this country have become thoroughly conscious of the whole group of responsibilities they will have to assume for the rest of the Jewish people.

NATION-WIDE WATER HUNT.

American Firms at Last Solve Problem of Photograph Paper.

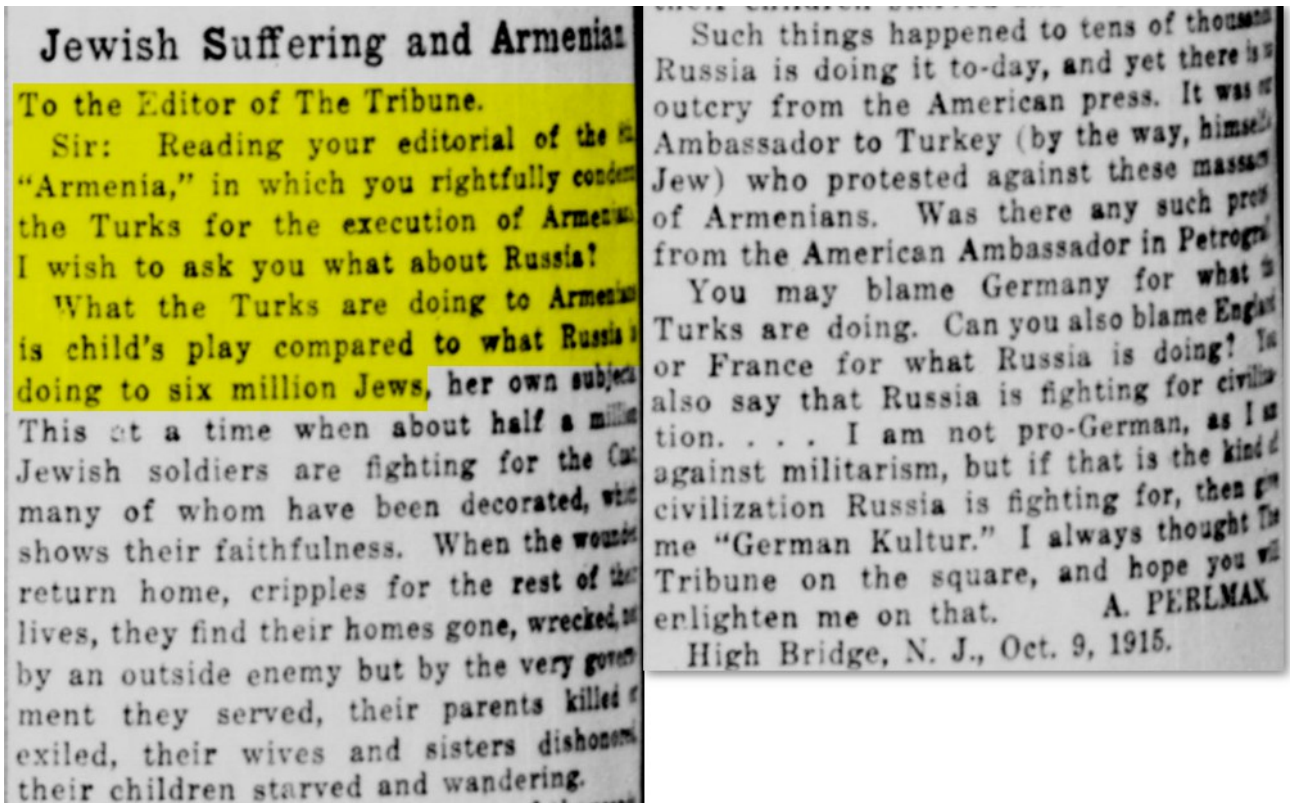
After nine months of constant experimentation two leading American firms have succeeded in making photographic paper. This is the first time that the United States has entered this field successfully.

At the outbreak of the European war the supply of photographic paper, which came from France, Germany and Austria, was declared insufficient to last more than 15 months.

When it became apparent that the war was likely to last a long time the American photo industry faced business stagnation or the discovery of processes for an American-made paper.



The reactions of light on sensitized photographic paper are still chemical mysteries. So, although American chemists used the formulae that had been found satisfactory in Europe, they failed to produce the desired results. The printed picture came out blotched and uneven.

Painstaking investigation of the ingredients used failed to explain this phenomenon. The manufacturers tried linen, straw and wood pulp papers, but the blotches persisted. The only remaining component of the paper, the effect of which was problematic, was the water.

Two of the largest American manufacturers entered upon a Nation-wide search for water, the chemical composition of which would not mar the sensitization.

Men with small hand outfits for paper making were sent to all corners of the United States and for six months they carried on experiments at wells and springs innumerable.

In two different localities, more than 100 miles apart, these two firms found water suitable for their purposes. Manufacture on an extensive scale has been begun. The photographic industry of the United States is no longer dependent upon Europe for its supplies.

Delcassé.

Two men are mainly to be held responsible for the fact that France and Great Britain are to-day fighting as allies. One, Edward VII, died before the fruits of his labors were ripened; Théophile Delcassé has lived to see accomplished the great purpose of his life, a European coalition against the German peril he early recognized and long prepared for.

In two of the most dramatic crises of recent history Delcassé played a prominent part. The first was in the Fashoda crisis, when Britain and France stood face to face on the Upper Nile and Colonel Marchand, who a few weeks ago greeted Kitchener in Flanders, met "K. of K." in Africa and peace or war hung on the decision of the French government. The second crisis was provoked by the Kaiser's excursion to Tangier in 1905, when Germany and France played similar parts.

In 1898 Delcassé made the great decision for his country. France, having for a quarter of a century pursued a policy of colonial expansion which provoked quarrel after quarrel with Great Britain, at last stood frankly before the dilemma which could no longer be avoided. Should she renounce her ancient European aspirations, her longing for the Rhine frontier, and fight England for colonial greatness in Africa as she had in Asia and America, or should she compose her differences with Britain and retain her European policy born of 1871?

Delcassé never hesitated. He compelled his nation to suffer the humiliation of Fashoda, to give up forever the Egyptian dream. He brought France back to Europe. But at the same time he made agreement after agreement with the British, in Siam, in West Africa. Finally in 1904, by a general liquidation agreement France and Britain settled all differences and the road was clear for Edward VII to go to Paris and France and England to make their entente.

But Berlin perceived the drift of Delcassé's policy and of Edward VII's diplomacy. The cardinal principle of Wilhelmstrasse policy had been that France and England should be kept forever apart and Russia bound to Germany by a "reinsurance" treaty. Russia had already escaped; France and Russia were allies; if Great Britain were now to join France, German continental supremacy, which had endured since 1871, would be shaken.

Thus in 1905, on the morrow of Russian defeat at Mukden, the Kaiser landed in Tangier and Europe faced the first of the series of incidents which lie between Fashoda and Armageddon. After Tangier Delcassé was forced to retire from the Quai d'Orsay to save France, taken wholly unprepared, from a war with Germany.

But German diplomacy in scoring a brilliant superficial success lost a great battle. For at Algeciras not only Britain but Italy stood with France, and it was the Triple Alliance which was shaken. Germany had struck to convince France that she could not join with England, and Algeciras brought the two nations closer together than before.

After Tangier Delcassé temporarily disappeared. But France, then at last aware of the peril that overhung her, began the work of national regeneration which was revealed at the Marne. When the Agadir crisis came, France and Great Britain were disclosed as virtual allies, and before their combined firmness Germany recoiled. She was not ready for war, and the triumph of Tangier was turned into the disaster of Agadir.

Only once in this time does Delcassé appear in a conspicuous rôle. Clemenceau, as Premier, in one of the utterly incomprehensible domestic quarrels of French politicians, one day launched into a violent assault upon Delcassé, and his own ministry fell. After Agadir Delcassé reappears in the Cabinet of "all the talents."

Nearly twenty years ago, then, Théophile Delcassé gave the first decisive turn to European affairs which culminated in the present struggle. About his own personal fortunes have centred some of the most dramatic steps in world history. Ten years ago Germany recognized him as her most dangerous foe and struck him down, but his work had been done. In bringing France and Great Britain together, in removing the causes that kept alive their age-long rivalry, Delcassé created a barrier to German ambition which only war could force.

In German minds Delcassé was the author, the joint author with Edward VII, of the policy of "encirclement." He was the statesman who sought—and succeeded in his efforts—to fence Germany with an iron ring of foes. His policies and his purposes, to the German mind, made this war. History may write the verdict differently, but there can be no escape from the conclusion that when in 1898 Delcassé chose to go to London rather than Berlin he set in motion the forces that made another Continental war inevitable. From Fashoda to Armageddon will undoubtedly be the fashion in which the future will describe contemporary European history.

The actual causes of Delcassé's present retirement are obscure. Possibly the failure of Allied Balkan policy, possibly questions of Parliamentary politics, conceivably ill health, traceable in part to the anxiety for his only son, a German prisoner—perhaps all these have contributed to this result. But his departure takes from the field the man who has, on the whole, exerted greater influence upon European affairs than any man since Bismarck. If France comes from this supreme test victorious and territorially again the France of the Third Empire, she will owe much to Delcassé. If she is defeated, his name may be accursed hereafter. But no one will underrate the greatness of the part he has played.

The World's Championship.

Form triumphed when Boston beat Philadelphia in the world series. The American League team was stronger all around than its opponent. Philadelphia won in the National League by playing steadily throughout the season, while other teams were doing well one week and going to pieces the next week. With one star pitcher, two star batters and one star fielder Philadelphia had little difficulty in besting the weakened teams in the older circuit.

Boston had far greater resources than that. Three star pitchers, three star outfielders, one phenomenal infielder, a more vigorous offence and a tighter defence. The scores of the five world series' games were a fair measure of the difference in playing strength—possibly magnifying Philadelphia's a little and under-representing Boston's. A longer series would have ended just as decisively in Boston's favor.

The fact is that in the last four or five years the American League has been drawing away more and more from the National League. The victory of the Boston Nationals last year was a flash in the pan. Of the last five world's series the American League has captured four. The clubs which gave the older organization its prestige—the Giants, the Cubs, the Pittsburgh Pirates—have become enfeebled and demoralized. Old players have been retained too long and dry rot has set in.

On the other hand, the American League has been developing new talent and keeping the playing standard high. As an instance, Shore, Foster and Leonard, Boston's pitchers, were unknown in 1912, when the Boston Americans defeated the Giants for the World's Championship. All Boston's pitchers in 1912, except Wood, have disappeared. Yet the Giants started out the season of 1915 depending on veterans of 1912 and prior seasons, like Mathewson, Marquard and Tesreau.

Boston beat Philadelphia four games out of five. The Chicago Americans beat the Chicago Nationals four games out of five. The St. Louis Americans beat the St. Louis Nationals four games out of five. There are three other teams in the American League besides Boston—Detroit, Chicago and Washington—which probably could have defeated Philadelphia. The lesson of the series to the National League is therefore unmistakable. Reorganization, new blood on the diamond and a sharper standard of play are required to bring it up even again with its younger, more progressive rival.

British Submarines in the Baltic.

It will be disconcerting to the German people to learn that British submarines are at large in the Baltic and engaged in harassing their trade with Sweden. A singular notion has hitherto prevailed, not among naval men, it need hardly be said, but among the less informed Germans, that the U-boats are matchless and that in submarine warfare none can rival German commanders.

There never was the slightest reason for this patriotic presumption. When the war began Britain was far stronger than Germany in the submarine branch of the service and by now the superiority must be overwhelming. Nor is there the slightest ground for the belief that the German submarine officers are more expert. They have been without competitors in the North Sea for the plain reason that their enemies had nothing to attack, German commerce having long since been driven from the sea and the German fleet not daring to venture forth from the fortified harbors. Submarine warfare served Germany well enough for want of anything better after the cruisers had all been accounted for, but the cruisers as long as they were at large did much more damage.

Only in the last few days have the British been active in submarine warfare on German merchant vessels. It is a sort of warfare that was hardly considered, even by theorists, until Germany set the example. The speculations of most British naval writers before the war show that no torpedo craft of any sort were taken seriously into account in discussions relating to commerce destruction. They reasoned that even destroyers could not conveniently take care of the crews of large vessels and that accordingly their activities in this way would be insignificant. The alternative of leaving the crews at sea in their boats was too cruel to be contemplated; as to destroying them, that was utterly unthinkable.

A good many unthinkable things have been realized in this war, and though it does not appear that the example of sinking vessels without due warning has been imitated by the British commanders they are evidently forcing the crews to take to their boats. If they succeed in carrying on at the present rate the result may be telling, since Germany now depends to so considerable a degree on her commerce with Sweden. And though it does not appear that anything like an effective blockade has been establish, yet the condition that prevails is at least as grave a menace as the pretended blockade of the British Isles. Germany ought to be able to assemble a formidable naval force in the Baltic, but the submarine is elusive and not easily dealt with in this way. Much mischief may be done before the Germans secure the comparative immunity they formerly enjoyed in these waters.

Orderly Dance Halls.

New York's dance places, which suffered rather extensively from the muckrakers following the Eugenia Kelly case, will be pleased to learn that they are now all right. Dr. Anna Dwyer, a member of the Chicago Morals Commission, has been inspecting them unofficially, and renders the verdict in their favor. She finds them orderly and well regulated; altogether a good example to the country's second city, where the dance halls "are rather objectionable, you know."

Whether this recommendation will diminish the number of visitors from Skaneateles, Grand Rapids and Pocatello who come to this city and hie themselves to the Great White Way to learn the latest thing in naughtiness remains to be seen. Some cabarets and dance places have maintained themselves on a clientèle of Broadway rounders and guileless ruralites by a reputation—sedulously disseminated—that they offered more gilded vice to the square inch of dance space than any establishments this side of Paris, Berlin and Vienna in the days before the war. Fortunately they have not been truly representative of the public dancing places of the city. If they were, there would have been real reason to shudder at the "dance craze." Thanks to the vigilance of the police, the licensing authorities and one or two organizations which keep track of such matters, the average public dance hall is a tolerably well managed, orderly, decent place, and the young woman or youth who goes there won't encounter trouble without some amount of willingness to meet it. If that fact is going to hurt this city's standing with sportive visitors, Broadway may lose some traffic—but there will still remain Chicago.

Fabre and "Other Entomologists."

It is perfectly true that Henri Fabre's inimitable observations in the natural history of insects were given to the world in a curiously picturesque envelopment and that from simple statement of fact he often passed over to sheer poetry. But in rebuking his obituarists for putting Fabre among the great men of science a contemporary critic is less than just when he says that "to those who know something of how other entomologists do their work and record its results Fabre does not seem to have been exactly a scientist, or even a scientist at all if those others are scientists."

In the house of science there are many mansions, and why should those even who know of other entomologists grudge Fabre his corner? Fabre was first and foremost an observer. He was impatient of theorists; he was perhaps not a really first-rate generalizer. But if, as his critic complains, "he ascribed to wasps and ants emotions that they do not have," surely it was only in a fanciful way, and the "as if" was never for a moment in doubt. He was too keen, too conscientious an observer and much too clear a thinker to fall into the sentimentalism of such twaddlers about Nature as William Joseph Long.

The extraordinary delight he took in devout study was, it is true, what he desired most to convey to others, and indeed he succeeded so well that in reading his books Darwin found something of the same joy and fascination as in direct observation. It is significant that in their first encounter it was Fabre who was standing against the imputing of human qualities to insects, and Darwin who was obliged to defend the belief that they might have some tincture of reason.

American Tourists and London Exchange.

(From The Manchester Guardian.)

A very important point in the American exchange question that has escaped notice is the difference made by the absence of American visitors. The manager of a well known London banking house, whose business is largely American, tells me that in ordinary years the vast sums spent by rich Americans in this country (largely in Bond Street) help considerably to turn the exchange in favor of London. It is estimated that from thirty to forty thousand Americans visit this country every year. Last year, in August and September, there was a great rush to England of Americans who had been stranded on the Continent when war broke out, and banks and tourist agencies had a very busy time. But this year the American tourist is not to be found. "Almost the only Americans who have come over," my informant said, "are doctors and Red Cross nurses and commercial travellers. Over 40 per cent of our staff have joined the forces, while one department which usually is enlarged at this time of the year to over twenty has been comfortably run this summer by six men."

"A Word of Appreciation."

To the Editor of The Tribune.

Sir: We wish to thank you for your fine editorial in yesterday's Tribune, and, indeed, for your whole stand on the woman suffrage question.

These are very busy days for us, but we want you to know that we always have time in the midst of our campaign to send a word of appreciation and thanks to our good friends. HARRIET WELLS,

GERMAN TALENTS

What Are They That an Irishman Should Delight in Them?

To the Editor of The Tribune.

Sir: Permit a reply to Miss Munson, who prefers Germany and sees benefit to us in her victory. I am as Irish as Miss Munson, I suspect; though born here, I have by direct descent from the O'Connors, of Galway, a right to speak as an Irish-American, so I ask what particular manifestations of "Germany's talents and civilization are more valuable to-day to the world"?

Is it the nameless mutilation of the English wounded—such as only hate and blood lust could explain? Is it the apparently organized terrorizing of conquered territory by striking abject fear into the civil population, including shutting of official eyes to the raping of women—which does, indeed, strike terror? Is it the prepared and deliberate slaughter of women and children in the Lusitania, blandly justified as both necessary and war ethics—especially after "warning"? Is it the gas fighting? Or the liquid fire? Is it the Dumba conduct and unscrupulous bending of all rights of others to serve German needs? Or is it Louvain? Or perhaps the sanction, to the Turkish ally, of his delicate attentions to the Armenians? If not, perhaps it is the time-honored German policy of spies and gold and the corrupting of any one who would sell out—all on a scale that was magnificent, and proved how sure they are that all things yield to gold. Perhaps she admires the universal, century-old German worship of the pig—from which comes the pork, in every form, that has, mostly, fed Germans in the years past. That diet, I always claim, produces an aspect of kinship with its source, which the upturned German nose seems the symbol of.

I don't love the English; they are not my friends any more than any nation with their record; but France and Belgium and the English notions of freedom, law, government and morals—how can German talents and civilization compare with them? And how can any sane person say that the German ugliness toward us lately (abandoned now partly out of policy and partly because her submarines are mostly gone) betokens either safety for us or evidence of her "talents and civilization"? Germans are like the Japanese—once one always one. Therefore, even our citizens of that blood are only provisionally loyal to us; they would not all be with her, perhaps, but none would be against her—except, perhaps, her political refugees.

If skill in the mechanical arts, in making two blades grow, in getting blood out of a stone, in being thorough and resourceful and determined, are to be linked with bloodiness of mind, and a hatred of humanity and a love for murder if done for the Fatherland, and a thoroughgoing "finishing" of women and children who stand in the way (particularly of the women), then let the barbarian thank God for his darkness; let the Hun and the savage plead that he is no worse than the "talents and civilization" of Germany. If that is civilization, and if that is the result of having talents, let us pray for ignorance and beseech the Most High to darken our understanding, lest we should acquire the enviable position that Germany has in "Irish" eyes.

I challenge the "Irish" writer I speak of to answer when or where any Irishman, drunk or sober, in war or peace, ever did the dastardly things that German commanders are proud of? I resent the suggestion that men of that race have anything in common with the acts of those whose talents and civilization are so admirable. The Irish were never child killers or "below-the-belt" fighters; they spared the women, and scorned to fight like a cornered cur; they fought face to face and man to man, and neither gas nor liquid fire nor shameless scarring of the dead ever dishonored them. They hate England—justly—but I can't believe they are so degraded that the past performances of Germany seem to them like "talents and civilization."

Irish-American Impostors.

To the Editor of The Tribune.

Sir: I have failed to notice any reference to an intention on the part of an Irish revolutionary force to "invade" Ireland, as described so graphically, nevertheless unconvincingly, by your correspondent "I. M. P.," in your issue of October 7.

There can be only one opinion formed by any educated or conscientious Irishman of the actions of those Celts who have identified themselves with the Germanophile propaganda; and it is that such agitators not only grossly misrepresent real Irish sentiment at home and abroad—more especially in Ireland, where there is a most intense anti-German feeling—but that they are the very embodiment and personification of political charlatanism, and, I will venture to add, of treachery of the basest kind. Their brand of "patriotism" connotes such an alliance with the manipulators of "boodle" and graft that their sordid, selfish natures seem incapable of rising superior to any other impulse than the desire to gratify their own Machiavellian proclivities; by making the Irish question serve as a perpetual source of revenue for themselves, even though their fellow countrymen at home should have to suffer as a result of what I unhesitatingly characterize as most contemptible traffic in spurious patriotism.

When Daniel O'Connell was agitating for Catholic emancipation he replied to the physical force advocates in words that have become historic, that he would not have the regeneration of Ireland purchased at the cost of "even one drop of Irish blood," and when asked what alternative he proposed he replied in dramatic (it might be almost appropriately said tragic) fashion, "Agitate, agitate, agitate!" and he kept repeating this sentiment expressed by one sententious word until it had such an inspiring effect that agitation pure and simple has secured for Erin every great measure, from Catholic emancipation in 1829 to Home Rule in 1914.

All this talk of sending a force to "invade" Ireland is the empty frothing of the disgruntled agitators of the cheap variety pattern whose antics are likely to create as much impression on the real Irish in Ireland (who in the final analysis must be the people who will shape the ends of Irish political measures) as a "Punch and Judy" show would produce on a convocation of rigid and decorous Quakers or a meeting of devout Methodist ministers.

An Example for German-Americans

To the Editor of The Tribune.

Sir: Yesterday, looking over some old diaries of European travel in 1903, incidentally I came upon these sentences of our stay in Hamburg:

"The rain held up so that we could drive in the afternoon. On the other side of the lake were many handsome houses with lovely grounds. It seems to be a wealthy city. Estates were pointed out to us whose owners had made large fortunes in America, but had come back to enjoy them."

Are there not others here in America who would be happier if following their example? J. E. C.

AMERICA'S RESPONSIBILITY IN THE WAR

It Is Now in Our Power to Assure a Complete Victory Over the Most Ruthless Despot That Ever Tried to Crush the World.

To the Editor of The Tribune.

Sir: As time goes on it becomes more clear that the war must terminate in one of three ways:

1. A complete victory for Germany.
2. A partial victory for Germany.
3. A complete victory for the Allies.

How may a complete victory for Germany be realized? If the drive through the Balkans is successful in linking up the Teuton line with Turkey, the Allied campaign in the Dardanelles will probably collapse, and Russia may lose heart and make a separate peace. Germany will then be able possibly to attack Great Britain in Egypt; she may conceivably be able to seize and hold the Suez Canal; she may ultimately be able to reach and attack India. In the west it may be possible for her, when the Russians are no longer a factor, to carry through a successful offensive against Paris and the Channel ports, crush France, and at her leisure achieve the invasion and reduction of England. The final outcome of such sweeping victory would be that Germany would control all Europe, all Africa, a large part of Asia, and would be mistress of the seas to a degree never attained by Great Britain.

How may a partial victory for Germany be realized? Through the complete exhaustion of both sides and the termination of the war in consequence. If the Allies are ever so exhausted that they are willing to make an inconclusive peace, it will not be after they have succeeded in pushing the Germans back into Germany. Should the exhaustion of both sides bring the war to an end, it will be with Germany in possession of much territory that was not hers at the beginning of the war, with her prestige and her power measurably enhanced, and her resources capable of being soon replenished and augmented.

How may a complete victory for the Allies be realized? Only by driving the Germans back into Germany and there wearing them down and wearing them out until they are compelled to accept the harsh terms that the Allies have declared a determination to impose. The razing of the Krupp works, the exile of the Hohenzollerns, the execution of the aged assassin von Tirpitz, the surrender of the German fleet and the seizure of the Kiel Canal are all items that it is reasonable to assume would be comprehended in any terms that the Allies in the event of complete victory would be willing to make.

The idea that the Allies might rest content with a partial victory may be dismissed as impossible. They cannot achieve even a partial victory until they have thrown the German armies back across the Rhine. Once they have done that, their ultimate and complete victory will be a matter of time and patience, and who can doubt that for such an inevitable and desirable end France and England and Russia will have both time and patience?

Now let us consider what this country's position must be in the event of a complete victory for the Germans. That they now regard us as unneutral, even as hostile, we know. When they have swept Great Britain from the seas and are masters of Europe, Africa and part of Asia, is it likely that they will refrain from paying off a score so easily settled as that with the United States? Is it likely that William II will neglect the easy opportunity to make himself Emperor of the World, both in title and in fact? What fat pickings the United States will offer to a nation omnipotent in arms, inexorable in revenge, somewhat straitened in financial circumstances and more arrogantly, insolently conscious than ever that might makes right and that they are the chosen people of their God! The outlook for this country in the event of a complete victory for Germany would be so dark that only such American citizens as Münsterberg, Ridder, Viereck and Francke, who might reasonably hope to be appointed governors of the newly acquired provinces, could derive comfort from contemplating it.

And in the event of a partial victory for Germany our situation would not be much better. Then we should confront the spectacle of nations still thirsting for one another's blood, frenetically occupying the breathing space with preparations for a renewal of the conflict, and so far as they had breath to spare or to waste expending it in maledictions on the United States. For on both sides it will be known, it will not be questioned, that it has been our attitude that has made necessary this inconclusive, this actually cruel and atrocious peace, that has prevented the carrying through of the war to a decision which could insure permanent peace. Had we done what the German people demanded of us the complete victory for Germany would have been assured. Had we taken up the gage so many times flung in our face, the complete victory of the Allies would have been assured. But we, with the future of civilization, to say nothing of our own future, at stake, chose to remain neutral. By so doing we won for ourselves the hatred of one set of combatants and the scorn of the other. In the new frenzy of militarism that will follow the partial victory of Germany the United States will be involved, and our place and our fate in the inevitable ensuing conflict cannot be foretold. But as surely as that conflict takes place shall we have to pay our toll of misery and blood and tears—and it will be heavier than any that would be exacted of us now if we did our proper part.

How, indeed, can there be any question that it is the duty of this country to itself and to mankind, to its children and its children's children, to range itself definitely on the right side? I hear the interrogation, What could we do more than we are doing now? I refuse to believe that this great nation, actively taking part in a war for the liberation of humanity, a war in which her soul is already enlisted, could not or would not do more than she is doing now. To me it is beyond doubt that if she threw her weight into the scale the balance would come true.

If the Allies are completely victorious without our aid, we shall have nothing to fear from them except their contempt. But it becomes less and less probable that the Allies will achieve a complete victory without our aid. Shal' we then sit passive, in our selfish and fancied security and isolation, careless whether the butchering Teutons and Turks exterminate the rest of mankind? We have felt that we owed no duty to Belgium, to France, to the Armenians; is it possible that we are too blind to see what is our imperative duty to ourselves?

President Wilson has succeeded in keeping this country out of war, and has received for this the commendation of the unthinking. Will not the verdict of posterity be that just because of his determination t maintain a peaceful, neutral attitude when civilization was fighting for its life he showed himself a man of short and narrow vision?

There is one man living to-day who has it absolutely in his power to provide that civilization as we know it and believe in it shall not perish—shall not be overwhelmed by the most terrible, ruthless, despotic tyranny that has ever cursed and tried to crush the world. That man is the President of the United States. Should he break off diplomatic relations with Germany by reason of that nation's partnership in the Armenian atrocities or for any other reason whatsoever—and there are reasons enough—he would perform the greatest service to humanity that any man now has it in his power to perform. It is true that without any help from him civilization may triumph. But is he justified, will history justify him, in taking what is after all a gambler's chance, and, while seeming to play safe, actually exposing his people and those who are of kindred ideas to a peril greater than any that has yet threatened them?

Mr. Lansing's Politics.

Sir: Kindly inform me through your most valuable paper if Robert Lansing, now Secretary of State, is a Democrat or a Republican. If a Democrat, has he always been a Democrat? G. E. S.
New York, Oct. 9, 1915.

[In the sketch of Mr. Lansing which appears in the last issue of "Who's Who in America," issued at the time when he was counsellor of the State Department, no reference is made to his party affiliations. He has never been known in Washington as a party man, but there is no doubt that he now classifies himself as a Democrat.—Ed.].

"ARMENIA"

Views of a Boston Commentator On a Tribune Editorial.

To the Editor of The Tribune.

Sir: I have just been reading your editorial "Back to the Dark Ages," copied in "The Boston Transcript," and want to thank you for the same. Thank God there is some one to write such an article and a paper that dares to publish it. I wish I could write like that, or that I was twenty years younger that I might talk it.

Would tha' the article could be reprinted in every newspaper in the country. How can Americans be still while France, Britain and Russia are fighting for civilization? Do they not think what might be the fate of New York and Massachusetts if we are not prepared? HENRY W. HART

Jewish Suffering and Armenian

To the Editor of The Tribune.

Sir: Reading your editorial of the 9th, "Armenia," in which you rightfully condemn the Turks for the execution of Armenians, I wish to ask you what about Russia?

What the Turks are doing to Armenians is child's play compared to what Russia is doing to six million Jews, her own subjects. This at a time when about half a million Jewish soldiers are fighting for the Czar, many of whom have been decorated, which shows their faithfulness. When the wounded return home, cripples for the rest of their lives, they find their homes gone, wrecked, not by an outside enemy but by the very government they served, their parents killed or exiled, their wives and sisters dishonored, their children starved and wandering.

Such things happened to tens of thousands. Russia is doing it to-day, and yet there is no outcry from the American press. It was our Ambassador to Turkey (by the way, himself a Jew) who protested against these massacres of Armenians. Was there any such protest from the American Ambassador in Petrograd?

You may blame Germany for what the Turks are doing. Can you also blame England or France for what Russia is doing? You also say that Russia is fighting for civilization. . . . I am not pro-German, as I am against militarism, but if that is the kind of civilization Russia is fighting for, then give me "German Kultur." I always thought The Tribune on the square, and hope you will enlighten me on that. A. PERLMAN.
High Bridge, N. J., Oct. 9, 1915.

Not Grateful to the President

To the Editor of The Tribune.

Sir: Might I enter a public protest against the rather fulsome praises of Mr. Wilson which we have heard the last few days, following the announcement that he would vote for woman suffrage in New Jersey? To judge from these remarks we women should be eternally grateful to our worthy President for having ended his period of watchful waiting on the suffrage question.

But we have no cause for gratitude in the case. Quite otherwise. Mr. Wilson while Governor of New Jersey would never use his influence or give his support to a woman suffrage measure, would receive no delegation on this question, though the women of the state fought hard to have him do so. When he became President he tried to dodge the issue as long as he could. Owing to the militancy of the suffragettes he was finally forced to declare his opinion that it was not a national question, but a state issue. The campaign in New Jersey allowed him no further excuse for refusing his personal support to the movement. Yet even with a campaign in his own home state Mr. Wilson delayed until within two weeks of the election before he made his statement.

Let us remember these facts: A national election is coming in 1916; in ten states women will vote; in these ten states women are forcing the national candidates, of whom Mr. Wilson is one, to declare themselves either for or against a suffrage amendment to the national Constitution, and, lastly, these women will vote accordingly.

Women have won this fight for themselves. We should not thank either Mr. Roosevelt, Mr. Bryan or Mr. Wilson for climbing on the bandwagon at the last moment.

HOBART, SATURDAY, DECEMBER 4, 1915

According to information from Russia the condition of the Jews in Poland is daily getting worse. Russian Poland contains a larger number of Jews than all the countries of the world together, and those six millions of Russian and Polish Jews are to-day the most pitiable victims of that race hatred and that race fanaticism which have been the creed of Germany and which have been too often propagated by the Jewish publicists themselves. Anti-Semitism has been rife in every country, but only in Gremany has it been preached as a systematic doctrine. The same national historian, Trietschke, who was the champion of Prussian militarism, has also been the father of German anti-Semitism. And yet leading Jews like Miximilan Harden, Dernberg, and Wolff are still defending the righteous German war, and are still loyal to the Super-race.

MAKES PLEA FOR SUFFERING JEWS

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 5.—A plea for the suffering Jews of Europe was made by Rabbi Harrison of St. Louis to the Federation of Jewish charities at its annual dinner here last night. Rabbi Harrison told of the courage of the Jews in the vanguard of the Russian armies and said that their wives, fathers and sisters were insulted in the very country for which they were fighting.

"The greatest war of history is raging now," he said. "In the awful area swept by cannon fire, on side of the battle front, between Teutons and Slav, are nearly six million Jews. Half a million Polish Jews wander in beggary today. Their plight is beyond description."

BRITONS FACE MILITARY COMPULSION

SERVICE BILL AGAIN TAKEN UP BY BRITISH

Compulsory Act Is Being Threshed Out for Second Time in Great Britain.

STARRING UNRELIABLE

Methods Used to Distinguish Eligibles Found Faulty by Lord Derby.

London, Jan. 5 (3:46 p. m.)—Under the terms of the compulsory military service bill, introduced in the house of commons today, all males between the ages of 18 and 41 who are bachelors or widowers without children dependent on them are liable for military service. Ireland is excluded from the terms of the measure.

Mr. Asquith opened his address with an analysis of the figures in the Derby report. He emphasized the fact that during the Derby campaign nearly 3,000,000 men had offered their services. Even declarting those rejected on the ground of physical disability, the total was still in excess of 2,500,000.

"These are wonderful, encouraging figures," the premier said. "They ought to convince both our allies and our enemies that the people of this country have their hearts in the war."

London, Jan. 4, 1 p. m.—(Delayed.)—In the house of commons tomorrow (Wednesday) the compulsory military service will be taken up. It promises to bring on the sharpest parliamentary struggle since the war began.

The East of Derby's report on his recruiting campaign, which began Oct. 23 and ended Dec. 11, explains why the cabinet found it necessary to bring forward a measure for compulsory enlistment of unmarried men. More than 2,500,000 men in England, Scotland and Wales enrolled themselves, but after those engaged in indispensable industries and medically unfit have been winnowed out about 1,100,000 available to bear arms remain. But there are 650,000 unmarried men who failed to come forward, and the government will not attempt to redeem Premier Asquith's pledge that the married men should not be called out as long as a considerable fraction of the unmarried men held back.

Starring Method Faulty.

In his report, which is addressed to Earl Kitchener, secretary for war, the Earl of Derby says:

"Many difficulties have been met with, but the chief difficulty has been the unreliability of starring, as distinguishing between those who should and those who should not be taken for the army. Instead of starring being an assistance, it was a distinct hindrance to the canvass.

Farmers Hang Back.

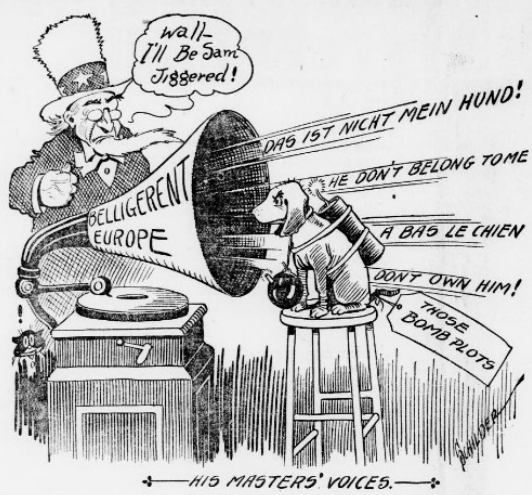
"More especially is this so in the rural and semi-rural areas, owing to the fact that it was known before registration day what branches of the agricultural industry would be starred, with the result that many men who had no right to do so, claimed to come under these particular headings. The sense of unfairness thus created and the inequality of treatment to farmers has been most detrimental in these areas. The farmer himself is not a starred man, but there are numberless cases of his sons and laborers being starred as cowmen, horsemen, etc., though in many instances it is known they are not really so engaged.



"It is essential that the starred list should be carefully investigated and in cases of misdescription the star removed and the man made available for military service. This applies to starred men in all industries.

"The issue during the process of the canvass of list of trades which were to be considered 'reserved occupations' has also proven an obstacle. I recognize it was essential that such lists should be issued, but the fact remains that trades other than those mentioned in those lists have been applying to be included, and the men en-

United States Consul Establishes Number — No Word of McNeely.

BULLETIN.

London, Jan. 5. (4:23 p. m.)—The American embassy here has received a report saying that the Rev. Homer R. Salisbury, an American, was a passenger on the liner Persia which was sunk in the Mediterranean, but that he was not included among the survivors.'

London, Jan. 4, (7:35 p. m.) (delayed).—An Amsterdam Exchange Telegraph company says that the American ambassador at Berlin, James W. Gerard, conferred today with officials at the foreign office concerning the sinking of the steamship Persia. Mr. Gerard is said to have inquired about the nationality of the submarine which sank the vessel.

The German secretary of the navy, Admiral von Tirpitz, conferred with Emperor William on Monday.

Washington, Jan. 5.—Only two Americans were on the Persia when she was sunk, the American consul at Marseilles today advised the state department. Robert McNeely of North Carolina and Charles H. Grant of Boston.

President Wilson conferred with Secretary Lansing for an hour today over the submarine crisis. No additional facts, beyond the definite knowledge that only two Americans were aboard the liner Persia, had been received by the state department overnight. Robert M. McNeely, American consul at Aden, Arabia, is missing. C. H. Grant of Boston was saved.

Whether the status of the Persia was changed from an unarmed liner to that of a vessel which might technically be classified as armed by the fact that she mounted one gun, United States navy experts will be called on to help determine.

Anxiously Await News.

The administration continued today to mark time in the situation arising from the sinking of the British steamer Persia while awaiting definite information concerning the attack on the vessel. Until the full facts are at hand, however, the next move in the new crisis with the Teutonic powers will not be determined on.

President Wilson, who is personally directing the policy of the United States, has taken steps to ascertain as speedily as possible the facts in the case. Information is being sought as to whether the Persia actually was torpedoed and, if so, what was the nationality of the submarine. Until these points are cleared up no move probably will be made by the Washington government.

Affidavits Are Ordered.

Acting on instructions from the president, Secretary Lansing has ordered American consular officers to obtain affidavits from the survivors of the Persia immediately to cable summaries of their contents. A report also is awaited from Ambassador Penfield at Vienna regarding his inquiries to the Austrian foreign office.

Possibility that the next move on the part of the United States will be to make it plain to the central power belligerents, as allies, the extent to which it intends to hold them responsible for submarine warfare which is not in accordance with accepted principles of international law was a subject of discussion here today.

While the situation here still was as tense as ever, officials were hopeful that a new way would be found for an amicable settlement of the issue.

IGNORES SUBPOENA ON LUCEY'S ADVICE

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 5.—Following the advice of the Attorney General, P. J. Lucey, Chief Warrant Clerk John J. Coffey of State Auditor Brady's office decided to ignore a subpoena served on him today by a representative of John Pfieffer, a local attorney. Pfieffer admitted he was without official standing other than that he is a notary public.

WOULD HAVE CASE OF ENGLISH TRIED BEFORE TRIBUNAL

London, Jan. 4, 8 p. m.—(Delayed.)—Sinking of the White Star liner Arabic, destruction of a British submarine by a German destroyer on the Danish coast and the submarine attack on the British steamer Ruel are the three incidents that Sir Edward Grey, the British foreign secretary, suggests for submission to some impartial tribune for investigation, together with the case of the Baralong.

The foreign secretary notes in his reply to Ambassador Page's communication of a memorandum from the German government complaining of circumstances alleged to have attended the destruction of a German submarine by the British auxiliary cruiser Baralong, that the three incidents in question occurred within 48 hours of the time the Baralong sank the submarine.

"It is evident that to single out the case of the Baralong for particular examination would be the height of absurdity," says the secretary. "Even were the allegations on which the German government rely accepted as they stand—and his majesty's government does not so accept them—the charge against the commander and crew of the Baralong is negligible compared with the crimes which have been deliberately committed by German officers both on land and sea against combatants and non-combatants."

OUST OFFICIALS TO AVENGE COP

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 5.—The question of whether or not to recall from office Mayor Woodward and five members of the local board of police commissioners was before Atlanta voters at a special election today. Efforts are being made to oust the six officials because they reduced Chief of Police J. L. Beavers to a captaincy. Beavers, in 1913, became widely known for abolishing the local restricted district. Beavers was reduced in rank last July on charges on insubordination, it being claimed that he took orders not from the board of police commissioners, of which the mayor is an ex-officio member, but from a number of so-called reformers.

CHARGE UPON PURCHASE OF SHIPS IS VOID

Both Majority and Minority Reports Declare Rumors Are Baseless.

In Upholding Administration Papers Take Thrust at Former President.

DAY IN CONGRESS.

Senate: Lands committee worked on the waterpower leasing bill.

House: Representative Humphrey, republican, of Washington, in attack on tariff, attributed prosperity solely to the war.

The administration bill for development of water power on public domain debated.

Naval committee began hearings on naval bill.

Postoffice committee resumed hearings on postal bill.

Washington, Jan. 5.—Charges circulated during the last session of congress that administration officials acted in the interest of foreign business firms in urging the passage of the government ship purchase bill, were held to be baseless, in majority and minority reports filed today by the senate committee appointed to investigate them. Both reports also found the shipping interests blameless of illegal activity in opposition to the measure.

Roosevelt Denounced.

The majority denounced Theodore Roosevelt for failing to appear before the committee to testify concerning his published assertion that President Wilson and Secretary Bryan, "had endeavored in the interest of certain foreign business firms to secure for the United States the power to purchase the interned ships of one of the belligerents." The charge the report said

MAKES PLEA FOR SUFFERING JEWS

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 5.—A plea for the suffering Jews of Europe was made by Rabbi Harrison of St. Louis to the Federation of Jewish charities at its annual dinner here last night. Rabbi Harrison told of the courage of the Jews in the vanguard of the Russian armies and said that their wives, fathers and sisters were insulted in the very country for which they were fighting.

"The greatest war of history is raging now," he said. "In the awful area swept by cannon fire, on side of the battle front, between Teutons and Slav, are nearly six million Jews. Half a million Polish Jews wander in beggary today. Their plight is beyond description."

PLAN AMERICAS' AERO CONTESTS

New York, Jan. 5.—The Aero Club of America, announced today an offer of a $10,000 trophy to be competed for by representatives of North and South America, and to be known as the Pan-American aviation trophy. This offer is intended as an endorsement of the plan of Alberto Santos-Dumont, who suggested to the Pan-American congress in Washington that thousands of aeroplanes could be used on this continent to solve difficult problems of transportation and would form a valuable reserve in defense of the nations of America.

WOULD UNITE THREE MEDICAL SCHOOLS

Chicago, Jan. 5.—Physicians connected with Rush Medical college which is affiliated with the University of Chicago; the Medical college of Northwestern university, and the medical college of the University of Illinois, have launched a movement to combine the institutions.

According to plans, it was said today, the three colleges would retain their present university affiliation but would cooperate in such a way that students might take a desired course in any of the institutions or might use the advantage of all three.

The idea has been proposed in the interest of efficiency and economy.

were rapidly dispersed.

The outbreak is condemned and has been characterized as a piece of folly.

After the assassination of President Guilaume by a mob last July, in the course of the revolution, American forces were landed in Haiti. Under the agreement made substantially between the United States and Haiti, American forces are being maintained on the island for police purposes. In September the rebels reached an understanding with the American military authorities under which they were to disarm. Quiet has prevailed since that time and there has been nothing to indicate that the disturbance now reported is of importance.

INSURANCE HIGH ON SUEZ ROUTES

New York, Jan. 5.—The activity of submarines in the Mediterranean sea caused an advance in war risk insurance by local companies today on cargoes for Mediterranean ports and shipments for the far east through the Suez canal. A rate of 10 per cent is quoted on cargoes in ships of belligerent countries, as compared with three-eighths of one per cent before the sinking of the Ancona and the Yasaka Maru.

Underwriters say the rate is advanced to discourage requests for insurance, and that their action was suggested by information from London that Lloyds have virtually refused to write war risks on Mediterranean business.

War risks on vessels to Scandinavian and United Kingdom ports remain where they have been for several months.

WILSON TACTICS

Rome, Jan. 4. (Delayed.) — Rome newspapers publish Washington dispatches regarding the return of President Wilson to the capital in connection with the steamship Persia. The greatest interest is shown in the attitude to be taken by the United States.

"President Wilson continues to send scraps of paper," says the Tribuna, "while submarines answer by sinking steamers and drowning harmless, unarmed passengers, women and children. The time has come for America to act or to disinterest herself regarding the waging of inhuman warfare, whether those responsible for such warfare are Germans, Austrians or Turks."

A bill facilitating the production of munitions has been passed by the British house of commons.

Activity in the actual field of war is confined mainly at present to the front in Galicia and the Bessarabian front.

Introduction in the British house of commons of the bill dealing with compulsory military service is set for today. The 651,100 unmarried men eligible for military service who failed to come forward to attest themselves under the Earl of Derby's recruiting plan are not considered a "negligible quantity," hence decision of the cabinet to redeem Premier Asquith's pledge to the married men that they would not be called out while any considerable proportion of the single men were holding back.

had its origin "in that ungenerous trait of the human mind which makes it prone to attribute unworthy motives to redoubtable rivals and particularly political antagonists."

Majority Finds No Evidence.

While the committee found no evidence to indicate that the president or secretary harbored any purpose to buy interned ships, the majority held that it was difficult to conceive of reasons consistent with the most exalted motives that might induce the president to refrain from a public declaration that belligerent's ships would be bought.

"Such an action," said the report, "would rightly be construed as an abandonment of our rights which our nation has vigorously maintained, to acquire merchant ships by bonafide purchase, though a state of war exists involving the nation under whose flag they previously sailed."

Called Bad Legislation.

Senator Sutherland presented the minority report for himself and Senator Penrose. "We do not concur," it said, "in so far as the report defends the bill itself nor in so far as it insists there would be no impropriety in the purchase of the belligerent's idle ships. We believe the bill a thoroughly bad piece of legislation and are certain that to have purchased the boats now seeking security in American harbors would have developed serious trouble for the United States."

The committee's investigation was authorized by a resolution offered by Senator Burton and an amendment by Senator Williams, directing the inquiry as to whether the so-called shipping trust had maintained a lobby against the bill.

HEALTH GUARDS

Furnished by the Department of Preventive Medicine, University of Missouri, Columbia.

DIPHTHERIA

Diphtheria is a contagious disease caused by the bacillus diphtheria. Persons in perfect health may get the bacillus in their throats many times and not take the disease. On the other hand, no matter how weak or run-down one may be, he will not have diphtheria unless the bacillus is present. The germ comes from a person affected with diphtheria or from one who, without showing any signs of the disease, carries the germ in the throat or nose. Such is called a diphtheria carrier.

The germs are found only in the throat and nose of persons affected and produce a toxin which is absorbed in the blood, causing the symptoms and effects of the disease. The germs leave such a person in the sputum and in the spray from coughing and sneezing. Even forceful talking must cause minute droplets of secretion to be emitted.

The smaller droplets will float for some distance in the air of an average room. Well persons are affected chiefly by getting droplets and the contained germs into their throats. Children, having little sense of cleanliness, usually put playthings into their mouths. If children play together and one is affected with diphtheria, the others are likely to get the germs from the sick one in this way.

School rooms and gathering places where many persons are assembled in a close, poorly-ventilated room aid in the spread of the disease. At this season of the year, when many persons travel on crowded trains and many get together at celebrations and meetings, the danger of getting the disease is much increased. No one with a cold or sore throat should attend public gatherings. Any one getting a cold or sore throat should have the trouble diagnosed and treated by a physician. Children complaining of colds or sore throat should have medical attention at once.

If used in time, diphtheria toxin will quickly cure diphtheria. The greater the time elapsing before the toxin is used, the less is the chance for recovery. Untreated and late-treated cases are very fatal. Diphtheria toxin for a short time also prevents well persons' becoming affected and should be used on every well member of a family in which there is a case of diphtheria.

NO SHIP BILL SCANDAL

Charge That Wilson and Bryan Were Acting for Foreign Interests Declared Baseless—A Rap for Colonel Roosevelt

Washington, Jan. 6.—Charges circulated at the last session of Congress that administration officials acted in the interest of foreign business firms in urging the passage of the Government Ship Purchase Bill were held to be baseless in majority and minority reports filed today by the Senate committee appointed to investigate them. Both reports also found the shipping interests blameless of illegal activity in opposition to the measure.

The majority denounced Theodore Roosevelt for failing to appear before the committee to testify concerning his published assertion that President Wilson and Secretary Bryan had endeavored, in the interest of certain foreign business firms, to secure for the United States the power to purchase the interned ships of one of the belligerents. The charge, the report said, had its origin "in that ungenerous trait of the human mind which makes it prone to attribute unworthy motives to redoubtable rivals and particularly political antagonists."

Why should the President, by proclamation to the people of the nation, fix upon January 27th as the day for contributing toward the relief of over six million Jews located in the Far Eastern War Zone?

Money will not be refused if offered before that date; there will be need of it for a long time afterward.

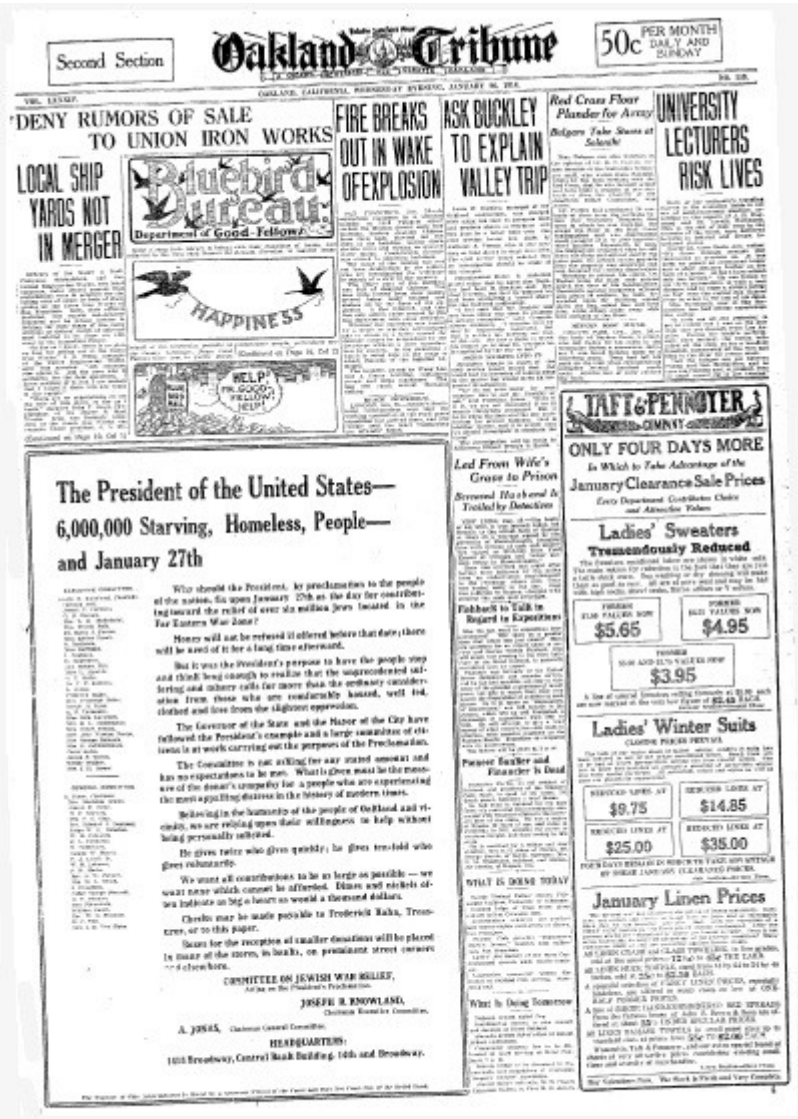
But it was the President's purpose to have the people stop and think long enough to realize that the unprecedented suffering and misery calls for more than the ordinary consideration from those who are comfortably housed, well fed, clothed and free from the slightest oppression.

The Governor of the State and the Mayor of the City have followed the President's example and a large committee of citizens is at work carrying out the purposes of the Proclamation.

The Committee is not asking for any stated amount and has no expectations to be met. What is given must be the measure of the donor's sympathy for a people who are experiencing the most appalling distress in the history of modern times.

Believing in the humanity of the people of Oakland and vicinity, we are relying upon their willingness to help without being personally solicited.

He gives twice who gives quickly; he gives ten-fold who gives voluntarily.



We want all contributions to be as large as possible — we want none which cannot be afforded. Dimes and nickels often indicate as big a heart as would a thousand dollars.

Money Is Contingent on Hebrew Aid Members Raising Fund for a New Building.

Jacob H. Schiff yesterday gave $25,000 to the Hebrew Sheltering and Immigrant Aid Society of America on condition that it erect a new building within the present year. Harry Fischel, Treasurer of the society, said last night that the new building would cost $200,000, but that as the society had 52,000 members he felt sure that there would be no difficulty in speedily raising the money.

The announcement of Mr. Schiff's gift was made at the seventh annual meeting of the society in the auditorium of Public School 62, Hester and Essex Streets. The meeting was attended by delegates of 2,000 organizations throughout the country which were affiliated with the society.

Among those present were James A. Reed, United States Senator from Missouri; Louis F. Post, Assistant Secretary to the Department of Labor; William Phillips, Assistant Secretary of State; Jacob H. Schiff, Congressman William S. Bennet, Adolph J. Sabath, Isaac Siegel, and Simon Wolf of Washington. The speakers were Senator Reed, Congressman Bennet, and Secretary Phillips.

Judge Sanders, President of the Society, in his annual report declared that even the wrongs of the Belgians could not be compared to the outrages heaped upon the Polish Jews. "Nearly six million Jews are ruined," he said, "in the greatest moral and material misery; millions of them are refugees, dependent upon the good will of their brethren.

Retail Division of Chamber of Commerce Votes to Give Movement Its Support

Kalamazoo's Baby Week will start Sunday, May 7 and continue until May 13, according to a decision reached Tuesday afternoon at a meeting of the Child Welfare league and other organizations interested in the movement.

Although this is the first effort of its kind that has ever been made in this city, it is planned to have the demonstration complete in every detail and heads of several committees were appointed Tuesday to look after the preliminary work which will start at once.

Every church in Kalamazoo will be asked to co-operate in the movement by having special services on the opening day of the week and the ministers will be asked to prepare sermons appropriate to the occasion. Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of Baby Week, conferences will be held in the New Armory building to which all mothers of the city will be invited.

Academy of Medicine.

Special invitations will be extended to every mother of a baby under two years of age to bring their youngsters to the conference. Examinations will be made in a huge glass cage in full view of the mothers, and a series of helpful lectures will be presented on the proper care and feeding of infants.

HEBREW IMMIGRATION ORDER PLANS FOR INFLUX TO AMERICA.

DISTRIBUTION IS BIG PROBLEM

SOCIETY TO GUARD AGAINST CONCENTRATION OF NEWCOMERS IN EASTERN PORTION OF U. S.

New York, Feb. 29.—General immigration to the United States after the war is improbable, according to reports made to Leon Saunders, president of the Hebrew Sheltering and Immigration Society of America, and made public by him at its annual meeting here.

"It may be otherwise with the Jews, however," Mr. Saunders said, "owing to the especially unfortunate situation which the war has created for them. Nearly six million Jews are ruined; in the greatest moral and material misery; many of them are refugees, dependent on the good will of their brethren."

The society is directing its attention, he reported, to the problem of distributing immigrants in the western states, so that immigration will not be concentrated in the east, but flow normally to the less densely populated districts. The society is in communication with chambers of commerce and other important commercial bodies throughout the country, many of which have expressed their willingness to aid Jewish immigrants.

The following were elected members of the advisory board: Louis D. Brandeis, Boston; Isaac W. Bernheim, Louisville; Moses Fraley, St. Louis; Max J. Kohler, Edward Lauterbach, Louis N. Seligman, Oscar S. Strauss and Dr. Stephen S. Wise, New York; Adolph Kraus and Julian W. Mack, Chicago; Mayor Sulzberger, Philadelphia; Rev. Dr. Martin A. Meyer and Lucius Solomons, San Francisco; Ben Selling, Portland, Ore., and Simon Wolf, Washington.

Two's Retire in 20 Years.

The reserve act provides for the retirement of the two's in twenty years, the national bank currency gradually being replaced by federal reserve notes, based upon commercial paper and gold and counted upon by the framers of the law to respond to the demands of business.

Machinery is provided in the reserve act for the retirement of the two's by their refunding in thirty year three per cent bonds on which currency cannot be based, and one year United States gold notes. The law says that reserve banks shall be required to purchase a total of $25,000,000 of the two per cents from banks which are members of the system each year if the banks desire to get rid of this amount.

Mr. McAdoo, however, on advice of counsel, has decided that this provision of the law covers only two per cent bonds held by national banks against which they have issued bank currency and not bonds held by reserve banks for investment purposes, and against which there is no outstanding circulation. The effect of this decision, it was said tonight probably will be to retire the two percents much faster than was expected.

GERMAN WRITERS DESCRIBE SCENE OF GREATEST CONFLICT OF WAR

Berlin, Feb. 29—(Via London)—The correspondents of the Berlin newspapers, who were permitted on Sunday to visit the ground gained by the Germans in the Verdun conflict, describe the effect of the German artillery fire on the village of Haumont as having left a unique picture of fantastic destruction.

The correspondents assert that the French artillery will be so overwhelmed by the German guns that it was frequently unable to make itself dangerous. The French long range guns were doing their best to keep Fort Douaumont smothered in a rain of shells after five attempts by the French to recapture it had failed.

Bringing Word From War Lost Jews

The Sort of News That Comes From Poland, Austria and Russia.

By RUTH PICKERING

(Exclusive Service The Survey Press Bureau

"Seek Chiam, the dark one, my brother. I saw him last in the village of Novaia."

"Learn for me of Mendel, my son, the man who limps. Ask the people in the town of Kalach, in the South of Russia. They will know what has become of him."

With requests like these on their lips, thousands of East Side Jews are daily climbing six flights of stairs at 77 Delancey street, New York city, for in their first hurry to get word of those whom they had lost, they broke the elevator.

In a small auditorium anda few extra rooms at this address the Hebrew Shelter and Immigrant Aid Society of America is telling the Jews of this country what has become of their friends and relatives abroad. The undertaking was begun last fall, when Isadore Hershfield went abroad to organize in Rotterdam ac enter of communication between American Jews and their suffering relatives in Poland, Russia and Austria.

The First List.

In December the first list sent back by Mr. Hershfield, containing a thousand names of persons who had been asked for or who were inquiring for the help of some friend here, was read at a meeting overflowing the rooms of the bureau by hundreds. The next day 200 or 300 who had been forced to wait on the sidewalks the night before were given news of their loved ones, and by 5 o'clock the bureau had filed 11,330 fresh requests for information. Periodic public meetings have since been held to give out news received from abroad.

Mr. Hershfield having organized his headquarters in Rotterdam, proceeded to Berlin, and is now in Poland. From there he expects to go into Russia.

Most of those who are lost live in the small towns where Jews seldom have a family name. In the large towns, since the Jews were freed, they have adopted family names, often by governmental request. All the cards of the applicants for information ask for the nickname, and when the applicant has given this and the correct name, the last known European address of the one he seeks, and the names of those still in Russia who might know of him, he is handed a card with a number on it and is asked not to come back, until he receives a postal from the bureau.

Relief Funds.

When news finally comes—perhaps that his father is alive with his sister in the little village of Zamoste in southern Poland, but that she has consumption contracted from pestilence in the wake of war and he is without money to help her, or perhaps that his brother is a prisoner in an Austrian camp, or that his mother had died because she has no money for food—then the applicant is sent for and it is someone's task to tell him what word has been received.

The news is almost always tragic. That intense family feeling so characteristic of the Jews becomes more than ever clear as the heart-broken father or mother or son or daughter turns away from the desk and returns in a day or two asking how $50 or $75 can be safely sent abroad.

These small amounts of money for relief are supplemented by money raised in energetic campaigns carried on throughout this country to send to the six million Jews reported starving in the warring countries; $3,750,000 has up to date been collected and sent to Jews in Russia, Galicia, Poland and Palestine, by the Jewish relief committee. Their first mass meeting in Carnegie Hall, New York city, brought in $800,000 in pledges and actual contributions. Since then rallies all over the United States have raised the amount to where it now stands.

Under the Joint Committee on Jewish Relief, of which Felix Warbury is chairman, are two other committees: one the Central Committee working for funds among the synagogues, and the other, the People's Relief Committee. The latter branch co-operates with the trade unions and solicits from business people. The woman's auxiliary of this committee, with Mrs. Philip Lewisohn as chairman, has planned a series of tag days to gather money.

To keep alive the two and one-half million Jews in the 20 Russian provinces under the care of the Jewish Colonization Society in Petrograd, it is estimated that 620,000 roubles per month is needed.

While the money is being used primarily to buy bread, it is being spent also, it is declared, to rebuild schools. In these schools children will be clothed and fed, and distracted as far as possible from the misery in which they are growing up. Where armies have fought and passed on as in Galicia, some of the money is going for rehabilitation.

Begin Dismantling North Church Organ

Work of dismantling the pipe organ in the old North or First Congregational church was begun today. The last service was held in the church yesterday. The work of removing the furniture and tearing down the building will follow. The pipe organ which was placed in the building in 1874 will be stored and probably will be sold later to some other church. The final service at the church last evening was attended by a congregation that completely filled the edifice. A new church in which the congregations of both the North and South churches will worship will be built on the site of the present church. Until the new edifice is ready the united congregation will worship in the South church.

Rev. James J. Grant of New Haven preached last night. The title of his sermon was "What is the Purpose of Life." He set up the life of the Saviour as an example to all the world that success in gathering riches was no proof of the worth of a life.

Fifth Anniversary of Park Avenue Temple Observed By Many

The fifth anniversary of the Park Avenue Temple was appropriately commemorated last night by about 200 members and friends who gathered in the edifice last night for that purpose. The temple was brightly lighted until a late hour and presented a most picturesque and brilliant scene from the outside. Inside the church, where both Jewish and Christian people were assembled, an appropriate ceremonial program was rendered. Prayer and readings were offered by Rev. David M. Levy, the pastor. An address was made by Isaac Moss, president of the church society, and a musical offering was made by Mrs. Florence Klein Bishop, Mrs. Robert B. Hard, Louis Ginand, Joseph F. Weiler, Mrs. Elmer Beardsley and Max Spickler. Rev. John R. Brown of the First Baptist church and Rev. Wallace W. Rose of the Church of the Redeemer both spoke.

A Green Smock and White Skirt.

Rarely smart is this smock in bright green flannel, trimmed with white serge and worn with a white serge skirt. It is made to be slipped on over the head and has a yoke at the front, below which are several rows of smocking. A patent leather belt takes in the fulness of the waist, yet this may be omitted without the sacrifice of smart effect. In modeling else the smock requires 3¼ yards 36-inch material, while the skirt calls for 2⅜ yards of single width serge.

Women fond of outdoor sports will welcome this smock because it offers charming variation for the middy blouse. To cut the smock properly is important, for the amount of material given does not provide for errors of waste of material. Study the guide to see how the front, back and collar are laid on the lengthwise fold. Note how the underfacing is placed along the selvage edge, then the sleeve to the right of the back, on a lengthwise thread. The pocket and yoke, in order named, are laid to the right of the sleeve.

The pockets can be finished along the upper edge with a plain band of contrasting material, or they can be gathered with a narrow beading. The use of the girdle is also optional.

There are several combinations in which this costume can be effectively carried out. The blouse would be equally smart in taffeta, crepe de Londre—or many inexpensively—cotton voile, linen or chambray. The fitting skirt would be in panama, serge, gabardine, flannel or crepe.

WHO SENT YOUR VALENTINE?

"'Tis Cupid come with loving art
To honor, worship and implore;
And best unwelcomed he depart,
With all his love and myrtle wore.
Awake, awake, O gracious heart!
There's some one knocking at the door."

Few girls can complain about receiving a valentine this year. For the whole country over, in hamlet, town and even in cities, men made such a rush for them that the entire supply, we are told, lasted scarcely a week. Many of the girls who had intended buying valentines to send to a favored one found themselves cleverly outwitted concerning their intended joke to take advantage of being sent by valentine.

Thus the tables were unexpectedly turned upon the ladies. If a girl knows who sent her valentine she loses the fun of guessing. She usually knows how many admirers she has, but to decide upon the right one is no easy matter. It is the girl, however, who has no known admirer who is worked up to the highest pitch of curiosity as to who sent her the valentine breathing the tender sentiment that struck a chord in her heart.

Ten to one, her suspicion will fasten on the wrong man as sender. If she is impressed with him, she'll grow very apt to giggle and blush the first time she meets him after the event. She will try to give him a hint, in a maidenly way, that she was not displeased at being chosen for his valentine. Of course her blushes and confusion are as Greek to him. If she covertly mentions the word "valentine," and he has received a comic one, quite as likely as not he will imagine her to be the sender. This may account for the suddenness with which he cuts short their conversation and his avoidance of her in the future.

Thus it is so many good people are hanged in the wrong, suspected of being the senders of uncomplimentary valentines. It does not do to suspect this one or that one. It's always the person whom you never would suspect who sends the spiteful verse.

If a girl is not positive which one of her admirers sent her the beautiful missive she prizes so highly, let her say much one the better of the whole. The rich man, man-like, will not be able to restrain his curiosity to know what she thought about it. He will not be able to conceal his eagerness and the golden gate into her soul which means so much when the word valentine is suddenly spoken. Many a young man will head off the leap year proposal by being the first to spring it.

A word to the girls: If you really intend to turn the gentleman's provocative of proposing, don't forget first to find out if you like whether the object of your interest is heart whole and fancy free. Because a man has never been seen with a girl is no sign he hasn't a sweetheart who wears his betrothal ring on her finger. If a young man has sent a girl a valentine of tender sentiment, she may judge that no one has a mortgage on his heart. So who knows one girl is not bothering with another.

GIRL IN POTTERY HAS AUBURN-HAIRED BEAUX

C. R. writes: "I am a girl of 16 and go with a young man of 21. He is auburn haired. I am told some of these men are easy to be changed. Is this so? I have a position in a pottery. Does the supposition a good friend, was in same place. He was auburn haired, and was easy to be changed. Ask your opinion before going long with No. 2. Is powder of this dust from the dust?"

I hardly think auburn hair makes any difference in dispositions. Second name may prove the question by information of pottery dust, etc., from those well acquainted with same.

B. E. writes: "I am 16 and decided-ly large for my age. I weigh 150 pounds. Yet I am a good dancer. All like to dance with me. It's because of my weight boys dislike to go places with me so much, I think. I pay strict attention to my school. I do. Am in my last year at high school. I am considered good looking. Many say I am jolly, good natured, not conceited."

Most likely you are too sensitive. When through at your school, busy yourself with exercising. Her note is overdrawn. No doubt you will show to popular with all.

SCHOOLGIRL'S SENSITIVENESS

B. writes: "May I, a school girl, ask your aid? I formerly had a very true friendship with a girl schoolmate I thought my true friend. Her note is very sensitive and I have nothing to do with me. This most broke my heart in part with her, for the sake of others, against her will. I still love and respect her. I do not trust her with confidence she might betray. My parents say let her go."

It is another case of sensitiveness. Books, studies, duties, are far better to place your mind upon than parallend for any while you have not finished your schooling. It is not best while studying to be very devoted and companionable to any one.

"ONLY AN ELDERLY FRIEND"

Mrs. Whiffen, Oldest Actress on American Stage, Is 71 Today

Mrs. Thomas Whiffen, who has been playing on the American and English stage for half a century, begins her seventy-second year today. Mrs. Whiffen is not like most women, who seek to hide their age. She is the oldest actress on the American stage, and very proud of that distinction. Recently she made her first appearance in vaudeville in a New York theatre, and declared that she proposed to invest her earnings from the engagement in a chicken farm, to which she intends to retire when too old to act. Old as she is, Mrs. Whiffen is not the oldest of actresses, for Miss Genevieve Ward, who has been Sir George Alexander's leading lady at the St. James' theatre in London this season, will soon pass her seventy-eighth milestone. Miss Ward, the oldest of British stage women, is a native of New York, while Mrs. Whiffen, most venerable of American actresses, was born in London. Mrs. Whiffen was one of the four children of Mr. and Mrs. Gallon. Her mother was a grand opera singer, as were her two aunts, Louisa and Susan Tyne, the former having been for several years the partner of William Harrison in the Covent Garden Grand Opera Company. Miss Gallon made her stage debut in 1865, playing the role of a fairy in "Turco the Terrible" at the Royalto Theatre. In 1868 she became the bride of Thomas Whiffen and soon afterward came to America as contralto of the Galton Opera Company, her sister Susan being the prima donna, her husband the light tenor, and Alfred Kelleher, afterward her sister's husband, the tenor robusto. Two years later she entered the dramatic field. For thirty-five years she has acted old woman roles. "I've acted the old woman so much and so long that I just naturally had to grow to be one," she said recently. She never thought of retiring, she declared, until last Summer, when she spent some weeks on a chicken farm near Boston. Since then she has entertained the ambition of spending her declining days on that farm, as the proprietor. However, she expects to remain on the stage for several years yet. Her husband, who was a talented singer, died about twenty years ago. During her long career Mrs. Whiffen has supported many of the greatest stars of the American stage—"ancient and modern," one might say—including Miss Anglin, Henry Miller, John Drew, Mrs. Fiske, Mannering and Ethel Barrymore.

SUGGESTIONS TO SICK WOMEN

How Many Are Restored To Health.

First.—Almost every operation in our hospitals performed upon women becomes necessary through neglect of such symptoms as backache, irregular and painful periods, displacements, pain in the side, burning sensation in the stomach, nervousness, nervousness, dizziness and sleeplessness.

Second.—The medicine most successful in relieving these ills is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It regulates and strengthens the organism; it overcomes weakness.

For forty years it has been making women strong and well, relieving backache, nervousness, prostration and inflammation, weakness, displacements, irregularity and periodic pains. It has also proved invaluable in preparing for childbirth and the Change of Life.

Third.—The great number of unsolicited testimonials on file at the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., many of which are from time to time published by permission, are proof of the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, in the treatment of female ills.

Neo-Malthusians Now Number 5,000

The Hague, March 11.—The Neo-Malthusian League which was organized in Holland in 1881, announces that its membership has reached the 5,000 mark, and in its annual report claims for its advocacy of "parental prudence" a large share in the increased longevity known in Holland.

The National Insurance tables show that the average life to which a Dutch baby may look forward at birth is, for a boy, 50 years, and for a girl 52.40 years. It is pointed out that these figures are exceeded only by those of the Scandinavian countries, which were familiar with Malthusianism long before Holland, and by those of the white population of Australia.

The Neo-Malthusian League has been recognized in Holland by royal decree, and its objects, "public utility, and notwithstanding occasional objective measures taken by previous clerical ministries, the League claims that intelligent interest in "mass control" has grown greatly, especially among the laboring classes and among the great army of clerks and middle functionaries, whose small fixed incomes, where the cost of living is mounting up by leaps and bounds, make the doctrine of voluntary restriction to be dreaded rather than welcomed.

Bringing Word From War Lost Jews

The Sort of News That Comes From Poland, Austria and Russia.

By RUTH PICKERING
(Exclusive Service The Survey Press Bureau

"Seek Chiam, the dark one, my brother. I saw him last in the village of Novala."

"Learn for me of Mandel, my son, the man who limps. Ask the people in the town of Kalach, in the South of Russia. They will know what has become of him."

With requests like these on their lips, thousands of East Side Jews are daily climbing the flights of stairs at 77 Delancey street, New York city, for in their first hurry to get word of those whom they had lost, they broke the elevator.

In a small auditorium ands few extra rooms at this address the Hebrew Sheltter and Immigrant Aid Society of America is telling the Jews of this country what has become of their friends and relatives abroad. The undertaking was begun last fall, when Isadore Hershfield went abroad to organize in Rotterdam so enter of communication between American Jews and their suffering relatives in Poland, Russia and Austria.

The First List.

In December the first list sent back by Mr. Hershfield, containing a thousand names of persons who had been asked for or who were inquiring for with the help of some friend here, was read at a meeting overflowing the rooms and the hallways for a block. The next day 200 or 300 who had been forced to wait on the sidewalks the night before were given news of their loved ones, and by 5 o'clock the bureau had filed 11,350 fresh requests for information. Periodic public meetings have since been held to give out news received from abroad.

Mr. Hershfield, having organized his headquarters in Rotterdam, proceeded to Berlin, and is now in Poland. From there he expects to go into Russia.

Most of those who are lost live in the small towns where Jews seldom see a family name. In the large towns, since the Jews were freed, they have adopted family names, and by governmental request. All the cards of the applicants for information ask for the nickname, and when the applicant has given this and the correct name, the last known European address of the one he seeks, and the names of those still in Russia who might know of him, he is handed a card with a number on it and is asked not to come back, until he receives a postal from the bureau.

Relief Funds.

When news finally comes—perhaps that his father is alive with his sister in the little village of Zamoste in southern Poland, but that she has consumption contracted from pestilence in the wake of war and he is without money to help her, or perhaps that his brother is a prisoner in an Austrian camp, or that his mother had died because she had no money for food—then the applicant is sent for and it is someone's task to tell him what word has been received.

The news is almost always tragic. That intense family feeling so characteristic of the Jews becomes more than ever clear as the heart-broken father or mother or son or daughter turns away from the desk and returns in a day or two asking how $25 or $75 can be safely sent abroad.

These small amounts of money for relief are supplemented by money raised in energetic campaigns carried on throughout this country to send to the Jews in Russia, Galicia, Poland and Palestine, by the Jewish relief committee. Their first mass meeting in Carnegie Hall, New York city, brought in $300,000 in pledges and several contributions. Since then rallies all over the United States have raised the amount to where it now stands.

Under the Joint Committee on Jewish Relief, of which Felix Warburg is chairman, are two other committees, one the Central Committee working for funds among the synagogues, and the other, the People's Relief Committee. The latter branch co-operates with the trade unions and solicits from business people. The woman's auxiliary of this committee, Mrs. Philip Lewisohn as chairman, has planned a series of tag days to gather money.

To keep alive the two and one-half million Jews in the 9 Russian provinces under the care of the Jewish Colonization Society in Petrograd, it is estimated that 4,250,000 rubles per month is needed.

While the money is being used primarily to buy bread, it is being spent also, it is declared, to rebuild schools. In these schools children will be clothed and fed, and distracted as far as possible from the misery in which they are growing up. Whage armies have fought and passed on in Galicia, some of the money is going for rehabilitation.

CONNECTICUT MILK AND BUTTER SCORING.

The third quarterly milk and butter scoring was held by the Dairy and Bacteriology Departments at the Connecticut Agricultural College, Storrs, on February 19. There were 16 samples of butter, and four samples of butter scored. This is the largest number of entries to date, showing the increasing interest in the work on the part of the producers. Of the 16 exhibitors of milk, 11 are men who have not participated in the score card before, and 5 the exhibitors of butter, three new names appear. To date, thirty one men have submitted milk samples, and ten men butter samples for scoring.

The average score of the 11 highest on milk at this meeting was 95.5. The 16 samples that scored above 85. The following is a list of the men who sent in the best milk, and wished their scores published.

| | Score. |
|---|---|
| Greenway Farm, (J. R. Foster, Mgr.) Bo. Manchester, | 97.2 |
| W. F. Bradley, Lakeville, | 96.2 |
| Hanford Farm, Groton, | 95.7 |
| W. B. Dayton, Greens Farms, | 94.7 |
| J. Perry, South Manchester, | 92.5 |
| A. Avery, Quinebaug, | 92.45 |
| Chas. Greenbacker, | 92.35 |
| Walter M. Foster, Burnside, | 91.7 |
| Fred Sondelmeier, Willimantic, | 90.3 |

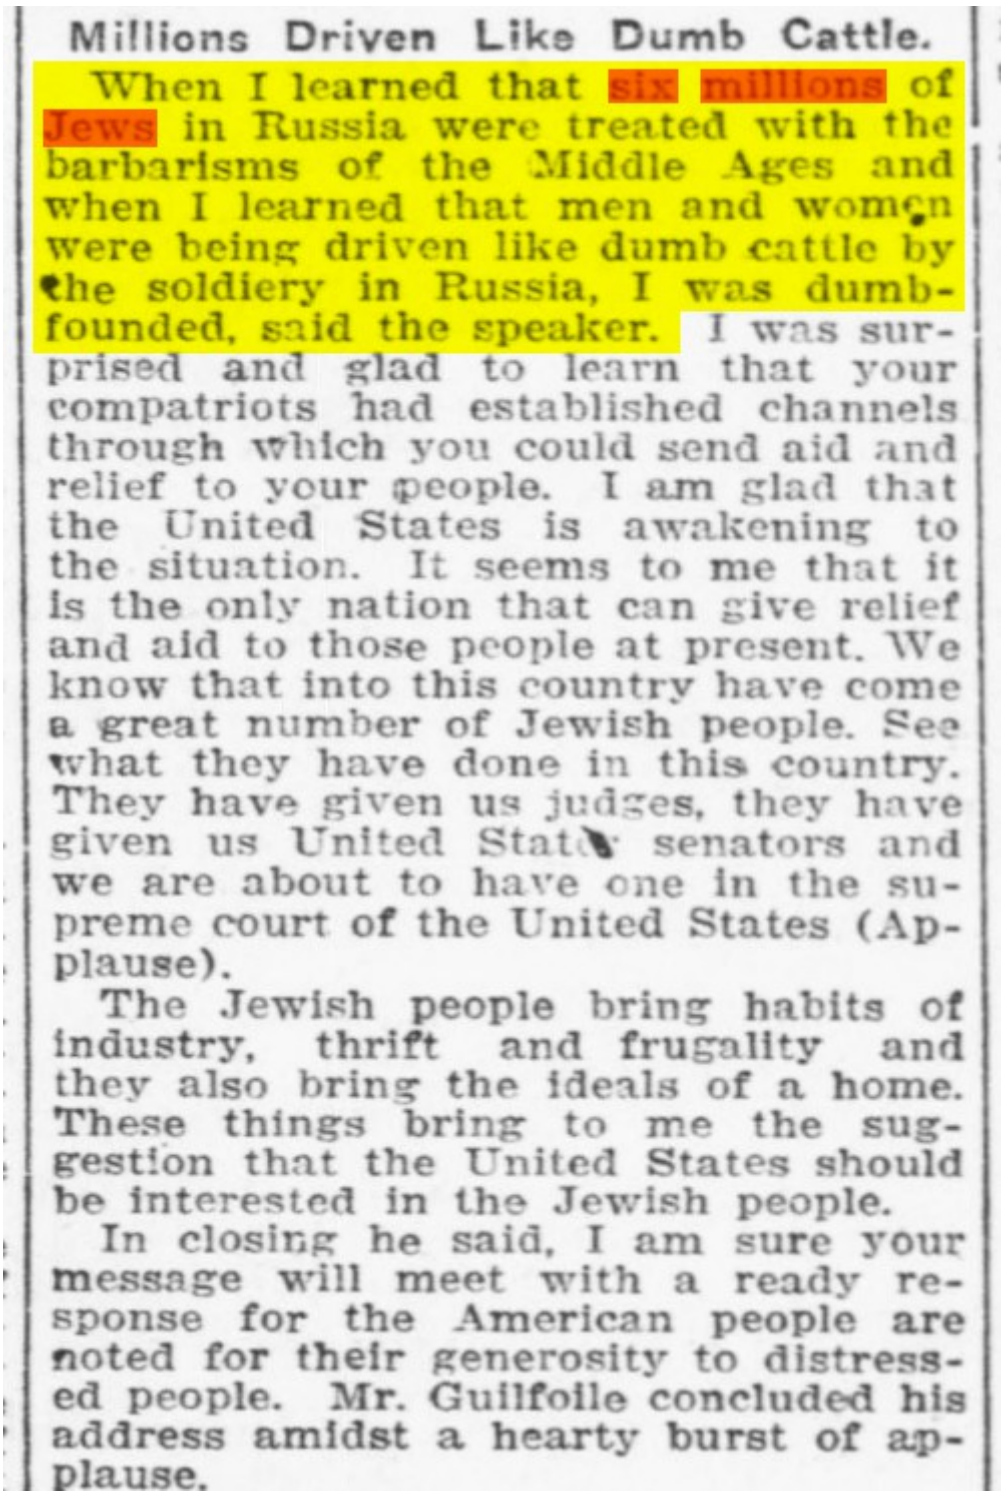
The following scored 90 or above on butter and wished their scores published.

| | Score. |
|---|---|
| Branford Farms, Groton, | 95 |
| F. L. Ives, Litchfield, (Dairy), | 90 |

It is interesting to note that of the five men included in previous scorings all or 100 per cent. scored above N30, while of the 11 new participants, only five or 45.4 per cent. scored above 90. The average score of the first mentioned group was 92.51 points as against 81.44 points for the second group. This is what we would expect. It is the same thing that has been brought out before and emphasized strongly the value of the work. That is, a man who submits samples for scoring regularly, is bound to make improvement.

The bacterial counts were exceptionally low. There were only three samples that scored off heavily on bacteria, the scores being 9, 8 and 8. Of these, one man was feeding corn fodder and grain at milking time, and using an open pail. The other two men seemed to be taking the necessary precautions to produce milk of low bacterial count. They reported their utensils as washed and scalded. It has been proved that the utensils are an important source of bacteria unless they are thoroughly scalded or sterilized. There is some question as to the efficiency of the scalding process as it is carried on in many places. The water must be so hot the hand can not be held in it, and kept hot until all the utensils and bottles are cleaned. They should then be inverted in some protected place where they will not become contaminated. The average bacteria score of all who have exhibited to date and have reported the use of the fertiliser is 21.81; for those reporting washing and scalding, 26.3 and for those reporting washing only 29.8. Some relative score are, of course, not due entirely to manner of cleaning the utensils, but they indicate that unsterilized utensils are a source of bacterial contamination.

The data tabulated from the replies on the question blanks show in general that there must be a consideration of all the factors conducive to the production of high quality milk, coupled with good sound "cow sense" on the part of the herdsman, to produce milk that will score 90 or above.



The three samples of butter which scored off heavily, showed poor workmanship, the tendency being to a mottled and gritty product. Suggestions were made to the makers, which are bound to bring about improvement if they are followed. One can accomplish wonderful improvement in the art of butter making, by following out established methods, and these butter scorings are of very little value to the butter maker than the milk scorings by the milk man.

The next scoring will be held in May. In due season, entry and question blanks will be sent to all who have participated before, and to all members of the Fairgrounds' election. Others should address Superintendent Mills at the College, Storrs, Connecticut, for information.

Millions Driven Like Dumb Cattle.

When I learned that six milllions of Jews in Russia were treated with the barbarisms of the Middle Ages and when I learned that men and women were being driven like dumb cattle by the soldiery in Russia, I was dumbfounded, said the speaker. I was surprised and glad to learn that your compatriots had established channels through which you could send aid and relief to your people. I am glad that the United States is awakening to the situation. It seems to me that it is the only nation that can give relief and aid to those people at present. We know that into this country have come a great number of Jewish people. See what they have done in this country. They have given us judges, they have given us United State senators and we are about to have one in the supreme court of the United States (Applause).

The Jewish people bring habits of industry, thrift and frugality and they also bring the ideals of a home. These things bring to me the suggestion that the United States should be interested in the Jewish people.

In closing he said, I am sure your message will meet with a ready response for the American people are noted for their generosity to distressed people. Mr. Guilfoile concluded his address amidst a hearty burst of applause.

THE HUMAN SOUL IS GOD'S MASTERPIECE

Its Creation the Crowning Glory of God's Work, Said Passionist Father at St. Patrick's Church.

The human soul is God's masterpiece, its creation was the crowning glory of all His works, said Rev. Arthur Campbell, Passionist Father from Boston, Sunday evening, at St. Patrick's church before a very large audience in the first of the series of Sunday evening Lenten sermons. The Wiegand vesper service was beautifully sung by the choir.

Rev. Father Campbell in part said: What doth a man profit if he suffer the loss of his soul? Man is the most wonderful of God's creations, his composition being of two substances, the material body and the spiritual soul. The body of man belongs to the animal kingdom and his soul to the spiritual kingdom. But the body of man is more than the mere animal and the spirit lower than the angels.

We are taught that the body is made of less value it is a mere house of clay and some day falls in ruin, whereas the soul is a treasure more valuable than all the gold and silver in the world. Yes the soul is infinitely of more value than the body and what are you doing to promote the welfare of the soul?

Let us pass a glance at our passing lives. It is years gone by with so barren of good work done and full of sin. Let us tonight strive to appreciate the value of our souls. Consider that Christ came for the redemption of our souls.

Human hands color on canvas landscapes, flowers and various other scenes but the lowest insignificant work of God cannot be imitated by man. Then what of his masterpiece, the soul? Yes the human soul, God's masterpiece. Its creation was the crowning glory of His works. In looking over His other work of marvelous beauty and grace, the sinning bodies of the heavens for something to serve as a model and of all His productions He was unable to find anything beautiful enough to satisfy. So He created man after His own image and likeness, bearing the imprints.

Consider what price you would put on one faculty of the soul. What would you ask for your reasoning power? God gave the power of penetrating the secrets of nature and there is nothing we fear more than mental afflictions. If our reasoning power is of such value what about our soul? It is immortal it never dies: it does not depend upon the body for existence. The body will return to dust but the soul will return to God, it's maker.

The finger of death cannot touch it. Your soul will live forever. It cannot die, cannot decay, cannot be destroyed and only God can annihilate it.

Your soul will live on after your children's children's children are sleeping in the tombs. After generations, after generations the soul will remain. Empires and nations will rise and fall, everything will be subject to change except the soul which will live on. Just like the image of God and then, what must it be worth? Show me your soul and tell me if it is the image of God which it should be. Jesus drove the gamblers out of the temple for their actions: what will the wrath of the Father be when He looks at our souls. The human soul being God's great masterpiece, His best loved work, God loves it as an earthly artist. It reflects beauty and power and is permitted it to man. Wicked man has disfigured it and sold it to the devil. God so loveth the human soul He came to redeem it.

Jesus came on earth in a body like ours, kept a soul imprisoned for thirty and three years. During his life He gave out perfect virtues, admirable instructions and He was the very truth and life. Tell me what is your soul worth? When you stand at the judgment seat, behold the treasure soul you bear. He cared for it, ... for it. Take it Lord, keep it ... and place it near your heart to abide with Thee forever.

OVER $1,000 FOR JEWISH RELIEF

Mass Meeting Held at Davis Theatre Sunday Evening—Addresses by Prominent Speakers—Collection Amounted to $724.50, Which Brings Total Over the Thousand Mark.

As a result of the benefit concert and lecture held in the Davis theatre on Sunday evening under the auspices of the Federated Jewish relief committee of this city, over $1,000 has been raised for the relief of the noncombatant European War Sufferers.

The generous and ready response of the local Jewish people is another indication of the spirit characteristic of the Rose of New England and the committee hope that the people of Norwich will continue their support of the cause which is a worthy one in every way.

Concert Program by Theatre Orchestra.

From 7.30 to 8 o'clock there was a concert programme by the theatre orchestra. A few minutes after 8 o'clock the meeting was called to order by A. Cramer, chairman of the Federated Jewish Relief Committee, who introduced R. C. Plaut as chairman of the meeting.

Mr. Plaut introduced as the first speaker His Honor, Mayor Timothy C. Murphy, who said it gave him great pleasure to be present in the interests of such a worthy cause and he expressed the hope that the people would respond generously.

There are no words of mine that can tell you of the sufferings of the Jewish people in Europe at the present time, said Mayor Murphy, and I hope the day is not far distant when this agony will be over.

The next address was made by Hon. Francis P. Guilfoile, city attorney of Waterbury. Mr. Guilfoile told of how he became a convert to the cause and said he came here to show the people of Norwich that he is in sympathy with the cause.

Millions Driven Like Dumb Cattle.

When I learned that six millions of Jews in Russia were treated with the barbarisms of the Middle Ages and when I learned that men and women were being driven like dumb cattle by the soldiery in Russia, I was dumbfounded, said the speaker. I was surprised and glad to learn that your compatriots had established channels through which you could send aid and relief to your people. I am glad that the United States is awakening to the situation. It seems to me that it is the only nation that can give relief and aid to those people at present. We know that into this country have come a great number of Jewish people. See what they have done in this country. They have given us judges, they have given us United States senators and we are about to have one in the supreme court of the United States (Applause).

The Jewish people bring habits of industry, thrift and frugality and they also bring the ideals of a home. These things bring to me the suggestion that the United States should be interested in the Jewish people.

In closing he said, I am sure your message will meet with a ready response for the American people are noted for their generosity to distressed people. Mr. Guilfoile concluded his address amidst a hearty burst of applause.

Noted New York Speaker.

The third speaker was Hon. Leon Sanders of New York city, grandmaster of the Independent Order of Brith Abraham and president of the Hebrew Sheltering and Immigrant Aid Society of New York city.

The Jews of Norwich have come here together tonight for the purpose of receiving information as to the true condition of their fellowmen in Europe and should resolve, as much as in their power, to relieve the sufferings of those people, said the speaker. There are many who have read with a shudder the newspaper accounts of the manner in which whole populations of cities and towns have been driven from their homes within an hour's notice. There are many who can hardly believe that government officials can be so inhuman. Unfortunately what the newspapers have reported is but a small part of the real truth. The war, unfortunately for Israel, seems to have broken out in that part of Russia allotted to the Jews. Within this section they are a proscribed people. They are not even permitted to receive the rudiments of an education. The Jew when testifying in a court is not by law to be believed when his testimony is contradicted by a so-called Christian.

We don't mind the fact that the men are compelled to fight but we do mind when the car is carried against the wives and children of the Jewish soldiers. They have been driven from home and compelled to go on foot, the old and feeble. They are not allowed to even use the highways for fear that they would interfere with the military plans.

Israel Appealing for Help.

In some cities an order has been issued that the doors of the house be left open at night and a light be kept burning. Death was the penalty for disobedience. Worse than death followed for the men of the regiments were given freedom to enter those houses and to do as they wished with the women and children. Thousands have been killed and the remnant of Israel is appealing for help. To us comes the appeal and how have we responded? The first year of the war we raised but a million dollars. We have since raised three millions more.

But what is that for the relief of four or five millions of people. Distributed, how far will it go? Why this indifference. Is it because you are happy in your lot, that you do not feel the need of those on the other side?

This is the time when every man and woman ought to contribute a certain share of their earnings and give that share until the war is over, until Israel has been freed. Everyone ought to live so that on the day of judgment he can say, "I have done what I could to make the world better. I have contributed what I could to make mankind happier."

I ask you in the collection to be as generous as you know how.

The final speaker was Rev. H. Masliansky of New York city. Rev. Mr. Masliansky spoke in Jewish for the benefit of those in the audience who could understand their own language better than they could the English language.

All the speakers were given rising votes of thanks at the conclusion of their addresses.

Over $700 Collected.

Just before the meeting was brought to a close a collection was taken up and the sum totaled over $724.50. This with the door receipts and the proceeds of the program advertising will probably bring the sum total over $1,000.

Each one attending was presented an attractive souvenir program.

BE CONSCIOUS THAT YOU ARE RIGHT.

F. H. Merrill's Opinion of the Best Preparedness for Peace.

At the Y. M. C. A. men's meeting conducted in the Thayer building Sunday afternoon, F. H. Merrill of New York, a former secretary of the local association, was the speaker. Master Harry Brown Allen, the talented young musician, delighted the large gathering with excellent cornet and cello solos. Swahn's orchestra furnished music and Herbert W. Gallup led the prayer. President James L. Case of the Y. M. C. A. introduced the speaker.

Mr. Merrill said in part:

Which are you, prepared or efficient? The best preparedness for peace is to be conscious that you are right. Mr. Merrill told the story of Gideon and how he put to flight the army of Medianites with 300 men. It is a great thing to be loyal to some cause, said Mr. Merrill, loyal to your country and, above all, the greatest loyalty is that to God. The only way is to let Christ into our life, which is the foundation and the safety first method towards preparedness and efficiency.

NECESSITY OF PENANCE

Emphasized by Christ Himself, Rev. P. J. Cuny Says—How Lenten Denials Discipline the Soul and Will.

At the high mass in St. Patrick's church Sunday Rev. Peter J. Cuny preached a Lenten sermon on The Necessity of Penance. The Saviour said, Except ye do penance ye shall likewise perish. Each Lent furnishes a new opportunity for spiritual advancement and the preacher reminded his hearers that, even though man lives to the spiritual allotment of three score and ten years, for some men each Lent must, of necessity, be their last.

By making denials of one sort or another, the soul is disciplined and the will is trained, so as to be able to better resist temptations as they may arise. These denials, whatever they may be—fasting, giving up pleasures, or whatever form of penance the individual chooses—should be made cheerfully, secretly, without any pharisaical assumption of piety.

In addition to denials, prayer, works of charity, etc., the preacher recommended good reading, the giving up for the forty days of Lent of such light reading as magazines and periodicals, reading instead the Bible, perhaps several chapters of the New Testament daily. No better inspiration to right living can be afforded than that which would result from reading daily the scriptural narration of the events in the life of Christ.

SUNDAY NIGHT CALL FOR FIRE DEPARTMENT.

Box 27 Pulled In for a Small Blaze in North Main Street Building.

Fire was discovered in the big tenement block owned by Barnett Cohn at the corner of Fourth and North Main streets Sunday evening at 11 o'clock. An alarm was rung in from box 27 and the autopumper from the Central station and the Greeneville companies responded to the call.

The fire was confined to the bathroom just at the left of the second story stairway. The fire crept through into the partitions and the firemen found it necessary to cut away portions in order to get at the blaze.

Mrs. Cohn was awakened by the smell of smoke and on investigating discovered the blaze, and about the same time someone passing by on Fourth street saw smoke issuing out of the building and pulled in the alarm. The fire damage is small.

Mr. Cohn, who owns the building, occupied the tenement where the fire broke out. She does not know how it originated. The building was formerly owned by Owen Smith.

SYRUP OF FIGS FOR CROSS, SICK FEVERISH CHILD

IF LITTLE STOMACH IS SOUR, LIVER TORPID OR BOWELS CLOGGED

Mothers can rest easy after giving "California Syrup of Figs," because in a few hours all the clogged-up waste, sour bile and fermenting food gently moves out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, and they become tightly packed, liver gets sluggish and stomach disordered.

When cross, feverish, restless, see if tongue is coated, then give this delicious "fruit laxative." Children love it, and it can not cause injury. No difference what ails your little one—if full of cold or a sore throat, diarrhoea, stomachache, bad breath, remember, a gentle "inside cleansing" should always be the first treatment given. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are printed on each bottle.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." We make no smaller size. Hand back with contempt any other fig syrup.

LIFE'S GREATEST CRISIS.

Rev. Dr. Slocum Says It's the Quiet Turning Point That Determines Our Career.

Life's Greatest Crisis was the topic upon which Rev. Joel B. Slocum, D. D., spoke at the evening service in the Central Baptist church Sunday. A feature of the service was the special musical programme rendered by the Sunday school orchestra. The text of the sermon was taken from Matt. 22: 42, What think ye of Christ?

Rev. Dr. Slocum said in part:

A crisis is a turning point in a critical moment: a juncture on which depends a transition to better or worse. It comes from the Greek word Krisis, which means to decide. A crisis therefore involves decision.

Every life has its great crisis but the great crisis of life is when the claims of Jesus Christ are presented and the soul is called upon to decide. The danger is that people do not always recognize the crisis when it comes. Life's greatest crisis is not necessarily some great climax. It is rather the quiet turning point that determines his whole subsequent career.

There are thousands who do not see when the hour of life comes. They do not hear the stroke of the bell which announces the hour of their destiny. All through the Bible and all through human history there are these crises of souls. Some of them have met the issue bravely and have registered their decision in favor of the eternal things.

This is the greatest question of the ages. What will you do with Jesus? No other question compares with it in importance. The far-reaching consequences that will flow from this present carnage in Europe do not justify calling even that the gravest crisis of life. The great question will still remain after the last gun has been fired in this present war. What will you do with Jesus? We must do something with Him. It is not as though we could do something or nothing, according to our preference. No, the great question is up before every individual conscience, and sooner or later we will all come to the conclusion of Peter and say Lord, to whom shall we go for thou hast the words of eternal life.

The sermon closed with an appeal to decide the great issue of life by personal acceptance of Jesus Christ. Mr. Turner then sang O What Will To Do With Jesus?

Next Sunday evening Dr. J. S. Kirtley of Chicago will deliver one of his famous lecture-sermons at the Central Baptist church, and a large attendance is anticipated.

BABY GIRL ATE BICHLORIDE TABLETS.

Infant Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Ferry Died Later at Hospital.

About 12.30 Saturday noon, Joseph, 19 months' old son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Ferry of No. 249 Franklin street climbed upon a chair which enabled him to reach a box of bichloride tablets that were on a shelf. Mistaking the tablets for candy, he fed them to his six months old sister, Annie, who was playing on the floor. On discovering what had taken place the mother immediately telephoned for Dr. John W. Callahan. The child was removed to the Backus hospital in the ambulance and every effort was made to save the child's life. The child died about 5.30 Saturday afternoon.

Sunday morning an autopsy was performed by Dr. Patrick J. Cassidy. The autopsy revealed ulceration of the gastro-intestinal tract and cloudy swelling of the kidneys. Medical Examiner C. C. Gildersleeve pronounced death due to persistent thymus, caused by poison.

NORWICH AUTO SHOW.

Large Crowds Attracted to Exhibition Hall at Majestic Building.

Impressive in its illustration of the development of the automobile industry, the first automobile show Norwich has ever had was thrown open to the public Saturday afternoon at 1.30 o'clock in the new Majestic building on Shetucket street. The interior was gaily decorated with bunting and lighted with strings of electric lights of various colors.

During the afternoon and evening good sized crowds elbowed their way through the hall, gazing upon the various makes of the motor driven vehicles. Swahn's orchestra, accompanied by Arthur Campbell, the talented local tenor singer, furnished music.

In all there are on exhibition twelve different makes of cars.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth" now and then—a bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver and are constipated, you'll find quick, sure and only pleasant results from one or two little Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take one or two every night just to keep right. Try them. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

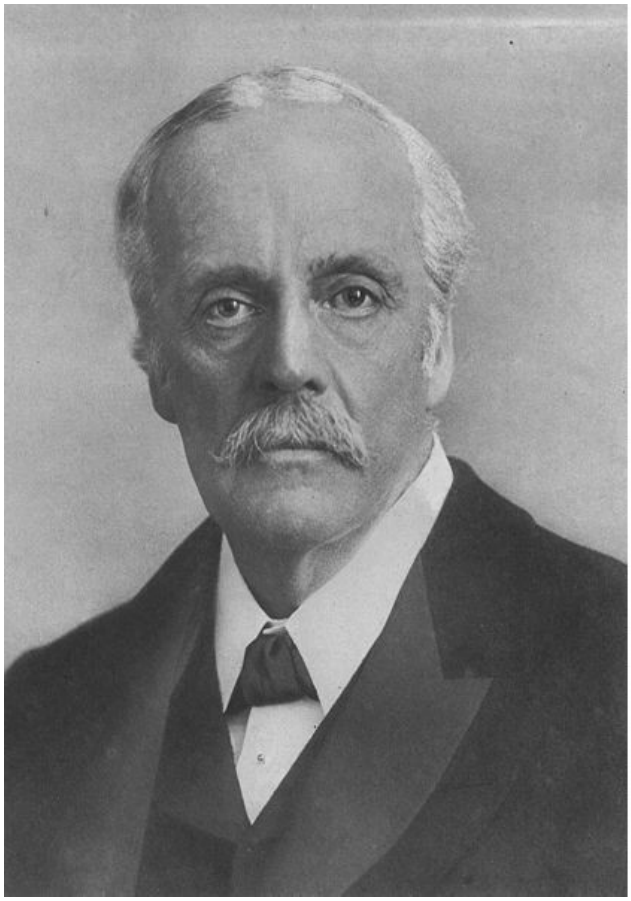
AFTER SIX YEARS OF SUFFERING

Woman Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Columbus, Ohio.—"I had almost given up. I had been sick for six years with female troubles and nervousness. I had a pain in my right side and could not eat anything without hurting my stomach. I could not drink cold water at all nor eat any kind of raw fruit, nor fresh meat nor chicken. From 178 pounds I went to 118 and would get so weak at times that I fell over. I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and ten days later I could eat and it did not hurt my stomach. I have taken the medicine ever since and I feel like a new woman. I now weigh 127 pounds so you can see what it has done for me already. My husband says he knows your medicine has saved my life."—Mrs. J. S. Barlow, 1624 South 4th St., Columbus, Ohio.



Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound contains just the virtues of roots and herbs needed to restore health and strength to the weakened organs of the body. That is why Mrs. Barlow, a chronic invalid, recovered so completely.

It pays for women suffering from any female ailments to insist upon having Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

CLAIMS PALESTINE HAS ROOM FOR SIX MILLION

The recent statement by Viscount James Bryce that Palestine cannot accomodate more than 300,000 Jewish colonists, is strongly controverted by the figures offered by Carl Balod, of the University of Berlin, the leading German economist. In a lecture delivered in Vienna recently under the auspices of "Pro-Palestine" (The German Committee for the Promotion of the Jewish Palestine Settlement) Prof. Ballod said:

"It is quite possible for Palestine to find room for five to six millions who may seek to return to agriculture in that country. Taking into consideration only the fertile valleys and lowlands we find an acrea of 700,000 to 800,000 hectares (1,729,700 to 1,976,800 acres) will suffice to produce the food of six millions of people, reckoned in meat and corn. This would still leave the highlands available for orchards and similar agricultural development. 44,000 hectares (a hectare is equivalent to 2.471 acres) are already in Jewish possession, not including hundreds of orchards.

"Of the fertile regions of Palestine, the first and foremost is the great plain of Jesreel with an acerage of 30,000 hectares 20,000 on the coast of Galilee; 15,000 on the great plain bordering on Hule Lake. The Valley of the Jordan will offer 150,000 hectares after the necessary dams and canals have been constructed. This country will be particularly suitable for rice, sugar, coffee and cocoa cultivation.

"Artificial irrigation will render available the coastal plain from Gaza to Carmel, comprising 250,000 hectares. The Audja river pouring into the Mediterranean north of Jaffa, has a flow of 10 cubic meters per second, sufficient for the irrigation of 66,000 hectares, at an irrigation elevation of 500 milimetres, sufficient for the dry culture of cotton and soya-beans. Moreover, the rainfall in Palestine averages with that of the agricultural regions of Europe, in fact its distribution is even more favorable. The mountains of Palestine are covered with 'nari-crust' affording a serviceable soil for tree-plantation. Olive trees, vines, almond and fig trees have thriven here without artificial irrigation, from time immemorial.

"On the whole, we may estimate Palestine, employing minimum figures, as follows: 300,000 hectares of fertile lowlands, which by means of artificial irrigation can be made to yield a double annual harvest; 600,000 hectares of level or slightly flowing suitable for agriculture; 400,000 hectares in the Hauran, capable of one annual harvest, and at least one million hectares of hill and mountain country covered with nari-crust. There remain, therefore, only 700,000 hectares of non-productive soil, or 25 per cent of the entire area of Palestine.

"The question of acquirement of the land," continued Prof. Ballod, "ought to present no insuperable difficulties. Most of the land is already owned by great Arab land-owners, waiting for their price, and the Fellahin would willingly leave for North Syria or Babylon if they were offered better conditions through the civilizing influences that are reviving these countries."

In explanation of the motives of "Pro-Palestine" Prof. Ballod said: 'We have organized because, we, of whom the majority are non-Jews, take a special 'interest in Zionist aims. It is a movement which must be judged both by its ideal and its practical aspect. In this connection Zionism can be compared only to the movement of the Puritans and Quakers who went to America in the 17th century and who have left as their heirloom the whole ethical ground-work of domern America, and who also initiated a great economical development."

THE JEWS OF THE MIDDLE AGES

A meeting of the Jewish Historical Society was held last week at the Mocatta Library, University College, London, to hear a paper by Cyril Picciotto on "The Legal Position of the Jews in England as Shown in the Plea Rolls of the Jewish Exchequer." The topic was found to be exceedingly interesting by the audience, practically all of whom were more or less specialists in these Jewish historical questions.

The lecturer dealt with the legal position of the Jews in in England, mainly in the thirteenth century and prior to the expulsion, and with the nature and functions of the Jewish exchequer of that period, citing various enactments in regard to the Jews who were considered the special property of the King. But he contended that they were by no means the oppressed Jews they were supposed to have been, as the Plea Rolls revealed an extraordinary atmosphere of fairness and impartiality between the Jews and Christians. Mr. Picciotto thought it was demonstrated that the Jews of the period in question had enforceable rights in property, and that a place had been found for them under the feudal system, and in spite of the fact that it had been stated that, while the Jew had belonged to the King, there were many things in law which the King could do, but which were rarely, if ever, enforced. It was true that the Jew was heavily taxed, but the lecturer protested against the theory of rightlessness. The pleas showed that the Jewish exchequers were presided over by justices of Jews, who seem to have enjoyed equal rights with other justices, and even concerned themselves with such crimes as murder.

Sir Lionel Abrahams, in moving a vote of thinks to the lecturer, said that there was a real tendency to take extreme views on such vague questions as to whether Jews had any rights in the Middle Ages. What Mr. Picciotto had set forth in his paper would always be an important stage in the development of the opinion of historians on that subject. In regard to the taxation of the Jew, and imprisonment in the event of his failing to pay, that was an illustration of the instability of Jewish rights.

Lucien Wolf seconded the vote. He agreed with the lecturer as to the status of the Jews of the pre-expulsion period, and said that he had long been under the impression that they had exaggerated the righteousness of the Jews of that period. Until the religious difference between the Jew and his Christian neighbor became accentuated by passion, there was very little in the situation of the Jew of which to complain.

RUSSIA IN CHAOS

Best Thing to Do Is to Become U. S. Citizen

Russia has reached such chaos, that there is only one thing for a Russian to do and that is to become an American citizen. So Julius Lesser explained in obtaining his first citizenship papers.

He was born in Vilna, Russia. He came here in 1880. His wife Rosa accompanied him. She is seventy. Lesser has followed a variety of trades. His present occupation, he said recently, is peddling notions.

"My mind is clear and I'll beat anybody at checkers," he boasted proudly. "Maybe if I was a few years younger I'd register and try to get in the draft. The way things are going nowadays in the old country it breaks a man's heart. Vilna used to be a beautiful place. Now it's perhaps all bombarded. Now it is Mr. Kerensky and now it is Mr. Trotzky and now it is Mr. Lenine and now it is nobody and now it is everybody. It is time I became a citizen of America where there is no such changing."

"But it took twenty years to get him to this office," Mrs. Lesser chimed in. 'For twenty years I have been trying to make him become an American citizen. Now I have made him.'

PROMINENT BRITONS ANTI-ZIONISTS

The assault of the Zionists of England upon the League of British Jews goes on. The League owes its existence largely to Lord Swaythling, and among its more prominent members are Major Lionel de Rothschild, Sir Philip Magnus, M. P., Sir Charles Henry, Sir Isidore Spielman, Prof. Israel Gollancz and Claude G. Montefiore, who with other gentlemen are members of the league's provisional committee. The keynote of the league's policy appears to be insistence upon the following statement: "We are Jews in religion; in other respects we are Britishers."

The attitude of the League in regard to Palestine has been stated by Lord Swaythling as follows:

"We hope that a British protectorate will arise over Palestine—a crown colony—in which anyone of any religion will be allowed to govern. We shall assist any Jews who wish to go to Palestine, and I hope that we shall have eventually a Jewish majority there. But we should protest against any religious test of political or civil rights; we should demand political and civil rights there for people of every religion, as we have demanded their rights for Jews in every country."

The League has about 1,300 members and represents many of those prominent in British Jewry.

TAKES PART IN UNION CHURCH SERVICE

The Jewish spirit of patriotism was well represented on Sunday evening at the Union Church Services held at Memorial Hall. Ministers of all denominations joined with their congregation in a mammoth service devoted to furthering the sale of thrift stamps and war saving stamps during the war stamp drive.

Rabbi Joseph S. Kornfeld

Rabbi Joseph S. Kornfeld delivered an impressive and appealing address, bringing out the thought that in these great crises of the war, the people of the country had dropped their common battle against Prussianism. He called attention to the spirit of the Americans of Revolutionary days and said that the distinctions of petty differences and had united in the service of the nation.

He held that the spirit of sacrifice and service should be the spirit of the day and that we here should remember that we must sacrifice something in our same spirit holds true in the hearts of our heroes of today.

Rabbi Kornfeld compared Prussianism to a poisonous growth, and stated that the burden of humanity's sacrifice is being borne by America; and that the American people must realize that their best service today is the purchase of thrift stamps.

"Service becomes divine," said the rabbi, "only when the person performing that service feels the element of sacrifice in that service. In that way he who captures a trench, and he who sacrifices in his buying of war savings stamps, perform a divine service."

The services drew so great a congregation of Jew and Gentile, white and negro that a second overflow meeting was held on the steps of Memorial Hall, the assembly being too large to gain entrance.

JEWISH VILLAGE HOLDS PATRIOTIC RECORD

The Borough of Woodbine, N. J., built and populated by Jewish immigrants who came here to escape the persecutions of the Russian and Roumanian governments, is giving its full measure of devotion to the country it adopted and loves.

With only a small population of about 300 families, it has sent to the service of the army and navy of the United States thirty-seven of its young men, who were either born in this country or came when quite young, and were reared and educated in the Woodbine public schools.

The people of Woodbine purchased $42,000 worth of Liberty Bonds of the third issue, the quota for Woodbine having been $15,000. Every household has bought at least one $50 bond. The Woodbine population contributed $1,000 to the Red Cross. The sale of War Savings Stamps amounted to $2,576 of which $,476 was realized by the public school children.

The most striking feature of the devotion of the Woodbine children is the energy with which they apply themselves to increasing the food production. Two hundred and fourteen gardens are worked by the children with quite marked success.

While sharing in the general war activities, Woodbine also donated $4.050 to the Jewish Relief Fund.

CAMP MIRIAM OPENS JULY 15

On July 5th the Miriam Camp for girls will be opened. Arrangements are being made to care for 50 girls in groups of twelve, each group staying in camp for one week.

Miriam Camp is one of the most beautiful spots in this part of the country. It has a ravine, a farm, and a river where bathing and wadding can be enjoyed.

CONG. TIFERETH ISRAEL PATRIOTIC SERVICE

Final arrangements have been made for the patriotic services to be held by the Congregation Tifereth Israel on Sunday, June 30th.

Mayor George Karb, and Mr. E. J. Schanfarber will be on the elaborate program which will be presented and many other numbers of a patriotic spirit. Children of the congregation will take part in the program, which will include the dedication of a service flag by Rabbi Shohet.

The services will be held Sunday afternoon at 2:30.

I. O. B. B.

The largest and most interesting meeting of the season was held on Monday evening by the local lodge of the B'nai B'rith at their meeting place, the Cerise room of the Southern Hotel.

Important discussion took place on that evening, the subject being the question of a home of its own for Zion Lodge. The discussion was lively and interesting, and was concluded by a committee being appointed to investigate the question.

A large class was initiated on that evening.

The next meeting which will be held on Monday, July 8th, is also scheduled as a meeting of importance, as the question of the home for the local lodge will be further discussed.

KOSHER FOOD FOR CAMP UPTON

Camp Upton—The Jewish Welfare Board is considering a plan to erect an auditorium at this camp to seat 1,000 persons and a hostess house to provide kosher food for Orthodox Jews. This cantonment is now and has been since its establishment, the training center for more Jews than any other in the country, and the Welfare Board has been pressed for social accommodations for them. It is believed here that the authority to erect the buildings will be given by the New York board, and that the work will begin shortly.

TRENCH WARFARE NOT NEW, SAYS HEBREW SCHOLAR

It is generally believed that trench warfare originated in the last Russo-Japanese war. Once more King Solomon and Ben Akiba are vindicated. There is nothing new under the sun, and "Alles schon dagewesen." Meshullam ben Menahem of Volterra in Tuscany, who made a pilgrimage to Palestine in 1481, gives us the following description of the perils of the journey by land from Cairo to Gaza:

"One who does not know the Arabic language is obliged to dress like the Turks, for if it became known that he is a Jew or a Franki (the designation of a European Christian among Arabs and Turks) he 'will not go free in the jubilee year' and will have to pay a ransom from the feud to the head of the village. Even if you wear the white turban of the Turks and Arabs, the danger is still very great, for a member of the caravan may give the secret away—God forbid—that you are a Jew or a Christian. If you have escaped from all these dangers, there is an additional danger lurking for you from the highwaymen who are buried in the ground up to the neck for two and three days without food or drink, and their head is hidden by a stone on top of the pit, so that they can see others while they are not seen. When they see a caravan passing which is inferior in numbers, they leave the pit, call their companions and attack the caravan on their horses, which are as swift as leopards, with long spears which have an iron head that is poisoned. They also carry iron maces and bucklers made of leather and pitch, and their only garment is a shirt. They have neither stockings nor sandals nor spurs and alight on a caravan with lightning rapidity, taking all that they have, including garments and horses, and sometimes even killing them, although as a rule they merely rob them. Therefore it is good to have a convoy of Turks, for these are expert archers, while the Bedouins are naked, do not know the use of the bow, and therefore are afraid of them, so that two Turks will put to flight ten Arabs."

The passage is found in Meshulam's Dairy, published by A. M. Lunez in Jerusalem Year Book for the Diffusion of an Accurate Knowledge of Ancient and Modern Palestine, vol. I, p. 194-195, Vienna, 1882.

CLAIMS PALESTINE HAS ROOM FOR SIX MILLION

The recent statement by Viscount James Bryce that Palestine cannot accomodate more than 300,000 Jewish colonists, is strongly controverted by the figures offered by Carl Balod, of the University of Berlin, the leading German economist. In a lecture delivered in Vienna recently under the auspices of "Pro-Palestine" (The German Committee for the Promotion of the Jewish Palestine Settlement) Prof. Ballod said:

"It is quite possible for Palestine to find room for five to six millions who may seek to return to agriculture in that country. Taking into consideration only the fertile valleys and lowlands we find an acrea of 700,000 to 800,000 hectares (1,729,700 to 1,976,800 acres) will suffice to produce the food of six millions of people, reckoned in meat and corn. This would still leave the highlands available for orchards and similar agricultural development. 44,000 hectares (a hectare is equivalent to 2.471 acres) are already in Jewish possession, not including hundreds of orchards.

"Of the fertile regions of Palestine, the first and foremost is the great plain of Jesreel with an acreage of 30,000 hectares 20,000 on the coast of Galilee; 15,000 on the great plain bordering on Hule Lake. The Valley of the Jordan will offer 150,000 hectares after the necessary dams and canals have been constructed. This country will be particularly suitable for rice, sugar, coffee and cocoa cultivation.

"Artificial irrigation will render available the coastal plain from Gaza to Carmel, comprising 250,000 hectares. The Audja river pouring into the Mediterranean north of Jaffa, has a flow of 10 cubic meters per second, sufficient for the irrigation of 66,000 hectares, at an irrigation elevation of 500 milimetres, sufficient for the dry culture of cotton and soya-beans. Moreover, the rainfall in Palestine averages with that of the agricultural regions of Europe, in fact its distribution is even more favorable. The mountains of Palestine are covered with 'naricrust' affording a serviceable soil for tree-plantation. Olive trees, vines, almond and fig trees have thriven here without artificial irrigation, from time immemorial.

"On the whole, we may estimate Palestine, employing minimum figures, as follows: 300,000 hectares of fertile lowlands, which by means of artificial irrigation can be made to yield a double annual harvest; 600,000 hectares of level or slightly flowing suitable for agriculture; 400,000 hectares in the Hauran, capable of one annual harvest, and at least one million hectares of hill and mountain country covered with nari-crust. There remain, therefore, only 700,000 hectares of non-productive soil, or 25 per cent of the entire area of Palestine.

"The question of acquirement of the land," continued Prof. Ballod, "ought to present no insuperable difficulties. Most of the land is already owned by great Arab land-owners, waiting for their price, and the Fellahin would willingly leave for North Syria or Babylon if they were offered better conditions through the civilizing influences that are reviving these countries."

In explanation of the motives of "Pro-Palestine" Prof. Ballod said: 'We have organized because, we, of whom the majority are non-Jews, take a special 'interest in Zionist aims. It is a movement which must be judged both by its ideal and its practical aspect. In this connection Zionism can be compared only to the movement of the Puritans and Quakers who went to America in the 17th century and who have left as their heirloom the whole ethical ground-work of domern America, and who also initiated a great economical development."

AGUDAS ACHIM RED CROSS UNIT

Exceptionally effective Red Cross work is being done by the Red Cross Unit of the Agudas Achim Congregation. Although recently organized, the unit, consisting of twenty-five members is aiding in the general Red Cross work to a great extent. The organization is being led by Mrs. I. L. Goldberg, president and Mrs. H. A. Cohen, Secretary.

Mrs. Goldberg in talking of the work and of the need for more active Red Cross co-operation among the ladies of Congregation Agudas Achim remarked,

"We want the ladies to come down regularly and work for the Red Crosss. We are trying to make the organization reach a high stage of effectiveness, and to do that, we need the co-operation of all of our women. Our sewing and knitting sessions are now being quite well attended, but we wish to urge on everyone the necessity and need for a better and larger Red Cross Unit."

The unit meets every Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock at the Agudas Achim Synagogue.

WELFARE BOARD TO ENTERTAIN JEWISH MEN AT CAMP SHERMAN

The Columbus Branch of the Jewish Board for Army Welfare has arranged a dance for the Jewish men at Camp Sherman, to be given on Saturday evening, June 29th, in Talbot's open-air pavilion, opposite the B'nai B'rith Club in Chillicothe.

Columbus Jewry is urged to attend this affair, in order to make this a community event.

Describes Relief Work Among 20,000 Russian Refugees Who Have Been Compelled to Travel Thousands of Miles to Escape the Enemy.

In a report to the director of the Hebrew Sheltering and Immigrant Aid Society, Mr. Samuel Mason, who went to Japan and Russia as special commissioner for the organization, tell the story of the terrible hardships endured by Jewish war refugees from Russia. The report describes the havoc the war has caused among the six million Jews of Russia. Driven by the invading armies, the Jews have been compelled to flee from their homes; tens of thousands have traveled thousands of miles amidst the greatest hardships to escape the enemy. Over 20,000 Jewish war refugees are scattered east of the Urals.

The relief organized by the Hebrew Sheltering and Immigrant Aid Society of America came none too soon. The work is only in its inception, but what has been accomplished thus far shows that American Jewry must make strenuous endeavors to rescue these war refugees, the vast majority of them women and children from the jaws of death.

Mr. Mason arrived in Yokohama on January 1. From that day until July 5, when he left to return to New York for the purpose of reporting upon this work and discussing the needs of the future, his whole time was occupied in organizing relief agencies in Yokohama, Harbin, Valdivostock, Tokyo, Kobe and Nagassaki. ## SAMUEL MASON DESCRIBES AWFUL SUFFERING OF RUSSIAN REFUGES

Special Commissioner of Hebrew Sheltering and Immigrant Society Submits Report of His Six Months Labor at Harbin and Vladivostock.

Describes Relief Work Among 20,000 Russian Refugees Who Have Been Compelled to Travel Thousands of Miles to Escape the Enemy.

In a report to the director of the Hebrew Sheltering and Immigrant Aid Society, Mr. Samuel Mason, who went to Japan and Russia as special commissioner for the organization, tell the story of the terrible hardships endured by Jewish war refugees from Russia. The report describes the havoc the war has caused among the six million Jews of Russia. Driven by the invading armies, the Jews have been compelled to flee from their homes; tens of thousands have traveled thousands of miles amidst the greatest hardships to escape the enemy. Over 20,000 Jewish war refugees are scattered east of the Urals.

The relief organized by the Hebrew Sheltering and Immigrant Aid Society of America came none too soon. The work is only in its inception, but what has been accomplished thus far shows that American Jewry must make strenuous endeavors to rescue these war refugees, the vast majority of them women and children from the jaws of death.

Mr. Mason arrived in Yokohama on January 1. From that day until July 5, when he left to return to New York for the purpose of reporting upon this work and discussing the needs of the future, his whole time was occupied in organizing relief agencies in Yokohama, Harbin, Valdivostock, Tokyo, Kobe and Nagassaki. The result of the work is embodied in the report to the board of directors of the Hebrew Sheltering and Immigrait Aid Society of America, now made public by Mr. John L. Bernstein, the president.

Among the refugees were one hundred and six non-Jews, Poles, Slavs, Armenians, Syrians and Persians. It goes without saying that they received every care. As previously stated, more than 20,000 refugees are scattered east of the Urals. This is a conservative estimate. Driven by the enemy, thousands of miles from their homes, they went eastward in their flight, because their nearest of kin are in the United States. They, too, are stranded, but their position is made more precarious by a hostile regime, augemented by the setting loose of thousands of German war prisoners, who look upon the Jewish victims as the easiest prey for exercising their ill-concealed desire for vengeance upon their enemies. Thus the plight of the 8,000 Jewish refugees from Kowna and Suwalke Gubernias now in Tomsk was for a time indescribable, owing to the persecution of the foner German prisoners, whom the Bolsheviki permitted to administer and control that city.

The condition at Vladivostock is deplorable, the main trouble there is with the male refugees who are not given any assistance by the local community. Says Mr. Mason: "They are actually picking up crumbs of bread wherever they can find them and they sleep in any shed they can find along the railroad tracks. Their number is very large. In the course of my investigation in Vladivostock I came across several hundreds at the railroad station at 5 o'clock one morning. Their pitiful pleas and the recital of their horrible plight nearly broke my heart.

From the very inception of the work, even before Mr. Mason sailed for the Far East, the United States Government evinced a deep interest in the fate of the refugees, and "had it not been for the broad humanitarianism that actuates the administration in Washington, our efforts," Mr. Mason reports, "might have been frustrated at the very outset. War conditions made it necessary for the promulgation of a new policy in regard to the visa of alien passports and the American Consuls in Japan naturally had to guide themselves accordingly. However, due to your prompt action in advising the State Department of the character of our work and thanks to the thorough comprehension of that work by our Government officials, some of the greatest difficulties were overcome after the State Department had issued special instructions to the American Consuls at Harbin, Vladivostock, Kobe and Yokohama relative to the passports of women and children—war refugees—who are destined to male relatives in the United States. The consuls not only followed the letter of the modified instructions of the State Department, but they evidenced too a willingness to reflect the liberal spirit of President Wilson's administration. Having satisfied themselves as to the worthiness and the eligibility of the applicant, they promptly visaed the passport.

PRESIDENT WILSON'S NEW YEAR'S GREETING TO THE JEWISH PEOPLE

The celebration of the New Year by the Jewish people has been given unusual importance by the following communication from President Wilson.

"The White House,
"Washington,
"August 31, 1918.

"My dear Rabbi Wise:

"I have watched with deep and sincere interest the reconstructive work which the Weizmann Commission has done in Palestine at the instance of the British Government, and I welcome an opportunity to express the satisfaction I have felt in the progress of the Zionist movement in the United States and in the allied countries since the declaration by Mr. Balfour on behalf of the British Government, of Great Britain's approval of the establishment in Palestine of a national home for the Jewish people, and his promise that the British Government would use its best endeavors to facilitate the achievement of that object, with the understanding that nothing would be done to prejudice the civil and religious rights of non-Jewish people in Palestine or the rights and political status enjoyed by the Jews in other countries.

"I think that all Americans will be deeply moved by the report that even in this time of stress the Weizmann Commission has been able to lay the foundation of the Hebrew University at Jerusalem with the promise that bears of spiritual rebirth.

"Cordially and sincerely yours,

"WOODROW WILSON."

WELFARE WORKERS DO SHOPPING FOR SOLDIERS

Needles and pins, razor blades and candy, button and toothpaste—all these make up the shipping list of the man in uniform. When the soldier needs them—he needs them badly, and he just can't wait until he gets leave of absence to go shopping. The men at the barracks of the University of Pittsburgh Training Detachment had a long stony hill-climb into town, and their shipping lists grew in length and urgency, until the Field Representative of the Jewish Welfare Board initiated the shopping service. Every morning at reveille, he takes their orders. At the community center a group of women, who drive their own cars, are waiting. The shopping lists are handed to them and at noon mess, the Jewish Welfare representative is able to distribute the purchased articles.

This plan has proven so successful at Pittsburg, that other Jewish Welfare Board branches and women volunteers throughout the country are planning to take it up.

In the evening when the "movies" and soda fountains of the city are tempting, the Jewish Welfare Board provides free auto service for the soldiers. A squad of motor cars travel from the barracks into the city, and hundreds of boys are transported each evening.

CALL TO GREATER SERVICE SOUNDED

Jewish Welfare Board Sends Rosh Hashonah Message to American Jewry.

Expresses Fervent Hope That New Year May Dawn on American Triumphant.

A call to greater patriotic service was sounded by the Jewish Welfare Board in a Rosh Hashonah message to its community branches throughout the country and to all the Jews of America.

Rosh Hashonah, the Jewish New Year, coming this year on September 7th and 8th found the Jewish youths under arms in France and in this country. This most solemn of Jewish religious observances this year assumed greater significance. Special services were held by the Jewish Welfare Board in the camps and naval training stations throughout the country for men who were unable to avail themselves of the three day furlough granted by the War and Navy Departments. The community branches provided hospitality and services for men on leave.

The following greeting expressed the sentiment of all American Jewry:

"On the occasion of the New Year, the Jewish Welfare Board extends warm holiday greetings to the Jews of America so generously sharing with it the labors of a great task.

"This Board sincerely wishes our people the fruits of a happy and prosperous year. In this hour of national trial, however, its profound trust is that beyond material blessings, the year that is being born will vouchsafe to them the zeal, and strength, and resolution to continue to perform well the office of patriotism.

"With fresh comprehension of our duty and with renewed determination to play a worthy part in the national purpose, may we not hope that the dawn of another year will rise on America triumphant?

"In loyal devotion to the understanding of serving the fighting forces of our country, may American Jewry find abundant happiness during the coming year."

JERUSALEM'S RABBIS DO HOMAGE TO ENGLAND

Sepher Torah in Silver Casket Presented to General Allenby by Zionist Organization.

Dr. Chaim Weitzman, Head of Zionist Administrative Commission, Makes Presentation Address.

General Allenby, liberator of Palestine ,was the central figure of a unique event, when he paid an official visit to the Jewish community of Jerusalem, and received a small Sepher Torah (scroll of the law) in a silver casket from Dr. Chaim Weitzman, head of the Jewish Administrative Commission, who made the presentation on behalf of the Zionist organization.

The Jewish quarter was en fete, and a guard of honor composed of Jewish boy scouts in blue and white costumes escorted him to the principal mansion in the Bokharan section, where the presentation occurred. The chief Rabbi of Ashkenasic and Sephardic communities, Rabbi Nachum and Rabbi Elijahu, delivered stirring addresses which made a profound impression on General Allenby, especially since these two religious leaders had been chosen to be the spokesmen of the Jewish community.

"Your Excellency, the Jewish community of Jerusalem, the crown and the glory of the world's cities, has charged me, as one of its oldest Rabbis, to bid you welcome to Jerusalem and to express to you its warm regard for the great British people whose mighty and victorious army your Excellency commands" said Rabbi Nachum. "For the Jewish people—the victory of England is a victory of humanity and the means of its progress along the road of freedom. Therefore, as one of the most persecuted of peoples, which is yearning for a life of its own, the Jewish people eagerly awaits the day when the English people will come out of the world upheaval with the crown of victory on its head and the charter of freedom for enslaved peoples in its hands. In the name of my brethren whom I represent, I offer you hearty greetings. Success attend your arms, may your work prosper and bring glory to our people which has reposed its trust in you. And may the words of our Prophet Ezekiel be fulfilled: 'In the mountain and on the height of Israel will I plant; and it shall bring forth boughs and bear fruit, and be a goodly cheer and under it shall dwell all fowl of every wing, in the shadow of the branches thereof shall they dwell'."

Rabbi Elijahu spoke as follows: "Your Excellency, in the name of the community of Jews, whose fortune it has been to return and settle in the Holy City of Jerusalem, our beloved city, I have the honor to extend to your Excellency, a heartfelt welcome. Providence, whose ways are the best and know no crookedness, has choosen the mighty and magnificent British people to be the savior of peoples and the herald of freedom to the nations, and has choosen you one of its noblest sons to proclaim the message of liberty from the heights of Zion's mountains — those mountains at which the same message was proclaimed thousands of years ago by the Prophets of Israel, the seers of God. I rejoice on this happy occasion of your Excellency's visit to Jerusalem to express those feelings of love and affection towards the great English nation which have long been a tradition of the Jewish people. In the words of our Prophet Isaiah spoken in the name of God, 'I will break in pieces the gates of brass and cut in sunder the bars of iron. And I will give you the treasures of darkness and the hidden riches of secret places, and then thou mayest know that I, the Lord, which calls thee by name am the God of Israel; for Jacob, my servant's sake and Israel mine elect. I have raised him up in righteousness, and I will direct all his ways; he shall build my city and he shall let go my captives'."

General Allenby replied: "It is with humility, as well as with pride, that I receive this beautiful gift. This city in which we stand is the fountain and origin of the great religions of the world. Though we are of different faiths, our creeds all spring from the same source, and this scroll of law is as sacred to me as to you. I thank you, Dr. Weitzman, and you, Chief Rabbis, for your gift. I thank you also for the kind words you have spoken to me. I esteem it a pride and a privilege to have been able to do what I have done, and to enter this Holy City to the satisfaction and delight of all its inhabitants, and I wish you all prosperity and happiness."

ZIONIST RECRUITS MAY BE ALLOWED LAND TO SETTLE ON

Members of the British and Canadian recruiting mission and members of the Zionist Organization of the United States had luncheon together at the City Club and discussed means for recruiting the Jewish brigade now fighting with the British army under General Allenby in Palestine. Two battalions already have been recruited in New York and vicinity. The recruits are sent first to Canada for preliminary training and then to England for the finishing before going to the Holy Land.

It is understood between these recruits and the British government, when the war is over, they may remain in Palestine, if they choose, take up land, and make new homes for themselves in the ancient land of their fathers. So far the recruiting has been done among those who would not be taken in the United States draft. It was the opinion of those who attended the luncheon that nothing should be done that might interfere with filling the United States army under the prospective new draft law.

ALEX. BRIN BECOMES EDITOR OF THE BOSTON JEWISH ADVOCATE

Mr. Alexander Brin, for the past fourteen months associate editor of the Boston Jewish Advocate, has become editor and controlling owner, to succeed Mr. Jacob de Haas, who was editor since 1908.

Mr. Brin is president of the new company, known as the Advocate Publishing Company. The other officers are James D. Glunts, treasurer; Morris D. Waldman, James Solomon, Leon Strauss, Miss Lina H. Frankenstein and Alexander Brin, directors. The company is capitalized at $50,000.

Mr. Brin reported the Frank case for the Boston traveler in 1915. He began his newspaper career as reporter for the Traveler before it consolidated with the Herald. He later reported for the Boston Journal and still later for the Boston Post and also for the Boston American. At the time of the famous Beilis case he edited a special section for the latter publication.

Before becoming associate editor of the Jewish Advocate, Mr. Brin successfully managed and edited the Cosmopolitan Press Syndicate. He was correspondent for the Jewish Comment, Baltimore; the American Hebrew, New York, and a number of secular and non-secular dailies and weeklies for whom he wrote regular and special feature articles.

OFFENSIVE ADVERTISING ORDERED STOPPED BY CHARLES M. SCHWAB

Emergency Fleet Corporation Heads Take Action After Discriminating Advertisement is Brought to Their Attention by Louis Marshall.

President of American Jewish Committee Secures Complete Satisfaction From Charles M. Schwab, Who Reprimands Offender Severely.

Through the efforts of Mr. Louis Marshall, president of the American Jewish Committee, an advertisement published in the New York Times, very offensive to the Jewish people, has been stopped and the author severely reprimanded. The advertisement which was inserted in the name of the U. S. Shipping Board, 115 Broadway contained the word "Christian." The matter was brought to Mr. Marshall's attention by Mr. Louis Wiley of the "Times" and was then taken up with Mr. Bainbridge Colby of the U. S. Shipping Board.

In a letter to Mr. Colby, July 25, Mr. Marshall said in part:

"This is a matter of vital importance. It cannot be blinked or disposed or by the ordinary platitudes. Mr. Hudson will, of course asseverate that he meant no harm and that "some of his best friends are "Hebrews." Nor will a rosewater reprimand fit such a disregard of the very genius of American institutions. Not because of any desire for inflicting punishment, but for the sake of example and the establishment of a necessary precedent, this offense should be followed by a dismissal from the public service of the offender, and the public should be informed of the reason."

Mr. Colby's reply follows:

August 8, 1918.

Dear Mr. Marshall:

When your letter of July 25 was received I referred it to the Director General of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, Mr. Charles M. Schwba, who in a letter received yesterday advises me that the matter is receiving his personal attention, and that I may be assured of a definite report on the subject. Just as soon as I am told what action has been or is proposed to be taken, I shall be glad to write your further.

Faithfully yours,
(Signed) BAINBRIDGE COLBY,
Commissioner.

August 23, 1918.

My dear Mr. Marshall:

The Emergency Fleet Corporation has sent a circular to its various department heads, of which I send you a copy. From this it appears that there can be no mistaking the disapproval with which the corporation looks upon any intrusion of a religious test in the selection of its employes. I beg also to include a copy of Mr. Schwab's letter to me on the subject. I sent him your letter, which had his careful consideration.

Yours faithfully
(Signed) BAINBRIDGE COLBY,
Commissioner.

Following is Mr. Schwab's letter to Mr. Colby:

My dear Mr. Colby:

Referring again to your letter of August 2, and also to yours of August 7, and returning herewith letter from Mr. Louis Marshall of the law firm of Guggenheimer, Untermyer & Marshall, dated July 25, regarding an advertisement of an objectionable character which was placed in the New York Times.

As promised you in my letter of August 5, I have had this matter thoroughly investigated and beg leave to make the following report:

This advertisement was placed in the New York Times by a clerk in charge of the files in our New York office, without the knowledge or approval of our district supervisor, although it was called to his attention later.

In a vast organization like ours, it is sometimes difficult to prevent occurrences of this kind, but it may be stated to Mr. Marshall in most positive terms that this is not the policy of the corporation, as no recognition whatever of religious principles is considered in the employment of our people. The person placing this advertisement has been severely reprimanded and positive instructions issued to prevent a recurrence.

Mr. Marshall suggests that the person who inserted the advertisement be discharged and a statement published as to why this discharge was made. In view of the fact, however, that the person who placed this advertisement is a woman, it seems to me that if we give Mr. Marshall our assurance that the incident will not occur again, he should feel satisfied to let the matter rest as it is. While I agree with you that her action was thoughtless, I believe a discharge in this particular case would be too severe an action.

In this connection, I am attaching copy of a memorandum issued to the heads of all departments by Vice-President Coonley under date of July 26, calling speeial attention to the fact that religious principles are to have no bearing whatever in the making of appointments.

I trust this will enable you to adjust the matter to the satisfaction of all concerned.

If you wish, however, I shall be pleased to see Mr. Marshall, on the subject.

Very truly yours,
(Signed) C. M. SCHWAB,
Director General.

When Justice Brandeis was at the head of the New England Jewish Relief Committee, Mr. Brin served as its publicity manager. During the campaign of the Federated Jewish Charities he served as secretary of the "Wind-up" Committee.

Committee of American Jews Lays Plans for the Greatest Humanitarian Task in History.

The American people, Jews and non-Jews alike, will soon be asked to lend or contribute the larger part of a fund of approximately $1,000,000,000 to carry out plans for the reconstruction of the Jewry of the entire world. Announcement to this effect, together with the general plan of procedure, was made public last night, following a meeting held yesterday in the office of Felix M. Warburg of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., Chairman of the Joint Distribution Committee of the American Funds for Jewish War Sufferers.

a meagre livelihood—a poor people. Added to the hardships and toil of ordinary existence they have been compelled to suffer the deprivations, want, and misery of four years of war, in many instances being forced to evacuate their homes and be deprived of all their possessions. Hundreds of thousands have died, and of the millions remaining a very large percentage, probably 50 per cent., will have to be assisted in the reconstruction of their lives and fortunes. Upon American Jewry falls both the burden and the privilege of leading the way in this work, that has for its sole object the preservation of the Jewish people, and this work the Joint Distribution Committee, representing every section of American Jewry, has taken upon itself to perform.

"The Joint Distribution Committee plans to call to its aid every element of Jewry both here and abroad ot assist, and opportunity will be provided for all to have a part in this great effort.

Experience, Brains, Money.

"There is available in American Jewry every factor necessary to the successful carrying out of this project. Experience, brains, the will to do, and the wherewithal are not lacking. The Joint Distribution Committee will seek to enroll in the undertaking not only the thousands who have contributed in the past to the war relief funds, but in fact every Jewish man and woman and child in America."

The Joint Distribution Committee, under whose direction the work of rehabilitation will be conducted, is made up of the representatives of the American,

The Crucifixion of Jews Must Stop!

By MARTIN H. GLYNN

(Former Governor of the State of N. Y.)

From across the sea six million men and women call to us for help, and eight hundred thousand little children cry for bread.

These children, these men and women are our fellow-members of the human family, with the same claim on life as we, the same susceptibility to the winter's cold, the same propensity to death before the fangs of hunger. Within them reside the illimitable possibilities for the advancement of the human race as naturally would reside in six million human beings. We may not be their keepers but we ought to be their helpers.

In the face of death, in the throes of starvation there is no place for mental distinctions of creed, no place for physical differentiations of race. In this catastrophe, when six million human beings are being whirled toward the grave by a cruel and relentless fate, only the most idealistic promptings of human nature should sway the heart and move the hand.

Six million men and women are dying from lack of the necessaries of life; eight hundred thousand children cry for bread. And this fate is upon them through no fault of their own, through no transgression of the laws of God or man; but through the awful tyranny of war and a bigoted lust for Jewish blood.

In this threatened holocaust of human life, forgotten are the niceties of philosophical distinction, forgotten are the differences of historical interpretation; and the determination to help the helpless, to shelter the homeless, to clothe the naked and to feed the hungry becomes a religion at whose altar men of every race can worship and women of every creed can kneel. In this calamity the temporalities of man's fashionings fall away before the eternal verities of life, and we awaken to the fact that from the hands of one God we all come and before the tribunal of one God we all must stand on the day of final reckoning. And when that reckoning comes mere profession of lips will not weigh a pennyweight; but deeds, mere intangible deeds, deeds that dry the tear of sorrow and allay the pain of anguish, deeds that with the spirit of the Good Samaritan pour oil and wine in wounds and find sustenance and shelter for the suffering and the stricken, will outweigh all the stars in the heavens, all the waters in the seas, all the rocks and metals in all the celestian globes that revolve in the firmament around us.

Race is a matter of accident; creed, partly a matter of inheritance, partly a matter of environment, partly one's method of ratiocination; but our physical wants and corporeal needs are implanted in all of us by the hand of God, and the man or woman who can, and will not, hear the cry of the starving; who can, and will not, take heed of the wail of the dying; who can, and will not, stretch forth a helping hand to those who sink beneath the waves of adversity is an assassin of nature's finest instincts, a traitor to the cause of the human family and an abjurer of the natural law written upon the tablets of every human heart by the finger of God himself.

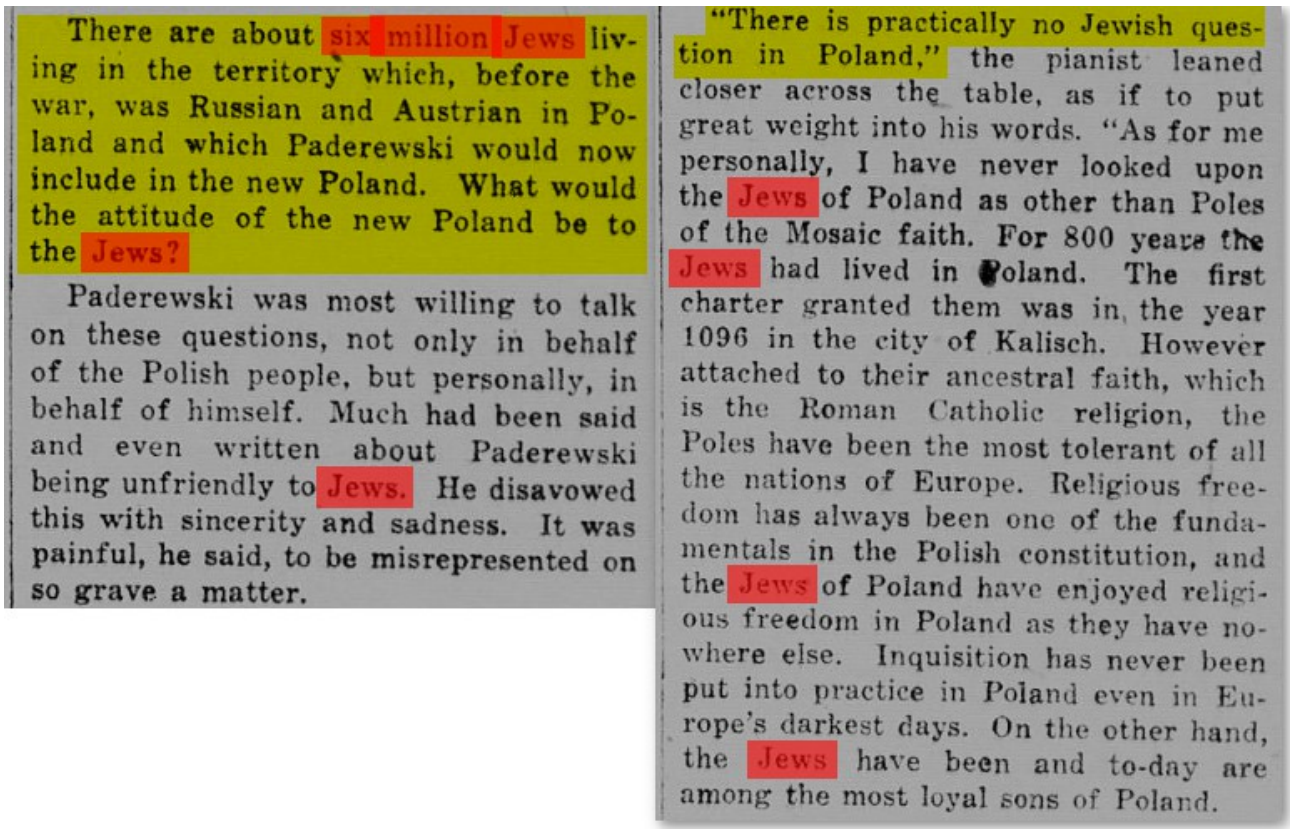
And so in the spirit that turned the poor widow's votive offering of copper into silver, and the silver into gold when placed upon God's altar, the people of this country are called upon to sanctify their money by giving $35,000,000 in the name of the humanity of Moses to six million famished men and women.

Six million men and women are dying —eight hundred thousand little children are crying for bread.



And why?

Because of a war to lay Autocracy in the dust and give Democracy the sceptre of the Just.

And in that war for democracy 200,000 Jewish lads from the United States fought beneath the Stars and Stripes. In the 77th Division alone there were 14,000 of them, and in Argonne Forest this division captured 54 German guns. This shows that at Argonne the Jewish boys from the United States fought for democracy as Joshua fought against the Amalekites on the plains of Abraham. In an address on the so-called "Lost Battalion," led by Colonel Whittlesey of Pittsfield, Major-General Alexander shows the fighting stuff these Jewish boys were made of. In some way or another Whittlesey's command was surrounded. They were short of rations. They tried to get word back to the rear telling of their plight. They tried and they tried, but their men never got through. Paralysis and stupefaction and despair were in the air. And when the hour was darkest and all seemed lost, a soldier lad stepped forward, and said to Col. Whittlesey: "I will try to get through." He tried, he was wounded, he had to creep and crawl, but he got through. To-day he wears the Distinguished Service Cross and his name is

ABRAHAM KROTOSHINSKY.

Because of this war for Democracy six million Jewish men and women are starving across the seas; eight hundred thousand Jewish babies are crying for bread.

There are about six million Jews living in the territory which, before the war, was Russian and Austrian in Poland and which Paderewski would now include in the new Poland. What would the attitude of the new Poland be to the Jews?

Paderewski was most willing to talk on these questions, not only in behalf of the Polish people, but personally, in behalf of himself. Much had been said and even written about Paderewski being unfriendly to Jews. He disavowed this with sincerity and sadness. It was painful, he said, to be misrepresented on so grave a matter.

"There is practically no Jewish question in Poland," the pianist leaned closer across the table, as if to put great weight into his words. "As for me personally, I have never looked upon the Jews of Poland as other than Poles of the Mosaic faith. For 800 years the Jews had lived in Poland. The first charter granted them was in the year 1096 in the city of Kalisch. However attached to their ancestral faith, which is the Roman Catholic religion, the Poles have been the most tolerant of all the nations of Europe. Religious freedom has always been one of the fundamentals in the Polish constitution, and the Jews of Poland have enjoyed religious freedom in Poland as they have nowhere else. Inquisition has never been put into practice in Poland even in Europe's darkest days. On the other hand, the Jews have been and to-day are among the most loyal sons of Poland.

ROOM FOR SIX MILLION IN JEWISH PALESTINE

Dr. Weizmann, Head of Zionist Administrative Commission, Says That the Peace Conference Will Grant Territory Sufficiently Large for Jewish Needs.

A Jewish Palestine which will absorb six million people—this is the territory which the Zionist Delegation at Paris has asked at the Peace Conference.

The head of the Zionist Administrative Commission is credited with the following statements:

Plans have already been perfected for regulating the migration of six million Jews to Palestine. The immigration will be conducted on the broadest possible basis and all the necessary measures will be taken for the proper absorption of this immigration. The plan has been so formulated that in time the Jewish homeland in Palestine will be transformed into a Jewish state as soon as the Jews will have a majority in that land.

WOULD INCREASE TEACHERS' PAY

Washington, Feb. 22.—Doubling the salaries of public school teachers within the next five years and an addition of 10 per cent. before another ten years have passed, so that the minimum average salary for teachers would be $1,500, was the program urged by Commissioner of Education Claxton in a statement today.

"Teachers are now paid less for their work than any other class of workers," said the Commissioner, "and the increase in their pay in the last few years has in no wise been in keeping with the increase in pay of other workers, or with the increase in the cost of living. While the cost of living has increased approximately 80 per cent., the salaries of teachers have increased only about 12 per cent.

"Many of the better teachers are leaving the schools and their places are taken by men and women of less native ability, less education and culture, and less training and experience. Many of the places are not filled at all. As an inevitable result the character of the schools are being lowered just at a time when it ought to be raised to a much higher standard. The only remedy is larger pay for teachers."

WILL ATTEND UNIVERSITIES

Paris, Feb. 22—Approximately 160,000 soldiers have enrolled for vocational and other training in the post schools of the American Expeditionary Force. Between 20,000 and 25,000 more are planning to begin courses in French and British universities and at the special organized American expeditionary force university which will open on March 1 at Beaune, southwest of Dijon.

Various French universities will receive about 7,500 men and the British universities about 2,000, while there will be facilities at Beauno for from 10 to 15 thousand. This school will offer courses similar to the work of freshman and sophomore years in American universities. Military rank will have no part in Beauno university, and a qalified private may find hemself an instructor with commissioned officers among his students.

A survey made by the general staff shows that approximately 50,000 men in the American army in France are qualified to act as teachers.

BRIEF NEWS NOTES

As the farmers are reported opposed to the sale of alcoholic medicines, it is in order for the druggist to come out against the sale of cider.

As visiting firemen like to be taken around to fires, it is natural to assume that when the undertakers travel they would enjoy seeing the best funerals.

In accordance with the spirit of the times, it is expected the school children will walk out because the studies were fixed without their consent.

COAL SUPPLY OF ENGLAND SHORT

London, Feb. 22—(Correspondence of The Associated Press)—More coal must be produced by the United Kingdom if Great Britain's manufacturers are to successfully compete in the world's markets with those of other nations, declare well informed economists. They point to an apparent inability of Great Britain to produce enough coal to keep her industries at top speed and at the same time provide for the comfort of the people.

It is claimed there is an abundance of coal in the United Kingdom. New mines are being opened and developed in South Wales, the chief source of supply for many years, but the cost of operation increases as the deposits near the surface are exhausted.

New fields have been developed elsewhere, notably in Yorkshire. Nottingham seems to have an inexhaustible supply of coal but developments there have been hampered by the absence of many miners drafted for the army.

Experts have discovered that the amount of coal annually produced by each person employed by the mines has declined from 312 tons in 1890 to 244 tons in 1912. This is contrasted with reports from the United States showing that production of coal there annually has increased from 400 tons per person employed in 1890 to 660 tons in 1912.

This proportionate decrease of British coal production is attributed to two causes—failure to adopt new and improved machinery and systems of operation and demands of miners for more pay and less work.

Confronting a period which the general public has been led to believe Great Britain's most important era of industrial expansion, British industry is demanding cheap coal. Nevertheless, miners in some sections demand a six-hour working day, five days a week, while in other sections the men want to be paid for 20 minutes for refreshments, meaning tea.

One writer points out that while the cost of producing coal has doubled in Great Britain since 1886, the cost of production in the United States was less in 1912 than in 1886. England, he declares, must have cheap coal to carry on her highly developed manufacturing industries in competition with other countries who have that advantage.

THE BUSINESS OUTLOOK.

Ever since peace was foreshadowed last fall, financial and business authorities have been trying to forecast the business future. They have issued the most diverse and contradictory prophecies. One man sees a bright future immediately ahead. Another issues dark predictions of disaster. Which is the common sense view, and upon what foundations may the business man, the farmer, and the worker, plan out their activities and undertakings?

Careful thinkers and students of economic conditions look back to the past when they wish to estimate the trend of future events. History repeats itself. Most of the experts who have deliberated over this question give much thought and weight to the course of business in the country during the years immediately following the Civil War.

So they are recalling the fact that for half a dozen years following the Civil War, there was a period of apparent prosperity. The currency was inflated, money was abundant, people spent freely. This gave business men the courage to go ahead and produce goods in large volume.

This seeming prosperity was all the more remarkable, when you consider the condition of prostration that seemed to exist when the war closed. The wealth of the great Southern section, nearly half of the country at that time, was practically wiped out. Both North and South were undeveloped, there was hardly any banking or railroad system, there was no surplus of investment capital.

The whole country was burdened with a great debt and war taxes. Yet in spite of all these apparently crushing handicaps, business jumped into a state of activity, and held it for six years. It is not surprising that many people believe that a repetition of the same buoyant conditions is to be manifested in this country during the next few years.

INCOME TAX DUE.

Returns Must Be Filed On Or Before March 15—Bill Provides Heavy Penalties.

Work on the collection of $6,000,000,000 has been begun by the Bureau of Internal Revenue. This is the estimated yield of the new revenue bill. The income tax provisions of the act reach the pocket-book of every single person in the United States whose net income for 1918 was $1,000, or more, and of every married person whose net income was $2,000 or more. Persons whose net income equalled or exceeded these amounts, according to their marital status, must file a return of income with the collector of internal revenue for the district in which they live on or before March 15.

Here is what will happen to them if they don't; for failure to file a return on time, a fine of not more than $1,000 and an additional assessment of 25 per cent. of the amount of tax due.

For "wilfully refusing" to make a return on time, a fine not exceeding $10,000, or not exceeding one year's imprisonment, or both.

For making a false or fraudulent return, a fine of not more than 10,000, or imprisonment for not more than one year, or both, together with an additional assessment of 50 per cent. of the amount of tax evaded.

For failure to pay the tax on time, a fine of not more than $1,000 and an additional assessment of 5 per cent. of the amount of tax unpaid, plus 1 per cent. interest for each full month during which it remains unpaid.

In addition to the $1,000 and $2,000 personal exemptions, taxpayers are allowed an exemption of $200 for each person dependent upon them for chief support if such person is under eighteen years of age and incapable of self-support. Under the 1917 act, this exemption was allowed only for each dependent "child." The head of a family—one who supports one or more persons closely connected with him by blood relationship, relationship by marriage, or by adoption—is entitled to all exemptions allowed a married person.

The normal rate of tax under the new act is 6 per cent. of the first $4,000 of net income above the exemptions, and 12 per cent. of the net income in excess of $4,000. Incomes in excess of $5,000 are subject also to a surtax ranging from 1 per cent. of the amount of the net income between $5,000 and $6,000 to 65 per cent. of the net income above $1,000,000.

Payment of the tax may be made in full at the time of filing return or in four installments, on or before March 15, on or before June 15, on or before September 15, and on or before Dec. 15.

Revenue officers will visit every county in the United States to aid taxpayers in making out their returns. The date of their arrival and the location of their offices may be ascertained by inquiring at offices of collectors of internal revenue, postoffices and banks. Failure to see these officers, however, does not relieve the taxpayer of his obligation to file his return and pay his tax within the time specified by law. In this case taxpayers must seek the Government, not the Government the taxpayer.

AMERICAN LABOR LEADERS INFLUENCED WORLD WAR.

Omaha, Nebr., Feb. 22—John P. Frey, editor of the International Moulders' Journal, addressed the Trans-Mississippi Readjustment Congress this evening on the subject, "Labor During and After the War." He said in part:

"Labor problems in Europe and America are vastly different. In Europe the labor parties are building a political machine to secure certain political freedom which American laborers already enjoy. American labor is opposed to the organization of a political party.

"It is not surprising that European labor has developed revolutionary tendencies because of the limitation of the franchise, the influence of land-owning nobility, the absence of democratic institutions, the denial of an adequate voice in determining laws, the autocratic form of government, the operation of secret diplomacy, the existence of secret treaties and the domination of the lives of the people by special interests.

"American industry has not been free from injustice, the scales of justice have not always balanced evenly, but our workers have not suffered from the political injustice which existed in continental Europe.

"In the allied countries labor has shown itself more or less in opposition to the government. American labor held a deep conviction that, while militarism should be energetically opposed, self preservation demanded that our country should never weaken its power of defense as to be an easy prey to hostile nations. American labor threw all its resources to the government and adopted strong resolutions of support several weeks before war was declared.

"There is no doubt that the position taken by the American Federation of Labor at its extraordinary conference on March 12, 1917, assisted in strengthening the president's hands and gave him greater confidence to take the step which meant our official entry into the world war.

SINN FEIN LEADERS RETURNED.

Dublin, Feb. 22—At the recent elections several Sinn Fein leaders were returned from more than one constituency. In the normal course, if they were taking their seats, they would have to choose between seats, and there would be fresh elections for the vacancies thus created. But as no Sinn Feiner is going to Parliament this course is not obligatory and they have decided not to adopt it.

I. W. W. prisoners chanted "To hell with America" when they were being taken for deportation. Too bad they did not acquire this sentiment before they ever came to this country.

FULL SUBSEA WIRELESS NEAR

Maryland Inventor Claims That He Is Now Able to Receive Messages.

Underground and subsea wireless, an American invention, is the work of James Harris Rogers of Hyattsville, Md. The invention is the subject of long story in the last Electrical Experimenter. In an editorial this magazine says of the striking importance of Mr. Roger's achievement:

"Last month we hinted editorially on the theoretical aspect of the problem—this month we are face to face with the accomplished fact. The war has revolutionized not only peoples, nations and the whole world but many hitherto unshakable scientic institutions as well. For over twenty years the wireless aerial — the elevated aerial wire system—was synonymous with the wireless art. The great radio station, the transatlantic liner, could not well be imagined without its ubiquitous stretch of elevated wires. The greatest pride of the radio amateur, the aerial on top of his house, which to him was symbolic of the young art, is doomed. This change has been brought about over night by the magic wand of science and her servant—Mr. James Harris Rogers, American, of Hyattsville, Md.

"The aerial wires, down for the duration of the war, will never go up, at least as far as amateurs and private stations are concerned. As for the commercial stations, their towers, too, are doomed shortly for the scrap heap. During the war Mr. Rogers developed underground and subsea wireless—for receiving at least—to a heretofore undreamed of state of perfection. His receiving station at Hyattsville never missed a word transmitted from French, English, Italian as well as German high power stations. He received his messages from Europe when a thunderstorm, accompanied by terrific lightning, was going on directly above his head. Recently, too, he has done away entirely with static.

"When the big station at Arlington near Washington was out of touch with Europe, due to static disturbances, Mr. Rogers went right on receiving over his buried underground wires, just as if static never existed. Indeed the Rogers invention knows no static. Static being an atmospheric condition, a ground antenna naturally will not be affected by it.

"But the most spectacular feature of Mr. Rogers's revolutionizing invention probably is his 'subsea wireless.' Scientists the world over, Marconi included, declared it an utter impossibility to communicate by wireless with a totally submerged submarine. Mr. Rogers, however, goes right ahead and does it, not only in fresh water but through salt water as well. Indeed he established wireless communication with a submarine whose aerial wires were twenty-five feet below the surface of the ocean!

"Although Mr. Rogers during the war gave most of his attention toward receiving messages, he has made considerable progress in underground radio transmission as well. His experiments prove conclusively that while underground radio receiving is here to stay underground sending, too will soon be practical enough even for high power stations. It is merely a question of good insulation at present, and the end of the year, we are quite confident, will bring the solution of the problem. The Navy Department has just succeeded in transmitting a distance of fifty miles with the underground system.

"At first it would seem reasonable that only long wave lengths could be used with the Rogers system. But this is not the case. Underground radio telephone messages seven miles distant come in just as clear on 300 meters wave length as does the Nauen (Germany) station with 12,000 meters wave length. This indeed is good news for our amateurs.

"But in the meanwhile all of our pet theories on wireless are thrown in a sad chaos. For we do not know as yet how the Rogers system works. We can now expect a war to the knife between our wave propagation theorists and the new school of ground impulse savants. Mr. Rogers himself takes the view—and he is seconded by Tesla—that the transoceanic messages which he receives over his underground system are not Hertzian waves—pure or even converted—but merely high frequency ground impulses."

Telling of the inventor, the Electrical Experiment says:

"James Harris Rogers, practically unknown a few years ago in radio circles, except by a few select radio men who were investigating his invention for the Navy Department, has practically become over night the center of all attractions in the field of science. Mr. Rogers is a son of the Confederacy and a veteran of the great civil war. He has followed electrical experimenting ever since and has been a strong devotee of radio telegraphy since Marconi performed his first experiments in this new branch of applied science. He is a refined, cultured Southern gentleman who makes you feel at home at once; an invariable attribute of all the truly great. Mr. Rogers was one of the first inventors of the "printing telegraph," and his full sized working models saw actual commercial service on a circuit between Baltimore and Washington, also in New York, back in 1880. These were seen by the writer, and are wonderful pieces of mechanism.

"The Rogers laboratory, which comprises several large rooms, is lined on all sides with glass cabinets containing electrical apparatus which he has invented from time to time in his studious career. A novel and original high frequency generator was another of the devices that greatly interested the writer. It employed a jet of water shunted by a large capacity, the stream of water being connected to a high potential source of direct current. High frequency current of any range up to the limit of audibility, or about 30,000 cycles per second, could be readily obtained with this apparatus. The writer merely cites these facts to substantiate the standing of Mr. Rogers in the scientific field. Hundreds of other electrical inventions have been made by this modest genius of the quiet little Maryland town of Hyattsville, and the principal outstanding fact of all of his work is that he can show you a working model of each of these inventions, unlike many other inventors whose ideas exist only on paper and which often fall down miserably when actually built and tested.

"In this connection it is interesting to consider for a moment that not one of the new wireless 'static and interference preventers' proposed to the Government radio experts during the war proved practicable in the least."

AIR ROUTES TO PLAY BIG PART

London, Thursday, Feb. 20.—(British Wireless Service)—"Preparations must be made for the day when all British air routes will play a great part in the maintenance of the commercial existence of the British empire," said Major General Sir Frederic H. Sykes, controller general of civil aviation, in an address before members of the Australian and New Zealand luncheon club today. He said that the British government had for some time been engaged in mapping out stages on an air route from Cairo to Australia, by way of Karachi, Singapore and the Sunda islands.

Sir Frederic outlined the work that is being done in establishing aerial postal routes between England and France and between Boulogne and Cologne, where British troops are located. At present a letter is five days in transit between London and Cologne and the speaker declared this time could be reduced to seven hours. He said a regular time table is now being made out, landing stages are being fixed, and detailed preparations for the service are making progress.

THREE BATTLESHIPS CONDEMNED

Philadelphia, Feb. 22—Three of the old time leaders of the American navy have been condemned to the scrap heap. The Indiana, Massachusetts and Iowa, battleships, now in the basin of the Philadelphia navy yard will shortly be destroyed as they have outlived their usefulness. Yet, twenty-five years ago, they were the equals of anything afloat. The Indiana class of battleship was regarded as a daring experiment. When the Indiana first went to sea all on board were impressed with the feeling that she might turn over in a heavy sea and go to the bottom.

Although the old battleships are still serviceable, and they were used in the world war they are obsolete and are therefore destined for the naval morgue.

COMMISSARY POPULAR IN COBLENZ

Coblenz, Feb. 22—The sales commisary of the Third American army in Coblenz was compelled to move recently because of too much business. The building occupied by the commissary was on a corner of one of the principal streets of Coblenz and American soldiers formed such long queues that at times the thoroughfare was choked, so the commissary was transferred to a side street. When it was first opened, its great shelves of canned fruit, jam, butter and other foods attracted so much attention from the German civilians that military police had to be detailed to prevent them from blocking the entrance to the building.

FROM WASHINGTON TO WILSON

Washington taught the world to know us; Lincoln taught us to know ourselves; Wilson is teaching us to know the world.

These three figures stand our colossal in our history for the simple reason that each in his time truly sensed the heart ideals and purposes of our people and fitted these into practice.

"You can see," said President Wilson in his great Peace Conference speech proposing the League of Nations, "that the representatives of the United States are never put to the embarrassment of choosing a way of expediency, because they have laid down before them the unalterable lines of principles."

Therein is exposed the secret of real power—if it ever was a secret. That man is great and masterful who meets a situation with the true principles of his people. It was Washington's way when he wrought for the colonists the liberty they sought. It was Lincoln's way in securing to the people the equality and union they fought for. It is Wilson's way, and he made this clear as light when he said in that same speech, speaking of our soldiers abroad: "They came as Crusaders, not merely to win a war, but to win a cause. And I am responsible to them, for it falls to me to formulate the purpose for which I asked them to fight, and I, like them, must be a Crusader for these things, whatever it costs and whatever it may be necessary to do in honor to accomplish the object for which they fought."

No higher, clearer, truer expression and demonstration of real Democracy in action has been ever given to the World.—Charles Grant Miller in Christian Herald.

PROBATE RULING APPEALED.

Charles J. Makara and Mary Kerekes, children and heirs at low of Michael Makara, deceased, object to the admission to probate of what they allege to be only "what purports to be" the will of their father. The will in question was executed January 13, 1919, and was probated January 20, 1919. Alexander Verlananoff is named as the administrator. Appeal has been made to the Superior Court.

$1200 SUIT AGAINST ESTATE.

John McNally of Stamford, has filed suit in the Superior Court against Madeline H. McMahon ,of Stamford ,administratrix of the estate of John J. McMahon. The plaintiff states that in September, 1913, he brought an action against John J. McMahon. Since that time McMahon has died. The defendant was named administratrix of the estate but has failed to appear and defend the original suit.

LINEN MANUFACTURERS ORGANIZE

London, Feb. 22—Irish linen manufacturers have decided to form an organization to be known as the Irish Linen Corporation and have appropriated $450,000 to conduct a propaganda campaign in the United States and England during the next three years. In all 116 manufacturers were represented at the meeting in which this action was taken. During the war most of them were making airplane fabric.

Anthracite Coal Is Now Available

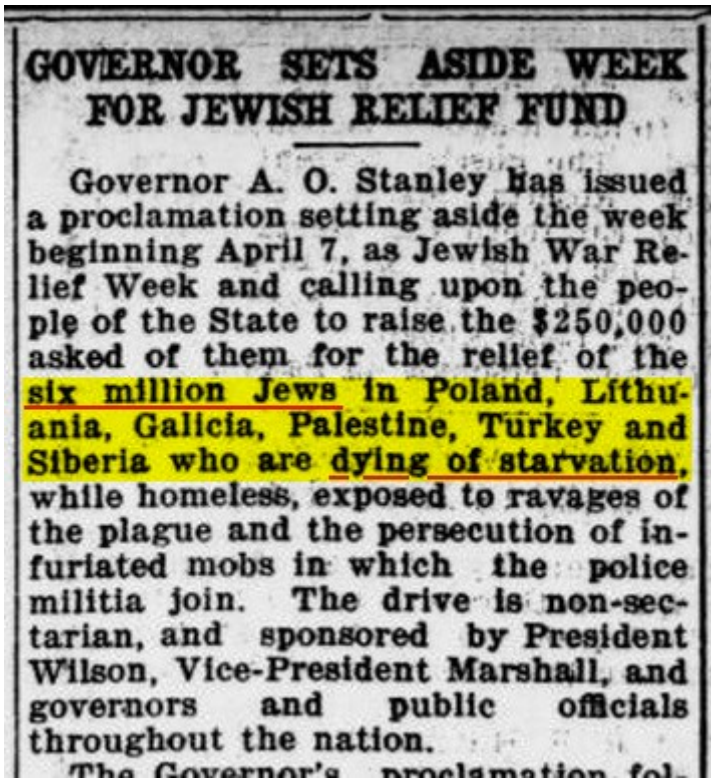
A year ago War:—Our boys on the way overseas to answer the cal lof the Allies. The cry of help for men, money and coal was being answered.

"Coal was vital to victory."

The United States Government thru' the Fuel Administration asked the people to save fuel that was needed to take great shiploads of war supplies "Over There." Coal was needed to manufacture war materials.

The public answered the call with some hardships.

This year victory and peace. The implements of warfare are being converted to peace time needs.



The U. S. Fuel Administration regulations on coal have now been withdrawn.

It is our hope and aim to renew relations with those whom we served prior to the entrance of the United States into the world war, also to continue with those we now serve and all who "stood by" in the trying days of last year.

Our efforts to serve we hope will warrant a continuance of your appreciated patronage.

An Appeal in Behalf Of Suffering Millions

The Chairman Of The Jewish Relief Work in Sumter County Appeals to The Citizens Of Sumter County

I was asked by some of my friends to assume the chairmanship in Sumter County for the Jewish Relief work. I did so very gladly, because I feel that the call to service in this particular interest is so imperative as to be irresistible. It is a work in behalf of humanity.

Six million Jews in Poland, Lithuania, Galicia, Palestine, Turkey and Siberia are dying of starvation. Refugees, they wander homeless, hungry, in rags. "Their suffering is worse than death—it is the lingering torture of starvation, the piteous tragedy of emaciation, the horrible waiting, in agony of hunger, for the grim reaper to end their misery. These six million despairing souls are totally dependent on American generosity for the bare necessities of life."

The meeting of cotton farmers and business men called by County Chairman Jennings of the Sumter County Cotton Association to elect delegates to the State-wide Cotton Convention in Columbia Thursday was held at the Chamber of Commerce today with representative attendance of farmers from all sections of the county in attendance. There were also a few business men of the city present, but all who attended are directly interested in cotton farming.

The meeting was organized by the election of Mr. T. J. Kirven as chairman and Mr. J. H. Myers secretary. The results of the campaign to secure pledges for the reduction of the cotton acreage were discussed and the general outlook for the success of the reduction movement was canvassed. While the canvass of the county had not been completed and the canvass has not been as thorough as desired and hoped for, the results attained in the sections covered by pledge reduction committees have been decidedly satisfactory and distinctly encouraging. Not counting the pledge reported turned in today by committees, which had not been tabulated, a reduction of 27 per cent of the acreage of the farmers signing pledges was shown. The opinion of those present was that the reduction of cotton acreage for the whole county will be not less than 25 per cent, perhaps 30 per cent and that there will also be material reduction of the fertilizer used per acre.

It was decided to continue the canvass for reduction pledges and that an effort be made to complete the canvass in every section of the county. A resolution was adopted that the committees be requested and urged to press the canvass with unremitting vigor and that the effort be made to see and secure a pledge from each and every farmer in the county. A final report of the canvass will be made to the county chairman at a meeting to be called at a time to be designated by him. In the meantime reports of pledges are to be made at intervals to the county chairman as heretofore.

The following delegates were elected to attend the State convention in Columbia tomorrow: L. D. Jennings, J. H. Myers, A. C. Phelps, W. T. Brown, J. D. White, J. B. Britton, A. E. Aycock, T. J. Kirven, H. T. Edens, H. G. Osteen, J. M. Fogel, J. F. Williams, M. L. Moore, C. G. Rowland, H. M. McLaurin, Darby White, D. L. Smith, W. E. Kolb, S. A. Harvin.

An Appeal in Behalf Of Suffering Millions

The Chairman Of The Jewish Relief Work in Sumter County Appeals to The Citizens Of Sumter County

I was asked by some of my friends to assume the chairmanship in Sumter County for the Jewish Relief work. I did so very gladly, because I feel that the call to service in this particular interest is so imperative as to be irresistible. It is a work in behalf of humanity.

Six million Jews in Poland, Lithuania, Galicia, Palestine, Turkey and Siberia are dying of starvation. Refugees, they wander homeless, hungry, in rags. Their suffering is worse than death—it is the lingering torture of starvation, the piteous tragedy of emaciation, the horrible waiting, inch by inch, of hunger, for the grim reaper to end their misery. These six million despairing souls are totally dependent on American generosity for the bare necessities of life.

What matters it if they do belong to other nations? What matters it if they do live in other climes? Succor of suffering knows no lines of demarcation. It is enough for us to know that these people are dying day by day, dying amidst such surroundings as to make death a blessed release, dying amidst such misery and suffering as to make the dryest crust of bread or a bowl of the thinnest soup a real luxury. Children hold up their wasted palms in daily supplication for a crumb of bread and above their fading eyes the Heavens appear to be but brass—children four or five years o fage who have not taken a single step because they are too weak to walk; they are too weak to work; they are too weak even to play. They are dragging their wasted bodies along, perhaps wondering how other children can be happy.

There is nothing on earth half so sad as an unhappy child and I do not believe that the people of America are going to permit these little children to spend lives of misery and die of starvation.

Read the eloquent appeal from Governor Bickett of North Carolina:

"In Turkey, in Palestine, in Lithuania, in Russia, in Poland, and in Galicia starvation stares the children of Abraham in the face. Daily Jewish husbands see their wives grow thin and pale and fade away into the Great Silence. Daily Jewish babies tug frantically at breasts that are withered and dry; and above the din of battle is heard once more the voice of Rachael weeping for her children and refusing to be comforted because they are not.

"I call upon the good people of North Carolina to hearken to this cry, to rally to the help of the helpless and once again to show themselves worthy of the high service they are privileged to render. The hounded, hungering Jew must be fed or he die. We cannot afford by indifference and inaction to have his blood on our hands."

Read the clear statement of Senator Willard Saulsbury of Delaware:

"This is not only a Jewish movement; it is a human movement. It will clothe where clothing is needed and feed where feeding is necessary; it will go wherever the cry of humanity calls it. It is of human beings, for human beings, and by human beings."

Read the appeal of Robert Lansing, Secretary of State:

"For God's sake raise all the money you can—conditions are indescribable in Poland. Lithuania—one million people perishing from hunger and cold—death rate ten per cent—soup kitchens and asylums for aged and children closed for lack of funds—children cannot attend school on account of extreme weakness and lack of clothing. An unexampled catastrophe faces the Polish Jews. America practically sole help."

Read the following letter from an old Baptist preacher eighty-two years of age who has spent sixty years of his life as a missionary among the Indians:

"Dear Sir: I am not a Jew—I am an old worn out Christian Indian missionary—a Baptist. Your God is my God. Your Father my Father. Your people are my Master's people. Your brethren are my brethren. My means are small but my heart greatly rejoices because of this privilege of sending the enclosed one hundred dollars for the relief of the suffering and starving Jews in Europe.

Sincerely,
J. S. Murrow,
Atoka, Okla.

After reading these four statements, can we still refuse to help?

On next Sunday afternoon at half past three o'clock we expect to have a meeting in behalf of these starving people. I do not entertain the slightest doubt but that Sumter will reach its quota. To do this we shall require money; but we need far more than money the universal expression of a deep and abiding sympathy. Our sympathy will not be measured by the number of dollars that we are able to give; but by our ready response to the call of suffering humanity. Even if one feels he is unable to give money to this great cause, let him by his presence next Sunday afternoon show that his heart is with those who suffer.

We hope that the meeting on next Sunday afternoon will be such as will make everyone present feel as if it were good for him to have come; for he was thus able to catch the feeling of sympathy and to realize that touch of nature and of humanity that makes the whole world kin.

Knowing the people of Sumter as I do, I feel sure that an appeal of this sort will not fall upon deaf ears or unresponsive hearts.

Respectfully and cordially submitted.

S. H. Edmunds.

There was considerable frost Thursday night and early risers report thin ice in exposed places. Irish potatoes and other tender vegetables in gardens were injured, but not to an extent that will necessitate replanting. The weather forecast indicates frost again tonight.

Will Welcome Soldiers

Mass Meeting Discusses Programme Submitted by Special Committee

The mass meeting called by President Booth of the Chamber of Commerce to consider plans for properly welcoming the soldiers of this county, who have completed their term of service in the army, either overseas or at home, are returning home, was in session for several hours Tuesday night in the court room. The attendance was much larger than at the previous meeting, but, as President Booth remarked in calling the meeting to order, the interest of the people of Sumter was not as great as the occasion demanded.

Dr. Booth stated that, as directed by resolution of the previous meeting, he had appointed a committee to formulate a programme outlining the scope of the proposed exercises in honor of the returned soldiers, the committee being as follows: Dr. Walter Cheyne, chairman, R. W. Dubbs, J. Frank Williams, L. D. Jennings, Neill O'Donnell, H. G. Osteen, F. E. Rembert, Mrs. Nina Solomons, Mrs. Horace Harby.

Chairman Cheyne of the committee on program read the tentative program suggested by the committee and the discussion opened. Every section of the program was debated pro and con and quite a number of those present. There was considerable diversity of opinion as to the manner in which the people of Sumter should honor the returned soldiers and the matter was fully threashed out. It was the consensus of opinion that it would be impracticable to undertake to make the celebration of a general character for all the soldiers who were called into service from Sumter county, so as to include the negro troops, as well as the white, as the negroes have already undertaken to hold a celebration of their own and have solicited financial assistance from the white citizens. And the celebration that will be undertaken under the auspices of this mass meeting of white citizens will be for the white troops alone. A committee consisting of Messrs. R. D. Epps, Walter Cheyne and Geo. W. Dick was appointed to draft a suitable resolution setting out the object and purpose of the proposed celebration. The following outline of programme was finally adopted

1. That a thanksgiving service be held in Sumter on some Sunday, at a time and place to be designated later. That the ministers of the city of Sumter, of every religious denomination be and are designated as a committee with full power, to arrange for this Thanksgiving service. This service to be participated in by the people of the entire county of Sumter.

2. That a parade be held in Sumter to be participated by every white soldier and sailor from the county of Sumter, of every branch of the military and naval service during this war, whether these heroes served at home or abroad. That the commissioned officers of the Sumter Light Infantry Home Guard, the commissioned officers of the Boys' High School Military Battalion, and Major A. C. Phelps be the committee in charge of this parade with full power to act. That the Sumter Light Infantry Home Guard and the Sumter High School Military Battalion be invited to march in this parade as an honorary escort to the survivors of the war who are being honored by the citizens of the county of Sumter.

3. That a banquet or dinner be served to the returned soldiers and sailors, to be served on the Monumental Square at such time as may be suitable in connection with the parade.

Dr. E. S. Booth, president of the Sumter Chamber of Commerce, was designated as chairman of this banquet or dinner committee with Mrs. Horace Harby and Mrs. Nina Solomons, those three to select any others they see fit to serve as members of this committee. This committee to be clothed with full powers to act.

4. That the presidents of the banks of the county of Sumter be the committee on finance, with Mr. Neill O'Donnell, as chairman, and Mr. L. D. Jennings as vice chairman, Mr. J. P. Booth, secretary and treasurer, to raise the necessary funds, and to supervise the expenditure thereof.

A general discussion of the suggestion made by the committee that steps be taken at once to create some permanent memorial in honor of the soldiers who fell in service resulted in the decision to leave this matter in the hands of Mr. A. C. Phelps who was requested several weeks ago by the Chamber of Commerce to organize a committee and inaugurate a movement to establish such a memorial. Mr. Phelps has full power to select a committee that will represent every section of the county and with the endorsement of the mass meeting he will undertake this work with the assurance of success.

Eargle Case Settled

Sumter Lighting Company Pays $24,600 and Costs in Settlement of Thirty Thousand Verdict

The case of Mrs. F. M. Eargle vs. the Sumter Lighting Company, suit to recover damages for the death of A. W. Eargle who lost his life while in the employ of the Sumter Lighting Company by coming into contact with a live wire, was settled a few days ago by the payment of $24,600 and costs. This case has been in the courts for about two years. The trial resulted in a verdict of $30,000, and the Sumter Lighting Company appealed to the Supreme Court. The case was on the docket of the Supreme Court for hearing at the April term, but when the attorneys of the company offered a compromise proposition it was accepted, and twenty-four thousand dollars and costs were paid over to R. D. Epps, Esq., who represented Mrs. Eargle and conducted the trial of the case to a successful conclusion.

County Board Reorganized

County Commissioners Under Authority of Act of Recent Legislature Inaugurate Progressive Campaign

The Board of County Commissioners at the regular monthly meeting held Tuesday inaugurated a progressive program for the management of the business affairs of the county that should result in revolutionizing and bringing up to date the methods of road construction and maintenance.

The action taken was under and by authority of the act of the recent session of the legislature which abolishes the office of County Supervisor at the expiration of the term of Supervisor White, and in the meantime places the Supervisor under the direction of the County Board. The Board was reorganized by the election of Commissioner H. J. McLaurin, Jr., to serve as Chairman and Commissioner B. M. Oliver, vice chairman. Mr. R. F. McLelland was elected County Engineer and the entire management of the chaingang, jail, poor house, the supervision of road building and maintenance and the performance of practically all other duties heretofore performed by the Supervisor were delegated to him by formal resolution. A finance committee composed of Commissioners J. J. Britton, B. M. Oliver and H. J. McLaurin, Jr., was selected and a resolution was adopted that no bills be paid, except after being audited and approved by the Board.

The Board decided to take immediate steps to obtain the funds available from the Federal Government for road construction, and as soon as this arrangement has been consummated the construction of a section of permanent highway will be started. As a preliminary to this work a survey of the proposed new road will be made by the State Highway Commission and the work will be planned and carried out under specifications approved by the road engineers of the Federal Government and the State Highway Commission. This road work will be done by contract so that the exact cost and the character of the work will be guaranteed before a shovel full of dirt is moved. It is the purpose of the Board to have this permanent work done so that the roads built now will ultimately link up with a system of highways in the county and form a part of the State Highway system. Haphazard work will be discontinued and road construction will be done with a view to permanence and as a part of a system. Repair and maintenance work will be planned and supervised by the County Engineer and the foundation of road work in Sumter county will hereafter be intelligent engineering and substantial construction and thorough drainage.

The plans of the Board while not yet fully developed, contemplate the pretical rebuilding of the public road between Sumter and Mayesville, for the reason that the roads in the eastern section of the county are in much worse condition than those in the western and further for the reason that the amount of travel between Sumter and Mayesville, the two largest towns in the county, necessitates a good highway of a permanent character. This section of the road will be a part of the State Highway system, connecting Sumter with Florence and the Pee Dee section and the work now done will help forward the movement to develop a State system of highways.

A joint meeting of the County Board and the Legislative delegation will be held next Tuesday to consider the financial status of the county and to devise ways and means to raise the fund necessary for the county to appropriate for permanent highway construction before the Federal appropriation can be obtained. The county still has something more than $20,000 of the good roads bond issue authorized several years ago, but this must be supplemented from some source, as the Federal government will pay dollar for dollar up to $60,000. It begins to look as if something will be done now to give Sumter county better roads.

Death.

Mrs. A. E. Dixon, wife of Mr. Rufus O. Dixon, died at 2.30 a. m. Tuesday at her home at 28 Blanding St., this city. The body was taken from her residence at 9.30 Wednesday morning and carried to Bishopville for interment. The funeral services were held at Bishopville Methodist church at 11.30 a. m. She is survived by her husband and her son, Dr. R. Herbert Dixon, of Philadelphia; her daughters, Mrs. Mamie McAgen, Misses Elma, Ruth and Rosamode Dixon, Mrs. Nettie Barnes and Mrs. Ethel Stuckey, also her sisters, Mrs. Mary L. Stuckey and her brother, Mr. Charles L. Stuckey, of Bishopville, Mr. T. S. Stuckey, of Stateburg and Mr. A. B. Stuckey of this city.

The two story residence of Rev. J. C. Lomax, colored, on Edwards street, was badly damaged by fire Tuesday. The fire department was called out about 12.30 o'clock and when the truck and hose wagon arrived the greater part of the roof was ablaze and the house appeared to be doomed. Two streams were turned on and by hard work at close quarters the firemen succeeded in confining the fire to the roof. The entire roof will have to be replaced and the upper part of the house was considerably damaged.

Fire Department Busy.

The fire department has been kept busy the last few days. The big cotton platform fire Saturday called for a lot of work, and Sunday night a negro tenant house in the Grier street section was burned. Monday afternoon a garage on the premises occupied by Mr. E. B. Cole on North Salem avenue was burned. While this fire was in progress a spark ignited the roof of Mr. R. S. Churchill's residence on West Hampton avenue. The damage here was not great.

Presbyterial Auxiliary.

Harmony Presbyterial Auxiliary will meet April 8th and 9th in the Indiantown church, Williamsburg county. All Societies and churches in the Presbytery are requested to send delegates. If possible please send names at once to Mr. T. M. Cooper, Fowler, S. C.

The delegates will be met at Kingstree, the morning of the 8th and carried to the church in automobiles.

Rev. S. D. Winn of Chunju, Korea, will be the speaker Tuesday.

On Wednesday Mrs. S. C. Hodges of Greenwood, and Mrs. S. L. Lebby of Charleston will be the speakers.

It is earnestly desired that every church will be represnted.

(Signed) Miss Bettie Aycock,
Recording Secretary.

Pisgah News and Views.

Pisgah, March 31.—The fine weather for the last two weeks has enabled the farmers to make good progress on their farms. Corn has been planted and some are ready to plant cotton. The small grain crop is growing real well. Fully one-third of the cotton acreage in this section has been cut and this has been done without any pledges or being waited on. The item did not hit those who refuse to reduce their cotton acreage one-third a lick amiss. I am surprised to know that there lives in this country such people. Hope they will live to see the folly of their unpatriotic conduct in refusing to aid a worthy cause.

Gov. Cooper did right not to call an extra session of the legislature and save the taxpayers another expense. The members were there long enough to pass all needed legislation More work was done in twenty-five days, when Simmons and trby were speakers than is now done in forty days. Then members worked and not wasted their time.

The peace terms seem hard to get ready. If some people here are ready to entangle their country in the broils of Europe they are entitled to their opinion, but this writer is not.

Miss Hattie Hatfield of Cassett spent a few days here quite recently. Her many friends were glad to see her.

Miss Lula Baker returned home last week and her many friends were glad to see her.

Miss Sadie Rogers spent last week with her sister, Mrs. Leon Stuckey.

Miss Madge Rogers went to Bishopville Saturday.

The convicts who escaped from the State Farm last week stole a car here Friday night and went on towards Bishopville. The car is a new one and was found below Spring Hill badly damaged. The convicts have gone on.

I am going to Columbia today and if I see anything worth telling will let you know.

Dover, Eng. Mar. 2—In the whole period of the war the famous Dover Patrol of destroyers convoyed 125,100 merchant vessels with the loss of only 73. Of these 62,400 passed northward. 25,500 westward and 36,200 across the English Channel.

Your Help Is Needed

This is not only a duty but a privilege. In our own dark hour the world responded. We must now reciprocate. Six million Jews are dying of starvation. # "Do You Know of a Single Gentile Charity Which Is Not Largely and Willingly Contributed to By People of the Jewish Faith?"

—George Ade

One of America's most gifted writers brings home to every Gentile a statement of facts and conditions that many of them have been overlooking. Take time to read what Mr. Ade says below—

SAVE A LIFE!

GIVE

So That Others May

LIVE

"In any campaign to feed the hungry or lift up the stricken or shelter the homeless it is taken for granted, as a matter of course, that the Jews will do their full share and then oversubscribe a little. They are accustomed to do things in a big way and are not dismayed by ordinary tasks.

"Now they are up against an extraordinary task; an undertaking, vast in proportions, hedged in by appalling handicaps. The American Jewish Relief Committee is endeavoring to save from starvation six million Jews who are the helpless victims of the German Terror.

"Between the committee in New York City and the unfortunate refugees or penned-in prisoners that they are trying to help, are open seas and devastated provinces.

"It can be done and the committee will do it. It will get money and food to the helpless victims, even if in the farthest parts of Europe, if it is backed and supported here at home.

"I have lived in several towns, but I cannot remember the name of a place in which Jews were exempted from contributing to Gentile funds. The call of humanity knows no foreign language, no racial dialect, no favored accent.

"If every citizen of America who has been somewhat directly the beneficiary of Jewish philanthropy should now come forward and help the American Jewish Relief Committee the necessary funds would be ready tomorrow. They should come forward."

VIOLENT STORM SWEEPS OMAHA

Houses Wrecked In Western Part of City; One Is Fatally Hurt.

Omaha, Neb., April 7.—Heavy property damage has been reported in reports of tornadoes reaching from a 50-mile triangle that swept across the western region of Omaha in a storm-ing shortly after 5 o'clock. Dozens are Clifton Hill suffered the greatest loss, many houses being wrecked and in some cases property ruined.

Another Fatality Reported.

It is reasonable that this storm swooped down upon the city at almost the same hour of the day of the week as the more disastrous storm of March 23, 1913, and nearly exactly three years afterward. Most over, last night's tornado seemed to be confined to the three of the city's southernmost and in general followed the same path for a considerable distance.

Property loss, 5 years of age, appears on the face of many reports to be small, and except for the report of fatalities at the time of the storm's passage, the damage to the property of individuals is not great.

Storm Spares Nebraska.

Lincoln, Neb., April 7.—The tornado which swept northward Omaha, was reported today as a heavy fall of snow, which, however, except over that portion of the state bordering on the Missouri river, did little damage. The heaviest fall was reported at Hartington, 50 miles northeast of Norfolk, where several buildings were blown down, damaged and telephone poles were blown down.

Red Cross Aid Is Offered.

At the Red Cross headquarters here today it was announced that the Red Cross would render assistance to the victims of the storm in Omaha if such assistance was necessary.

Mrs. Hall was alone in the house at the time. "I was also heavy the storm coming and I went to the cellar. I had my hat there ready and took a lantern with me. I was just in time. The house was blown down through the cellar door. I was not hurt."

Storm Is Severe.

Mrs. Hall's home was completely wrecked by the collapse of a tornado, every building on the block of which hers was destroyed.

At Kenwood, where the storm reached the proportion of a tornado, every building on the block of which hers was destroyed.

Mrs. Hall was alone in the house at the time. "I was also heavy the storm coming and I went to the cellar. I had my hat there ready and took a lantern with me. I was just in time. The house was blown down through the cellar door. I was not hurt."

OFFICER TELLS ABOUT TROUBLE

Collins was nearly down and out; health is restored by Tanlac.

"A medicine that will do as much for me as Tanlac has done has to be worth recommending," said Jesse W. Collins, one of the well known Hatch, Ariz., citizens.

"When I began using the Tanlac," Mr. Collins continued, "I had trouble with my stomach, and was in such a run-down condition that I could not digest my food. I would eat some food and it would lie there with gas and I was miserable all the time. My appetite was entirely out of condition, and consequently I was losing flesh and strength every day. I was all run down and could hardly get about to do my work. I just had to give up my job.

"I tried everything but never got any benefit until I started taking Tanlac. I have taken three bottles now, and have gained 15 pounds in weight, my appetite is fine, and I am feeling like a new man. My stomach is in perfect condition and I can eat anything I want. I am entirely well, and can say that Tanlac has done me a lot of good. I am always glad to tell my friends about it."

Tanlac is sold in Texas by Dr. Dyer & Peirson and by the leading druggists in every city, town and village in America.—Adv.

Miss Redmond, who has been in ever week of the brilliancy with be eliminated and the company will be more capacitated and satisfied. The character, also, Miss Redmond, who is a favorite with the entertainment of the city, was given a splendid part and handled admirably.

Friends and new patrons of the company are there at the first of twenty weeks that the company will be here. Manager Lowell has announced a number of new features for the coming weeks, and the company will be here for a long time.

Mrs. Redmond Is Injured.

Mrs. Redmond, who has been a favorite with the audiences of El Paso for many years, was injured in the first act of the play Sunday afternoon when she fell and broke her left arm between the wrist and elbow. She was taken to the Hotel Dieu, where the arm was set and dressed, and she was able to be back in the theater in the evening and finish the play. Mrs. Redmond, who has been in El Paso for many years, is an actress and always with her when she, as well as Mr. Redmond, receives a great deal of sympathy.

Eddie Mitchell as a feeble old man, does well.

The song numbers are all good, and the people are very fond of the work of Mr. Harris, with his wonderful baritone voice, and Miss Lowell, with her sweet soprano. "Mother Dear Mother" is a very fine song by Miss Lowell, and "Just Like the Will of the Wisp" is another.

The electrical effects are unusually good in a ballet used to introduce the second act. Miss Dennie does some clever dancing with the ballet.

The theater with the 3d Infantry Police theaters is crowded at all performances. The officers all declare that their evening is entirely and their evening is entirely spoiled if they cannot attend the theater. Manager Lowell has announced a number of new features for the coming weeks, and the company will be here for a long time.

MELBA PALMER COMPANY COMING TO THE CRAWFORD

Manager S. W. Gravell has announced his idea of establishing vaudeville for interval comedy at the Crawford with the closing of the Redmond engagement and will book in the Melba Palmer dramatic show for an indefinite run. Miss Palmer has been most here before, with the Gilpin players and other organizations. She is a Dallas girl, a native of that city.

TODAY'S AMUSEMENTS

"EXPERIMENTAL MARRIAGE."

Patrons of the Alhambra theater have two more Artcraft Creations Pictured to suit their particular tastes today. One is a Mary Pickford production entitled "Experimental Marriage," featuring Miss Pickford. The other is a Douglas Fairbanks picture entitled "Headin' Home."

This play is taken from the story entitled "Headin' Home" and tells the story of a young widow, spirited and charming, who decides to lend herself extra by matrimonial ties, decided to forego her own matrimonial ambitions and accept an offer to become a wife from a man she does not love. She is to marry the rest of the time. There are complications galore when the husband decides to teach his wife a lesson.

The Princess musical ruler pictures, Cupid, is most beautiful and will also be shown today and tomorrow. It being the last one to be shown until others are ready.

"Headin' Home" will be here Wednesday and this big comedy will be shown for a few days only, as it has completely run its course and other new ones are to be the sort of pictures that you will want to see several times.

WIGWAM—WILLIAM DESMOND.

William Desmond, star of the Universal picture playing now on the stage, who has also become a favorite with the patrons, will be seen at the Wigwam today and tomorrow in his newest comedy romance, "Life's a Funny Proposition." This story is one of the cleverest and it and is no doubt the appreciation. Mr. Desmond is supported by a very strong cast which includes Jay Belmore, Louise Lovely, John Steppling and other well known players of the silent drama.

Wednesday, the Wigwam will show Fred Stone's very best picture, "Johnny Get Your Gun." This picture is simply great.—Adv.

EXQUE—NORMA TALMADGE.

Norma Talmadge in "Ashes of Vengeance" will be the attraction today and tomorrow. Norma's Vengeance contains a wildness and rare variation of the theme of the betrayed and deserted girl. Mrs. Fiske appeared three seasons ago in a dramatic drama having the same variation, playing the part of a young Russian woman loved to devotion before he was nearly lost, the betrayed girl refusing to feeling distress to her.

It is curious that the public should be so little sure, for, while in real life most girls who are misled are through circumstances to deceitful ways, there are none who find forgiveness through fidelity of their love to lead.

The photos start at 11:00, 12:00, 1:45, 3, 4:45, 6:30, 8:15, 9:30 p. m.—Adv.

ELECTRIC—CHARLIE RAY.

Those who saw Charlie Ray at the Elinger theater yesterday in "The Sheriff's Son" will tell you that it is a picture you do not want to miss. Thousands of Kinsey persons were turned to tears and smiles by the masterful touch characteristic of this famed by Ray in his newest picture.

"The Sheriff's Son" is being shown at the Elinger theater today for the last time and those who failed to see the character of this last appearance are missing one of the real treats of the season.

Tomorrow the Elinger offers the

What Makes Big 4 a "Sure Shot?"

BIG 4 is going to make BIG MONEY unless all signs fail. The only way to kill BIG 4's chances is practically ALL the great TEXAS OIL FIELDS to play out AT ONE TIME. Judge for yourself whether this is likely to happen.

And the beautiful post of it is that BIG 4 is destined to make money for its stockholders—(who are its real OWNERS)—whether it ever DRILLS for OIL or NOT, though the BIG 4 will almost BE COMPELLED to DRILL in the NEAR FUTURE because of the rapid development of some of the properties of which BIG 4 owns "offsets."

BIG 4 doesn't have to get OIL to make money. BIG 4 need REAL MONEY to purchase holdings in nearly all the important fields. These holdings are mounting in value every day. BIG 4 holds OPTIONS on other valuable properties which it can close at any desired MOMENT. BIG 4 doesn't have to wait for stock subscriptions to do the things it needs to do to make profits.

Whether you buy BIG 4 stock at $1 per share rests entirely with you. BIG 4 is offering only a fifth of its capitalization for present public subscriptions. The remaining stock MAY NEVER be issued at all in that case it stays right in BIG 4's treasury, the property of ALL the Stockholders.

BIG 4's campaign for subscriptions at $1 per share will not last a great while longer. If you care to join with BIG MEN in a BIG ENTERPRISE with the expectation of sound administration and BIG EARNINGS, you will not delay sending your order. "Do You Know of a Single Gentile Charity Which Is Not Largely and Willingly Contributed to By People of the Jewish Faith?"

—George Ade

One of America's most gifted writers brings home to every Gentile a statement of facts and conditions that many of them have been overlooking. Take time to read what Mr. Ade says below—

"In any campaign to feed the hungry or lift up the stricken or shelter the homeless it is taken for granted, as a matter of course, that the Jews will do their full share and then oversubscribe a little. They are accustomed to do things in a big way and are not dismayed by ordinary tasks.

"Now they are up against an extraordinary task; an undertaking, vast in proportions, hedged in by appalling handicaps. The American Jewish Relief Committee is endeavoring to save from starvation and military Jews who are the helpless victims of the German Terror.

"Between the committee in New York City and the unfortunate refugees or penned-in prisoners that they are trying to help, are open seas and devastated provinces.

"It can be done and the committee will do it. It will get money and food to the helpless victims, even if in the farthest parts of Europe, if it is backed and supported here at home.

"I have lived in several towns, but I cannot remember the name of a place in which Jews were exempted from contributing to Gentile funds. The call of humanity knows no foreign language, no racial dialect, no favored accent.

"If every citizen of America who has been somewhat directly the beneficiary of Jewish philanthropy should now come forward and help the American Jewish Relief Committee the necessary funds would be ready tomorrow. They should come forward."

Según el San Antonio Express, "6 millones" de judíos están muriendo de hambre en 1919, lo que provoca que la raza judía esté más cerca que nunca de la extinción.

SAN ANTONIO EXPRESS: WEDNESDAY MORNING, APRIL 9, 1919.

What the Non-Jews Are Doing for Jewish War Relief

At no other time in the history of the Jewish people has the need been so great as now. Six million of our brothers and sisters are dying of starvation. The entire race is threatened with extinction. The burden is more than we can bear alone.

In the most recent campaigns, therefore, the appeal has been extended to non-Jews. The response has been magnificent. In Wilmington, Delaware, such men as Pierre S. du Pont, John Raskob, William Coyne and John S. Rossell not only gave generously, but labored with heart and soul in the work of organization and solicitation. The result was the munificent subscription of $141,000, although the quota of Wilmington was only $75,000.

In Newark, N. J., the quota was set at $200,000. The story of how $288,000 was raised is a glorious record of non-sectarian co-operation in a great human cause. Under the leadership of the Honorary non-Jewish Committee, composed of the most distinguished citizens, and with the help of Mayor Gillen, who turned over to the campaign committee "the entire machinery of the city"—a common enthusiasm caught everyone. The result was not only a subscription far above the quota, but a spiritual harmony among all creeds which will endure for all time to come.

These two drives, in which the entire population without regard to creed came to the support of Jewish War Relief, are representative of similar campaigns in Pittsburgh, Pa., Passaic, N. J., Trenton, N. J., Duluth, Minn., and many other cities.

More recently State campaigns have been organized which with the help of non-Jews have proved magnificent successes. As a result of these remarkable non-sectarian drives, North Carolina has raised $150,000; West Virginia, $225,000; Georgia, $175,000; Mississippi, $116,000, and other States similarly generous amounts.

The non-Jews are eagerly helping the cause of Jewish War Relief because they know how generously the Jews have helped the Y. M. C. A., the K. of C., and all other war funds, and because the suffering of human beings anywhere is everybody's business.

Jewish Relief Fund

Sumter County Contributes More Then the Amount Asked for By the State Committee. A Most Successful Opening Meeting

Sumter county was asked to give seven thousand dollars as its contribution toward the Jewish Relief fund that is being raised this week by a nation-wide campaign to provide means for saving the six million destitute Jews in the war desolated regions of the old world. Sumter's response at the mass meeting held in the Opera House Sunday afternoon was a contribution of $9,060, and the greater part of the county outside of the city is still to be heard from and the canvass of the city by committees is yet to be completed. It is safe to predict that the contribution of Sumter county to this worthy cause will exceed ten thousand dollars when all reports have been received and totaled.

The campaign fo rthe Jewish Relief fund is under the direction of Mr. August Kohn, of Columbia, as State chairman, Mr. I. C. Strauss as district chairman for Sumter, Lee and Clarendon counties, and Dr. S. H. Edmunds as county chairman. The committee for Sumter county was organized last week with representatives for every section of the county and the work arranged so that the campaign would open with a representative meeting on Sunday afternoon.

The mass meeting was well attended, the first floor of the Opera House being completely filled and there was a large crowd in the balcony. The programme was most entertaining and pleased all of the large audience. The musical numbers and the character sketch by Ward-Waters Company of Alkahest Lyceum Bureau were both novel and pleasing. The song recital of Mrs. Marie Nicholson charmed all music lovers.

Dr. J. A. Rice, pastor of Trinity church, who delivered the address, made a most impressive, eloquent and inspiring presentation of the cause for which the meeting was held. His sympathies are with the down-trodden and suffering of all nations and the appeal he made in behalf of the six millions of the old world touched the hearts of all who heard him. The collection was as usual, turned over to Mayor L. D. Jennings and the experience he has gained in this line of public service during the past few years has qualified him as an expert. His work on this occasion was not arduous or protracted, for the people responded promptly, cheerfully and generously, and the subscriptions came as rapidly as the secretary could record them. At the close of the meeting the announcement was made that the total amount contributed was $9,060, with the reports from other sections of the county and from the canvassing committees in the city still to be taken into account.

Jewish Relief Fund

Sumter County Contributes More Then the Amount Asked for By the State Committee. A Most Successful Opening Meeting

Sumter county was asked to give seven thousand dollars as its contribution toward the Jewish Relief fund that is being raised this week by a nation-wide campaign to provide means for saving the six million desolate Jews in the war desolated regions of the old world. Sumter's response at the mass meeting held in the Opera House Sunday afternoon was a contribution of $9,060, and the greater part of the county outside of the city is still to be heard from and the canvass of the city by committees is yet to be completed. It is safe to predict that the contribution of Sumter county to this worthy cause will exceed ten thousand dollars when all reports have been received and totaled.

The campaign fo rthe Jewish Relief fund is under the direction of Mr. August Kohn, of Columbia, as State chairman, Mr. I. C. Strauss as district chairman for Sumter, Lee and Clarendon counties, and Dr. S. H. Edmunds as county chairman. The committee for Sumter county was organized last week with representatives for every section of the county and the work arranged so that the campaign would open with a representative meeting on Sunday afternoon.

The mass meeting was well attended, the first floor of the Opera House being completely filled and there was a large crowd in the balcony. The programme was most entertaining and pleased all of the large audience. The musical numbers and the character sketch by Ward-Waters Company of Alkahest Lyceum Bureau were both novel and pleasing. The song recital of Mrs. Marie Nicholson charmed all music lovers.

Dr. J. A. Rice, pastor of Trinity church, who delivered the address, made a most impressive, eloquent and inspiring presentation of the cause for which the meeting was held. His sympathies are with the down-trodden and suffering of all nations and the appeal he made in behalf of the six millions of the old world touched the hearts of all who heard him. The collection was as usual, turned over to Mayor L. D. Jennings and the experience he has gained in this line of public service during the past few years has qualified him as an expert. His work on this occasion was not arduous or protracted, for the people responded promptly, cheerfully and generously, and the subscriptions came as rapidly as the secretary could record them. At the close of the meeting the announcement was made that the total amount contributed was $9,060, with the reports from other sections of the county and from the canvassing committees in the city still to be taken into account.

A meeting was held in Manning last night to raise Clarendon county's quota of three thousand dollars and without having done any preliminary work the committee, of which Mr. Charlton DuRant is chairman, secured contributions aggregating $2,300. Clarendon county will more than reach is quota.

Red Cross Notes—Canteen Department at Work.

Now that there are so many homecoming soldiers the Canteen Department is hard at work again. Last week, when the first part of the 30th Division passed through, every train was met and the men served just as they were last summer when they were on their way to the front. The ladies of the Canteen Committee made 1,000 sandwiches. The Coca-Cola company donated 1,000 bottles of Coca-Cola, and the Chero-Cola Company 1,000 bottles of Chero-Cola.

The committee expects to keep up its work until the last trainload of soldiers shall have reached home.

Victory Loan Flag.

Flag From National Capital Offered as Prize

Word from Washington was received today by the Woman's Liberty Loan Committee for South Carolina announcing that the large American flag which floated over the dome of the capitol during the inaugural ceremonies and other historic occasions would be awarded the State which attains the largest percentage of oversubscriptions of its quota in the Victory Liberty Loan campaign.

At the recent conference of the Fifth Federal Reserve District held in Richmond, South Carolina was congratulated on having the most complete organization to date and the Liberty Loan committees predict that she will keep in the lead and now stands a good chance of winning the prize pennant in the coming drive which opens Monday, the 21st.

This flag of honor was presented to the treasury department by Elliot Woods, superintendent of the United States capitol. It was first floated over the capitol dome March 5, 1917 when President Wilson was inaugurated and again when the president delivered his war address to congress April 2, 1917 and during the passage of the war resolution April 4 and 5, 1917. This flag was also flown on the occasion of the visits of the various foreign missions to the capitol and raised proudly the day the armistice was signed.

The Bureau of Publicity of the Treasury Department announces that this flag will be presented as a permanent souvenir to the State that makes the highest record.

Royal Blood

A New Dairy Queen and Her Grandson

Clemson College, April 4.—The Dairy Division of Clemson College purchased last fall a young Jersey bull, grandson of Vive La France, a Jersey cow which has just been crowned queen of the dairy world. Vive La France has broken the world's record of butter-fat production by making 1,028.86 pounds of butter fat in a year, exceeding all former records by 28.5 pounds.

This fact should be of particular interest to South Carolina farmers in this good day of a rapidly growing interest in dairying and good family cows, for it will be worth a great deal that such dairy bood is to head the herd of the State's agricultural college, from which will go out in a few years many descendants of this royal blood of dairydom.

The young bull is not only a grandson of Vive La France but claims a half sister of that wonderful producer as his mother, whose record is 801.85 pounds per year, so that the combined average production record of his mother and his father's mother is 915 pounds of butter-fat. His descendants are sure to be great producers and will of course be in great demand.

Death.

Mr. William J. Rees died Sunday afternoon at the home of Mr. John R. Sumter on West Hampton Avenue, after a long illness, aged 67 years. Mr. Rees had been ill with organic heart disease for many months and for several weeks his condition has been so critical that the end was expected.

Mr. Rees was a native of Statesburg and spent his entire life in that community. For many years he was magistrate of the Middleton and Statesburg district and was re-elected term after term without opposition, a substantial proof of the efficient, fair and able performance of his official duties and a mark of esteem in which he was personally held by the people of his community. He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. J. T. Gettys and Miss Mayo Rees, of Columbia, one brother, Mr. W. W. Rees, and three sisters, Mrs. Des. Bull of Statesburg, Mrs. Thos. S. Sumter and Mrs. John R. Sumter, of this city.

The funeral services will be held at the Church of the Holy Cross, Statesburg, at 3 o'clock this afternoon, the funeral party leaving the residence of Mr. John R. Sumter at 4 o'clock.

To those who suffer from constipation, weak kidneys, a sickish liver, poor digestion, gas in the stomach, pains in the limbs backache, no appetite and broken sleep, should know that relief is at hand. The root and herb remedy, Dreco, has a wide reputation for getting rid of all these troubles, as is proven by the many letters received from well known and reliable persons. For instance, Mr. G. E. Cheek of 11 Benett St., Greenville, S. C. says:

"I could not eat or sleep with any satisfaction; my kidneys were weak, and I had a backache most all of the time. My stomach was gassy and often pained me. My appetite went off to almost nothing and my sleep was broken. My joints were full of rhumatism, and my muscles sore to the touch. I had taken several medicines but none seemed to do me any good. Reading one day of Dreco, I decided to try it. Two bottles of Dreco have wiped out all my troubles, and I am feeling like a new person. I advise all persons who suffer as I did to try Dreco."

Dreco, the root and herb medicine, purifies the blood, strengthens the kidneys, rouses the liver to action, relieves constipation, lifts the load from the stomach, and builds up the entire system.

Would Fix Cotton Price

Ready to Appeal to Government, Says Gov. Allen

Topeka, Kans., April 5.—Governor Henry J. Allen declared he was ready to join in an appeal to the federal government to fix a guaranteed price for cotton except that which was in the hands of speculators, in a telegram sent tonight to W. R. Cooper at Wilmington, N. C.

Governor Allen's telegram was sent in reply to one from Mr. Cooper who asked him if he "would join Southern cotton people is asking the federal government to guarantee 35 cents a pound for middling cotton up to June, 1920, or so long as the present wheat prices are guaranteed."

In reply Governor Allen wired:

"I will be glad to join Southern cotton people in asking the federal government for a guaranteed cotton price for all cotton that has not been held for speculative prices during the war. This guarantee, of course would apply to the new crop.

American Jews' Day of Mourning

To the Editor of the Telegraph:

It has been decided by the spiritual and temporal leaders of American Jewry that a day of mourning, fasting and praying be set and observed by all Jewish communities of this country, as a protest against the wholesale massacres of and pograms on their six million brethren at the hands of the newly liberated poles. The coming Thursday, May 29, our Christian friends may be surprised to see Jews closing their stores and shops for a few hours to repair to the synagogues. Well, it will be the day of mourning observed by the Harrisburg Jewish community. On all the Jewish faces will be read a sorrow as deep as the sea and a pain as silent as the night.

The real protest, however, is coming from the victims themselves, from the outraged and then killed widows of fallen soldiers, from the torn from the torn babies, from the wild shrieks of despair of the mothers which are only silenced by the death blow of the club wielded by the murderer from the wrecked homes, from the desecrated synagogues, from the defiled holy scrolls, from the ruined cemeteries, from the blood of the son which is made to mingle with the blood of the aged father, etc., etc.

Many people have asked the meaning of the word "pogram." In vain will the Americans look for it in their dictionaries. It is a strictly Russian product, adopted now by the reborn Poland, and evidently countenanced by the majority of the "Peace Conference." We Americans have heard of lynching. Well, a pogram is a wholesale and incomparably more brutalized form of lynching. But there is another important distinction between lynching and pograms. Lynching is detestable, horrible, and barbarous enough. But the victim that is being lynched is more or less guilty of a crime, while the victims of the pograms are absolutely innocent. An important distination, is it not between these two. And there is yet another difference between these two. The satanic work of lynching is being done by the blind ignorant and irresponsible mob, while pograms are being carried on by the people higher up.

You will ask "why do they do that?" Just for a pastime.

Some newspapers expressed themselves that Poland declared war against six million Jews. We scout such a war against non-combatants. We scorn a war with cowards who attack defenseless women and children, who first disarm our self-protecting young men under peaceful pretenses and then kill them from behind their backs. Shame on those who call such cowardice war. If Poland wants honorable warfare, we accept the challenge. In fact, we will throw down the gauntlet first. Let the Allied nations for whom our sons bled so freely, let the nations who cajoled Americans, who coaxed our Jewish lads into a war for Democracy, and then betrayed their wives, fathers, mothers and sisters into the hands of brutes, allow us to equip a transport to go together with our nearly three million Jewish soldiers who fought under the flag of the Allies to fight against the barbarous Poles even as valiantly as we fought against, well, shall I say, the less barbarous Germans. No one can make a better soldier than the Jew. For what are the qualifications of a good soldier? Morale, self-denial, fatitude and endurance. History will show as to which Nation has shown the most endurance.

For honorable warfare we are always ready, even if not prepared. Let the citations and decorations of Jewish soldiers testify. In honorable combat all of us Jews are willing to be exterminated even completely. But the children of Israel, the sons of the prophets, the lineal descendants of the Maccabees flatly and categorically refuse to be drowned like rats, to be throttled like snakes, to be crushed like worms. Only a completely demoralized and thoroughly depraved world can tolerate such a state of affairs.

Poland had become the fondled child, the pet of those Allies who went into the war for aggrandizement and material gain. Why? Because by Poland's geographical position the majority of the Allies expect her to hem and hedge in Germany. (What guarantee they take from Poland that she will just cater to the interests of the Allies, I do not know). So Poland is allowed to cloak her cowardice under the pretext that she is killing "lawless" Jews

LEGISLATURE NEWS

APPROPRIATION WANTS ARE HUGE

Almost $125,000,000 Asked of House With Revenue Less Than $90,000,000 Now

Appropriation bills listed by the House appropriations committee have reached the stupendous total of $134,432,315.01. This breaks all records for requests and the figures have been double-checked to make sure that they are correct.

Estimates of the revenue available for appropriation range anywhere from $86,000,000 to $90,000,000 and Governor William C. Sproul has given $90,000,000 as the outside figure, this being contingent upon the Auditor General being able to demonstrate that he can raise that amount of money. The alternative will be a tax of two mills on the dollar of manufacturing capital.

Members of the Legislature in charge of appropriations are planning to see Governor Sproul as soon as possible so that they can start reducing the bills and in order to make reports for which purpose both Houses are commencing to-day to-morrow. Chairman William J. McCloskey, chairman of the House appropriations committee, has sent out notices to heads of a number of departments of the State government to meet him this week to show where their requests in the general appropriation bill can be reduced. This bill is now over $42,000,000 and at least $31,000,000 must be cut from it. The other reductions will be made in charitable, educational and similar bills and the colleges receiving State grants will not get more than they received in 1917.

Pronounced opposition to the levying of a manufacturing capital tax is expected to be manifested this week and Auditor General Charles A. Snyder will ask that he be given the authority asked in his series of bills in order to raise the revenue without recourse to the much discussed tax. Employers who are opposing the increased percentages for compensation are interested in the capital stock tax and will appear against it. The compensation rate amendment bill will likely remain in committee until some actuarial estimates are completed for information of the members.

This data was promised by the committee of employers who appeared here last Tuesday in opposition to the administration bill as a support for their contention that the proper way to amend the bill was in fixing new bases instead of altering the percentages. The administration is having similar information assembled to back up its bill. The self insurers tax will be opposed in the House committee on ways and means and the rehabilitation bill, another of the compensation series, will be virtually rewritten. Some men who have studied this measure say that it would prove a huge financial burden in a few years and that that the State would have an annual expense of millions to care for injured men. Redistribution of the burden and provision that it would affect only Pennsylvanians or men hurt in Pennsylvania industries are suggested. The bill reorganizing the Compensation Bureau is to go through as reported from the Senates committee with salaries reduced and an actuary provided for. Authority of the Commissioner of Labor and Industry will not be abridged.

Some amendments to the Cox bill regulating sales of second hand motor vehicle and requiring reports on cars left for repairs to be made by garages are rumored, opposition to the detailed information asked having cropped up on the ground that it would be burdensome. Changes to the Dithrich automobile regulation bill are also possible.

Friends of military training will call for action this week. The Dunk bill is on the Senate postponed calendar and it will be determined in what form the proposition is to go through. The way it stands now, it is optional with districts and as the bill does not carry enough money to meet the expense of instructors, but only for administration and launching the system local districts have been protesting. Presence of a larger grant by the State are unfavorable because of the appropriation situation.

THREE SMALL FIRES

Small damage resulted in three fires reported to the Harrisburg fire department yesterday. The first call came from the Pennsylvania Railroad, where a blazer caught fire. ## SUFFRAGE WILL BE UP TONIGHT

Senators Will Pass Amendment Resolution; Ratifier Coming Along Soon

People about the State Capitol are speculating upon the possibility of Pennsylvania being among the States having an early chance to ratify a woman suffrage amendment. Most of the Legislatures have adjourned and as Keystone State General Assembly is generally believed to have a month more in prospect some people here are of the opinion that Congress may act upon the amendment before the gavels fall in the State house on the session of 1919. The suffrage amendment is now in the United States Senate, having passed the House. Predictions are made that if the amendment measure comes here from Washington it will pass the Legislature.

The resolution proposing the woman suffrage amendment to the Constitution of Pennsylvania, which passed the House on April 22 by 128 to 64, is the special order for the Senate at ten o'clock to-day and the suffragists claim that it will pass. It must pass the next Legislature before it can be submitted to the electors of Pennsylvania, who rejected it four years ago.

The fact that some of the national Republican leaders are favorable to suffrage and the desire to keep it out of the primaries next year may have the effect of hastening favorable action in the State Legislature. Just 101 members of the House who voted for prohibition amendment ratification voted for the suffrage resolution. Some suffragists claim as high as 35 votes. Twenty-six are needed.

Both branches of the Legislature will meet at 9 o'clock, each with executive calendars. It is the plan to hold sessions on Tuesday and Wednesday, but there will be few hearings. The amendments proposed to the Philadelphia charter bills will be considered by the House Municipal Corporations Committee on Tuesday and it is expected that they will be disposed of in the House along with other Philadelphia bills the following week. Meanwhile it is probable that estimates of the revenue available for appropriation will be determined upon the final revision of appropriation bills made in committee. Ninety millions of dollars figures largely in the discussions as the limit.

During the week a convention of men interested in revision of the Constitution will be held here and committees will visit the Legislature. The Senate bill providing for a commission to be named by the Governor to study revision of the Constitution is on the third reading calendar in the House and will be disposed of during the week.

The Senate calendar contains a large number of third reading bills, including those to regulate dwelling construction, forbidding offering of stale eggs as fresh, authorizing condemnation of land for State forests, reorganizing State Compensation Bureau, new public printing bill, authorizing counties to erect memorials to men who fought in the war with Germany and Constitutional amendment forbidding appointment of persons rejected by the Senate after Senate has adjourned.

In the House the calendar contains dozens of postponed bills, including the prohibition enforcement and alcohol content bills fathercon's license, requiring all vehicles to carry lights on roads after dark, branch bank and physical education bills. The new bureau of markets bill is on third reading. On second reading is the new contagious disease drafted by the State Department of Health.

Borah Again Pleads For Peace League To Be Party Issue

Washington, May 26.—A plea that the Republican party accept the question of a peace league as a party issue and oppose as a unit the league covenant was reiterated by Senator Borah, Republican of Idaho, in a letter he made public here. The communication, addressed to D. E. Dunne, Wichita, Kans., commending the Sedgwick Republican Club for resolutions denouncing the league covenant, was similar in content to the letter recently sent by the Idaho Senator to the Boston Transcript.

It is a strictly Russian product, adopted now by the reborn Poland, and evidently countenanced by the majority of the "Peace Conference." We Americans have heard of lynching. Well, a pogram is a wholesale and incomparably more brutalized form of lynching. But there is another important distinction between lynching and pogroms. Lynching is detestable, horrible, and barbarous enough. But the victim that is between these two. And there is yet another difference between these two. The satanic work of lynching is being done by the blind ignorant and irresponsible mob, while pogroms are being carried on by the people higher up.

You will ask "why do they do that?" Just for a pastime.

Some newspapers expressed themselves that Poland declared war against [illegible] Jews. We scout such a war against non-combatants. We scorn a war with cowards who attack defenseless women and children, who first disarm our self-protecting young men under peaceful pretenses and then kill them from behind their backs. Shame on those who call such cowardice war. If Poland wants honorable warfare, we accept the challenge. In fact, we will throw down the gauntlet first. Let the Allied nations for whom our sons bled so freely, let the nations who enabled Americans, who coaxed our Jewish lads into a war for Democracy, and then betrayed their wives, fathers, mothers and sisters into the hands of brutes, allow us to equip a regiment to go together with our nearly three million Jewish soldiers who fought under the flag of the Allies to fight against the barbarous Poles even as valiantly as we fought against, well, shall I say, the less barbarous Germans. No one can make a better offer than the Jews. For what are the qualifications of a good soldier? Morale, self-denial, fatitude and endurance. History will show as to which nation has shown the most endurance.

For honorable warfare we are always ready, even if not prepared. Let the citizens and decorations of Jewish soldiers testify. In honorable combat all of us Jews are willing to be exterminated even completely. But the children of Israel, the seeds of the prophets, the lineal descendants of the Maccabees flatly and categorically refuse to be slaughtered like rats, to be throttled like snakes, to be crushed like worms. Only a completely demoralized and thoroughly depraved world can tolerate such a state of affairs.

Poland had become the fondled child, the pet of those Allies who went into the war for aggrandizement and material gain. Why? Being lynched is more or less guilty of a crime, while the victims of the pograms are absolutely innocent. An important distinction, is it not between these two. And there is yet another difference between these two. The satanic work of lynching is being done by the blind ignorant and irresponsible mob, text that she is killing "lawless" Jews

Yes, we are lawless only in the sense that we are not vouchsafed any law to protect us, no law to save the lives of our defenseless women and children. In other words, we have been outlawed. Yes, we have been outlawed by the flower of civilization. Do people really believe that we deserve no protection of the law? If so, let them say that openly, so that we may know where we are at. The outrageous insinuation of the leaders of the new Poland that the Jews in their domain are lawless finds its parallel only in the notorious amount of slander coming from the same source that Jews use the blood of Christians for ritual purposes.

Has not the cup of Israel's tragedy been filled to its brim yet? For centuries we hoped that the time would finally come when Israel too would see light. Patiently we waited for the dawn of a new era. With the strong confidence in humanity and with the fortitude characteristic of our race we pierced through the darkness of the "dark ages" and projected our visions into the far future. How refreshed, how gladdened because Israel's cry had been heard that at last a war for real civilization, for genuine Democracy was being fought. With all our heart, with all his energy he plunged into the great struggle. His eyes received a new lustre, his face became brightened, and the old wrinkles began to become smoothed down by the new hope. Then came the war. With throbbing hearts and with tearful eyes, we cast our wistful and hopeful glances across the ocean to the tribunal of justice that was set up in Versailles. We lifted up our eyes to the mountains, daring fervently, "Thence will come our help."

But what now? Is our tragedy to be worse than ever before? Has light came to the world only to make us see our misery in a new light, just unspeakable, and inconceivable agony? There are societies and organizations for the prevention of cruelty to animals. Are we worse than animals? Is the Jew who was the first to give the conception of justice to the world to be the last to enjoy its blessings? Oh, ungrateful, treacherous, false world! Why encumber your dictionaries with such meaningless words as justice, humanity, righteousness, civilization? Why make your dictionaries so bulky and heavy. When there is a single word that can take the place of all the afore mentioned terms—namesfnge. Erase, blot out those words from your codes. Why blaspheme? The German Ex-Kaiser shocked the Allied world by his sacrilegious appeal to God. Now some of our Allies shock God by this hypocritical auction, shame and shameful reference to justice.

This is the tone in which America should speak to the world. America staked its all for the sake of fourteen idealistic terms, for the sake of true idealism for the sake of establishing justice in the world. Is this the way in which those that are able are paying America it debt? Even Mr. Charles Hughes said in New York the other day at the protest meeting in Madison Square Garden, "Connivance at the terrible massacres of the Jews at the hands of Poland is a betrayal of the principles for which America fought. The dire distress of the [illegible] of Jews is also an American issue. And I am sure America knows how to take care of its principles and ideals, so that a whole Nation should not have to mourn in the way the Jewish Nation does.

APPEALS TO AMERICA TO ACT QUICKLY IF LIVES OF SOME SIX MILLION JEWS ARE TO BE SAVED

Louis Marshall, Back From Abroad, Tells of Terrible Conditions There.

SEEK $35,000,000 HERE

Campaigns Must Be Held Quickly, Mr. Marshall Declares, as Millions Will Not Survive to Enjoy Its Benefits; Delay Means Loss of Many.

Special to The Courier.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4—"Let me say to you candidly and in all solemnity that Jewry abroad is tottering on the brink. The lives of some six million people are at stake. I say advisedly that never in the history of our people whose tribulations have been notorious throughout the ages, has there been such a welter of misery, poverty and suffering. Horrors and both physical and spiritual torture that would sound unbelievable if narrated are the common lot of millions of Jewish people in the old world.

"In what is almost its last death throe, European Jewry turns in frantic appeal to the three and one-half million Jews of America to give of their plenty the small measure of aid which shall stay the destruction threatening that large portion of the race which dwells across the sea."

This, in brief, is the urgent appeal which Louis Marshall, chairman of the American Jewish Relief committee, who has just returned from his work in Paris as Jewish representative at the peace conference, has dispatched to A. Leo Weil, A. J. Sunstein and I. W. Frank of Pittsburg, Jacob D. Lit, Louis Gerstley and Samuel Fels of Philadelphia, David Kaufman of Harrisburg and other members of the Pennsylvania State Jewish Relief committee. The local men are engaged in the organization of the campaign to be held this fall to raise this state's share of the $35,000,000 fund being sought for Jewish relief work abroad.

"It is absolutely necessary," Mr. Marshall says, "that our campaigns be held quickly. The civil, political and religious rights of the Jews in Eastern Europe have been well secured and guaranteed at the peace table, but literally millions will never survive the present disastrous times to enjoy these vast benefits unless America responds with the funds needed to tide them over the crisis now upon them.

"American Jews can count upon their many friends to aid in this humanitarian work, but the Jews must take the lead in the herculean tas. Staple foods, clothing, medicines and other basic supplies, all of which are practically unobtainable in much of Eastern Europe, must be shipped in quantities from this side. Given this simple aid for a few months, Jewry in Europe will be able to rehabilitate itself quickly. But delay will prove fatal. American Jews were not slackers during the war. There must be no slackers in the battle for the lives of millions of our brothers abroad."

TRAINS FRENCH

American Gets Results With Army Athletes at Inter-Allied Games.

PARIS, July 12.—That the French track and field team which took part in the Inter-Allied games at the Pershing stadium was trained by an American is a fact which caused no little dissatisfaction among the French athletic directors and resulted in considerable open criticism in the French press of Lieutenant Colonel See, of the French army, who is in charge of athletics for the pollu. However the colonel was obdurate and said to the American, Louis G. Schroeder of the Y. M. C. A.: "You are trainer-in-chief of the French army track and field team with absolute charge," and the colonel stuck to it. (The French team won seven places in the finals, winning the Modified Marathon and taking two second places and four thirds.)

Colonel See pointed out to his French colleagues that the French athletes never had been able to do anything in the Olympic games, and it was time an effort was made to adopt the methods of the Americans who had been cleaning up in this line for a long time. Schroeder's work in training athletes for the preliminaries had been closely watched by Colonel See, and when it produced results in the trials for the French army championships, the colonel set out to get Schroeder for trainer of the champions to take part in the Inter-Allied games. Schroeder was a member of the athletic faculty of the "Y" training school at Springfield, Mass., before entering the work in the A. E. F.

STATE ADOPTS WEATHERPROOF SIGN FOR INDICATING DETOU

Cardboard Markers to Be Replaced With Red and White Metal Plates.

LIST OF ALL DETOURS

Special to The Courier.

HARRISBURG, Aug. 4—The State Highway Department today announced that the black and white cardboard signs used heretofore in marking detours on state highway routes are to be replaced with metal indicators within a few days. These new signs are a stagecoach red in color, with a large white arrow. They are visible at a great distance and the weather will not affect them. In many instances during the last month the rain and winds have destroyed the pasteboard signs, causing confusion to travelers. The state highway department in its efforts to make traveling as easy as possible despite the large number of detours necessary, has adopted the metal markers.

The State Highway Department today announced a list of detours existing in Pennsylvania. Announcement was also made of road sections which have been oiled or otherwise surfaced during the last few days. The detour list is as follows:

Lincoln Highway

From Salvia to Harrisonville, Fulton county; from Chambersburg to Fayetteville, Franklin county, and from Berwick to Farmers, York county.

National Pike

No detours.

William Penn Highway

(Travelers on this road are advised, east bound, to use the Lincoln highway to Greensburg; then crossing the William Penn highway to New Alexandria. Within two weeks a detour will be inaugurated on this road in Cambria county, which will necessitate the detouring of all traffic through Indiana and Saltsburg, to Pittsburg.)

Detours are to be found between Ebensburg and Cresson; at Duncansville, Hollidaysburg, Lewistown, Mifflintown, between Clarks Ferry bridge and Harrisburg (from Clarks Ferry pass through Duncannon and Marysville to Harrisburg); near Stoughstown, at Robesonia, at Sinking Springs. On the New York extension of this road, a detour will be found southeast of Allentown.

6,000,000 JEWS IN BREAD LINE, STRAUS WRITES

More Than Third of Entire Race in World Reduced to Despair in Europe

PITIFUL PICTURE DRAWN

Appeal Issued for Mothers Driven Insane by Seeing Children Starved

By NATHAN STRAUS

NATHAN STRAUS, noted philanthropist and merchant, who pleads for the relief of destitute Jewish people in Eastern Europe.

NEW YORK, October 18.—Terrible as conditions have been for the last five years among the destitute Jews of Eastern Europe, they have never before been so appalling as they are at the present moment. With the coming of winter the climax of tragedy has been reached, according to the latest reports from American Jewish relief workers, in every part of these stricken countries. At no time since hostilities ceased has the suffering been so intense as it is now among the Jews in these unfortunate lands.

Six million Jews, out of the 16,000,000 in the world, or considerably more than a third of the entire Jewish race, are today standing in bread lines or getting the soup on which they live from the soup kitchens of the Joint Distribution Committee of American Funds for Jewish War Sufferers.

ORPHANS LIVE ON STREETS

Thousands of them are sick, hundreds of thousands are without homes—all are destitute. A hundred thousand Jewish orphans, many of whom are sleeping and living on the streets, look forward with terror to the coming of the winter. It is impossible to compute the number of mothers who have gone insane as they watched their children starve or the number of typhus patients who are praying for death as they lie sick, without hospitals or medicines or sufficient food.

One year more of malnutrition has so weakened these poverty-stricken Jews that they will not be able to endure the rigors of the winter even as well as they did last year, when thousands of them died from cold and hunger. The number of refugees has been greatly increased also by the Bolshevik fighting, and innumerable homes have been destroyed within the last twelve months.

Hundreds of thousands of Jews are living today in open fields or unroofed platforms, fifteen families to a platform, in broken houses, in stalls of old stables or in holes in the ground. They are clad, for the most part, in the rags they have worn for the last five years, with strips of cloth bound to their feet or bits of bark tied to their soles to serve as shoes.

PROMPT AID NECESSARY

help of the Joint Distribution Committee of American funds for Jewish War Sufferers.

Every month this summer 27,000 Jewish children were sent to vacation homes to recover their strength, depleted by starvation. Last month 500 additional children were sent from Vienna to Holland, where private homes were to receive them and 500 other invalids were sent from Vienna to Trieste to convalesce.

Extensive as it seems, the aid now being given children in Eastern Europe does not nearly meet the need, and unless funds are raised to carry on the work on an infinitely greater scale, the coming spring will find comparatively few children alive in these stricken lands. Herbert Hoover of the American food commission, who just returned to America, commented upon this fact, and said that it would have been impossible for the food commission, to have kept between 4,000,000 and 5,000,000 children in Eastern Europe alive even until now without the help of the American Jewish Relief Committee's funds.

There is no corner of Poland, Lithuania, Rumania, Czecho-Slovakia, or Palestine so remote that the Joint Distribution Committee of American Funds for Jewish War Sufferers has not reached it with some supplies for the unfortunate populace, either Jews or Gentiles or both. A relief train of forty-four cars recently carried food and old clothing and bedding to a number of towns in Siberia. Eight motor trucks, laden with crackers and condensed milk, are even now following upon the trial of the Bolsheviki in Poland as they retreat, in order to save the people still left alive from death by starvation. All this work must be continued.

The Fulton Patriot publica un artículo afirmando que la judería mundial está sufriendo la mayor crisis de su historia.

WORLD JEWRY AT GREATEST CRISIS

Leaders in America Striving to Save Race in Europe From Destruction.

MUST SEND AID QUICKLY.

Children Are the Most Pitiful Sufferers From the Cataclysm That Has Ruined a Once Prosperous People.

The Jews in almost every country of the world except America are in a state more dire and terrible, perhaps, than any in which they have found themselves since the fall of Jerusalem. Briefly, the Jewish race in much of Europe is on the verge of annihilation.

The countries in which the plight of the Jews is the worst are Poland, Czechoslovakia, Jugoslavia, Rumania, Serbia, Galicia, Palestine, Turkey, Greece and Siberia. In Vilna, a typical town of Poland, the Jewish population has been cut down by starvation, typhus and other diseases in the last five years from 90,000 to 45,000. Nearly half of the survivors are dependent upon relief supplies sent by their co-religionists in America. Warsaw, Kovno, Constanza, and many other cities throughout Central and Eastern Europe tell the same tale.

American Jews, aroused by the reports that first filtered through after the signing of the armistice, immediately organized under the American Jewish Relief Committee, of 15 East 40th Street, New York City, to save their race abroad. They sent some 20 commissioners to various foreign countries to investigate the truth of these reports. Almost all these commissioners have now returned and the first-hand information that they have brought back is more alarming than the early unsubstantiated reports. Such men as Nathan Straus, Henry Morgenthau, Julius Rosenwald, Jacob H. Schiff, Felix M. Warburg, and many other prominent members of this committee are now bending every effort to arouse America to the great need abroad and rush the food and supplies across the ocean which, if sent quickly, will save the Jewish race from destruction.

Saddest of the victims of all this woe are the children. Tens of thousands of pitiful youngsters who are seven or eight years old have gone so long undernourished that they are little further developed than normal infants of one or two years. In the Polish cities orphaned children wander about the streets, homeless and unable to get into the orphanages. These are already overcrowded and depend primarily upon American relief funds to keep them going.

JEWISH RELIEF WORK IS NOW WORLDWIDE

Christian as Well as Jewish Sufferers Are Aided by Organization That Covers Many Countries in Europe and the Orient.

Quietly, and practically without publicity of any sort, the Jews of America have built up, through the American Jewish Relief Committee and other official agencies, a machine for the organization and distribution of relief to war sufferers of their own and other races that is now practically worldwide. The headquarters of the Committee are at 15 East 40th Street, New York. Expenditures for this work now aggregate more than $2,000,000 a month, and by means of state-by-state campaigns to be held this fall a total of $35,000,000 is to be sought to finance the work through the coming months.

An enumeration of the countries in which relief efforts are being made is indicative of the scope of the work. Representatives of these Jewish agencies are to be found in Poland, Czecho-slovakia, Jugoslavia, Galicia, Serbia, Rumania, and other Balkan states. Greece, Turkey, Palestine and Siberia. Small groups of refugees, cast up by the backwash of war, are being assisted in Holland, Japan, China and other isolated parts of the globe.

All told, many million Christians and more than 6,000,000 Jews in countries other than the United States are being directly aided by American Jewish relief funds. The major portion of this humanitarian work is of course carried on in Eastern Europe. It is there that the bulk of the world's Jewish population lives. The fact that these same nations have been perhaps hardest hit by the late war, explains why World Jewry is at the greatest crisis in its history.

But though the Jews of America have set out to save their race from destruction, they are not forgetting that their own people are not the only sufferers in these lands. The significance of the whole undertaking becomes apparent when it is known that the relief supplies which have been purchased and shipped largely with Jewish funds are distributed without discrimination to Christians as well as Jews. Barriers of race and creed have been submerged in the flood tide of suffering throughout much of the earth, and the efforts of American Jewry to aid in the great crisis of today have become as broad as humanity itself.

[The Fulton Patriot – September 3, 1919 p.4]

Mass Meeting Hears That 127,000 Jews Have Been Killed and 6,000,000 Are in Peril.

Tales of massacres in which 127,000 Jews had either been killed or wounded during the last six months were told by the speakers, and all of them, speaking in English, Yiddish, Polish, or Russian, pointed out the disgrace of these pogroms upon twentieth century civilization.

The matter of relief was taken up, and it was decided that the Federation of Ukrainian Jews request this Government to lift the blockade so that food and funds may be sent to their destitute relatives in Eastern Europe. The President reported that there were 3,000,000 Jews in Ukrainia and a like number in Poland, all of whom were in need of assistance from America.

Before Ukrainia should be recognized by America or any of the other allies, it was said that she should first desist from her persecutions of innocent Jews. Until the commission which is to be appointed shall have reported that the Jews are actually receiving equal rights, friendly relations should not be made, it was urged.

The commission, which will probably consist of ten of the leading Ukrainians in America, is to work out a memorandum of the conditions in Eastern Europe, which will be sent to President Wilson, Secretary Lansing, and to all Senators and Congressmen.

An information bureau will also be established by the organization to take care of the reports of the commission-with their relatives and friends in their native land.

Demonstration mass-meetings similar to the one which took place at Madison Square Garden some time ago will be held in every important city in the United States, as the beginning of a protest movement to put an end to the pogroms across the seas.

When the question of appointing a commission was proposed Reuben Fink, the representative of the society at Washington, said that he had seen Secretary Lansing during the week and that he received Mr. Lansing's consent that the delegation be sent over.

"We come out now before the world with the determined slogan, 'Those pogroms must stop,'" said the President in his annual message. "It is only a question of holding these facts continually before the civilized world: we must not permit the world to slumber. This fact that the population of 6,000,000 souls in Ukrainia and in Poland have received notice through action and by word that they are going to be completely exterminated—this fact stands before the whole world as the paramount issue of the present day."

WHAT AMERICAN DOLLARS MEAN TO STARVING JEWS

The Need: SIX MILLION STARVING SOULS.

Six million Jews in Poland, Lithuania, Galicia, Palestine, Turkey and Siberia are dying of starvation. Refugees, they wander homeless, hungry, in rags. Herbert Hoover has said that one million people will die in Eastern Europe this winter. Thousands upon thousands will perish of starvation and exposure unless immediate aid comes from America. The destitution of Jewish war sufferers during the coming months will probably surpass anything ever known in the history of human suffering. Their suffering is worse than death—it is the lingering torture of starvation, the piteous tragedy of emaciation, the horrible waiting, in agony of hunger, for the grim reaper to end their misery. These six million despairing souls are totally dependent on American generosity for the bare necessities of life.

$400,000 FUND IS ASKED OF NEBRASKA THIS MONTH

CHILDREN ARE SO WEAK THAT THEY CANNOT WALK.

"Dr. Goldfiamm of Warsaw tells me upon the authority of his medical reputation that in his clinic during the past year there has not been a Jewish child up to four years of age who could walk. Some of the children have forgotten, have unlearned how to walk. They have been rachitic from under-nourishment, from being fed once a day this warm potato soup and this hunk of bread."
—From an eye-witness.

First-hand information of the starvation and destitution of the Jewish peoples of Poland and Czecho-Slovakia, as it exists today, is brought out of this land of sorrow and horror by Herbert Hoover, head of the inter-allied relief organization, who has returned to Vienna after a trip of inspection.

Mr. Hoover declared that the economic situation in much of the territory he visited could only be expressed by the term "complete demoralization." He continued:

"As a result of seven invasions by different armies, the country has been largely denuded of buildings. Those regions are four-fifths uncultivated."

The territory which Mr. Hoover visited is but a part of that in which 6,000,000 Jews, sufferers of war and war's equally horrible after-math, stand helpless today, hopeless, too, save for the promise of aid from America, which may give them food and clothing, until order comes out of chaos and gives them again a chance to make their own livelihood.

To meet this trust of starving and destitute humanity, the American Jewish War Relief Committee is conducting a nation-wide campaign for $35,000,000, as a 1919 budget to supply the MINIMUM needs. Nebraska's share of this fund, $400,000, to be raised in a campaign during the week of September 15-22.

George Brandeis, well-known Omaha merchant, has accepted the chairmanship of the Nebraska committee, non-sectarian, under the chairmanship of Governor McKelvie.

Harry Wolf, leading Omaha realtor, has agreed to pay the entire expense of the Nebraska campaign. This means that every cent that every other contributor gives will be used for direct relief, in food, clothing, hospital supplies and other necessities of life.

Headquarters of the campaign have been established in a "hut" on the Court House square at Omaha.

The Object: $35,000,000 for 6,000,000 LIVES.

This year finds Prussianism and autocracy destroyed but famine remains threatening world peace and happiness. Until a stable government is established and industry begins again, the Jewish war sufferers are entirely dependent upon our help. America must respond with characteristic generosity to save the lives of these stricken people whom our boys have freed. The minimum adequate for relief is $35,000,000. If Nebraska is to stand its share with other states, it must contribute $400,000. Without this money the indispensable food and clothing cannot be secured. Without it, the work of rescue cannot go on.

HOW THE MONEY IS DISTRIBUTED.

With the sanction and assistance of the state department at Washington, these funds are sent through a branch committee in the Netherlands and by it distributed to the various relief centers.

YOUR CONTRIBUTION.

George Brandeis,
Treasurer, Nebraska Committee for Jewish Relief.

Dear Sir:

I hereby subscribe $..... for the relief of Jewish war sufferers, all of which is to be used for direct relief.

Use Time to Advantage.

Time, which never stands still itself, will not allow any one of us to stand still. It delivers into our hands sixty minutes every hour and compels us to dispose of them in some way. Whether we will or not, a constant accounting has to be rendered. One who falls into the habit of dissipating time dissipates not only opportunity but happiness, for the spendthrift of time becomes a spendthrift of the other things which make life worth while.—Forbes Magazine.

Paid for Listening.

For 123 years a sermon has been preached in Hendon (Eng.) parish church on the text, "Human life is a bubble." Richard Johnson, who died in 1795, left the masters and wardens of the Stationers' company trustees of his estate, and out of the interest the vicar of Hendon was to receive one guinea for preaching this sermon, and two wardens of the company a guinea each for listening to it.

Experts or Theorists—Which?

The packing industry is intricate, complex—far more so than the railroads or the telegraph.

Every day multiplying needs of society increase its problems and multiplying responsibilities demand more of it.

Highly trained experts, specialists of years' experience, thinkers and creative men, devote their lives, their energies, their activities, to solving the problems of the packing industry and meeting its widening duties.

Swift & Company is not a few dozen packing plants, a few hundred branch houses, a few thousand refrigerator cars, and a few million dollars of capital, but an organization of such men. It is the experience, intelligence, initiative and activity which operates this physical equipment.

Can this intelligence, this experience, this initiative and creative effort which handles this business at a profit of only a fraction of a cent per pound from all sources, be fostered through the intervention of political theorists, however pure their purposes? Or be replaced by legislation? Does Congress really think that it can?

Let us send you a Swift "Dollar". It will interest you.

FIGHT STARVATION BEYOND RIVER BUG

Six Million Jews Reported Destituto in Eastern Europe.

Supplies Needed

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—The River Bug, which served, until recently, as a boundary of the Bolshevik fighting is today a boundary of another kind.

Its eastern shore bounds on one side the hungriest and the most stricken territory in the world today. Five million people are at the point of starvation east of the River Bug, according to figures given out by the American Jewish Relief Committee, and compiled by the American Red Cross, and American Jewish Relief agents. A great number of them are Jews. The war has left [illegible] destitute and stricken Jews in eastern Europe, a number as great as the entire population of New York City, utterly helpless, in many cases sick, in every case hungry and dependent.

If all the people in the territory east of the Bug River could be fed properly at once, disease would soon disappear, doctors in this afflicted region say. If they could replace the rags which they have worn since the beginning of the war, with fresh clothing, the epidemics would cease to spread. If their living places could be made habitable and clean, it would no longer be as it is today the most desolate expanse of land in the world. It is toward this end that the two great organizations, one of Gentiles and the other of Jews, are working hand-in-hand, differences of creed forgotten, in the great practical need that they face.

SIX MILLION JEWS FORM DAILY IN A BREAD LINE

Human Beings Suffer Horrors Untellable, Says Red Cross Man Who Saw Men Starving

Six million Jews, men, women and children, a number as great as the population of the state of Illinois including Chicago, form the bread line in Europe every day. They get their only food from the American relief funds, from milk stations, from hospitals and from open fields, as many of them are living without shelter. That such conditions exist in Europe are vouchsafed for by the statement of a great body of investigators who have gone to Europe in the interest of the war-ridden people.

Dr. H. I. Davis of Chicago, a major in the American Red Cross commission, in speaking of the condition of the desolated land in which the Jews are now eking out an existence said: "It is a purgatory, and in it human beings are suffering untellable horrors."

In the great American campaign to secure $35,000,000 for the relief of these people El Paso county and Colorado Springs have been given a quota of $16,500. Of this sum little more than $6,000 has been contributed and the period of voluntary contribution has continued for more than two weeks. Yesterday less than $100 were contributed and the campaign made less progress than any day since its opening.

The report at the close of banking hours yesterday was announced by Henry Sachs, chairman, as follows:

GAS PRESSURE IS LOW, QUALITY GOOD, CLAIM

Dostal Tells City Officials That New Machinery at Plant Will Improve Service

Pressure conditions and not the quality of gas furnished by the Colorado Springs Light, Heat and Power company has caused the complaint made by consumers, according to J. F. Dostal, general manager of the company. The statement is made in a letter addressed to C. R. Manning, public utilities secretary for the city, in response to a request for additional information concerning the "quality of gas" which caused the filing of a complaint petition with both the state public utilities commission and the city council.

OCTOBER 26 IS DATE SET FOR CHANGING CLOCKS

Final Return to Old Time and End of Daylight Saving Comes Late in Month

The grandfather's clock in the hall, the cuckoo clock over the mantle, Big Ben and little Ben will receive their final set back at midnight of the night of October 26. The official notice reads that the return to the "old time" shall take place at midnight of the last Sunday in October. Notice at first went out to make the change the second Sunday, but it was later noted that October 12 was Columbus day and setting the clocks back might interfere with the celebration of that day, so it was postponed to the last Sunday.

The setting back of the clocks this time will mark the passing of the daylight-saving system. The present congress recently passed a bill repealing the daylight-saving act. President Wilson vetoed the bill, but it was finally repassed over the veto.

YOM KIPPUR CELEBRATED IN ALL SYNAGOGUES

No Good Jew Will Eat For Entire Day.

Today is Yom Kippur, the great Jewish Day of Atonement. It will be faithfully celebrated in all the Jewish synagogues, institutions and homes in America. To its sanctity as the most important of the Fast Days, there is added a double significance for the calendar has brought Yom Kippur on the Jewish Sabbath, making it a doubly sacred day, and it is perhaps the most tragic Day of Atonement in the history of ancient Jewry.

America is the only land in which the new month of Tishri, the Hebraic January, brings any joy to the Jewish population. The year of 5680, reckoning from the Day of Abraham on the Jewish calendar, dawned on September 25th, the Feast Day of Rosh Hashonah. It was not a feast day for some six million starving Jews of Europe because every day for the four years has been a fast day for most of them. So today's Yom Kippur fast will be all too easy for these millions to observe.

The Yom Kippur fast, during the twenty-four hours when no good Jew will allow food to pass his lips, will be little more than a continuation of the five year fast that has been the lot of the 6,000,000 Jews in Europe.

The fortnight between Rosh Hashonah and Yom Kippur is observed as a period of repentence, during which the Divine Judge weighs the earthly deeds against each individual before entering his final fate in the Book of Judgement. This year it is a period of deep sorrow as well for many American Jews. The records of Jewish relief agencies in New York show that several hundred thousands have tried without avail to trace their dear ones abroad who have been swallowed up in the chaos of war when communications were broken. These people are at a loss whether to hope that their loved ones are dead or that it is their fate to face a new year of terrible suffering and sorrow.

Another sad phase of this year's Yom Kippur will be the memorial service for the dead, when almost every Jewish family in the stricken countries, together with many in America, will mourn the loss of one or more of their members.

In view of the terrible situation abroad, Jews throughout the country have organized campaigns and drives to raise a total of $35,000,000 in the United States under the direction of the American Jewish Relief Committee, the Central Relief Committee, and the Jewish Peoples' Relief Committee which are appropriately culminating in many states with the beginning of the Jewish New Year.

As the name of the first accident victim for October went on the chart, Alan Albert, of the Read store, sounded taps and the attention that was attracted together with the significance of the sounding of the last call, made a marked impression on the throngs that were in the street at the time.

TWO CHURCHES TO JOIN WITH UNITED CHURCH

At the United Congregational church tomorrow morning at the 10:30 o'clock service, Dr. William Horace Day will preach on the subject, "I Am Debtor." The Holy Communion will be celebrated at a 5 o'clock vesper service in the afternoon, and new members will be received. An impressive part of the service will be the reception by the pastors of the two churches which will then formally become branches of the United church, Rev. Maurice J. Dunckelee of Bethany chapel and Rev. Canlo Cerrela of the Italian Congregational church. After their reception as associate pastors of the United church, they will assist Dr. Day, pastor of the church, in the services of the Holy Communion.

Next Sunday evening Oct. 12th, Community Forum will open for the season, with Dr. Charles R. Brown, of Yale, as speaker on the subject, "Why I am Not a Socialist." G. C. Shaw, president of the Forum, has secured some unusually splendid speakers for the Forum series this winter. On the 19th, Hamilton Holt, editor of the "Independent," will speak on "The League of Nations—An Inside View." Mr. Holt was in Paris during the Peace Conference.

No Good Jew Will Eat For Entire Day.

Today is Yom Kippur, the great Jewish Day of Atonement. It will be faithfully celebrated in all the Jewish synagogues, institutions and homes in America. To its sanctity as the most important of the Past Days, there is added a double significance for the calendar has brought Yom Kippur on the Jewish Sabbath, making it a doubly sacred day, and it is perhaps the most unique Day of Atonement in the history of ancient Jewry.

America is the only land in which the new month of Tishri, the Hebraic January, brings any joy to the Jewish population. The year 5680 which is coming from the Day of Abraham on the Jewish calendar, dawned on September 15th, the Feast Day of Rosh Hashonah. It was not a feast day for some millions starving of Europe because every day for the four years has been a fast day for most of them. So today's Yom Kippur fast will be all too easy for those millions to observe.

The Yom Kippur fast, during the twenty-four hours when no good Jew will allow food to pass his lips, will be little more than a continuation of the five year fast that has been the lot of the 6,000,000 in Europe.

The torrential between Rosh Hashanah and Yom Kippur is observed as a period of repentance, during which the Divine Judge weighs the earthly deeds against each individual before entering his final fate in the Book of Judgement. This year it is a period of deep sorrow as well for many American as the records of Jewish relief agencies in New York show that several hundred thousands have tried without avail to trace their dear ones abroad who have been swallowed up in the chaos of war when communications were broken. These people are at a loss whether to hope that their loved ones are dead or that it is their fate to face a new year of terrible suffering and sorrow.

Another sad phase of this year's Yom Kippur will be the memorial service for the dead, when almost every Jewish family in the stricken countries, together with many in America, will mourn the loss of one or more of their members.

In view of the terrible situation abroad, throughout the country have organized campaigns and drives to raise a total of $25,000,000 in the United States under the direction of the American Jewish Relief Committee, the Central Relief Committee, and the Jewish People' Relief Committee which are appropriately culminating in many states with the beginning of the Jewish New Year.

GOV. HOLCOMB'S PROCLAMATION FOR THRIFT WEEK

Hartford, Oct. 4.—Governor Holcomb today issued a proclamation inviting the citizens of Connecticut to observe Thrift Week, beginning Monday, October 6th, as a means of reducing the high cost of living, bringing about a universal knowledge of economic saving, and the dissemination of the knowledge of safe investment to all.

It is as follows: "In accordance with a request of the Treasury Department of the United States:

"I hereby request and urge that the citizens of Connecticut set aside the week beginning Monday, October 6th, as THRIFT WEEK. If our nation is to receive relief from the present unrest and the high prices and high necessities of life, it is necessary that our people shall save systematically and buy wisely.

"Prices of commodities cannot be reduced without the help of the people. Therefore I urge that every man, woman, and child in Connecticut realize, for their own and the common good, the importance of buying wisely to reduce the present cost and wisely to avoid waste; saving diligently to provide for the future, and producing more for the benefit of the country's welfare. It is the desire of those in charge of arrangements for Thrift Week that the following emphasis be laid on the nationwide effort now being made to reduce the high cost of living, and to encourage our savings and extend the knowledge of safe investment to all our people."

THE PEOPLE'S CHURCH.

Tomorrow the annual autumn rally of the People's Presbyterian church, Laurel and Park avenues, will begin in its several departments. It promises that members and friends all attend and lend a hand.

The sermon of the minister, Rev. H. A. Davenport, may shatter some cherished idols of thought, but will substitute choice realities for mischievous delusions. It will consider the seventh incident of the Jesus first visit to the Jewish metropolis. Larger and deeper emphasis is being placed on scripture, praying and conference. A devotional praise which the male quartet cordially help to enrich.

The varied exercises of the school at 12 m. will be conducted from the desk by Superintendent Harrington, assisted by an invited speaker and orchestra.

The Christian Endeavor service at 6:30 p. m. will include the usual first Sabbath consecration. After their reception as associate pastors of the United church, they will assist Dr. Day, pastor of the church, in the services of the Holy Communion.

Next Sunday evening Oct. 12th, Community Forum will open for the season, with Dr. Charles R. Brown, of Yale, as speaker on the subject, "Why I am Not a Socialist." S. C. Shaw, president of the Forum, has secured some unusually splendid speakers for the Forum series this winter. On the 19th, Hamilton Holt, editor of the "Independent," will speak on "The League of Nations—An Inside View." Mr. Holt was in Paris during the Peace Conference.

$300 FOR CORPUS CHRISTI.

The Board of Apportionment last evening set aside from the unexpended balance in the special salaries account $500 for the relief of the stricken citizens of Corpus Christi, Texas, where cyclone recently destroyed the place and cost one thousand lives.

DON'T.

DON'T—Carry a lighted match, candle or lamp into a clothes closet. It is dangerous.

DON'T—Allow paper, rags or rubbish in the cellar, attic or closet. Clean up during the month of November.

DON'T—Use kerosene to light the fire in the kitchen stove. Many women have been burned to death by so doing.

DON'T—Forget to disconnect the electric flat iron when leaving it even for a moment. Thousands of fires have been caused by electric irons.

DON'T—Fail to remind people who smoke to be careful where they throw their cigar or cigarette butts. They constitute one of the worst fire causes.

DON'T—Allow children to play with matches or leave matches where small children can get at them and set fire to themselves and their homes.

DON'T—Carry a match, candle or lamp into the cellar at night as it is safer to do your cellar work in daylight.

DON'T—Smoke in bed. It is a foolish habit.

DON'T—Forget to clean out your stove and furnace pipes. Have your chimney cleaned.

DON'T—Try to "get by" with a rusty or broken stove or furnace pipe. It is cheaper and safer to put in a new one.

DON'T—Put ashes in a wooden barrel or box or pile them against a wooden partition in the cellar.

Co-operate with the Fire Department to do all that you can to prevent fire. Caution your friends against fire risks.

Chief Engineer.

K. OF C. WILL EXTEND THEIR SCHOLARSHIP

The Knights of Columbus have decided to extend scholarships to each man who successfully qualified in the entrance examinations which have been held at the colleges and universities selected, excepting one or two instances. In the first announcement of the scholarship awards to all former soldiers, sailors and marines, it was planned to award fifty scholarships to the men best qualified for academic training and fifty more to veterans who sought scientific courses which included mining, agricultural and engineering courses.

So remarkable have been the percentages attained by the former service men, the Committee on War Activities in charge of the scholarships decide to extend the awards. The Committee made the following announcement: "The applications of the former service men for Knights of Columbus free scholarships having been received, and the entry examinations held, the committee feels that so many men have made such a good showing in their examinations, that it has decided to extend the scholarship to each and every successful candidate."

The several hundred men who participated in the examinations represented some forty-four states.

The scholarships provide books, living expenses and tuition.

Doctors Prepare To Fight Grip

Expect Renewed Outbreak of Epidemic This Fall.

Medical authorities agree that there is great likelihood of another grip epidemic during the next few months. They say that in the past, serious epidemics of grip have usually repeated themselves for three and sometimes four years and they fully expect that last year's scourge will return to make itself felt in all sections of the country. Every effort is being made by health authorities to combat the disease.

It is a public duty to see that every member of the family is put into the best possible physical condition to fight off an attack of grip. For this purpose no tonic and tonic can be used than Father John's Medicine, which is all pure and wholesome nourishment and which builds up new, resisting power.

However slight a cold may appear when it first develops, it should not be neglected. It is important to remember that Father John's Medicine has been in use for more than sixty years in homes and hospitals throughout the country for colds and as a tonic body-builder. By soothing and healing the mucous lining of the breathing passages gives relief from irritating coughs. It's pure food elements make new flesh and strength. Remember, Father John's Medicine is guaranteed free from alcohol or dangerous drugs.

Apparently the courageous customs inspector, Ralph B. Flanders of Island Pond, paid the penalty of his relentless and unremitting pursuit of opium and liquor smugglers. The story reads like a movie scenario and gives us some idea of what to expect when the country finally "goes dry" and a half million deputies, more or less, undertake to enforce the law.

No dope or foreign substance is used as is the case with many cigars on the market, only pure tobacco which is skillfully blended with the leaf grown in different sections of the island of Cuba.

The factory has been inspected several times by druggists and always found in a neat and sanitary condition.

PRESS COMMENT

Keep the Good Cows in Vermont

(Hardwick Gazette)

The Hardwick Gazette calls attention to the fact that 90 per cent. of the 320,000 herd blooded Jerseys that was sold at the Bronson auction at East Hardwick, went to New England buyers, the balance going as far west as Kansas, and that Vermont dairymen were bidders on 79 per cent. of the stock. This famous herd, continues the Gazette, was founded in 1858, by William D. Bronson and carefully bred later by his son, Timothy G. Bronson, who died four years ago, and had acquired a national reputation.

It is a matter of state pride that so much of this herd was kept in Vermont, as it means much for the future of dairying to have only the best stock on the farm.—St. Johnsbury Caledonian.

The above comment has been published in a number of state papers. It was gratifying to us to state that so much of this blooded herd remained in the state, although it was lost to the town. In this connection the Gazette might recall the fact that this year, three important sales of blooded cattle have been held in the town of Hardwick. The first was the G. H. Albee sale, which was of Holstein stock, and reached nearly $12,000; the next was that of G. J. Perkins & Son, of the same breed of cattle and amounted to about $7,500, and the one above commented on. A good share of the first two sales also remained in the state and in this section in particular. Probably few towns, if any in the state, have had as many sales of as highly bred cattle in one season. Naturally where such herds have existed the propagation of blooded cattle has become common in the community and the farmers of this section have been and are being rewarded for their efforts in returns from their dairies.

Academy Notes

The foot ball season of the Green and White begins today, when the squad journeys to Barre to engage Spaulding Seminary in a fight for the possession of the pigskin. Owing to the poor footing the practice for the last two nights has consisted mainly in lengthy signal practice although Friday night a short scrimmage was held. The probable lineup for today's game was: Captain Silsby, center; Osgood and Gilfillan, guards; Maurice and Harvey, tackles; Bowen and Shores, ends; Warden at quarterback; May and Lampher, half backs and Ashton at fullback. We are just quietly wondering what will happen when Ashton hits that line? French, Lyster, Hamilton and Hunter are accompanying the team in case of any casualties.

OH MY STOMACH

"I had stomach trouble so badly that nothing I ate would digest as it should," said Sadie E. Hamilton, Portland, Me., as she began a remarkable story of the relief she has secured from Argo-Phosphate, the new reconstructive, stomach tonic and system purifier.

"Everything that I ate would lie in my stomach like a lump," she explained. "Gas would form and I would suffer distress all the time. I got so I could hardly keep anything down. Trying to get relief, I had my stomach pumped out, but even this did not help me as I continued just as bad.

"I kept hearing so much about Argo-Phosphate that I thought maybe it might help me and I decided to try it. I have taken two bottles and to my surprise I am already feeling fine. I can eat anything and I am not troubled at all.

"I am completely rid of my old stomach trouble that I had for three years. I have not felt so well for years and I am certainly glad to endorse Argo-Phosphate because I want others to be helped by this wonderful medicine."

"The spirit of wanting to help others is what makes suffering men and women give these splendid public endorsements of Argo-phosphate," said a local druggist.

YOM KIPPUR

Today is Yom Kippur, the great Jewish Day of Atonement. It will be faithfully celebrated in all the Jewish synagogues, institutions and homes in America. To its sanctity as the most important of the fast days, there is added a double significance for the calendar has brought Yom Kippur on the Jewish Sabbath, making it a doubly sacred day, and it is perhaps the most tragic Day of Atonement in the history of ancient Jewry. From their home in Palestine, from the shores of the Baltic and the Black Seas, from Poland and the frozen wastes of Siberia—from every foreign land into which Jewish relief workers have penetrated, the sad New Year message that comes to this country is ever the same—"European Jewry is perishing."

America is the only land in which the new month of Tishri, the Hebraic January, brings any joy to the Jewish population. The year of 5680, reckoning from the Day of Abraham on the Jewish calendar, dawned on Sept. 25th, the feast day of Rosh Hashonah. It was not a feast day for some six million starving Jews of Europe because every day for the past four years has been a fast day for most of them. So today's Yom Kippur will be all too easy for these millions to observe.

The Jews in the war-racked countries abroad have suffered more than any other people, and they are dying by thousands of starvation and disease. The Yom Kippur fast, during the twenty-four hours who no good Jew will allow food to pass his lips, will be little more than a continuation of the five-year fast that has been the lot of the 6,000,000 Jews in Europe. Orphaned children and widows are continually being turned away from the overcrowded charitable institutions and food stations to die in the streets of Poland and nearby countries. The only hope that the great mass of Jewry will survive the coming winter depends upon America.

The fortnight between Rosh Hashonah and Yom Kippur is observed as a period of repentance during which the Divine Judge weighs the earthly deeds against each individual before entering his final fiat in the book of judgment. This year it is a period of deep sorrow as well for many American Jews. The records of Jewish relief agencies in New York show that several hundred thousands have tried without avail to trace their dear ones abroad who have been swallowed up in the chaos of war when communications were broken. These people are at a loss whether to hope that their loved ones are dead or that it is their fate to face a new year of terrible suffering and sorrow. Another sad phase of this year's Yom Kippur will be the memorial service for the dead, when almost every Jewish family in the stricken countries, together with many in America, will mourn the loss of one or more of their members.

In view of the terrible situation abroad, Jews throughout the country have organized campaigns and drives to raise a total of $35,000,000 in the United States under the direction of the American Jewish relief committee, the central relief committee and the Jewish peoples' relief committee, which are appropriately culminating in many states with the beginning of the Jewish New Year.

Every American schoolboy should be taught to shoot, so he can defend his country if the necessity arises.

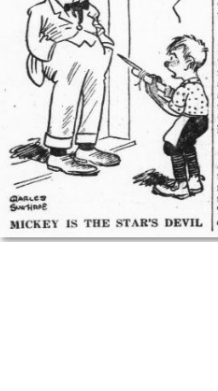
If every lot owner in Ocala planted just one orange tree this winter, just imagine the difference in appearance three years hence.

The Prince of Wales said that "Matters are very striking in America," but that was before the big railroad strike began in England.

Abraham Lincoln said. "A nation cannot exist part bond and part free.' And if he had lived today he would say, "A nation cannot exist part striking and part struck."

Hugo Haase, leader of the minority socialists in the German reichstag, confesses that the people are tired of upheavals and "the communists recognize the waning of revolutionary enthusiasm."

Says the Leesburg Commercial: "Those Marion county motorists overlooked one big bet. There are a lot of pretty girls in Ocala but they must not have been invited. Only a few of them went."



John Mooney, brother of Tom Mooney, the murderer and bomb thrower, sent this advice to the Chicago Federation of Labor, "Adopt the British labor idea—more holidays and more general strikes."

Joe Earman of the Palm Beach Post, who has been trying to recuperate at Tate Springs, Tenn., is back at West Palm Beach, as busy as ever with public and private affairs. Joe, who is chairman of the state board of health, is kicking against the proposed leper colony for Florida.

Gov. Catts informs the Tampa Tribune that it will have to settle with him and, his two sons when the campaign is over. Its likely that if the gov. calls on his two sons to accompany him on any such excursion, they will lay the old man on a comfortable mattress and sit on him till he promises to be good.

More than 10 per cent of the marriages in this country end in divorce, and the number of divorces has been steadily increasing for thirty years. Since 1906 the number of divorce cases has increased in every state except Colorado, Maine, South Dakota and West Virginia. In 1916 31.1 per cent of the divorces were to husbands and 74.8 per cent to wives. Out of 168,702 divorces, 12,486 were for infidelity and only 3625 for drunkenness.

MICKIE SAYS

MICKEY IS THE STAR'S DEVIL

PUBLICANS AND SINNERS

Says the Gainesville Sun: "Thanks, dear brother, of the Ocala Star, for the invitation to go down to your fine town and sit with the publicans and sinners. We've got some here too, although Gainesville's population is as good as there is in the world. The Star says:

"'We observe that Col. Bob Davis of the Gainesville Sun has stirred up the Pharisees in that village by recommending picture shows on Sunday afternoons. Come, sit in with us publicans and sinners, colonel; the Lord associated with us quite freely when he was on earth.'

"The little article we wrote, favoring Sunday afternoon moving pictures, we wrote with good intent and to subserve a good purpose. The article was wilfully misconstrued by some and by some was misunderstood. I suggested afternoons and specially specified that no church or Sunday school hour should be interfered with. I thought, while good people of ample means were riding along the cool roads and through the green woods, and there were poor people who had nowhere to go—nothing to do, but sit and brood and become bolsheviks, it might be well to provide something for them. For our pains we have been told that Gainesville is good enough—as it is. We notice that you speak of us, dear Star as a village. Maybe that is what we are—just a village. We love, however, to call ourselves a city.

"But village or city, we go and sit with publicans and sinners. We would be glad to know that Christ was sitting there with us. We have committed many sins, but we know of one of which he would acquit us. He would put his hand upon our head and say: 'Son of sin, you are not a hypocrite.' What we have had to say about this recreation was simply our idea. It may not have been a good one. Maybe it will be best for the poor to save and get an automobile. Then they can ride to their hearts' content—and commit no sin."

A writer in the Gainesville News, Elmer McCreary, we suppose, tells of some of his experiences in France. He says that when he and a number of other whites were at one of the hospital camps, they were compelled to eat and sleep, mixed promiscuously with negroes, tho' there was plenty of room to allow them to be separated, and he says it was the fault of the officers in charge of the camp. Any American officer who brought about such a state of affairs must have been vastly ignorant of the feeling of both white and colored soldiers. Neither wants to mix with the other.

Tonight in Madison Square Garden, New York, King Albert of Belgium, one of the great war heroes of the world war, will attend a meeting of the American Legion. This is a splendid indication of the prestige that the legion has acquired. It is the official organization of the men who were in the service, between April 6, 1917 and Nov. 11, 1918. The legion has been chartered by an act of Congress. A special committee has been appointed to secure the membership of every ex-service man in Marion county in the legion.

Stephen C. Mason, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, says: "Government ownership proposes a speculative experiment at colossal expense in an hour when the nation staggers under the burden of unprecedented debt. No plan could be devised that would more certainly demoralize the business structure of the nation, jeopardize the savings of the industrious or more certainly increase the cost of sustaining the life of every human being in the nation."

The Walsh-Dunne report on Ireland, made public some months ago, and which caused great indignation in America against England, and consequent agitation in England against America, has been proven to be a tissue of lies. Walsh and Dunne are prejudiced against America anyhow, and when they went to Ireland they fell into the hands of the Sinn Fein and accepted as gospel truth all that was told them.

President Wilson was criticised at Billings, Montana, for his remarks about radicalism and unrest, it being argued that these were a direct incitement to unrest leading to bolshevism. The president said: "As long as things are wrong, I do not intend to ask men to stop agitating. I only intend to beg that they will agitate in an orderly fashion."

Rev. F. B. Meyer, a widely known London minister, says: "Many girls think that men can be won by the flesh, but men are too sensible. They are not going to marry girls who go about half naked. A man may flirt with a girl who goes to extremes in these fashions, but he will not marry her."

The trouble is and around Helena, Ark., is said to be greatly owing to the work of agitators, who disseminated seditious talk and sowed seditious literature among the negroes. There is too much of the latter circulating around here and we would advise the colored people to notify the postoffice to refuse it. One of these publications comes to our desk; it has no sense nor patriotism in it, but alles all it can to incite the negroes to fight the whites. The men who send out this sort of stuff are no friends to the negroes. They want to use them in a revolution against the government, but if such a revolution succeeded the negroes under it would receive much worse treatment than they do now. There are about six white men in this country to one negro and recent events show that prejudice against them in the north is much more bitter and unfair than in the South. They should be wiser than to allow themselves to be used as catspaws by either politicians or bolsheviki.

That terrible occurrence in Trau, which the Miami Herald has thrown a fit about, has caused much more excitement in the Herald office and the United States Senate than in Trau. The facts are these: Trau is a city on the east coast of the Adriatic, and until the war ended disastrously for Austria was under control of that power. Under the rules of the armistice, Trau is in the zone which is policed by Americans. The adjacent country belongs to the Jugo-Slavs. A party of Italian soldiers, acting without the authority of their government, entered Trau. The Jugo-Slavs rallied to drive them out. The American naval commander responsible for the peace of that part of the coast, landed a small party of men, who requested the Italians to withdraw. They did so, and the trouble ended. If they had not been there, it is more than likely there would have been a fight, followed by war between Italy and Jugo-Slavia. At the present stage of world affairs, Americans have more moral power than soldiers or sailors of other nations and their requests are granted where the demands of others have to be backed by force. The Herald should know this. But when its doesn't know that Egypt has never been under the control of Germany, and when it thinks the famous old cruiser Olympia is a battleship, its ignorance on other subjects is not wondered at.

INTELLIGENT SAVING

There is a very real value for every American in the fact that by combining the money spent for useless things one could purchase something really worth while.

And that is all there is to intelligent saving.

Not hoarding—not miserliness—but wise judgment about every cent that is spent. Get full money's worth; give up foolish present expenditures in order to obtain, in the future, some really substantial luxury.

Right now such intelligent saving is more than mere thrift; more than a promoter of personal or family efficiency. —it is a direct aid to your Government in helping it to meet its war-assumed obligations, if you will convert these savings into Thrift and W. S. S. until such time as you really need the cash.

One Bowl of Soup

is ALL this child will get today!

One bowl of Soup is all that she and 800,000 like her will get to eat.

And THAT SOUP—is made of a quart of oatmeal, five pounds of meat, (if meat is obtainable) and one bushel of potatoes to every thousand plates.

The little girl's parents will get nothing —they had their soup yesterday.

One bowl of gruel and a slice of bread, so black, so soggy, so unnourishing, that eating it seems impossible, is all that a child can be fed each 24 hours.

The adults are given a bowl each two days, while to quiet the pains arising from the tearing hunger that constantly besets them, they are allowed on alternate days, a cup of a concoction called tea, brewed from bark, and unsweetened.

Still they live—these 6,000,000 helpless, starving, homeless people—live in the hope that AMERICA will rescue them.

The Jews of America have already contributed $25,000,000 for their relief. But the burden is too great for them to bear alone. Help, and MORE help, must be provided.

"FOOD!" IS THE CRY FROM OVERSEAS

Tomorrow morning many men and women will go forth into the homes, the offices, the stores, mills and factories of Allegheny county bringing you this little girl's plea. They ask in the name of humanity, and in the name of a creedless charity, that you open your ears to the cry of hunger and your heart to the prayer for succor.

One bowl of Soup is all that she and 800,000 like her will get to eat.

And THAT SOUP—is made of a quart of oatmeal, five pounds of meat, (if meat is obtainable) and one bushel of potatoes to every thousand plates.

The little girl's parents will get nothing —they had their soup yesterday.

One bowl of gruel and a slice of bread, so black, so soggy, so unnourishing, that eating it seems impossible, is all that a child can be fed each 24 hours.

The adults are given a meal each two days, while to quiet the pains arising from the tearing hunger that constantly haunts them, they are allowed on alternate days, a cup of a nourishing called tea, brewed from bark, and unsweetened.

Still they live—these 4,000,000 helpless, starving, homeless people—live in the hope that AMERICA will rescue them.

The Jews of America have already contributed $25,000,000 for their relief. But the burden is too great for them to bear alone. Help, and MORE help, must be provided.

"FOOD!" IS THE CRY FROM OVERSEAS

Tomorrow morning many men and women will go forth into the homes, the offices, the stores, mills and factories of Allegheny county bringing you this little girl's plea. They ask in the name of humanity, and in the name of a crestless charity, that you open your ears to the cry of hunger and your heart to the prayer for succor.

WINTER INCREASES WOE OF 6,000,000 STARVING JEWS

TERRIBLE as conditions have been for the past five years among the destitute Jews of eastern Europe, they have never before been so appalling as they are at the present moment. With the coming of the winter, the climax of tragedy has been reached, according to the latest reports from American Jewish relief workers in every part of these stricken countries.

To sum up the situation of these starving Jews sounds like a summary of all human woe. Six million Jews out of the 16,000,000 in the world, or considerably more than a third of the entire Jewish race, are to-day standing in bread lines or getting the soup on which they live from the soup kitchens of the Joint Distribution Committee of American Funds for Jewish War Sufferers!

Thousands of them are sick, hundreds of thousands are without homes, all are destitute. A hundred thousand Jewish orphans, many of whom are sleeping and living on the streets, look forward with terror to the coming of the winter. It is impossible to compute the number of mothers who have gone insane as they watched their children starve, or the number of typhus patients who are praying for death, as they lie sick, without hospitals or medicines or sufficient food.

Weakened by Malnutrition.

One year more of malnutrition has so weakened these poverty-stricken Jews that they will not be able to endure the rigors of the winter even as well as they did last year, when thousands of them died from cold and hunger. The number of refugees has been greatly increased also by the Bolsheviki fighting and innumerable homes have been destroyed within the last 12 months.

Hundreds of thousands of Jews are living to-day in open fields or on unroofed platforms, 15 families to a platform, in broken houses, in stalls of old stables or in holes in the ground. They are clad, for the most part, in the rags they have worn for the past five years, with strips of cloth bound to their feet, or bits of bark tied to their soles to serve as shoes.

There are thousands of children in the number who at 8 or 10 years of age are not larger than babies of a few months. They cannot walk or even stand because of weakness induced by starvation.

Dr. Nathan Krass, rabbi of the Central Synagogue, Lexington avenue and Fifty-fifth street, New York, who has just returned from several months of relief work in eastern Europe, confirmed the report that epidemics through the winter was impossible for hundreds of thousands of Jews, men, women and children, without immediate aid.

"Only the promptest action on the part of the people of the United States can save them from freezing to death and from starvation during the coming winter," he said. "If these unfortunate men, women and children are to be kept alive scores of additional soup kitchens must be opened, and large shipments of shoes and clothing and bedding must be sent to Europe immediately."

$2,000,000 Monthly Not Enough.

Although more than $2,000,000 is now being spent every month in eastern Europe by the Joint Distribution Committee from sums donated in the United States to the American Jewish Relief Committee and other American Jewish relief agencies, this sum is not nearly sufficient for the needs of 6,000,000 destitute persons, thousands of them sick. This sum makes possible the expenditure of a dollar a month as the entire outlay for every three penniless persons. Obviously this is not enough to support life in them.

The chief thing that the relief workers have been able to do thus far has been to concern themselves with the immediate need for food of these starving people, the daily cup of soup for the elders, the mug of milk for the hungry children. Even then they have been compelled by lack of funds to see thousands turned away unfed. The coming of winter will compel them to go into the problem more deeply. Scores of orphanages must be opened and hundreds of private homes to take in the little Jewish orphans who will otherwise be left on the street all winter.

"It was no uncommon thing for a child to be found dead on the streets," Miss Rose Klombers, a relief worker recently back from Palestine, reported upon her return.

"In Constantinople you could not step outside the doors of even the best theatres and hotels without almost stepping upon the children lying there, trying to sleep, huddled together for warmth," Miss Hetty Goldman, another relief worker, said.

Typhus Epidemic Is Raging.

Hospitals must be opened in large numbers. An epidemic of typhus, a disease which is caused by filth and which is inevitable among a people who have had to wear the same clothing for years, is raging in eastern Europe and further East. By the Red Cross computation there are 100,000 cases of this dread malady in Siberia alone. There is a great lack of all sorts of medical supplies in the hospitals, as well as of linen and of bedding. Even in the operating rooms bandages made by piecing together hundreds of scraps of cloth are used. The linen in eastern Europe has all been used up.

Shelter for the winter must be found for such Jews as are now living in houses entirely open to the elements, or in fields, or in holes dug in the ground. This includes the greater part of the population in hundreds of towns in Poland and Lithuania. Jacob Billikopf, one of the best known Jewish relief workers of the United States, tells of a field just outside of Wilna, in

ARMY OFFICERS SOLVING LOST LUGGAGE PUZZLE

Three Great Piers at Hoboken Overflowing With Soldiers' Belongings That Were Dropped Somewhere in France—Staff of Nearly 500 Sorting Property and Seeking Owners

NOT as the busiest days of sailings from the former North German Lloyd and Hamburg-American steamship line piers in Hoboken was ever seen as much activity as is now the case on those piers every day of the week. Three of them, 1, 2 and 3, are given up to the vast accumulation of lost baggage of the members of the American Expeditionary Force. It belongs to individuals of every official degree and was dropped somewhere in France. It has been returned to this country by the owners. Untouched in many cases, unrecorded in almost all cases and unclaimed in every instance, the lost luggage department of the army has a staggering problem to solve.

But it does solve a great number of these puzzles. From 1,000 to 2,000 pieces are traced to their owners every day and started homeward at Government expense. Four or more pieces, are turned over, investigated in rain for clue to ownership and sifted on an estate to wait for additional information.

Lieut.-Col. H. B. Pickering is in charge of this lost luggage puzzle, with Capt. F. E. Walker as his assistant. His office is on Pier 3, Hoboken, and includes a floor room full of desks, stenographers, typewriters and other assistants, a large assemblage of civilian workers. There are in the department 450 civilians, 22 enlisted men and 24 officers. Numerous as are the members of this unit they need reinforcement and probably will get it. The work is heavy at its best, difficulties is slow, difficult and subject to continual interruptions. Unless a piece of luggage under discussion is put clear through a straight course of search for an owner it is apt to fall back into the unexamined list and all the work on it has to be done over.

Three Piers Not Enough.

Into the working force as well as the space now devoted to lost luggage have to be increased. Three piers with the sidetracks between them now in use are not sufficient for space to store away temporarily the baggage that is being removed daily by shipments from France. This lost baggage arrives at all Atlantic ports, in fact which considerably increases the difficulty of tracing owners, for all of this luggage must be brought to Hoboken and viewed out on these piers. Recently a big quantity was unloaded at Newport News; it had to be reshipped.

There lay on the Government docks at Hoboken September 15 approximately 18,000 pieces of baggage made up of 9,000 trunk lockers, 15,000 bed rolls, 1,000 suit cases and 150,000 barrack bags which have been brought overseas and to be reclaimed by owners. In many of them there is an odor of seasoning, many have names without addresses and many show addresses that are illegible.

The lost baggage department has adopted a good system and is very successful in finding owners for two-thirds of this lost luggage. As the bags and trunks arrive off a ship they are each given a number and assigned to a section on the pier. Then a description of each piece is carefully recorded, whether with the name of the owner or if not, purpose to be attached. If an address is found (and efforts to find it commensurate with the supposed owner, in many cases owners of baggage due no longer reside at the address shown on the luggage, or a new shipping direction is required. In some instances the name will appear on a trunk or bag or suit case as "Captain John Smith, New York" or "Lieutenant John Doe, Chicago." One can easily understand that such an incomplete address is more confusing than helpful.

After this preliminary inspection and record has been made the bags and trunks are turned over to assemblers to open and try to find some clue by which may each piece. A card containing information has been gleaned in any way and from whatever source is made and carefully filed. Sometimes enough information is obtained thus to enable a clerk to write to a probable owner.

Uniforms Give Descriptions.

When a claim is made for lost baggage the Claimant is asked for a detailed description, which is in turn checked on a card of a different color. When the two cards are produced the trunk, bag or box in the claim may be in quickly found and shipped by the Government by express to its owner's address.

The difficult desire is to get the recovered baggage to its proper destination as soon as possible. He made the room and the purpose of the desk room branch is to bring owners and their goods together with as little delay as may be. He asks that all persons who have lost baggage in France in the neighborhood of Hoboken should register in person. The persons who live too far away to be able to visit the pier in person are requested to write direct to the Lost Luggage Branch, Pier 1, Hoboken, N. J., and give a full and accurate description of the luggage they are seeking to recover. Upon receipt of letters of this description a search is made of the files of the trunks which will likely and when the box is found it is sent forward at Government expense.

A trip around the three piers now being devoted to this service on an inch inside covering considerable time and promise to be the best way of getting what detail is involved in the task. The ride itself covers many miles and in each division of a pier something new is to be seen. Down the long pier (1) where the first liners used to take on board Roosevelts and where all sorts of "bricks" do voyage to the sailing days, where also mountains of luggage destined for stateroom use were piled up, now are to be seen mountains of overcoats and barrack bags. The former were discarded after being worn on the voyage home by soldiers to keep their uniforms clean and are not to be considered as part of the lost luggage, but the rolls and barrack bags fall within this definition. They belonged to the first soldiers sent over and were taken from the piers on their arrival in France as being superfluous baggage.

Pathetic Trinkets in the Bags.

In these rolls were many things that the young soldiers judged to be necessary for their comfort, but which their superior officers warned at once "overweight." Neither judged to be some of the things that still remain in these bags, souvenirs of home, of France and little articles that wife and mother packed in them so that their boys could call back home and have coffee making outfit, a rubber bathtub, baggage. A complete machine gun of German origin is its companion piece.

As was expected a great deal of this baggage is utterly worthless, but much of it also has real value and this part relating to what cargoes ought not to have been abandoned. His underwear, garments, suit after suit of them, are in the bags; fat, also watches, among which is a valuable woman's watch in platinum, and jewelry of all kinds.

The Bananas Smashers' Work.

Baggage attaching that used to be a perennial subject per the course to them upon the shore of the indestructible trunk would seem to have come back to its own again in Europe from the war, for rarely does in the history of travel did baggage sufa sword (the family sword descended from some military ancestor) are a few of the articles that figured among the rejected impedimenta and which were left to some French storehouse to be called for.

All unmarked baggage is pinned over carefully to find Government property, which is sent at once to another pier, and the remainder put back in bag or trunk as carefully as possible under circumstances which do not lend to ease. Gangs of civilians are at work on this process of selection under the eye of an officer, and these men constantly in the dust and dirt that have naturally accumulated the famous chiffoniers of Paris.

There's Literature, Too.

The strangest things are found in this search, things that nobody can imagine a soldier would burden himself with. Ostrich feathers, women's hats, boxes of talcum, powder, rouge and many things unmentionable. It is not possible to be sure that these singular articles to be found in a soldier's baggage staring with him from this side, and it is very likely that many of them were picked up in France with the idea that the wife or the sweetheart would find them useful when their soldiers brought them back to America.

Every musical instrument except a piano has been found and always without a mark of identification. Drums of drums of all kinds and sizes, violins, flutes, cornets are piled up in the sections of the piers that can be reached away from the light. Ignored gentry who somehow get in lose to lift a trifle now and then. There are a good golf sticks, golf bats fully equipped for a game on the links of Europe, collapsible bathtubs, blankets and confectionaries are here almost without number. Even there is the artist farthest removed from a necessity of war that has not turned up to await its owner. A gas carriage weighing several tons figures among the strange things that have been returned as lost lay on this soldier staff too. Rail cause crushed out of all semblance to themselves or their kind, tokens of brutal squeezed practically flat are sent in the docks by Lieutenant Kraus, great is the damage to those boxes and bags that a force of experts has been employed to try to restore them to a degree of usefulness. They do what they can in many cases but in a jacked trunk resemble itself before it withstood the clash of war, but in these cases they are obliged to crate them before it would be possible to ship for them on the invisible boxes and the actual trunks are ready they are removed from the backboxes where those laborers work over them and located up in a separate part of one of the piers, each article of course having its storage place recorded.

After all is done to get these dispatch things back to their rightful owners there will remain a vast amount of baggage that nobody claims. When he became of it, Capt. Walker was asked if the Government would end the followers' inquiries, all efforts to trace children having failed, but he preferred not to commit himself to an opinion on this subject.

"There will be time enough for many soldiers to disclose," said he, "when we have used every means to get the stuff out. Our success has been remarkable so far when you consider what we have to overcome, and other matters have to transport, so that we have clothes things after we have sent baggage to what we call our last depot. Therefore the Government will not be in a hurry to surrender all section of lost baggage."

GIRL SCOUTS SEEK RECRUITS

National Campaign for Members and Funds Starts October 25—Troop in Every City Block Aim of Leaders

THE way to do it, girls, is to start in your own block. Nobody will object. Not even mother, who may want you to help nurse the baby or give her a hand at the dishes or go to the grocery after something she has forgot to buy in for the dinner menu; or she may want you to practice half an hour on the piano or to do your lessons before dark, because you entice father and interrupt his smoke of an hour after dinner, when you will persist in sitting around with your books, asking questions and sharpening your pencils on the mahogany table and tracking up the rug with your feet, begging to go to the movies and dragging your chair instead of sitting hand-and—well, lots of little things like that.

Count the girls in your block of about your own age. It makes no difference if these girls are a social strata above or below you, if they are your classmates or your schoolmates or go to the same church. It makes no difference if the father of one of them installs all the shoes in the block or another father sells your mother cold storage eggs at fresh egg prices, or her mother has to plant dandelions to eke out three meals a day or makes her daughter's dresses out of discarded skirts, bah.

The Thing to Do Is to Start.

The thing is to get together. Get together and form a Girl Scout patrol. You don't need anything but the urge to start with. Then write to headquarters, 189 Lexington avenue, Manhattan, and get a hand-book. Eight girls make a patrol; sixteen girls make a troop. Though if there should be thirty-two girls none are left in a block who want to belong to a troop they may form a second and will make a lively showing. A little study of the handbook will tell you what to do first.

But before this meet and talk it over and decide which girl in the block over 12 years of age of good character and cheerful personality, and intelligent to sort of doers, and the one you are all agreed that you like the best of all the grownups, then call upon her and ask her if she will be your captain. Give her the handbook to read and the next day call for the first patrol meeting, but be prepared to qualify as a tender-foot. If she comes a cropper—that is, if she doesn't get it quite straight in her mind, as for instance, how to tie a knot of the following knots: reef, sheet bend, clove hitch, sow-tree fisherman's and sheep shank, she may go down to headquarters herself and learn. There are quite a few classes for training captains in operation now, and certainly if you choose a girl to be your captain she will appreciate the honor enough to try to find out how to be a good captain. To be a tender-foot you must know how to tie the aforementioned knots, to be able to find the name of the Governor of the state and the Mayor of your city, to know the history of the flag and how to fly it. Then you are ready to make the scout promise:

On my duty to God and to my country.

To help other people at all times.

To obey the laws of the Scouts.

Then you learn the salute and the secret sign of the Scouts and Scout motto, which is "Be Prepared."

The Captain's Authority.

The captain has the power to enroll scouts and to recommend them to the local committee for badges and service. She has the power to refuse a scout from her patrol and to withdraw her badges and discharge her through a scout who considers herself unjustly treated may appeal to the local council. The captain chooses her lieutenant to work with her and the lieutenant must be over 18 years of age. The patrol leader, girls in your own circles. She holds her office for an indefinite time and is chosen by the captain and lieutenant, and takes entire charge in their absence. The patrol leader calls the roll, keeps a record of attendance and a record of dues, is responsible for keeping the dues room in perfect order. It is the patrol leader also in the real confidante of

All About Asbestos

ASBESTOS (Canada is the great) producer and exporter of asbestos, that article, which is worth coming into wide use, is found in many parts of the United States. There are deposits in Maryland and Virginia within a few miles of Washington, and some of the deposits in this country are reached via commercial wear. Despite this fact, however, the American industries depend on Canada as they do on the Canadian quarries for their supply.

Asbestos is a curious substance that has been known for many centuries. Some of the peoples of ancient times used it, and it was sometimes woven into cloth which was considered of such value as a shroud for the dead. There are many varieties, and a large number of names of different substances have been applied to these varieties. The fibrous asbestos, commonly called "mountain wood," is a variety pro-

WINTER INCREASES WOE OF 6,000,000 STARVING JEWS

TERRIBLE as conditions have been for the past five years among the destitute Jews of eastern Europe, they have never before been so appalling as they are at the present moment. With the coming of the winter, the climax of tragedy has been reached, according to the latest reports from American Jewish relief workers in every part of these stricken countries.

To sum up the situation of these starving Jews outside the a summary of the 16,836,690 in the world, or considerably more than a third of the entire Jewish race, are to-day dwelling in bread lines or getting the soup on. Thousands of them are sick, hundreds of thousands are without bread, all are destitute. A hundred thousand Jewish orphans, many of whom are sleeping and living on the streets, look forward with terror to the coming of the winter. It is impossible to complete the number of mothers who have seen disease as they watched their children starve, or the number of typhus patients who are praying for death, as they lie sick, without hospitals or medicines or sufficient food.

Weakened by Malnutrition.

One year more of malnutrition has so weakened these poverty-stricken Jews that they will not be able to endure the rigors of the winter even as well as they did last year, when thousands of them died from cold and hunger. The number of refugees has been greatly increased since by the Bolshevik fighting and innumerable homes have been destroyed within the last 12 months.

There are thousands of children in the number who at 5 or 10 years of age are not larger than babies of a few months. They cannot walk or even stand because of weakness induced by starvation.

Dr. Nathan Kraus, rabbi of the Central Synagogue, Lexington avenue and Fifty-fifth street, New York, who has just returned from several months of relief work in eastern Europe, confirmed the report that epidemic through the winter was impossible for hundreds of thousands of Jews, men, women and children, without immediate aid.

"Only the prompt action on the part of the people of the United States can save them from freezing to death and from starvation during the coming winter," he said. "If these unfortunates can, woman and children are to be kept alive scores of additional soup kitchens must be opened, and large shipments of shoes and clothing and bedding must be sent to Europe immediately."

Although more than $2,000,000 is now being spent every month in eastern Europe by the Joint Distribution Committee from sums donated in the United States to the American Jewish Relief Committee and other American Jewish relief agencies, this sum is not nearly sufficient for the needs of 6,000,000 destitute persons, thousands of them sick. This sum makes possible the expenditure of a dollar a month on the entire outlay for every three penniless persons. Obviously this is not enough to support life in them.

The chief thing that the relief workers have been able to do thus far has been to preserve themselves with the immediate need for food of these starving people, the daily cry of soup for the chicks, the cry of milk for the hungry children. Then they they have been compelled by lack of funds to see thousands turned away unfed. The running of stoves with canned them to go into the problem more deeply. Scores of orphanages must be opened and hundreds of private homes to take in the little Jewish orphans who will otherwise be left on the street all winter.

"It was an impressive thing for a child to be found dead on the streets," Miss Rose Kaufman, a relief worker recently back from Palestine, reported upon her return.

"In Constantinople you could not step outside the doors of even the best hotels without stumbling over starving Jewish children living there. In Italy, Holland together for warmth," Miss Hetty Goldman, another relief worker, said.

TELLS SAD PLIGHT OF JEWS.

Felix M. Warburg Says They Were the Worst Sufferers in War.

Felix M. Warburg, Chairman of the Joint Distribution Committee of American Funds for Jewish War Sufferers, who returned several days ago from a trip to Europe for that organization, made public yesterday some of his findings.

"The successive blows of contending armies have all but broken the back of European Jewry," he said, "and have reduced to tragically unbelievable poverty, starvation and disease about 6,000,000 souls, or half the Jewish population of the earth.

"The Jewish people throughout Eastern Europe, by sheer accident of geography, have suffered more from the war than any other element of the population. The potential vitality and the capacity for self-help that remains to these people after the last five years is amazing to me."

The people are deeply moved by the help given them by America, Mr. Warburg said, but it would be fatal to lessen the emergency aid now while millions are in tragic need. The $30,000,000 spent by his committee, he said, has fed and clothed more than a million children and has renewed the hope of five million parents and elders.

"For more than four years," he said, "the war on the Eastern front was fought largely in the congested centres of Jewish population. A straight north and south line from Riga, on the Baltic, to Salonika, on the Aegean Sea, will touch every important battle area of the Eastern war zone and every centre of Jewish population. After the cataclysm of the last few years it is too much to expect this Jewry to become self-sustaining in a short twelve-month."

Mr. Warburg is concerned over the program soon to be started for the discontinuance of emergency relief. This plan, he said, calls for the formation of a $10,000,000 reconstruction corporation.

"This organization," he said, "would afford facilities for constructive aid to Jews abroad in the way of loans and credit at nominal interest rates. The value of this sort of assistance as a substitute for pure charity is apparent."

Other relief projects recommended by Mr. Warburg include the establishment of an express company to forward money and packages from Jews in this country to relatives and friends abroad; the distribution of $120,000 worth of fuel in sections of Poland where destitution is greatest; the purchase of $300,000 worth of cloth in the bolt whereby unemployed workmen of Poland may get raw material, and a plan to reunite those Jewish families that have relatives in the United States and those who have become separated abroad.

Millions and Millions of Human Beings Are Suffering the Tortures of Disease, Hunger and Death—They Must Be Saved!

TOMORROW

Homes—

O'er the entire country joy and happiness will reign supreme. The smile will bring forth gladness and the family will gather about the festive board where plenty of food has been prepared for the occasion. My! The children will be the happiest of all when they receive their gifts—a day to rejoice—a land of plenty.

But—

"Over-there"—millions of innocent people are starving and freezing with the cold—almost a million children robbed of their birthright. Ever since their prattling baby days they have only known war. Peace to them is an utter stranger. Think of the long dreary days, with the hunger pangs ever gnawing at their little vitals. Ah—'tis a pitiful sight. Shall these children perish?

Turn for a moment, if you will, from your own cozy family circle to those 8,000,000 starving, ragged, helpless Jewish men, women and children in Eastern Europe. Consider their lot. You'll have to stretch your imagination to the breaking point; and even then you will not exaggerate the terrible facts, if you were there. The sight is frightful!

Today Six Million Jews Are Facing the Darkest Days Ever Known In the History of the Race

In the devastated countries of Poland, Galicia, Rumania, Lithuania and Palestine. The pitiful plight of these poor unfortunates in no fault of theirs, industrial race and innocent victims of circumstances. They have undergone the dreadful war which has already claimed millions of them—they are passing to the great beyond—a case of life and death!

This frugal race of people who have ever been deprived of all means of support are now dying by the thousands for want of food and shelter. Americans—red-blooded, charitable, humanatarian Americans of every religion and creed are asked to join with their Jewish brethern in saving these human lives and remedying the horrible conditions that now exist.

START CAMPAIGN FOR JEWISH RELIEF

Six Million Jews in the Far East are Suffering Because of the World-War Devastations — Will You Help?

MEDINA CO.'S QUOTA IS SET AT $10,000

Medina county is the only county in Ohio that has not yet raised a fund for the American Jewish Relief committee. The state quota of $2,250,000 will be made but Medina county must work hard to raise its quota of $10,000.

This is but part of a National campaign to raise $35,000,000 in the United States so that 6,000,000 war-stricken Jews in Poland, Siberia, Lithuania and the Balkan states may survive this winter's terrors and get a new grip on life. It is the first time in history that the Jews have ever asked for public aid; and having helped all other causes they feel confident that they will now be liberally received.

The drive in Medina county will be in charge of George L. McNeal, chairman; Blake McDowell, vice chairman, and Miss Minnie Wells, secy.-treas. On the executive committee are L. H. Randall and E. F. Gibbs, of Medina; Chas. Knapp, of Lodi; J. Hartman, of Seville; Rev. Ross and J. Young, of Wadsworth; B. S. Stebel, of Valley City; W. H. Caverly, of Sharon Center; John Brongers, of Brunswick; Willis Leach, of Litchfield, and Frank Hawley, of Leroy.

The cooperation of schools, churches and press throughout the county indicate a successful drive.

The drive will open Friday and close Monday at noon. As no house to house canvass will be made it is urged that business men give all they can. Among the enthusiastic workers are Messrs. L. and H. Abrams and Ben Yudelvitch.

It being impossible to get out in the country to canvass Sentinel readers those favorably inclined are asked to fill out this blank and mail it to Miss Wells.

VOLUME THIRTY-SIX — MEDINA, OHIO, FRIDAY, JANUARY 23, 1920. — No. 22.

MILLER PULLS OUT AT MEDINA FOUNDRY TO GO ELSEWHERE

Trouble Over Foundry Products Said to Emanate From Cleveland Investors — Auto Parts Prove Profitable.

PUBLIC SCENTS TROUBLE; WITHHOLDS INVESTMENT

The two wings in the Miller–Henry Foundry Co. management have failed to flop in unison and there has been a break in consequence. For some time it has been a mooted question as to whether to make furnaces or auto parts, and Mr. Miller, who was at the head of the enterprise, has given precedence to the auto parts. There were several reasons why Mr. Miller felt his action was wise.

In the making of furnace and stove castings double the floor space is used that is necessary in making auto parts and that class of heavy castings. This means a greater total product for the auto parts from the floor space occupied, and as the cost per ton of castings is but little in advance where light ones are made over heavy ones, naturally the more heavy castings that are made the better for the company making them.

Then, in making furnace castings, there is more hard work and greater skill in molding needed. With the making of auto parts it is different. Much of this is done by machine molding, and men with smaller experience can do this work well.

Mr. Miller knows all the details in the different branches of the foundry business. Naturally he wished to make a class of work that would give the foundry as large a tonnage as possible. But others of the foundry people are interested in the furnace manufacturing end, with a manufactory of completed furnaces in Cleveland. This branch must have furnace castings to go ahead on, and the men in charge look to the Medina foundry for the essential parts.

At a recent conference between Mr. Miller and the Cleveland end of the business it is reported that the former agreed to give the latter castings, giving over part of the casting department to that class of work. A few days later, however, and while Mr. Miller was away, the Cleveland end slipped into Medina and went to the foundry and gave orders contrary to those left by Mr. Miller.

At once Mr. Miller took the matter up with the Cleveland end and explained to them that he had $50,000 worth of heavy casting business that he could fill orders on each month if left to himself. He showed them how he could get his money monthly in payment for the work while in casting furnace parts he must wait 8 or 9 months for his pay. He explained, further, how it was impossible to get good men in Medina for furnace work because of a lack of housing conditions, but that any class of men could be used in the machine casting necessary in making auto parts. After explaining this Mr. Miller offered to put $5000 into apartments requiring $15,000 if those wanting furnace castings would carry the rest of the load, but no response was made to this offer.

It is generally known that one of the Cleveland furnace branch has been trying to embarrass Mr. Miller in his work here for some time. Whether this individual wants to be manager, or simply to make Mr. Miller trouble, cannot be definitely determined. In any event Mr. Miller refused to be embarrassed further and gave up his position with the foundry the first of the week.

Mr. Miller came to Medina with very little money a few years ago. But he knew the business, put the company on its feet, and is now recognized as one of the first furnace men in the country.

With the foundry working on auto castings in the past it has meant that the Medina Machine Co. must operate two or three shifts a day. Mr. Miller had a small interest in the machine shop and did what he could for the sake of the enterprise. It may now be necessary, for economy's sake, to erect a foundry in connection with the machine shop. If this proves necessary Medina citizens should deflect from foundry investment any sums that would gravitate there naturally and invest them in the new foundry proposition.

The Medina public has been accused of lacking appreciation for the welfare of the foundry proposition in the past, and men interested have often criticised Medina investors severely for this lack. It may be that Medina investors have known more about the inside workings of the big men in the foundry than was generally believed, and that these local investors withheld their money because they knew certain interests in the foundry were not working in harmony with other interests. It don't take much inside criticism to stampede an investing public when there is a known lack of team work on the part of the big men in the company. This lack has been known by men of money in Medina for some time. Those who have favored Mr. Miller and his management in the past will not now rush to the aid of the foundry company with this split still fresh in their minds.

The foundry has been a good institution for Medina in the past. People who knew of the controversy were living in hopes that the matter would be settled by the erection of a second foundry, and the two classes of work manufactured. That would have doubled the capacity of the foundry and given both factions just the product desired. But the split materialized last week and now Mr. Miller is out of it. A change from a large product of heavy castings at a good price and cash monthly, to a smaller product at a largely increased per cent of cost and a wait of nine months for the money, is not likely to materially increase the dividends. Every well meaning Medina citizen will rejoice to see the foundry proposition weather this little tempest in the teapot, at the same time holding a mental reservation that it has been unnecessary.

20-MONTHS OLD HOG DRESSES 708 POUNDS

One hog story leads to another, and the bigger the kill the more interest to Sentinel readers. Here is on from the "dim past."

Over 60 years ago Samuel Kenyon, father of C. C. Kenyon, now resident of Medina, butchered a hog in Medina tp. that was 1 year and 10 months old—6 months younger than the Steingass hog—that weighed 708 pounds. This is not up to the Steingass hog in total weight but has it on the latter for age.

O. S. U. GLEE CLUB COMING TO MEDINA

Best Glee Club in Middle West —Boys to be entertained in Medina Homes — Go Early, No Reserved Seats.

DATE IS WED., JAN. 28; AT THE CONG. CHURCH

O. S. U. glee club is coming to Medina for a concert. The date has been set for Wednesday evening, Jan. 28, and the concert will be given in the Congregational church. The club has a membership of 60, 37 of which are hang-overs from the class of 1919, and 36 of that 37 were boys who were in service overseas.

In addition to numbers by the full membership of the club, solos, duets, trios and quartets, a special feature of the work is that of what is called the "syncopated sextet," this last reported as very fine. The organization has done some very conscientious work in preparation for the winter trip, and the club is said to be at its best.

The Community entertainment committee was offered the opportunity of bringing this organization to Medina, thus profiting by the success of the concert. But when it did not care to incur the expense and undertake the work the High school boys and girls, coached by L. H. Randall, accepted the opportunity. The benefits, and they should be large, will go to swell the gym equipment fund of the High school; and present plans contemplate the use of this money for the equipment of the new gym in the Soldiers' Memorial Community House when it is ready for the installation of this equipment.

As the concert will come in the vacation period it is expected that every Medina student at O. S. U. will come home and organize sleigh ride parties to come to Medina for this concert. Alumnus of the university over the county, too, are expected to organize similar parties and aid in swelling the attendance. Managers of the plan assure us that the Congregational auditorium should be filled to overflowing to enjoy this great musical organization.

Tickets will be 50c with no reserve privilege. High and Grammar school boys will sell tickets and each one selling 10 will be given a ticket free. An alumnus who cannot attend can buy a ticket, or if none are offered him he can send his 50c or $1 to the committee.

Certain people have asked the question if this will not interfere with the W. R. U. glee club concert in February. The W. R. U. concert is not till April, some three months later, and the O. S. U. concert should in no way conflict.

The 60 boys and the two or three managers who travel with them are to be entertained in the homes of willing citizens. Already over half of the boys have been spoken for by patriotic Medinaites.

The divisions of the glee club are as follows: there are fourteen first tenors; nine second tenors; nineteen baritones and ten bassos.

CHURCH CONDITIONS AS THEY NOW EXIST; WHAT IS TO COME?

Paul Bellamy Quotes From Many Critics, All of Them Friendly to The Institution as a Whole.

A PICKING AT SMALL THINGS WONT SAVE IT

Local conditions and the acts of certain local men have led the editor of the Sentinel to occasionally print a criticism of church conditions in Medina. Certain men "grounded in the faith" have taken exception to statements as printed, intimating that they were unfair or at least unadvised. But substantiating our own statements Saturday's Plain Dealer printed an article from the pen of Paul Bellamy from which we print excerpts to show to Medina people that we are not alone in our contentions, and to indicate to them that what we have printed is a matter of news and not of pique. Mr. Bellamy says:

In America as well as in England, the people who believe that the Protestant church faces a crisis are numbered by the thousands.

This opinion is by no means confined wholly to atheists, unbelievers, and the unchurched.

Many thoughtful leaders of Protestantism, while believing that the church will pull through, feel that changes to meet new conditions must be made and made quickly.

There is no Congregationalist more honored than Dr. Lyman Abbott, editor of the Outlook. In New York the other day he said:

"Churchianity is failing; Christianity is advancing."

Here are a few criticisms from the pens of other men who are not antagonistic to the church as an institution:

"Church members are Pharisees. They adopt a holier than thou attitude. They are complacent. They do not carry the doctrines of Jesus into their daily lives. They lack charity toward sinners.

"The church is narrow and bigoted.

"The church is fighting a losing battle with science by holding to a literal interpretation of the Scriptures.

"The church is capitalistic and lends itself as the tool of the employer in labor's fight for a place in the sun.

"The church is out of touch with reality; it is trying to apply principles of antiquity to problems of the present day.

"The church is daily exercising less influence in the world and must continue to do so."

All of which bears out the Sentinel editor's contention that the church leaders are prone to set up a straw man and then turn in and "kick the stuffin' out of it;" to pick out some form of amusement that the men who are intending to make a fight don't care for or are too crippled to enjoy and then characterize it as Satan or one of his agencies and then strive to crucify every one who won't agree with them and make a fight against it.

PUBLISHER'S ANNOUNCEMENT

Beginning Sunday, February 1, the subscription price of The Medina Sentinel will be $1.50 per year. This raise in price is made necessary by the continued increase in newsprint.

During the war period newsprint jumped from around three cents a pound to eight. The subscription price of The Sentinel was kept at $1 with the hope that prices would be reduced following the cessation of hostilities. This is not the case, however.

In the past year newsprint prices have continually been on the upward trend, until publishers are now forced to place future orders at from ten to fourteen cents a pound.

Subscriptions received previous to February 1, will be taken at the old rate, either new or renewal, but no subscription will be received for more than one year in advance. Persons at present taking The Sentinel will, however, be permitted to take advantage of the renewal offer by having their time extended one year.

NEGRO FLOATERS WOULD OBSTRUCT THE ORGANIZATION

Moderator Refuses to Affiliate With Medina Second Baptist Church If "Floater" Is Made the Pastor.

SHERIFF PUTS STOP TO TROUBLE-MAKERS

Medina has a few colored people that are honest and reliable citizens, men and women whose word is as good as their bond. Naturally these people are never in trouble themselves and don't make trouble for others.

These people are christians and have been affiliated with some of the greater denominations in church activities. Being men and women with families, and having been converted, it has been their desire that their children have an opportunity for christian teaching and culture. As there were but a handful of them, and knowing the expense of maintaining a church and pastor as they should be, these people at first considered the question of affiliating with the church professing the same creed as themselves. Attendance was begun at these churches; and according to several who were interviewed they were treated civilly, but given no welcome; the attitude of these professing christians was cold rather than Christ-like; they saw they were not wanted and with one accord decided not to push their way into the white man's church.

Things drifted along for many years until families in several cases became so large, and the children inquiring about things religious, that these parents state they felt the urge to do something for their children's salvation, and if the white man—with his great profession of brotherly love when he wanted the colored man's vote—wouldn't do anything in the matter then it was up to the colored men, few and poor as they were, to do something for themselves.

The outcome was a movement for a church of their own, and a house has been purchased with that end in view. Then a minister from Lorain was given an opportunity to join them in the establishment of a new church.

The colored people of Medina are a peace loving class who own their properties and pay as they go. They are, too, a class of citizens one can rely on; they wish for the education in the school and church of their children and their aim in life is to get ahead.

There is a second class of colored citizens in Medina, termed floaters by many, who have no property and are here today and gone tomorrow. This second class have no religion, only one or two among them have ever made a profession, but they have an ambition to become leaders among the colored people, even willing in an effort to that end to become trustees or deacons in a church society that they may have a title to their name.

An outside man who represented himself as a minister was given an opportunity to become pastor of the new church, to be called the Second Baptist Church of Medina. At first, in the purpose of the property, it was styled a club; planning later to incorporate into a church. Inquiry was made as to the man who wished to become pastor. A report by the Moderator of the Baptist colored denomination in Ohio came to the effect that the Medina church would not be given fellowship with the parent body if the ambitious pastor was taken into the work. When this report was received by the rejected pastor he at once laid his plans to stop the organization or incorporation of the new church, and boldly stated his position.

The "floating element" among the colored people follows the rejected pastor. Among this following are but one or two who hold certificates of membership in any other organized church. The charge is made, and surface indications corroborate it, that the floating element—here today and gone tomorrow—has declared it will rule or ruin the whole proposition.

Threats were so loud as to what this floating population would do at the Sunday services that Sheriff Bigelow was asked to attend the meeting. So great were the efforts of the floaters to rule or discredit everything that Sheriff Bigelow took a hand and laid down the law to the obstructionists. The matter hung about the church till a late hour Sunday, evidently determined to block everything they did not sanction.

The resident negroes are the ones who must foot the bills and pay for the church edifice and service and they are determined that such being the case they will have the say as to how the money is spent and how the services are to be conducted. There seems to be little or no religion in the ranks of the floaters, just simply a desire to be in a jangle and to help make a winning fight. The authorities might be well within the bounds of right if they told a few of these men to either stay away from the church or to move on to other fields for their disturbance.

A. X. Root was in Cleveland on business Wednesday.

WORK KING'S DAUGHTERS FOR "ORPHAN" SUPPORT

One French "orphan" is likely to lose its graft shortly. It is a case of the "orphan" being supported by the charitably inclined King's Daughters of the Baptist church. This organization has been doing a noble work, even if its funds have been going to some one not in need.

Recently an investigation was set on foot that has convinced the knowing ones in the organization that instead of the "orphan" being in reality an orphan, and in need, she is in fact a woman who owns and operates a confectionery with a substantial income. Prospects are good that this orphan will lose its foster "mother."

The alarm of fire about 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon called the fire department to the Colonial Hotel, on N. Court street. A large volume of smoke was issuing from the windows and furnace chimney. No one was at home and trouble was experienced in making an entrance. The house had been vacated the first of the week by Stanley Funk, and R. W. Crites had moved his family in Wednesday.

What fire there was burned in a mass of paper and rubbish in the basement. No blaze of consequence was to be seen but a huge volume of smoke continued to pour forth from windows and chimney. The fire department turned a hose into the smouldering mass and soon extin-

BRUNSWICK HOLDS ITS 27th INSTITUTE FRIDAY, SATURDAY

Over Three Hundred People Attend Two-Day Sessions In Spite of Extreme Cold And Drifted Roads.

PROVES A SUCCESS IN EVERY WAY

(By County Agent Salisbury)

The 27th annual farmers institute was held at Brunswick on last Friday and Saturday. The roads were hard to travel and the weather was extremely cold, yet over three hundred people attended the two day session. Everyone voted it a very successful meeting in spite of the handicaps that were encountered.

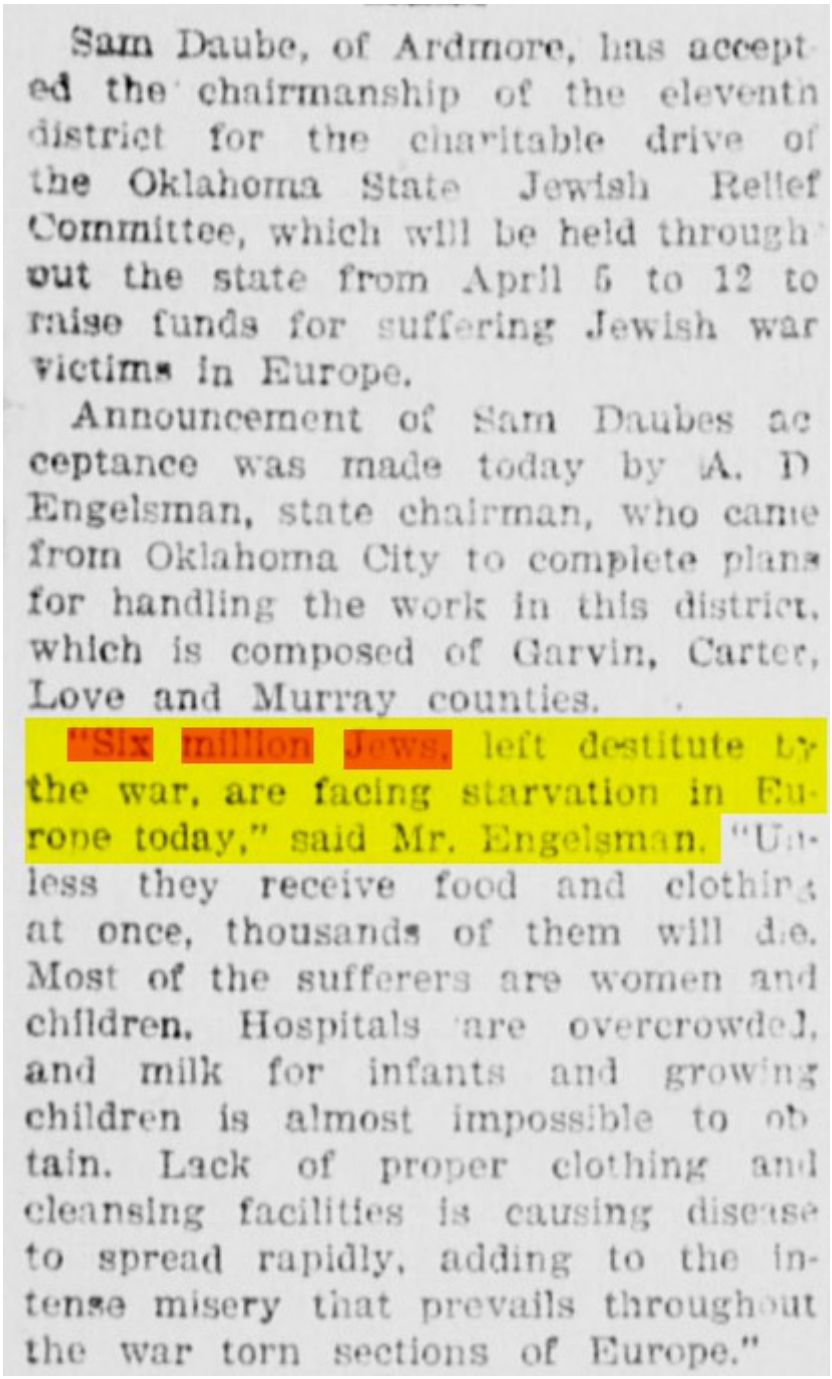
The two day speaker was Mr. Dilwyn Stratton, of Winona, O. The township in which Mr. Stratton resides is one of the foremost dairy sections in the United States. In fact, it is doubtful if there is another area of the same size that has accomplished as much in this way. Mr. Stratton devoted considerable time to the work of his community. This was the real purpose of his visit to the institute. Community co-operation was stressed all through the meeting. The cow testing association of his township had at one time the largest record for a year of any in the United States. The first year's work showed an average of 289 lbs. of butter fat per cow and the last finished with an average of 320 pounds. This is an average increase of 4 lbs. per cow for about 350 cows in a period of five years.

The Jersey calf club proved to be one of the best features that they have yet developed to bring out a real community spirit. Incidently it is having its effect in giving the boys and girls a real view of the possibilities of improved cattle on the farm. The forty boys and girls purchased calves at an average cost of $171 and after a year sold the same at public sale at an average of $406 per head.

The matter of placing herds under Federal supervision in the tuberculin test has been taken up by this community with such vigor that only a few herds remain to be tested. It is their hope that they may be the community to be quarantined as a tuberculin free area. This will mean thousands of dollars to them as they will be able to ship their cattle anywhere in the U. S. without further testing.

Certainly those who heard these talks must agree that it is possible for a community to do big things that mean much if a real active co-operation is carried out by all concerned.

Mrs. Laura Reidinger, of Kent, was present one day and gave two splendid talks that were well received. She stressed the need of proper care for the health of our children and gave instances of the service of the school nurse that meant much to the child concerned. She made a real plea for centralization of our schools and showed many of the advantages. A few of these things we are doing in order that we may make our children the responsible sort of citizens that the community needs. Education for the rural life she said was necessary if we could hope to have as many boys and girls as were needed stay on the farm. Too much of our education has been of a sort that leads away from the rural homes.



Her second address was on modern rural homes and conveniences. In the discussion she brought out many suggestions that could be copied in many homes that would mean much in the labor saving way to the housewife. She stressed the advantage of electricity in the farm home and said that if one was willing to pay the price that the country home could have every convenience that is found in the city with all the many advantages that can be had only in the open country.

The evening of the first day was given over partly to a discussion of modern school building. An architect was present with the county school superintendent and gave a very interesting address on this matter.

The officers of this year were re-elected. They are Theo. Chapman, pres.; Chas. Newton, vice pres.; A. L. Barber, sec.; Mrs. E. C. Miner, treas. The executive committee are Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Damon, Mr. and Mrs. James Crum and Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Peck.

Mr. Ben Krotzer has return to his work in Medina, after a visit of several days with relatives and friends in Gibsonburg.

Un artículo del The Daily Ardmoreite afira que seis millones de judíos se han visto abocados a la indigencia debido a la guerra.

Sam Daube, of Ardmore, has accepted the chairmanship of the eleventh district for the charitable drive of the Oklahoma State Jewish Relief Committee, which will be held throughout the state from April 5 to 12 to raise funds for suffering Jewish war victims in Europe.

Announcement of Sam Daubes acceptance was made today by A. D Engelsman, state chairman, who came from Oklahoma City to complete plans for handling the work in this district, which is composed of Garvin, Carter, Love and Murray counties.

"Six million Jews, left destitute by the war, are facing starvation in Europe today," said Mr. Engelsman. "Unless they receive food and clothing at once, thousands of them will die. Most of the sufferers are women and children. Hospitals are overcrowded, and milk for infants and growing children is almost impossible to obtain. Lack of proper clothing and cleansing facilities is causing disease to spread rapidly, adding to the intense misery that prevails throughout the war torn sections of Europe."

WHEN DOCTORS CANNOT TELL, HOW WILL ONE KNOW WHEN DEATH COMES?

Mena, Ark., March 2.—Physicians and officials of Polk county are unable to determine whether Mrs. Lee Shelton is dead or alive. Mrs. Shelton, who is a young woman living on a farm east of Mena was found in bed apparently lifeless. The evening before she had retired in good health save for a slight cold. A four weeks old babe slept by her side and it was the crying of the infant which aroused her husband next morning. Neighbors called in pronounced the woman dead and arrangements for the burial were started but when Coroner J. C. Hilton was called he was undecided and the funeral was halted.

Sheriff J. A. Thornton was also summoned and he too refused to pronounce the woman dead.

MANY LIVES LOST WHEN "BOHEMIAN" CRASHED ASHORE IN A BIG SNOW STORM

Halifax, March 2.—Seven lives are believed to have been lost when the crew of the Leyland liner Bohemian abandoned their ship as she was breaking up on the Sambro ledges this morning. Several others were injured.

The ship which was bound from Boston to Liverpool, ran aground in a blinding snow storm, while endeavoring to put into Halifax harbor early yesterday morning. Sixty-four passengers were taken off in safety in the morning, but most of the 150 members of the crew remained on board all day.

Late last night a strong swell developed and the ship began to pound heavily on the rocks. At four o'clock this morning it was decided to abandon her. Three of the ship's boats got away safely but the remainder of the men were unable to take to the boats, according to the reports received here.

The tug Roebling came as close to the stranded ship as possible and the transfer of those still on board was attempted by life lines. It is believed that the loss of life occurred during this operation.

Soon after the crew had left the vessel broke in two and sank.

NEGRO COMES TO GRIEF TRYING TO DISPOSE OF A PURLOINED EQUINE

Sheriff Garrett captured another colored horse thief yesterday afternoon and now has him behind bars until he can communicate with Love County officials and the owner of the horse who lives near Turnerville, according to a confession made by the man taken into custody.

Monday afternoon Sheriff Garrett was passing by a local wagon yard when he noticed a negro acting in a suspicious manner.

He stopped and became one of the onlookers while the negro tried to sell the horse to some men who were bartering with him. The sheriff soon became convinced that the horse had been stolen and after watching the maneuvers of the negro for some time, took him into custody and turned the horse over to the proprietor of the wagon yard for further orders.

At the jail the negro gave his name as Buster Gaines but finally admitted that his name was Ira Low, and that he had stolen the horse from a man by the name of Mneg, who resides near Turnerville. He said he took the horse last Friday and had it hidden near Ardmore until yesterday when he undertook to dispose of it.

The sheriff is trying to get into communication with the owner of the horse and has also notified the Love county officials of his capture.

MEMBERSHIP ROLL OF I. W. W. IN HANDS OF GOVERNMENT

Chicago, March 2.—Papers said to contain the names and addresses of virtually every member of the Industrial Workers of the World organization in the United States were in possession of Mackay Hoyne, state's attorney today.

City detectives last night took the lists from a man who gave the name of Alex Cavlly. The detectives reported the man was attempting to "deliver the names to a safe place."

No More Free Garden Seed

Washington, March 2.—Acting on the recommendation of the new secretary of agriculture, the senate agriculture committee today voted to eliminate from the annual agricultural bill the $240,000 voted by the house to continue the time-hallowed custom of distribution of free seeds by their constituents by members of congress.

Surprised By Premiers Resignation

San Francisco, Cal., March 2.—The public advices from Honolulu last night containing news of the resignation in Peking of Premier Chin Yun P'Eng of the republic of China was received as a surprise by leading Chinese here today. Premier Chin, a non-party man, assumed office four months ago.

BUT THEY CAN'T DO THIS IN OKLAHOMA

This is an unusual photograph and shows a lot of fun-loving girls lined up ready for the start on a big skating contest on Lake Placid, N. Y. This fun is evidently enticing, but Oklahoma girls find their amusement picking flowers and making bouquets in the bright southern sunshine.

SHERIFF RACING WITH PURSUING MOB TRYING TO SAVE NEGRO FIEND

McAlester, Okla., March 2.—Warden Fred C. Sweitzer of the state penitentiary here announced at 2:15 o'clock this afternoon that no word had been received from Sheriff H. L. Brown of Chandler, who started from Wewoka last night for McAlester with "Cap" Davis, negro convicted of having assaulted a young school teacher of Chandler.

"We do not anticipate any trouble, however," said Warden Sweitzer. "The roads are in bad condition and it may have been necessary to come by way of Eufaula, which would delay the sheriff's arrival until this evening."

Shawnee, Okla., March 1.—Word was awaited here concerning the fate of a negro who was taken from the local jail late last night by a mob searching for "Cap" Davis, another negro, charged with having attacked a white school teacher.

The mob, which was estimated at 150 persons, split here, part of the members going toward Wewoka to intercept officer hurrying to McAlester with Davis, who had been sentenced to serve 45 years in the penitentiary there. The remainder, escorting the negro, seized here moved toward Chandler.

Another element was added to the situation when an under-sheriff telephoned here from Chandler that two negroes, armed with rifles and shotguns, had stolen two motor cars there and started for Shawnee to meet part of the mob en route to that place.

Wewoka, Okla., March 2.—Eluding what appeared to be a certain lynching party, Sheriff H. L. Brown of Chandler, Okla., and his prisoner, "Cap" Davis, a negro sentenced to 45 years in the state penitentiary yesterday for an alleged assault upon a white school teacher, are today headed toward McAlester and excitement has entirely subsided.

Sheriff Brown, coming here in a motor car from Shawnee last night, with the intention of catching a train for McAlester, learned that a party of men planned to take the negro from the train. He immediately took another automobile and left Wewoka for McAlester before train time, eluding the party which planned to intercept him.

A party of approximately 150 men organized at Shawnee last night to get Brown's prisoner, split, part of them coming here and the others escorting an unnamed negro taken from the Shawnee jail, going toward Chandler. This latter party had not been heard from at Chandler today.

FAMOUS FRENCH SCULPTOR TO VISIT THIS COUNTRY

New York, March 2.—Monsieur Raphael Peyre, the distinguished French sculptor, whose latest production, "Crusading for Right," has been purchased by the officers and men of the U. S. Marine Corps, will arrive here with his wife on the S. S. Tourraine on March 3rd.

Early last year this famous Paris sculptor announced his intention to fashion from bronze a representative figure of the American crusader of the 20th century. He chose a Marine wearing a trench helmet, disdaining the globe, eagle and anchor. This insignia makes the statue typically "Marine" and influenced the personnel of the Marine Corps to purchase it, by voluntary contributions, at a cost of $11,000.

Arrangements are being made to move the statue from Paris to this country. It will probably be placed in the Corcoran Art Gallery in Washington, temporarily, until armaments can be made for its permanent installation in a public square in that city.

Endeavoring to Have Passports Vised

Mexico City, March 2.—Another request that Mexican consuls in the United States vise the passports of Americans who testified recently before the United States senate committee investigating Mexican conditions has been presented by the Mexican embassy here, it is learned from authoritative sources. It is said the Mexican government maintains its stand against granting such visas.

THE ALLIED NATIONS OF EUROPE CALLED ON TO DEVELOPE THEIR UTMOST PRODUCTIVE RESOURCES

PARIS, March 2.—All allied countries will be called upon to develop to the utmost their productive forces and advised that laws improving the condition of workers must be applied to that end, in a manifesto prepared by the economic section of the supreme inter-allied council yesterday, says "Petit Journal," political editor of the Echo de Paris.

"With this object in view," he writes, "the different governments will be told they must support each other to the utmost. A return to the community system created during the war and light heartedly destroyed after the armistice cannot be thought of now, but the manifesto will declare the following principles should be recognized:

"In every country the problem of production in not only national but international and, both as regards the distribution and transport of raw materials, it must be admitted each state must seek not only its own interests, but must accept sacrifices in the interest of the general welfare.

"The necessity for the greatest economy in the manufacture of war materials is apparent, in connection with which a solemn warning will be addressed to small central European states which show signs of asking support of arms of their particular claims. If necessary certain steps will be taken against them.

"Europe must form a genuine economic unity and to return to healthier conditions all ports of it must be considered as one and taken to enable Germany and Russia to contribute to the economic life of the European entity."

Congress Quarrels Over Soldier Relief Legislation; after Heated Arguments Executive Session Called

Washington, March 2.—Taking up for the first time the whole question of soldier relief legislation, the house ways and means committee got into a row today over procedure, and broke up with some confusion after members had repeated charges made in the house that the measures had been sent to the committee for burial.

After many heated exchanges between members, the committee ordered the room cleared of the crowd of spectators and then, in executive session, finally decided to continue hearings tomorrow.

Before the sudden termination of the session, Franklin d'Olier, national commander of the American Legion, and Thomas W. Miller, chairman of the national legislative committee, presented briefly an outline of what the organization sought from congress. Both declared service men were not asking for a bonus and Miller asserted that 2,000,000 soldiers directly affected were closely watching consideration of the matter of adjustment compensation.

General Pershing's Report.

Washington, March 2.—Retention of sufficient wartime posts and war plants to permit rapid expansion of the army and resumption of production of war materials, at full capacity, will be recommended by General Pershing, he indicated today on his return here after a three months tour of inspection of camps, cantonments and supply depots.

The general's full report to Secretary Baker probably will be made in ten days.

General Pershing indicated that he would favor retention of most of the national army cantonments and also of nitrate and other plants for the manufacture of materials needed in war time by the army.

He said, however, that these should be maintained on an economical basis.

There is strong sentiment throughout the United States in favor of universal service of some sort, General Pershing said, based on recognition of the benefit of the men themselves and also on the fear that "we might not have allies to hold the line for us in the next war."

"American citizenship is sound to the core," the general said, "and while I hear stories of some discontent, and some revolutionary tendencies, they are instigated for the most part by foreigners."

General Pershing said he had not talked politics to a "in single person" on his trip and is "not talking politics now."

GOVERNOR BROUGH HEADS NATIONAL GOOD ROADS

Hot Springs, Ark., March 2.—Governor Charles H. Brough who will succeed United States Senator John H. Bankhead as president of the United States Good Roads Association, wired the headquarters of that organization in this city today where the work of preparing for the eighth annual good roads meeting is on, that in the death of Senator Bankhead the good roads movement lost one of its strongest supporters.

The United States good roads and Bankhead national highway associations meet here April 12 to 15.

Mexico Gathering Data

Railway Union Men Favor Giving New Law a Fair Test Before Effort is Made to Test Its Constitutionality

New York, March 2.—President Wilson is preparing to set up the tribunal provided in the railroad bill for considering the wage demands of the 2,000,000 railroad employes.

It was announced at the White House today that he was writing to the unions and railroad companies that they nominate representatives to the wage board. Under the law the unions name six representatives and the roads six. From each of these groups, the president will select three and in addition he will name three representatives of the public. The board of nine as thus constituted will be subject to senate approval.

Decisions of the board will be by majority vote, provided one of the majority is of the public group. The law does not make acceptance of the findings mandatory on either the workers or the roads, but members of congress during debate on the measure expressed the belief that public opinion would compel acceptance.

Representatives of the railroad unions are understood to have voted today to give the new railroad law a trial in bringing about a settlement of their wage demands.

It is understood also that they desired to hold in abeyance plans to test the constitutionality of the law and not to refer the controversy to the union membership for a vote," until the law has been given a fair trial This means, it is said, that all danger of a general strike at this time have been removed. One of the union officials said, "we are all good Americans and desire to go along with the president as far as we can."

BIG FIVE FAILED TO KEEP PLEDGES CHARGED BY TEXAS LIVESTOCK MAN

Washington, March 2.—Charges that the "Big Five" meat packers had broken agreements with representatives of livestock organizations not to oppose congressional investigation of the packing industry were made before the house agricultural committee today by E. C. Lassiter, of Texas, representing livestock organizations.

"The packers and their attorneys are not creditable," Mr. Lassiter said. "It is useless for this committee to waste any time in hearing them."

The packers, he continued, have sought to secure control of livestock growers organizations. By "devious and improper methods," he charged, they have extended their grasp on their industry.

Mr. Lassiter read numerous press clippings, letters and testimony in previous official investigations of the packers regarding alleged wrongful practices.

E. C. Collins who recently purchased the local branch of the Leeper Lumber Company, is contemplating some minor changes at the yard on West Main street.

The office will be removed from its present location to the rear of the lot, facing Broadway, and some new sheds will be erected.

Mr. Collins is a pioneer citizen of Ardmore and has been connected with the lumber business for nearly 30 years.

For eight years he had charge of the Chickasaw Lumber Company's branch yard at Durant and for the past few years has been with the same firm in Ardmore.

MADE BUNCH OF MONEY— BY THRESHING OLD STACK

Whitewood, S. D.—Hans Carstensen a rancher living near here, decided recently to take another look at his old hay stack and as a consequence he has added $1,200 to his bank account.

According to Carstensen, he thought for some time that the stack was worthless so far as feed was concerned. Finally he decided to dispose of the stack, but a threshing outfit came along and he was induced to have it put through as a demonstration."

The yield was 3,200 pounds of alfalfa seed which brought him about 39 cents per pound.

HEALDTON CRUDE ADVANCE MEANS $16,500 DAILY INCREASE IN THE ARDMORE MARKET

The Texas Company made public the news today that it advanced Healdton crude to $3.35 a barrel and made that price effective on the morning of March 1.

In the past six months the price on this crude has advanced from $1.79 to the present figure which is a bounce of $1.55 a barrel. Counting the production of that area at the low figure of 30,000 barrels a day this advance means that the production of the field is bringing to the producers $46,500 more each day than it was bringing at the time oil took its upward start.

The sensational advances that are being made in crude prices have somewhat disturbed the independent refining industries but a local refiner in discussing the matter said that the price of refined products was on the upward trend and he expressed the opinion that it was but a question of only a short time when the refiners could operate at a safe margin and make money on their investments.

ARDMORE MAN WAS A PERSONAL FRIEND OF LATE SEN. BANKHEAD

Col. Sidney Suggs, representative of The Continental Asphalt and Petroleum Company, is in Oklahoma City on a short business trip. Colonel Suggs returned Sunday from a trip to Fort Worth, Cleburne and Galveston, Texas, in the interest of the company.

Colonel Suggs was personally acquainted with Senator Bankhead, president of the National Good Roads Association, who died yesterday at Washington, and had been closely associated with him on road matters. He was with Senator Bankhead at the National Association meeting at Atlanta, Ga., and last year at Mineral Wells, Texas.

Senator Bankhead's successor, Governor Brough, of Arkansas, is also a personal acquaintance of Mr. Suggs who was a special guest of the governor during an important road meeting held at Little Rock.

TEXAS STUDENTS TURN THINGS IN ANNUAL CLASS FIGHT

Austin, Texas, March 2.—All but one of the eight students of the University of Texas taken to a hospital after a class fight downtown last night had been released today. The one remaining was reported not seriously injured.

Injuries resulted when students were overcome by the fumes of liquid ammonia, squirted from fire extinguishers by the sophomores as the freshmen tried to rush the doors of a hall which the second year men were holding.

Approximately 500 students were engaged. Bricks and clubs were freely used and numerous minor injuries were sustained by the combatants. A report that one student was knocked from the third story roof and seriously injured could not be confirmed. Practically all of the doors and windows of the building were smashed.

Members of the university faculty today were obtaining the names of the combatants and it was indicated drastic action would be taken. The police stated they had been powerless to stop the affair when lasted several hours.

Senate Sub-Committee to Tucson

Citizens of Second Ward Should Have Co-Operation in Adding Park to Civic Beauty and Attractiven s

The Daily Ardmoreite desires to offer its services to the Second Ward of this city during this year, toward acquiring a park.

Every other ward in the city has its park, but the Second Ward has none.

It is in keeping with common justice that this city give to those people a park.

That portion of the city has some beautiful spots that can be used for park purposes.

In discussing the matter with a public spirited citizen of that ward the suggestion was made that it be named Daube Park in honor of the name of the family that has done so much for this city and especially for that ward.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Sam Daube never missed an opportunity of doing a kindness for the schools and for the poor and for the people in general, and during the war their time and money was given without stint to save the life of the nation.

A number of our good friends in the Second Ward have asked us to use our efforts in their behalf and we are proud of the opportunity to do so.

A meeting of the ward people is desirable to ascertain what the wishes of the people are and then to outline the proper campaign for carrying out the work.

The object sought is worthy of the time of the people of the ward and we await a suggestion of the ward as to the time of a meeting to be held.

HOOVER PLEA NETS $1,600,000 FOR JEWS

Tells of Typhus Menace at Launching of New York Campaign for War Sufferers.

3,000,000 CHILDREN IN NEED

Louis Marshall and Judge Elkus Picture Plight of Stricken People—Large Contributions Made.

Although the American Relief Administration, in an endeavor to prevent the spread of typhus in Europe, recently obtained the entire assignment of anti-typhus material, drugs, machinery, disinfecting plants and motor cars, including all the tremendous equipment that went with each of the continental armies, this equipment is probably not one-third of the amount required "if typhus is not to spread gradually eastward and westward across the whole of Europe."

This statement was made last night by Herbert Hoover, at the Hotel Astor, where more than $1,600,000 was subscribed at a dinner to launch the campaign known as the New York Appeal for Jewish War Sufferers. About 1,000 men and women prominent in all walks of life attended the dinner and listened to the appeals of Mr. Hoover, Louis Marshall, Abram I. Elkus, Associate Judge of the Court of Appeals, and Judge Otto A. Rosalsky, on behalf of the stricken Jews of Europe.

The menace of typhus was the note struck by all the speakers. Mr. Marshall declared that typhus menaced 6,000,000 Jews of Europe.

"In New York City there are 6,000,000 men, women and children," he said. "Imagine that each and every one of these 6,000 000 is without food, clothing, shelter, medicine, nurses, without help; imagine that these six million include you, and your children and your friends and then you will begin to understand what it is that has brought us together and why we propose to find ways and means to help these unfortunate people."

Judge Elkus described the ravages of typhus as he witnessed it when Ambassador at Constantinople, and of his own experience when stricken by it.

Mr. Hoover, who received an ovation when he arose to speak, said that when the veil over Eastern and Central Europe was torn asunder there was revealed a mass of suffering humanity such as the world has not seen since the Thirty Years War. He said it was felt that unless special care and food were provided for them the degeneration of child life would be such that at least one generation in all that area from Lithuania to the Mediterranean would be lost.

Today, he said, 3,000,000 children are still dependent on American charity. The child-feeding service must still go on another year, he added, if the child life of Central Europe is to be maintained.

ASK $7,500,000 HERE FOR EUROPE'S NEEDY

Great Drive, with $35,000,000 Objective, Is the Theme of Many Pulpits.

1,500 AT 'HUNGER DINNER'

Secretary Colby Gives Government Approval of Jewish Relief Appeal.

The appeal for $7,500,000 to relieve appalling conditions of disease and distress among 6,000,000 people in Central and Eastern Europe was put before New Yorkers yesterday. In virtually all the churches there were sermons emphasizing the non-sectarian character of this call to humanity and at a "hunger dinner" at the Biltmore last night Secretary of State Bainbridge Colby expressed the Government's official sanction of the campaign and its official knowledge of the calamitous character of the troubles that have overtaken whole peoples.

The Greater New York Fund for Jewish War Sufferers will try to raise the full amount in the present week, and, having already subscribed more than $30,000,000 for relief, it is turning for the first time to the general public for funds. The whole nation is being asked to subscribe $35,000,000, a sum which must be raised quickly, according to those with first-hand knowledge of conditions in Poland, East Galicia, the Ukraine, and other places, if hundreds of thousands are not to die of starvation or to fall a prey to the ravages of typhus fever, already stalking through the land.

Today the entire east side is to be draped in mourning, in token of sympart in the great work of world recovery. I deny that the specious plea of Americanization is an absolution for our national or personal duty. You are not Americanizing an American obligation when you are coupling it with reservations or expressing it in terms of repudiation.

"America is acting falsely to that simple and rugged honesty which is part of the American character when it hesitates and draws back upon the performance of a duty or the grasping and embracement of an opportunity. Let us give of our political power, of our political experience, of our commercial strength, of our pecuniary power, to the succor and relief of this sorely afflicted world.

"It is not only our duty as human beings, but it is the only enlightened policy. Shall a man who is riding on the promenade deck of a great steamer profess himself to be wholly unconcerned with the fact that there is a gaping hole in the hull of the ship?"

Louis Marshall said that those who had labored long for the relief of Jewish war sufferers had expected that suffering to cease very soon after the war was over, but unfortunately peace was not yet declared and the conflict still was raging.

Tells of Plague's Ravages.

"Suffering," said Mr. Marshall, "has not decreased, but increased beyond what it was in the active days of the war. Despite all we have told you in the past, there are even lower depths, people are falling victims to typhus in East Galicia, in Poland and the Ukraine, and unless we send food, clothing, the proper apparatus and the means to operate that apparatus, not thousands, not hundreds of thousands, but such vast numbers of our people will die as will stagger the imagination."

Dr. I. Edwin Goldwasser begged the workers for team work, urging them to function like Kipling's "Ship that Found Herself" with the uniform hum of one vast machine, with all parts driving together to a uniform end.

Judge Rosalsky expressed the committee's thanks to the workers and to the non-Jews who are co-operating in the campaign.

Felix M. Warburg told how first-hand reports from unquestioned sources confirmed the worst that could be imagined of some of the stricken districts. He explained how the fiendishness of underpaid soldiers under arms for five years had caused much of the misery, and defended the Jews in some places from the charge of Bolshevism, asserting they were of a class who never would have indorsed propaganda of th raised by the Jews and disbursed both among Jews and non-Jews abroad, the need today is more pressing than ever because to famine and distress in some of the stricken districts has been added the dread spectre of typhus, and to abandon the sufferers now or to apply half measures in succoring them would mean that some 6,000,000 men, women and children would be exposed to the menace of awful death.

Despite the decision to extend the campaign another week, the canvass thus far has by no means been a failure. Day by day the totals have mounted and the response has been generous. This, however, is the first time the Jews have appealed to all creeds and all races and the sponsors of the campaign feel that it has taken a little time for the universality of the campaign to penetrate to all the people. Each day there has been a mounting response from non-

Leaders Emphasize Needs of Sufferers in War Zones in Urging Support.

The effort to raise $7,500,000 to be expended in relieving the woe which already has descended upon thousands of stricken Jews in Central and Eastern Europe and which threatens 6,000,000 people if famine, disease and industrial prostration are not relieved promptly, enters today upon its third week with the amount needed far from subscribed.

Other cities throughout the country have far oversubscribed their quotas to the total fund of $35,000,000 required by the Joint Distribution Committee which carries out the relief work and Judge Otto Rosalsky, Chairman of the Fund Committee and others active in Judge Otto Rosalsky, Chairman of the Fund Committee and others active in Jewish philanthropy were hopeful that New York would undergo a tardy awakening to the terribleness of conditions which have led the Jews for the first time to make their appeal nonsectarian in character.

Religious leaders of the various Christian creeds have endorsed the movement and urged their peoples to subscribe liberally. Typical of endorsements of this sort in which clergymen of other religions, in some cases voluntarily, have come to the support of the campaign is a letter from the Rev. Dr. James B. Wasson, Director and Chaplain of the Strangers' Welfare Fellowship founded in 1907 by Bishop Henry C. Potter. Dr. Wasson writes:

"May I as a Christian clergyman express the hope that many Christians who can do so will respond to the appeal of the Jewish Welfare Fund, not only because such a response would reflect the spirit of the Master Whom they serve, but also because our Jewish fellow-citizens are always ready and glad to respond to appeals in aid of Christian charities; and the least we can do is to show ourselves as free from sectarian and racial prejudice as they are."

In an effort to make clear the precise object of the campaign, the directors of the fund have issued an answer to some of the questions which naturally would arise in the minds of prospective givers, which says in part:

"Hitherto practically all the money was spent for food, clothing, fuel and shelter. These essential commodities will continue to be supplied so long as the need exists. But new and supreme emphasis is now being placed upon the economic rehabilitation of the Jews of Eastern Europe and Asia. Money is needed to furnish them with tools, raw material and credit to enable them to regain their economic independence."

A discussion of what is being done to combat typhus says:

"The Joint Distribution Committee is co-operating with the Polish Government and all relief organizations in the anti-typhus battle. It has appropriated $100,000 to be placed at the disposal of the Polish Government to buy coal with which to place in operation the American Army's delousing machinery now in Poland, the most effective single weapon against typhus fever. It has sent to Poland Dr. Harry Plotz, one of the world's foremost experts on typhus fever, the discoverer of the fact that typhus is spread by body lice, and who gave to the world the first successful anti-typhus serum."

Paul Baerwald, 389 Fifth Avenue, is Treasurer of the fund.

JEWISH RELIEF DRIVE WILL START THURSDAY

Louis Marshall, Chairman of Committee, to Speak at Dinner Here That Day.

The Jewish relief campaign (nonsectarian) for the 6,000,000 sufferers from the war in eastern Europe will be formally launched Thursday with a dinner at Rauscher's. Louis Marshall of New York, chairman of the Jewish relief committee, who represented the minority nations at the peace conference, will be the principal speaker.

The local campaign is part of a national effort to raise $35,000,000, and plans have been arranged by the Washington executive committee, of which Simon Lyon is chairman.

Dr. Abram Simon of the Eighth Street Temple has asked the clergy of Washington to mention the campaign from their pulpits next Sunday, and in his letter says: "Today the situation beggars description. Six million Jews face exhaustion, starvation and extinction. The reports from our American and authoritative agents in Europe indicate such an unheard-of state of suffering that the Jewish people in our land are constrained to ask their Christian brethren to share some of the sacrifices in this campaign for humanity."

Members of the Y. M. H. A. and Y. W. H. A. will hold a joint mass meeting Wednesday night in the interest of the campaign. The Orthodox Jewish congregations have arranged for a mass meeting on Tuesday night, May 25, and the co-operation of the civic and fraternal organization has been asked.

GOVERNORS' BOARD VISITS MOUNT VERNON

Members Praise Care Given National Shrine by Ladies' Association.

The official board of visitors appointed each year by the Governor of Virginia to visit Mount Vernon made its annual visit of inspection Saturday, and the members declared themselves in terms of highest appreciation of the care given this national shrine by the Mount Vernon Ladies' Association.

It is the constant aim of the association to follow strictly the injunction of its founder, Miss Ann Pamela Cunningham, who, in her farewell address at request, in 1874, said:

"Ladies, the home of Washington is in your charge—see to it that you keep it the home of Washington. Let no irreverent hand change it, no vandal hands desecrate it with the fingers of iconoclasm. Those who go to the home in which he lived and died wish to see in what he lived and died. Let one spot in this grand country of ours be saved from change. Upon you rests this duty."

Repairs Are Made.

This charge has been conscientiously carried out. At each annual meeting all matters dealing with the proper management, necessary repairs and security of the mansion and grounds around it receive careful consideration, and the only changes made are in the direction of restoration to Washington's time.

The constant effort of the association has been to reassemble at Mount Vernon the furniture and other household belongings of Washington which had become scattered and lost during the years before Mount Vernon came into the hands of the association.

Go to Washington's Church.

Before these are accepted they are thoroughly investigated and nothing is placed in the mansion marked "original" which was not there in Washington's time.

Yesterday the members of the association attended church at Pohick, the Truro Parish Church, which Washington attended. The service on Sunday was of an especial significance, as it was a memorial to Miss Lucy Townsend, the late vice regent of New York state, who was largely responsible for the restoration of the church to its appearance in Washington's time.

IRISH FRIENDS FAVOR SELF-DETERMINATION

National Representation for the District Included in Resolution Unanimously Adopted.

A resolution presented by Rev. James A. Geary, pledging the support of the organization to the delegates from the District of Columbia to both political conventions who would stand for self-determination for all peoples and national representation for the District, was unanimously adopted by the Friends of Irish Freedom at a mass meeting at 601 E street last night.

"Ireland stands as a symbol of the great fight for freedom that is being carried on all over the world," said Basil Manley, political economist and chairman of the citizens' executive committee, the principal speaker of the evening.

He said that he opposed the incarceration of such men as Eugene V. Debs, as it had the tendency to set them up as martyrs and did more to augment their following than all the soap-box orators in the country.

Rosa F. Downing presided and announced that May 23 had been selected by the Ancient Order of Hibernians as a day for the people of the county of Ireland. He asked that the members of the Protestant faith to celebrate the day in their respective churches.

A resolution asking the President to release all political prisoners not confined for the commission of any overt act, but for the expression of opinion alone, was referred to a special committee. G. G. Rorke also spoke.

JEWISH RELIEF DRIVE WILL START THURSDAY

Louis Marshall, Chairman of Committee, to Speak at Dinner Here That Day.

The Jewish relief campaign (nonsectarian) for the 4,000,000 sufferers from the war in eastern Europe will be formally launched Thursday with a dinner at Rauscher's, Louis Marshall of New York, chairman of the Jewish relief committee, who represented the minority nations at the peace conference, will be the principal speaker.

The national campaign is part of a national effort to raise $25,000,000, and plans have been arranged by the Washington executive committee, of which Simon Lyon is chairman.

FALLS FROM SCAFFOLD.

Jersey City Man Unconscious When Picked Up at Union Station.

Unable to obtain a satisfactory view of the city from the platform in front of Union station yesterday afternoon, Charles Lee Tracey, thirty-three years old, 111 Wayman avenue, Jersey City, climbed a pile of lumber and mounted his footing and fell to the pavement. Tracey remained unconscious when picked up and taken to Casualty Hospital.

The young man was one of 15,000 persons who came here on the Hoof Game excursion from New York, and several excursionists witnessed the accident. Relatives of the injured man were notified that they would come here and look after him.

DUTCH FAMILIES ARRIVE.

SOUTH HAS BIGGEST GAIN IN AUTO REGISTRATION

Figures Show 7,508,848 Cars in United States, Cotton Growers Leading Increase.

Greatest gains in registration of automobiles were shown in the south, are states, the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce reports in a review of the automobile industry for the last year. In announcing that there are 7,508,848 motor vehicles registered in the United States the chamber reported that non-thing of the automobile owners are farmers and that the greatest percentage of increase in registration had been found in the cotton-growing sections of the south.

This exceptional gain, it states, is due to the fact that there have been heavy demands for cotton during the war and since, which has put the south in a strong financial position and has enabled thousands of cotton growers to up, reduce power for transportation, whereas in the previous year over the greater part of this was too poor to afford efficient farm equipment.

South Carolina led all states in the percentage of gain in registration with 61 per cent. South Carolina showed the second largest state gain with 43 per cent. New York had the largest state registration and the largest gross gain, while California leads for the number of automobiles in ratio to her population.

SEEKS ELECTRICIAN HELPERS

Civil Service Announces Examination for Navy Yard.

The Civil Service Commission today announced an examination for helpers, electrician, at Washington navy yard. No educational test will be given, and applicants will not be assembled for a mental examination. Application blanks may be secured from the labor board, navy yard service, navy yard, Washington, D. C., and must be filed with the board by June 9.

Change of Base

Kansas winds are always blowing, and my path of life seems thorny; so I'm packing up and going to the groves of California. There beside the sobbing ocean I shall sit and do my singing, filled with prunes and sweet emotion, while the golden hours are winging. Kansas heat is always hotter than the kind that starts you sweating; Kansas rain is full of water, and each day I get a wetting; so I go to San Diego where the honey bees are buzzin'; there I'll fill myself with sago, and sing anthems by the dozen. There the scenes are most inspiring, and the natives love them dearly, and a man who lives by trying ought to earn ten dollars yearly. By the broad and blue Pacific I'll compose my dippy stanzas, filled with yearnings most terrific for the sun-baked plains of Kansas. Resting on my downy pillows, after hours of fierce endeavor, I will watch the mighty billows rolling as they've rolled forever; oh, I'll watch them in their glory, and remark, "I'd give a penny to get back to old Empory where of brine there isn't any!"

Representative of National Headquarters Here to Take Part

Hamilton Bond, representing national headquarters of the American Jewish Relief committee, is in Ogden assisting S. G. Dye, county chairman, in raising the remainder of Weber county's quota of $7,500 for the relief of the suffering Jews in the devastated war zones. Mr. Bond declared today that there are six million jews in eastern and central Europe whom the war has left dependent upon America. "About 800,000 of these are starving, ragged, helpless, orphaned children. This is a condition where neither race, creed nor nationality counts. Nothing counts except humanity."

Mr. Bond comes to Utah from Tennessee where the campaign was recently conducted and states that Tennessee gave $250,000 for the saving of these lives. Weber county has raised about half of her quota and it is expected that she will contribute the remainder within the next few days. Headquarters have been established at the Weber club.

Youth Held in Jail on Burglary Charge

Harvey G. Miller, 18 years old, of 576 Canyon road was lodged in the city jail this morning by Detectives Robert Chambers and W. A. Jones for the alleged burglary of Detective Jones' residence, 1911 Wall avenue, yesterday morning.

Miller, it is claimed, was peddling vegetables from a push cart. He called at the Jones residence and upon learning that no one was home, is alleged to have entered the house and taken a revolver and some cartridges.

He was seen, and a description of him was given to Detective Jones.

This morning the boy was arrested at his home. He confessed, it is alleged, and took the officers to the Ogden river, where he had hidden the revolver.

A charge of burglary was preferred against the youth by Officer Jones.

The boy gained entrance to the Jones residence by cutting the front door screen.

It is the film that D. W. Griffith and his players were working on when the entire company was blown to sea in a disabled yacht and reported missing for several days by the entire press of the world. You no doubt saw the report in the newspapers.

It is the most vivid and thrilling drama of the strange life and stranger conglomeration of whites and natives of the South Sea Isles ever screened.

Clarine Seymour plays Mary, "The Idol Dancer," one of the screen's most unique characterizations.

GRAZING ACTION DEFENDED HERE

Assistant Forester Explains Just Why Use of Certain Ranges Restricted

That cattle associations from Wasatch, Utah and Juab counties are not united as represented, against the decision of forest authorities to delay the opening of the grazing season in the spring, was the statement this morning of L. F. Kneipp in charge of the local forest service headquarters.

It has been reported that sixteen cattle associations in the three counties mentioned, with an ownership of more than 40,000 head of stock, met at the Provo Commercial club and registered a vigorous protest against action on the part of United States foresters in attempting to close forest service reserves to cattle until May 16, beginning 1921.

Representatives of the cattlemen are alleged to have stated that under the forest service ruling the stock industry in that country would die.

Regarding the protest of the cattlemen, Assistant Forester Kneipp said today:

"J. W. Nelson, grazing expert from the Washington offices, was in the territory in question for two months this spring and decided that the ranges had been opened too early during prvious seasons.

"Part of the forest service range is available for opening prior to May 16, and in event that cattlemen show inclination to co-operate in keeping cattle off restricted range until after May 16, such portions of range as are available, will be opened prior to May 16.

"Because of the high altitude of the ranges in question, they cannot be opened as soon as the ranges on lower elevations. Last season, the ranges in question were either under snow, or furnished very little feed at the time for their opening.

"If the ranges are opened prior to May 15, before forage plants have had an opportunity to start a vigorous growth, the very ends for which the forest service has been organized will be defeated.

DANGER OF OVERGRAZING

"Fifteen years of experiment and study has proven to the forest service that too early opening of forest range results in overgrazing. At first the superior and highest grade forage plants give way to other plants which are not as acceptable as food. The cattle, choosing the most palatable food available, keeps even the inferior plants closely cropped. In this manner, the range is soon depleted of plant life, excepting plants of low palatability to the cattle. Thousands of acres of grazing lands in the district over which the agitation has been raised are at present in this condition, and it is for the betterment of the cattle industry in this section of the country that the opening of the range is being deferred.

"While protests have been made from time to time among a number of the cattlemen in this section, they are not protesting as a unit, scores of the stockmen being entirely favorable to the delaying of the grazing season."

Are the Best Tires too good for the Small Car Owner

EVERYBODY agrees that it is generally desirable for merchandise to be graded.

A good principle that often comes out at the wrong end for the car-owner—the man with the upkeep on his mind—the tire bills to pay.

He feels that tire economy should be a personal contract with the tire-user. Not a transaction with his car, whether it be big or small.

Reasoning tires in human terms instead of trade custom has written this policy for the United States Rubber Company—

Build all tires to one standard and let the tire user choose his own size.

When the oldest and largest rubber manufacturing concern in the world focuses all its resources upon one grade, one quality, it makes one client—and that is the whole public.

This single ideal is visible in any U. S. Tire factory, at any U. S. distributing branch, in any U. S. dealer's store.

Seeing that the tire-user gets his economy mileage along with an unlimited guarantee.

Policies are harder to make than tires

Probably the deepest reason why U. S. demand keeps always ahead of the number of tires the U. S. makers can supply.

PUSH DRIVE FOR JEWISH RELIEF

Representative of National Headquarters Here to Take Part

Hamilton Bond, representing national headquarters of the American Jewish Relief committee, is in Ogden assisting S. G. Dye, county chairman, in raising the remainder of Weber county's quota of $7,500 for the relief of the suffering Jews in the devastated war zones. Mr. Bond declared today that there are six million jews in eastern and central Europe whom the war has left dependent upon America. "About 800,000 of these are starving, ragged, helpless, orphaned children. This is a condition where neither race, creed nor nationality counts. Nothing counts except humanity."

Mr. Bond comes to Utah from Tennessee where the campaign was recently conducted and states that Tennessee gave $250,000 for the saving of three lives. Weber county has raised about half of her quota and it is expected that she will contribute the remainder within the next few days. Headquarters have been established at the Webor club.

Youth Held in Jail on Burglary Charge

Harvey G. Miller, 18 years old, of 574 Canyon road was lodged in the city jail this morning by Detectives Robert Chambers and W. A. Jones for the alleged burglary of Detective Jones' residence, 1911 Wall avenue, yesterday morning.

Miller, it is claimed, was peddling vegetables from a push cart. He called at the Jones residence and upon learning that no one was home, is alleged to have entered the house and taken a revolver and some cartridges. He was seen, and a description of him was given to Detective Jones.

This morning the boy was arrested at his home. He confessed, it is alleged, and took the officers to the Ogden river, where he had hidden the revolver.

A charge of burglary was preferred against the youth by Officer Jones.

The boy gained entrance to the Jones residence by cutting the front door screen.

Millions Needed For Jewish Relief Work in Poland

New York Committee Seeks More Funds as Result of Destruction of Towns During the Present War

All the relief work of the joint distribution committee among the Jews of Poland, in which several millions of dollars were expended, has been nullified by the war between the Soviet and Polish armies, according to reports received by Judge Otto A. Rosalsky, chairman of the Greater New York Campaign for Jewish War Sufferers Abroad.

The committee faced the task of raising additional millions of dollars as a result of the war in Poland. Relief work in Warsaw and towns in the fighting zone has been temporarily abandoned. Many of the communities had been virtually restored, but all this reconstruction work has been wiped out, the chairman has learned from his representatives in Europe.

"It is an old truth that whoever fights the Jew is the sufferer," Judge Rosalsky said yesterday. "Six million Jews were made homeless by five years of foreign and domestic wars. Through the joint distribution committee to raise funds for which the greater New York campaign was organized, we had succeeded in restoring them in some measure to normal health and economic independence.

"Now we find that in the war between the Poles and the Bolsheviki the Jew is again the sufferer. In all the towns where contending armies have swept back and forth, destroying homes, disorganizing community life, leaving death and destruction in their wake, our work will have to be done over. The destitute whom we had helped climb to their feet, will again be destitue, more miserable than ever before, because their very hopes of peace and security have again been shattered.

"If money were greatly needed before for relief, this new crisis has made it trebly needful. The greater New York campaign succeeded in raising the greatest sum ever procured in New York for any relief movement, but it is still several millions short of its goal. Now it dare not relax its efforts until every dollar is raised and plans are completed which will enable us to meet this emergency. Our headquarters at 1133 Broadway now will be the center of a more energetic effort to fill New York's quota."

Soviets' Labor Policy Makes Toilers Slaves

Report of League Bureau Shows Militarization Idea Injures Workers and Throttles Production

High Wages a Delusion

Inflated Incomes Fail to Keep Pace With Rapidly Mounting Cost of Living

From The Tribune's Washington Bureau.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—The complete militarization of labor, for fighting purposes at the battle front or in work in the fields to maintain the army, is the principle of the Bolshevik organization of labor, according to a preliminary study of employment conditions in Soviet Russia, just completed by the international labor office of the League of Nations. In making public a synopsis of its study to-day the labor office said:

"A careful reading of the preliminary study issued by the international labor office forces one to the conclusion that liberty of labor in Russia is only a fantasy. Workers, no matter what their specialty may be, are subject at all times to draft by the government for any kind of work which the government may desire to accomplish."

The initial labor legislation of the Soviet government, as set forth in the report, was apparently all that the workers might desire. According to labor documents quoted in the report, however, the nationalization of 3,000 factories, or about 40 per cent of the whole industrial productivity of Russia, beginning with a period of workers' control, followed by state control, was accompanied by a ruinous falling off of production.

Wages Outrun by Prices

Although wages grew beyond all measure and beat all records for business expense and promotion, they could not keep pace with the cost of living. Continuing, the report says:

"For example, in June, 1918, it is estimated that the expenses of a working [illegible] family were 114 rubles a head and the wages it earned a month a total of 60 rubles per head. From July, 1918, to April, 1[illegible], the price of food increased not 2[illegible] cent, while the wages of skilled workmen increased only 257 per cent, of unskilled workmen 354 per cent, and semi-skilled laborers 350 per cent. The average purchasing power of the wage of a skilled metal worker was four times less than the purchasing power of the wage of 1917. At the same time, owing to the tremendous increase in the purchasing power of paper money, all sorts of schemes for the payment of wages in kind were put forth by the government even to the ration for various classes of citizens. Men were reluctant to work and large numbers migrated to the easily distributed, where food was more plentiful.

"According to the Soviet press, the number of workers employed in industry and mines fell in two months decreased by 2,02[illegible] men [illegible] to January, 1919, while an extract from the report of the Supreme Council of Popular Economy of March, 1919, declared that production in the greater portion of Russian industries had decreased from 50 to 80 per cent.

Overtime Rule Set Aside

"In 1918 the Russian labor code set forth two interesting and noteworthy exceptions to the [illegible] governing overtime:

"All work necessary to prevent any danger or public disaster threatening the existence of the Soviet government, the lives of its citizens, and the safety of its property, and for any unexpected eventualities affecting [illegible] property [illegible] 1920, however, a wireless message [illegible] opposition to overtime [illegible] direction adopted by the supreme economic authority, [illegible] Bolshevist economy is declared a warning [illegible] Work in factories and workshops as well as in Soviet establishments is [illegible] by [illegible] hours. It would appear, therefore, that at this time the 8-hour day and the 48-hour week were a principle only.

"Article XVIII of the Russian constitution, adopted July 10, 1918, by the Bolshevik government, proclaims the following principles: 'The Russian Socialist Soviet Republic considers it the duty of every citizen of the republic to work and adopts as its motto: "He who does not work will not eat." Here the state simply refuses to feed those who will not work.'

Labor Declared Property

"Lately, however, the government has proclaimed a principle much more far-reaching, as follows:

"'Work is a social obligation. The state has the right to oblige the citizen to work and even to assign him work he must do and to punish him if he does not obey. Human labor is the property of the state. During the year 1918 the whole question of compulsory labor was not raised, but in the latter part of 1919 it was again taken up and pushed to extreme limits.

"It seems that the plan of action elaborated by the government contemplates two systems. The first consists of the utilization of all man-power in the country, which is divided into two categories, skilled and unskilled. They are utilized through a process of registration, mobilization and distribution. The second consists in the transformation of the fighting army into a labor army. Trotsky is president of the commission to which the task of realizing this program is intrusted."

The barreled liquor was seized on a truck operated by Carbone and Brown, and the still were much was found near Guertin's home, but ownership was denied by all three of any of it.

Faction Votes to Undo All Aero Club Majority Did

Woodhouse's Supporters Hold Meeting at His Office and Resolutions Are Passed

The undaunted minority of the old Aero Club of America, defeated at a special meeting on August 16 last by 100 votes to 5, on the question of reorganizing the club, came back yesterday.

They returned at the call of Henry Woodhouse, who was ousted from membership. They intended to adjust and relieve all the ills of the defunct organization, but according to the plaint sent out by Mr. Woodhouse last night they came to a clubhouse devoid of furniture, records and trophies, which the majority had moved to the new clubhouse on East Thirty-eighth Street.

Still undaunted, the meeting moved over to the sumptuous offices of Mr. Woodhouse and there convened. On the word of Mr. Woodhouse more than one-third of the membership of the club was represented in person or by proxy.

The meeting then proceeded to declare all that the majority had done was illegal. First Mr. Woodhouse was restored to membership. Next, his magazine was restored as the official organ of the club. Then the officers of the club were ordered to return all that had been taken from the clubhouse, and the Lincoln National Bank, depositary of the funds of the club, was ordered in no circumstances to honor any checks other than those issued from its established headquarters at the old clubhouse.

In addition to this the meeting passed a resolution eulogizing Mr. Woodhouse, but the Aero Club of America at the time of going to press was still located on East Thirty-eighth Street.

Patriotas rusos ganan terreno a los genocidas Judíos Bolcheviques, usurpadores de su nación. En un vano intento por ocultar su intensa participación en las brutales atrocidades bolcheviques que se cometían en Rusia, los Judíos desempolvan el mito de la "exterminación de Seis Millones" una vez más.

BERLIN, July 19.—Russia's 6,000,000 Jews are facing extermination by massacre. As the famine is spreading, the counter-revolutionary movement is gaining and the Soviet's control is waning. This statement is borne out by offical documents presented to the Berlin Government, which show that numerous pogroms are raging in all parts of Russia

Seis millones de judíos, guía para la propaganda.

"La posición del judío en Europa hoy es altamente precaria. Hay unos seis millones de judíos en la Europa Central y la del Este fuera de la Rusia Soviética. El gran hecho excepcional para recordar en conexión con esta población judía es que esto es una ciudad y [ellos son parte de] la población de ciudad. Ellos son gente que depende del y la industria para su sustento. Ellos son raras veces los productores de comida. El colapso de la estructura económica en la Europa central ha hecho que el dinero tenga aún menos valor. Su condición no es diferente de lo que era hace 800 años cuando el trueque era la manera universal de hacer las transacciones comerciales. Hoy en muchas partes de Europa la comida sólo puede ser obtenida dando a los campesinos a cambio de ello, muebles, ropa y productos finales."

Encima es la cubierta y un extracto de un folleto al parecer publicado en 1921 para los miembros de Comité de Distribución americano judío, lleno " de Hechos sobre los que hablar" durante reuniones públicas. Un pdf del folleto completo puede ser la visto aquí.

El líder sionista, Nahum Sokolow, presume sobre las ambiciones globalistas de la Judería Organizada cuando, en una conferencia sionista en Carlsbad (California) proclamó:
"La Liga de las Naciones es una idea judía, y algún día Jerusalén se convertirá en la capital de la paz del mundo."

SAYS JEWS OF WORLD WILL BACK LEAGUE

Dr. Sokolow Tells Zionist Congress Jerusalem Will Be International Peace Capital.

CALSBAD, Aug. 27 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency).—"The League of Nations is a Jewish idea, and Jerusalem some day will become the capital of the world's peace," declared Dr. Nahum Sokolow, Chairman of the Zionist Executive Committee, at a special meeting of the Zionist Conference today.

"The League has recognized our rights to our ancient home," Dr. Sokolow continued. "We Jews throughout the world will make the League's struggle our own and will not rest until there is ultimate victory."

The meeting was convoked in order to celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of the first Zionist Congress.

"Today will be a holiday for Jews throughout the world," Dr. Sokolow added. "What we have achieved after a struggle of twenty-five years we owe to the genius of our immortal leader, Theodor Herzl, who laid the foundation stone of our movement."

It was decided at the meeting to send messages of congratulation to Max Nordau, one of Herzl's first followers; the Earl of Balfour and Baron Edmond de Rothschild, the last named being the founder of the first Jewish colony in Palestine.
